ADVISORY ISSUED

U.S. Urges Halt On Use Of Type III Polio Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Public Health Service recommended a temporary halt Saturday night in the use of Type III oral polio vaccine for adults, one of three types now being used in mass immunization programs.

The decision, announced by Surgeon General Luther Terry, followed a day-long meeting of a committee of polio experts who advise the Public Health Service on polio vaccines.

It is expected to halt dozens of community immunization programs either now under way or due to start within the next few days.

ADVISORY ACTION

The decision, however, is advisory in nature, and local health officials will make their own plans whether to continue programs.

The decision apparently came after some heated debate and it was not announced until 8 p.m. five hours later than it had been expected.

The advisory committee met for nearly 10 hours before making its recommendation. Before Dr. Terry read the official recommendation, Dr. Edward D. Shaw of the University of California School of Medicine, one of the experts, told reporters what the panel had decided.

Terry, in a news conference following the meeting, said the committee studied in detail 16 cases of polio that have occurred in persons who received one of the three types of Sabin oral polio vaccine.

There were two cases in the Type I group, one in Type II and 13 in Type III. All of those stricken with Type III polio were adults.

"The committee believes there is sufficient evidence to indicate at least some of these cases have been caused by the vaccine," Terry said.

"However, the risk to children is exceedingly slight or practically nonexistent," he added.

Local Drive To Immunize Is Postponed

Jaycees, Medical Society Halt Move For Vaccinations

The Ouachita Parish Medical Society and the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce temporarily called off their joint effort at mass polio immunization here Saturday night after the U. S. Public Health Service recommended that the use of type III Sabin polio vaccine be discontinued except in emergency cases.

The action Saturday came after the agency had met continuously all day long.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The announcement in Monroe was made by Joe A. Maggio Jr., speaking for the Jaycees, and Dr. Roy A. Kelly, speaking for the medical society.

Maggio was drive chairman for the Jaycees and Dr. Kelly represented the medical society as chairman.

The two local organizations undertook the effort several weeks ago and had set up a system of clinics in Ouachita Parish. Type III, the type the government asked discontinued, was to be administered Sept. 30.

Here is the statement postponing the local drive.

Dr. Kelly said, "The Ouachita Parish program is postponed temporarily pending further study of the situation by federal authorities the National Institute of Health and local authorities."

Parishes which had planned to join the Ouachita Parish program were Union, Richland, Jackson,

Antietam Battle Is Re-Staged

SHARPSBURG, Md. (AP)—There was one real life injury instead of 4,000 dead and injured Saturday in re-enactment of one phase of the Battle of Antietam.

An employe of the fireworks company which provided ammunition for the show suffered a flash burn on his hand, but was treated and released from a hospital.

One hundred years ago, the dead were piled on dead in Bloody Lane, the phase of the battle relived Saturday by Civil War troops from around the country.

Instead of 128,000 men in Blue and Gray, 2,000 troops fought under a hot sun the battle which paved the way for President Abraham Lincoln to issue his preliminary Emancipation Proclamation.

A crowd of about 25,000 was on hand as the re-creation of the battle began with explosions in the distance, representing the action which took place prior to Bloody Lane.

This was only the second major battle re-enactment of the nation's five-year centennial observance, and it may be the last. The National Park Service has said there will not be another one on government grounds, which leaves the Battle of Gettysburg a question mark.

Vinson Says Callup Bill To Be Voted

Action In House Slowed As JFK Draws GOP Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee predicted Saturday that despite some Republican grumblings, a bill giving President Kennedy standby authority to mobilize 150,000 ready reserves in event of crisis will be passed without change.

The influential Georgia Democrat will be in charge of the measure when it comes to the House floor a week from Monday. The legislation, which administration spokesmen say is needed more for a potential emergency in Berlin than Cuba, already has passed the Senate 76-0.

JFK CRITICIZED

One Republican critic, Rep. Charles S. Gubser of California, contended Saturday the bill was "written with political consequences in mind." He said he would offer an amendment to strike out a provision exempting reservists called to duty last fall from being summoned again.

Sen. John G. Tower R-Tex., also took issue with Kennedy's request for the callup authority which would be effective while congress is not in session.

"Apparently the U.S. Marines and U.S. Army divisions have been mislaid," Tower said in a statement. "Every time a crisis arises our reserves are yanked out of their civilian lives. The last time this happened, the East Germans constructed the Berlin wall with impunity."

Hospital Dedication Is Today

A large crowd is expected today when the ribbon is cut at formal dedication ceremonies of the new $2-million Glenwood Hospital at 2:30 p.m.

Bishop Aubrey G. Walton, New Orleans, of the Louisiana Methodist Conference, will dedicate the new four - story structure located on McMillian Road in West Monroe. The hospital will be operated by the Methodist Church.

Leading off the dedication ceremonies in front of the structure will be a concert by the West Monroe High School band at 2:30 p.m. Judge Jesse S. Heard, chairman of the hospital's board of commissioners will begin the actual program at 3 p.m.

The hospital, a $2,180,000 building of 102 beds, will open its doors to patients Tuesday. Ewell Singleton is hospital administrator.

Slated to give the dedication address is Dr. R. H. Riggs of Shreveport, president of the Louisiana Medical Society. A. O. Evans, president of the Methodist Board of Trustees, will accept the operating lease.

Ribbon cutting honors will be shared by Judge Heard, West Monroe Mayor J. Allan Norris, and J. W. Roberson, president of the West Monroe First National Bank.

Area residents are invited to the program, and the public will be taken on guided tours through the building during Sunday afternoon.

Goulart Wins Out In Brazil Power Crisis

Uprising Falters After Plebiscite Set By Congress

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — President Joao Goulart, triumphant in a year-long struggle with Congress, began marshaling his forces Saturday for victory in a January plebiscite to grant him full executive powers over the nation.

A nationwide general strike faltered and was petering out as one immediate effect of the early morning vote by Congress to hold the plebiscite on Jan. 6. Leaders of the strike, involving 2,000 unions claiming 12 million workers, had insisted that the plebiscite be held Oct. 7, same date as congressional elections.

RETURN TO JOBS

In Rio de Janeiro, more than half of the public transportation was back in service. Banks said at least 80 per cent of their employes showed up for work. Workers in other unions also were reported returning to their jobs.

The plebiscite will decide whether to return to the strong presidential system of government traditional in Brazil. When Goulart took over last year after Janio Quadros resigned, military leaders feared he was too leftist and backed action to put the country under a parliamentary system with a premier as head of government. The presidency became a figurehead office.

Since that time, Goulart has won over many moderates and has replaced opposition military leaders with his own men. The Communists, with whom Goulart was once believed in sympathy, unleased a bitter attack on him following his plebiscite victory in Congress. The party newspaper Novos Rumos accused him of being in league with "imperialists and big landowners."

The vote on the plebiscite bill, approved by the Senate 48 hours earlier, was 169-83—five over the majority required. Goulart had conducted a running battle with the conservative-dominated Congress. He demanded executive powers to meet social and economic problems.

Cloudy, Warm Expected Today

The weatherman just can't "pretty up" the forecast any. It remains the same—warm, cloudy, threats of rain and nothing to liven up the last of the weekend. The high today, he predicts, will range from 90 to 95 degrees.

Tonight's low forecast is from 72 to 76 degrees.

Saturday's weather, which included a veritable cloudburst about noon, was on the hot side. The high recorded was 92 with a low of 70. Rainfall was 0.80 inch.

Sixth Tiros Satellite To Be Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The sixth Tiros weather satellite is scheduled for launching within a few days to photograph storm areas in the Atlantic and Pacific during the latter half of the 1962 hurricane and typhoon seasons.

The satellite could help predict the weather for the upcoming orbital shot of U.S. astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr., now scheduled to be rocketed into space on Sept 28.

PEAK ACTIVITY

Late September and early October traditionally is the period of peak hurricane activity in the Caribbean and Atlantic. If Schirra is returned to earth after one, two or three orbits, he will land in the Atlantic. Completion of four, five or the full six orbits would drop him in the Pacific at a time of year when typhoons are a threat.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Saturday that next Tuesday is the earliest possible launching date for Tiros 6.

Robert Rados, Tiros project manager for NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, said Tiros 6 "will give us two satellites observing the hurricane belt during the present season." Tiros 5, launched last June 19, still is in orbit, but one of its two camera eyes has gone blind reducing its effectiveness.

The sixth Tiros also would provide insurance in case the remaining Tiros 5 camera should fail in the next few weeks.

Tiros 5's solar cells, which draw power from the sun, were slightly damaged by the radiation belt created by the U.S. high-altitude nuclear explosion above the Pacific in July. This also has caused some concern, and the over-all affect was to advance by two months the Tiros 6 launching, originally set for November.

PARKER SWORN IN

District Court Bench Is Filled

A standing capacity crowd Saturday morning witnessed the inauguration of a third judgeship for the Fourth Judicial District and swearing-in ceremonies of the newly elected judge at the Ouachita Parish Courthouse.

The oath of Fourth Judicial District judge was administered to Hillyer S. Parker, 57, of Monroe, by Justice Frank W. Hawthorn. Parker was succeeded in his assistant district attorney duties for Ouachita and Morehouse Parishes by William L. Crowe, a 32-year-old Monroe attorney.

The ceremonies got underway at 10 a.m. with an invocation presented by the Rev. Wayne Grey of the Covenant Presbyterian Church. Immediately following the invocation, Judge Edward L. Gladney of the Second Circuit Court of Apppeals, reviewed the history of the judicial development of this area.

Judge Gladney, who once held office as judge of this district, pointed out that this district started with one judgeship but in 1926, after Morehouse Parish was carved out of Ouachita Parish, later added a second judge.

HEAVY LOAD

The creation of this third judgeship, to take care of the heavy load of cases that crowd the dockets, represents growth, Gladney said. He pointed out that the population increase in this district has doubled since the first judgeship was created.

Justice Joe Sanders, an associate judge of the State Supreme Court, said as principal speaker, that a court trial is not a game or a battle of wits between lawyers, but is a forum for pursuit of justice.

Justice Sanders said that people have a tendency to let their antagonism for the higher courts of the land spill over into the trial or local court, when this court basically is of the greatest importance to the private, everyday citizen.

He reviewed the reciprocal rights and duties between the court and lawyers, and between the lawyers and his clients.

He pointed out that it is the court's responsibility to dispense fair and impartial justice and to expend the energies of the judges in order to bring about justice, not only to have justice come to pass, but to bring it to pass without undue delay.

Other speakers at the occasion included Oliver Stockwell, of Lake Charles, president of the Louisiana Bar Association, and Leon Sarpy, vice president of the Lou-

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — A driverless car backed itself out of a garage Saturday and burned.

PASSES FCC TESTS

Sightless Boy Now Has Wide Contacts

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)—For all of his 11 years, Larry Green has been talking in darkness. Now his voice reaches far beyond this small east Alabama city.

The talented lad has found a wonderful contact with the outer world in his shortwave radio.

"WN4HHI calling, WN4HHI calling," is becoming familiar to ham operators as the youth reaches into space for new contacts. He has reached 15 stations on his 75-watt receiver-transmitter since being licensed this summer.

He may be one of the youngest sightless persons ever to pass Federal Communications Commission tests for novice and technician radio licenses.

"In 21 years with the commission, I don't recall hearing about a younger blind applicant," said A. T. Cline Jr., of Atlanta, district engineer for the FCC.

Cline noted that most blind applicants for radio licenses have at one time had sight.

Larry has been blind since birth and his mother, Mrs. Barna Green, traces his interest in electricity back at least six years.

"When he was five years old," she recalled, "I couldn't turn my back without his trying to connect a naked wire to an electric train transformer."

Otis Holmes, a member of the Talladega Radio Club, helped Larry prepare for the two written examinations needed for a license.

"I believe he picked up the code and other necessary radio knowledge faster than the average person who can see," said Holmes.

Larry keeps a Braille log of his transmissions and crystals for his radio are marked in Braille.

"In tuning his transmission equipment, he goes by the sound of his receiver rather than a meter," Holmes explained.

Larry is in the sixth grade at the Alabama Institute for the Blind here.

Offer $3,000 To Candidate For His Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department announced Saturday night that two Russian employes of the United Nations have been expelled from this country for trying to recruit a New York political candidate for "illegitimate intelligence activities."

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the candidate, Richard A. Flink, 27, was offered $3,000 to work for the Soviet cause. Flink, running for the state Assembly, pretended to work with the two Russian agents but instead cooperated with the FBI.

TWO IDENTIFIED

The Russians who have already left the country, were identified as Yuri A. Mishukov, 31, and Yuri V. Zaitsev, 38.

Kennedy said that in return for a $3,000 contribution to Flink's campaign fund, Flink was to slant speeches to organizations, provide information about the inside operations of U. S. government agencies and personal information about influential members of the Republican party.

Flink accepted the $3,000 and turned it over to the FBI.

Mishukov, a translator in the U. N. office of conference services, left this country under U. S. orders July 5. Zaitsev, a political affairs officer in the U. N. political and security council affairs department, took his forced departure on Aug. 7.

Kennedy said that the FBI kept track of their activities through the cooperation of Flink who lives in Howard Beach, N. Y.

Flink is a former student assistant in the U. S. Attorney's

No U.S. Marshals Wanted

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—Bidwell Adam of Gulfport, chairman of the Mississippi Democratic Executive Committee, declared Saturday that federal marshals were not needed in Mississippi and "an atomic bomb would be far more welcome."

Adam said he sent telegram to U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy asking him not to send any federal officers into the state in connection with a federal order to desegregate the University of Mississippi.

The courts have ordered the university to admit James Meredith, a Negro, as a student this month. Gov. Ross Barnett has said the university will not be integrated.

Adam said in his wire:

"Do not send United States marshals into Mississippi. Such a move would for all time to come wipe Mississippi out of the Democratic column. This would be far worse than the Reconstruction days . . .

"If this is done, Mr. Kennedy, you can kiss Mississippi and the Deep South goodbye . . .

"An atomic bomb dropped on Mississippi would do less damage and would be far more welcome. . . .

"This is for your files in case you are interested in the future politics of the South."

Gov. Barnett said on a radio-television appearance after the court order that he would go to jail if necessary to prevent integration of the all-white university.

What's Happening In Cuba?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

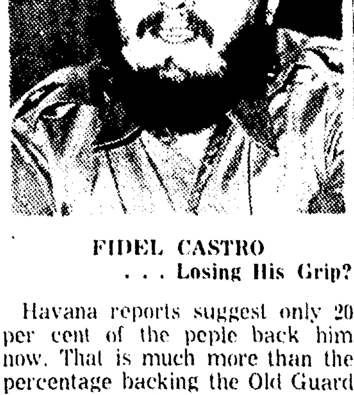
Moscow today just about owns Cuba — lock, stock, barrel and beard.

Inexorably, Soviet communism is closing its steel grip. Challenging the United States in the sensitive Caribbean and the Western Hemisphere, Moscow has given the world a lesson in imperialism.

When the Russians colonize, they colonize for good. Short of armed invasion, there seems little hope of prying the Communists out of a base 90 miles from U.S. shores.

The Soviet takeover will be complete when Prime Minister Fidel Castro is shoved aside, along with his 26th of July Movement revolutionaries. This will be a slow and cautious process, but signs of party conflict are clear.

Daily, Castro appears more and more in the role of a bumbling and confused man, loudly demanding everything his own way, but bowing to what he now calls the collective leadership. He has lost much popular support.



FIDEL CASTRO
. . . Losing His Grip?

Havana reports suggest only 20 per cent of the peple back him now. That is much more than the percentage backing the Old Guard Communists, but they do not need popular support. They have their tight, disciplined, spy-ridden organization — and they have Moscow on their side.

The Communists are patient. They can wait until popular disillusion and economic chaos make Castro no longer important. They are letting him shoulder the blame for Cuba's internal woes. They are letting his entourage of new Communists—men like Ernesto Guevara, Fidel's brother Raul Castro and others of his Sierra Maestre revolution following — hang themselves with ropes fashioned of their own confusion. The time will come when Castro can safely be removed.

A close examination of just how tightly the Soviet Communist grip has seized the Pearl of the Antilles produces a sense of shock.

From documents and official regime statements, and from reports of diplomatic travelers, this picture emerges of a Cuba as tightly bound to Moscow as is Bulgaria:

The rag-tag 26th of July army of bearded romantics who marched into Havana Jan. 2, 1959, is no more. In its place is a force of about 300,000, made up of more than 50,000 trained regulars and a heavily armed militia. The training is by Communist bloc officers. The equipment is modern. The discipline is strict and Soviet style. The facilities are installed and expanded by Russians and East Europeans.

Even now the army has political commissars, carbon copies of the "Politruk" officers of East bloc armies, assigned to nail down party authority. One group of 750 revolutionary instructors was graduated this month from a special school and is being infused into the army. Castro says their mission is to teach the class struggle character of the revolution to the army.

Havana is ringed by military hardware, manned by Russians and Cubans. The Russians paid cash for former estates near Havana, and the belief is the areas will be used for antiaircraft batteries and rocket-launching sites. Soviet radar, Russian-manned, checks all flights.

Dozens of Soviet MIG fighters have been shipped in and the

Sixth Tiros Satellite To Be Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The sixth Tiros weather satellite is scheduled for launching within a few days to photograph storm areas in the Atlantic and Pacific during the latter half of the 1962 hurricane and typhoon seasons.

The satellite could help predict the weather for the upcoming orbital shot of U.S. astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr., now scheduled to be rocketed into space on Sept. 28.

PEAK ACTIVITY

Late September and early October traditionally is the period of peak hurricane activity in the Caribbean and Atlantic. If Schirra is returned to earth after one, two or three orbits, he will land in the Atlantic. Completion of four, five or the full six orbits would drop him in the Pacific at a time of year when typhoons are a threat.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Saturday that next Tuesday is the earliest possible launching date for Tiros 6.

Robert Rados, Tiros project manager for NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, said Tiros 6 "will give us two satellites observing the hurricane belt during the present season." Tiros 5, launched last June 19, still is in orbit, but one of its two camera eyes has gone blind reducing its effectiveness.

The sixth Tiros also would provide insurance in case the remaining Tiros 5 camera should fail in the next few weeks.

Tiros 5's solar cells, which draw power from the sun, were slightly damaged by the radiation belt created by the U.S. high-altitude nuclear explosion above the Pacific in July. This also has caused some concern, and the over-all affect was to advance by two months the Tiros 6 launching, originally set for November.

PARKER SWORN IN

District Court Bench Is Filled

A standing capacity crowd Saturday morning witnessed the inauguration of a third judgeship for the Fourth Judicial District and swearing-in ceremonies of the newly elected judge at the Ouachita Parish Courthouse.

The oath of Fourth Judicial District judge was administered to Hillyer S. Parker, 57, of Monroe, by Justice Frank W. Hawthorn. Parker was succeeded in his assistant district attorney duties for Ouachita and Morehouse Parishes by William L. Crowe, a 32-year-old Monroe attorney.

The ceremonies got underway at 10 a.m. with an invocation presented by the Rev. Wayne Grey of the Covenant Presbyterian Church. Immediately following the invocation, Judge Edward L. Gladney of the Second Circuit Court of Apppeals, reviewed the history of the judicial development of this area.

Judge Gladney, who once held office as judge of this district, pointed out that this district started with one judgeship but in 1926, after Morehouse Parish was carved out of Ouachita Parish, later added a second judge.

HEAVY LOAD

The creation of this third judgeship, to take care of the heavy load of cases that crowd the dockets, represents growth, Gladney said. He pointed out that the population increase in this district has doubled since the first judgeship was created.

Justice Joe Sanders, an associate judge of the State Supreme Court, said as principal speaker, that a court trial is not a game or a battle of wits between lawyers, but is a forum for pursuit of justice.

Justice Sanders said that people have a tendency to let their antagonism for the higher courts of the land spill over into the trial or local court, when this court basically is of the greatest importance to the private, everyday citizen.

He reviewed the reciprocal rights and duties between the court and lawyers, and between the lawyers and his clients.

He pointed out that it is the court's responsibility to dispense fair and impartial justice and to expend the energies of the judges in order to bring about justice, not only to have justice come to pass, but to bring it to pass without undue delay.

Other speakers at the occasion included Oliver Stockwell, of Lake Charles, president of the Louisiana Bar Association; and Leon Sarpy, vice president of the Lou-

Car Backs Out Minus Driver

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — A driverless car backed itself out of a garage Saturday and burned.

The owner, Charles Hewes of Westport, and firemen came up with this explanation: A short circuit probably occurred in the standard shift car, which had been left in reverse. It started the ignition, the movement and the fire.

PASSES FCC TESTS

Sightless Boy Now Has Wide Contacts

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)—For all of his 11 years, Larry Green has been talking in darkness. Now his voice reaches far beyond this small east Alabama city.

The talented lad has found a wonderful contact with the outer world in his shortwave radio.

"WN4IHI calling. WN4IHI calling," is becoming familiar to ham operators as the youth reaches into space for new contacts. He has reached 15 stations on his 75-watt receiver-transmitter since being licensed this summer.

He may be one of the youngest sightless persons ever to pass Federal Communications Commission tests for novice and technician radio licenses.

"In 21 years with the commission, I don't recall hearing about a younger blind applicant," said A. T. Cline Jr., of Atlanta, district engineer for the FCC.

Cline noted that most blind applicants for radio licenses have at one time had sight.

Larry has been blind since birth and his mother, Mrs. Bama Green, traces his interest in electricity back at least six years.

"When he was five years old," she recalled, "I couldn't turn my back without his trying to connect a naked wire to an electric train transformer."

Otis Homes, a member of the Talladega Radio Club, helped Larry prepare for the two written examinations needed for a license.

"I believe he picked up the code and other necessary radio knowledge faster than the average person who can see," said Holmes.

Larry keeps a Braille log of his transmissions and crystals for his radio are marked in Braille.

"In tuning his transmission equipment, he goes by the sound of his receiver rather than a meter," Holmes explained.

Larry is in the sixth grade at the Alabama Institute for the Blind here.

Senator Soaper Says

What's wrong with young people these days? When ever one of the boys in the neighborhood goes into the army he seems polite but not really interested in the story of our meteroic rise to PFC.

For a nation to have natural resources is like a girl having natural beauty. It's nice, but it can lead to a lot of trouble.

Personally we like modern sculpture, but some of the statues must pretty thoroughly confuse the pigeons.

Offer $3,000 To Candidate For His Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department announced Saturday night that two Russian employes of the United Nations have been expelled from this country for trying to recruit a New York political candidate for "illegitimate intelligence activities."

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the candidate, Richard A. Flink, 27, was offered $3,000 to work for the Soviet cause. Flink, running for the state Assembly, pretended to work with the two Russian agents but instead cooperated with the FBI.

TWO IDENTIFIED

The Russians who have already left the country, were identified as Yuri A. Mishukov, 31, and Yuri V. Zaitsev, 38.

Kennedy said that in return for a $3,000 contribution to Flink's campaign fund, Flink was to slant speeches to organizations, provide information about the inside operations of U. S. government agencies and personal information about influential members of the Republican party.

Flink accepted the $3,000 and turned it over to the FBI.

Mishukov, a translator in the U. N. office of conference services, left this country under U. S. orders July 5. Zaitsev, a political affairs officer in the U. N. political and security council affairs department, took his forced departure on Aug. 7.

Kennedy said that the FBI kept track of their activities through the cooperation of Flink who lives in Howard Beach, N. Y.

Flink is a former student assistant in the U. S. Attorney's

No U.S. Marshals Wanted

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—Bidwell Adam of Gulfport, chairman of the Mississippi Democratic Executive Committee, declared Saturday that federal marshals were not needed in Mississippi and "an atomic bomb would be far more welcome."

Adam said he sent telegram to U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy asking him not to send any federal officers into the state in connection with a federal order to desegregate the University of Mississippi.

The courts have ordered the university to admit James Meredith, a Negro, as a student this month. Gov. Ross Barnett has said the university will not be integrated.

Adam said in his wire:

"Do not send United States marshals into Mississippi. Such a move would for all time to come wipe Mississippi out of the Democratic column. This would be far worse than the Reconstruction days . . .

"If this is done, Mr. Kennedy, you can kiss Mississippi and the Deep South goodbye . . .

"An atomic bomb dropped on Mississippi would do less damage and would be far more welcome. . . .

"This is for your files in case you are interested in the future politics of the South."

Gov. Barnett said on a radio-television appearance after the court order that he would go to jail if necessary to prevent integration of the all-white university.

What's Happening In Cuba?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

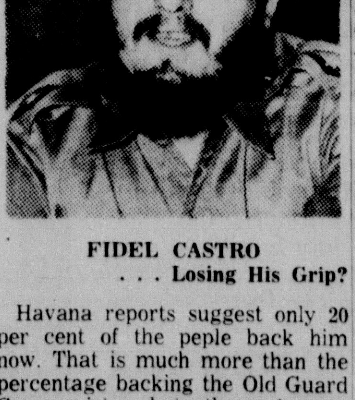
Moscow today just about owns Cuba — lock, stock, barrel and beard.

Inexorably, Soviet communism is closing its steel grip. Challenging the United States in the sensitive Caribbean and the Western Hemisphere, Moscow has given the world a lesson in imperialism.

When the Russians colonize, they colonize for good. Short of armed invasion, there seems little hope of prying the Communists out of a base 90 miles from U.S. shores.

The Soviet takeover will be complete when Prime Minister Fidel Castro is shoved aside, along with his 26th of July Movement revolutionaries. This will be a slow and cautious process, but signs of party conflict are clear.

Daily, Castro appears more and more in the role of a bumbling and confused man, loudly demanding everything his own way, but bowing to what he now calls the collective leadership. He has lost much popular support.



FIDEL CASTRO
. . . Losing His Grip?

Havana reports suggest only 20 per cent of the peple back him now. That is much more than the percentage backing the Old Guard Communists, but they do not need popular support. They have their tight, disciplined, spy-ridden organization — and they have Moscow on their side.

The Communists are patient. They can wait until popular disillusion and economic chaos make Castro no longer important. They are letting him shoulder the blame for Cuba's internal woes. They are letting his entourage of new Communists—men like Ernesto Guevara, Fidel's brother Raul Castro and others of his Sierra Maestre revolution following — hang themselves with ropes fashioned of their own confusion. The time will come when Castro can safely be removed.

A close examination of just how tightly the Soviet Communist grip has seized the Pearl of the Antilles produces a sense of shock.

From documents and official regime statements, and from reports of diplomatic travelers, this picture emerges of a Cuba as tightly bound to Moscow as is Bulgaria:

The rag-tag 26th of July army of bearded romantics who marched into Havana Jan. 2, 1959, is no more. In its place is a force of about 300,000, made up of more than 50,000 trained regulars and a heavily armed militia. The training is by Communist bloc officers. The equipment is modern. The discipline is strict and Soviet style. The facilities are installed and expanded by Russians and East Europeans.

Even now the army has political commissars, carbon copies of the "Politruk" officers of East bloc armies, assigned to nail down party authority. One group of 750 revolutionary instructors was graduated this month from a special school and is being infused into the army. Castro says their mission is to teach the class struggle character of the revolution to the army.

Havana is ringed by military hardware, manned by Russians and Cubans. The Russians paid cash for former estates near Havana, and the belief is the areas will be used for antiaircraft batteries and rocket-launching sites. Soviet radar, Russian-manned, checks all flights.

Dozens of Soviet MIG fighters have been shipped in and the

Taylor O'Hearn Slates Campaign For U.S. Senate

SHREVEPORT (Special)—Taylor W. O'Hearn, Shreveport attorney and Certified Public Accountant, who is running against U. S. Sen. Russell B. Long on the Republican ticket, announced, Satruday that he will open his campaign formally Sept. 24 and will conduct a "vigorous" six-week drive to unseat his Democratic opponent.

With the opening date a week off, O'Hearn was still busy making speeches around the state and headquarter offices are beginning to open. The Lake Charles office are beginning to open. The Lake Charles office already is open and general headquarters in Shreveport will open gMonday. He has scheduled speeches in Shreveport, New Orleans and Baton Rouge during the coming week.

O'Hearn, 55, was born in Shreveport the son of a railroad worker. When he was nine years old he began throwing papers for "The Caucasian," a Shreveport daily which no longer exists. From that job he became a delivery boy for a grocery store, then a grocery clerk, next a "soda skeet" and then a coppersmith for the Texas and Pacific Railway. Next he was a bookkeeper then a bank clerk then an auditor.

He attended school in Louisiana and Texas, and received his higher education at East Texas Baptist College, Marshall, Tex., Baylor University and Centenary College, Shreveport.

He became a CPA in 1948 and passed the Louisiana Bar in 1957 after studying law at the Centenary night school. He now practices law specializing in tax and estate matters.

For 14 years he has been teacher of the Men's Bible Class at the Queensborough Baptist Church in Shreveport. He is vice president of the Louisiana Baptist Brotherhood Convention and was elected to the committee on boards of the Southern Baptist Convention in San Francisco, Calif., in May of 1962. He has been invited by the Baptist General Convention to attend the Japanese Baptist Crusade in 1963.

O'Hearn has been active in civic affairs here and served for six years as a member of the Metropolitan Planning Commission of Shreveport and for four years as secretary of the commission. He is a past commander of Lowe-McFarland Post No. 14 of the American Legion which was at the time the fifth largest in the nation with a membership of 4,068. He is 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner.

During World War II he served in the Navy as an enlisted man.

O'Hearn is married to the former Miss Gladys Bookout, also a native Shreveporter. They have three children and nine grandchildren.

Frosh Hazing Is Stopped At Northeast

Hazing of freshmen students other than that specifically defined in the 1962-63 "N" Book, student handbook, will not be permitted a Northeast Louisiana State College this year, Dr. Fred J. Vogel, dean of student services, has announced.

Freshmen rules as published in the "N" Book for 1962-63 and in prior years do not provide for the cutting of freshmen's hair, Dean Vogel stated today as a reminder to all upperclassmen.

"Disciplinary action will be taken in case of violations by upperclassmen," the dean added.

The freshman rules require both boys and girls to wear the "N" cap, to march in the homecoming parade, and to participate in other school functions in a spirited way.

The special assembly for freshman students is scheduled on Monday, in Brown Auditorium at 9 a.m., and the orientation program for them will continue through Thursday. Registration of all students will be completed on Wednesday and Thursday, with classes beginning on Friday.

Soybean Festival Meeting Is Set

JONESVILLE (Special) — A "coffee time get - to - gether" is to be held at the Legion Auxilary building in Jonesville on Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. for the purpose of meeting with the business people and other persons who are interested in the annual Soybean Festival.

"We know that the soybean festival attracts many visitors as well as local people to the area," a spokesman for the group said in making the announcement. "But, putting on a statewide festiva of this magnitude requires the thinking and assistance of everyone we can get. Therefore, it is hoped that every business person and interested individuals will come visit with us on Tuesday evening.

McKeithen Makes Address In Bid For Governorship

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP)—John J. McKeithen, first to pitch his hat into the 1963 race for governor, said Saturday the issue will be "clean government, honest government, efficient government."

The 44-year-old public service commissioner and Columbia attorney, a onetime Earl Long House floor whip, spoke during a quarterly meeting of the Louisiana Democratic Association.

The gubernatorial campaign will not start until next summer, but McKeithen said he had to announce early because people were asking him his plans.

"The clamor today is for good government," he said. "The candidate who convinces the people he is for honest, efficite ,eco-tai he is for honest, efficient, economical government will win."

"What's wrong with these things state Sen. Johnny Rogers has been proposing?" McKeithen asked, referring to a proposed central listing of unclassified state employes and a proposed Code of Ethics for state officials and employes. Both measures were defeated in the legislature after opposition by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' administration.

"It's a violation of the law to have deadheads on the state payroll and it's the people's payroll so let them see who is on the payrolls. Let's give the people a central list of unclassified workers," he said. "Let's give the people a code of ethics."

Swinging at two potential rivals, former Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans, and former Gov. Robert Kennon, McKeithen said, "Morrison has been talking about coalition — because he knows if he doesn't get us behind him, he hasn't got a chance to get elected.

"You don't hear me talking about coalition," he said. "Why don't he coalesce with Bob Kennon? They shined together."

"I say to Morrison that instead of running for governor again, he should get out of it, as many of his friends are urging. Morrison always has been courteous and kind to me. I have nothing against him. But he is being unfair to his own people."

Leader Of Plot Hangs Himself

PARIS (UPI)— The ringleader of a killer-commando gang which allegedly tried to murder President Charles de Gaulle hanged himself Saturday by his knotted shirt from the bars of his Paris cell.

The body of Henri Niaux, 48, a former army officer, was discovered Saturday morning hours after he had undergone a gruelling interrogation at criminal headquarters. He was arrested Friday in his hometown of Agen in southern France and immediately transferred to Paris.

Niaux was the eighth arrested of a 12-man group, believed members of the Secret Army Organization (OAS), which fired on De Gaulle with sub-machine guns Aug. 22 in a carefully planned ambush in suburban Paris.

Estes Not Unique, Dr. Dunn Declares

"I would like to point out that Mr. Estes is not unique. There are many like him and probably many much worse. He is unique only in the respect that he was exposed."

That was the way Dr. John Dunn, the man generally credited with exposing the multi-million dollar scandals of Billie Sol Estes, concluded his speech to an audience of approximately 250 citizens on the roof of the Virginia Hotel Saturday night.

The affair was sponsored jointly by the Good Government Organization and the Monroe Jaycees.

Dr. Dunn, 34-year-old native west Texan, former newspaper publisher and U. S. Marine, told of his three years of work gathering evidence on Estes operations and told what he thought necessary to prevent other such scandals.

The poker-faced Texan who has practiced medicine in Pecos for nine years, related how he dedicated a substantial portion of his time, money and effort during the past three years to bring about the exposure and indictment of Estes.

However, Dr. Dunn, who considers himself a conservative and described himself as a "boat rocker," stated that he does not blame Estes for all the scandal.

"I do not primarily or totally blame Estes for all of his troubles," remarked Dr. Dunn. "I think that he has had a great deal of help from many sources for many years that have made this case possible."

"Mr. Estes was made possible by 30 years of moral decay of the American people; 30 years of eating at the trough of Federal subsidies; 30 years of looking the other way; 30 years of being taught and shown that there is something for nothing; 30 years of twisting the Golden Rule and the Ten commandments to suit ones own immediate needs; thirty years of decay of the integrity, morality and honesty of the American people."

He continued "Estes is merely a by-product of our time, inevitable result of big business, big labor, big government and big agriculture. All of these factors are responsible for producing the fertile soil in which a scandal such as that produced by Estes could grow. To me the basic issue is the difference between right and wrong.

"The chief person at fault is the apathetic voter of America that has allowed these things to go on for the past 30 years.

"This was made possible by the apathy of the public in general and the decline in the integrity in the individual in particular.

"Do not compromise your honesty, your integrity or your beliefs in morality and freedom. Strive to clean up your own back yards, exert all the influence you can to elect good honest men to office, both local, state and federal. Support men who will stick to principles and who will not sell out to the highest bidder." Dr. Dunn concluded.

Prudhommes Hold Reunion

HARRISONBURG (Special) — The Prudhomme family held its annual reunion on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Montpelier of Harrisonburg.

An inspirational talk was given by Webbie Prudhomme of Lafayette in remembrance of the four members who have died since the last reunion.

There were 97 guests registered by Mrs. Marie Prudhomme Norris of Atlanta, Ga.

Soviets Explode Nuclear Bomb In Arctic Area

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI)—The Soviet Union Saturday exploded a nuclear bomb with the explosive force of about 15 million tons of TNT in the atmosphere over its proving grounds in the Arctic, Swedish scientists reported.

The latest explosion in the current series in the Novaya Zemlya area was registered on the instruments of the Uppsala Seismographical Institute at 8:06.38 a.m. GMT (3:06.38 a.m. EST) or about four minutes after the bomb was detonated.

Dr. Marcus Baath, head of the institute, said the site of the explosion was about 2,200 kilometers (1,367 miles) northeast of Uppsala in the Novaya Zemlya region in the Russian Arctic.

Horseshow Concludes At Bastrop

BASTROP (Special) — Rain failed to dampen the spirit of the horses or 3,500 spectators on the closing night of the Bastrop Horseshow at the fair grounds Saturday night.

Closing night brought the crowning of four International Grand champion Walking Horses.

In class 26 Gold Boy's Son Again, ridden by Jack Warren and owned by Bob Gwin of Savanah, Tenn., won the two-year-old Grand Championship.

Tombstone, ridden and owned by W. T. Bynard, Baton Rouge, took Amateur Walking Horse stakes.

Outstanding event of the night was the crowning of the International Grand Champion Walking Horse, Happy Days Again, ridden by Jimmy Holloway and owned by C. D. Maddox, West, Miss.

Judges for the event were Buddy Black and Clyde Orton.

Dr. Dunn, 34-year-old native west Texan, former newspaper publisher and U. S. Marine, told of his three years of work gathering evidence on Estes operations and told what he thought necessary to prevent other such scandals.

The poker-faced Texan who has practiced medicine in Pecos for nine years, related how he dedicated a substantial portion of his time, money and effort during the past three years to bring about the exposure and indictment of Estes.

However, Dr. Dunn, who considers himself a conservative and described himself as a "boat rocker," stated that he does not blame Estes for all the scandal.

"I do not primarily or totally blame Estes for all of his troubles," remarked Dr. Dunn. "I think that he has had a great deal of help from many sources for many years that have made this case possible."

"Mr. Estes was made possible by 30 years of moral decay of the American people; 30 years of eating at the trough of Federal subsidies; 30 years of looking the other way; 30 years of being taught and shown that there is something for nothing; 30 years of twisting the Golden Rule and the Ten commandments to suit ones own immediate needs; thirty years of decay of the integrity, morality and honesty of the American people."

He continued "Estes is merely a by-product of our time, inevitable result of big business, big labor, big government and big agriculture. All of these factors are responsible for producing the fertile soil in which a scandal such as that produced by Estes could grow. To me the basic issue is the difference between right and wrong.

"The chief person at fault is the apathetic voter of America that has allowed these things to go on for the past 30 years.

"This was made possible by the apathy of the public in general and the decline in the integrity in the individual in particular.

"Do not compromise your honesty, your integrity or your beliefs in morality and freedom. Strive to clean up your own back yards, exert all the influence you can tc elect good honest men to office, both local, state and federal. Support men who will stick to principles and who will not sell out to the highest bidder." Dr. Dunn concluded.

There were 97 guests registered by Mrs. Marie Prudhomme Norris of Atlanta, Ga.

Soviets Explode Nuclear Bomb In Arctic Area

UPPSALA, Sweden (UPI)—The Soviet Union Saturday exploded a nuclear bomb with the explosive force of about 15 million tons of TNT in the atmosphere over its proving grounds in the Arctic, Swedish scientists reported.

The latest explosion in the current series in the Novaya Zemlya area was registered on the instruments of the Uppsala Seismographical Institute at 8:06.38 a.m. GMT (3:06.38 a.m. EST) or about four minutes after the bomb was detonated.

Dr. Marcus Baath, head of the institute, said the site of the explosion was about 2,200 kilometers (1,367 miles) northeast of Uppsala in the Novaya Zemlya region in the Russian Arctic.

Horseshow Concludes At Bastrop

BASTROP (Special) — Rain failed to dampen the spirit of the horses or 3,500 spectators on the closing night of the Bastrop Horseshow at the fair grounds Saturday night.

Closing night brought the crowning of four International Grand champion Walking Horses.

In class 26 Gold Boy's Son Again, ridden by Jack Warren and owned by Bob Gwin of Savanah, Tenn., won the two-year-old Grand Championship.

Tombstone, ridden and owned by W. T. Bynard, Baton Rouge, took Amateur Walking Horse stakes.

Outstanding event of the night was the crowning of the International Grand Champion Walking Horse, Happy Days Again, ridden by Jimmy Holloway and owned by C. D. Maddox, West, Miss.

Judges for the event were Buddy Black and Clyde Orton.

Estes Probe Shows Series Of U.S. Fumbles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigation has revealed a remarkable picture of the Agriculture Department's policing of Billie Sol Estes' profitable farm-aid deals.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee has shown a series of fumbles at enforcement levels all the way from county agriculture stabilization committees in Estes' Texas bailiwick to front office levels in Washington.

The story is written in 1½ million words of testimony from 66 witnesses in hearings that started June 27. Only a handful of witnesses remain to be heard by the Senate Investigations subcommittee, Estes among them. It plans to resume hearings at some indefinite date — perhaps within two weeks, perhaps not until winter.

The investigation itself has had remarkable aspects.

Under impatient and sometimes wrathful frowns from Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., various of his colleagues have taken stances as Democratic defenders and Republican critics of the Agriculture Department's handling of the Estes' case.

The subcommittee is trying to determine whether Estes, a now bankrupt financier, used improper political influence to engineer and protect multimillion dollar farm-aid deals on which he made a fortune.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Undersecretary Charles S. Murphy and other top officials of the department have acknowledged there was a lot of fambling. But to a man they swore Estes got no favors.

U.S., Britain Defense Chiefs Conclude Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defense chiefs of the United States and Britain have completed a week of "most beneficial" talks on cooperative efforts to further the security of the free world, a joint communique said Saturday.

The Pentagon issued the joint British-American report on talks this week between Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Britain's Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft.

"The principals were in general agreement on the matters discussed," the communique said.

A prime topic of the conversations was the intensification of joint British-U.S. endeavors in military research and development.

The comminique said the discussions also covered the balance between nuclear and conventional forces in the military establishments of the Western Allies, and measures necessary to "insure maintenance of Allied rights in Berlin under any circumstances."

Thorneycroft, who was a guest of President Kennedy on visits to space installations in Alabama and Florida on Tuesday, visited the headquarters of the Supreme Allied Command for the Atlantic at Norfolk, Va., on Saturday.

Vidalia Town Building Slated

VIDALIA (Special) — Bids opened September 11 at 7:30 p.m. by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the Town of Vidalia for the construction of a municipal office building on the premises of the town, located at 409 Texas Street, resulted in the contract being awarded to the Concordia Contracting and Development Company of Vidalia.

The low bid of the local firm was $12,900.

Other bidders were J. A. Russ, Construction Company of Natchez Miss., $14,999, and C. O. Boyd, West Monroe, at $18,300.

Republican Releases Statement

GEORGE SNELLINGS JR.

George M. Snellings Jr., 52-year-old Monroe attorney, today issued a formal statement in his candidacy for the State Board of Education from the Fifth District.

Snellings, a Republican, faces Democratic nominee W. E. Whetstone of Monroe in the November 6th general election.

A native of Monroe, Snellings has practiced law here since 1935. His education includes a bachelor's degree from Princeton where he was a Phi Beta Kappa, a bachelor of law from Harvard and a master of law from Tulane.

Snellings also served as an assistant professor of law at Tulane and was a legal aide to the chief of Naval Communications during World War II.

He is a family man with three children.

His statement follows:

"I want to make two things clear in response to questions I have been asked. In the first place, I am making an active campaign throughout the Fifth District; and not a mere token campaign as some people seem to have thought. Education is not only the biggest business in Louisiana today, but it is also the most serious business, and closest to the hearts of all parents and teachers. I declared for this office because I want an opportunity to serve the cause of education. I propose to work to win as hard as I know how from now to November 6. I could not do less in response to the many friends who have volunteered to help and the great encouragement I have already received.

"In the second place, I am running as a Republican, and I am proud of it. Some people have said I cannot win this race because I am a Republican, but I do not believe that, and I will not accept it. As an independent Republican I am going to win with the help of thousands of Democratic voters who are my friends throughout the District. Some people who are registered Democrats have asked whether they can vote for me on November 6. This will be a general election; and registered Democrats certainly can vote for me, regardless of any vote you may have cast for any other candidate in either of the two Democratic primaries this summer. If the day ever comes when a man or woman cannot walk freely into a voting booth and vote for his choice of two candidates, in a general election, regardless of party affiliation, then and only then will this Nation have lost the heart of real democracy.

"So I seek the support of every independent Democrat in the Fifth District on the basis of my own independence, and my education and experience. I offer such qualifications as I may have with humility; and, if elected, I promise to serve with sincerity of purpose.

"I am opposed to integration, and Federal meddling of any sort in local educational affairs.

"I have also declared that I advocate (1) reposing the maximum authority possible in our local school boards, because public education is primarily a local responsibility; (2) the continued growth of local colleges to make the best education possible available near home; (3) increased education in conservative economic principles; and (4) a free choice of academic courses for children going to college and vocational training for children not going to college.

"If elected, I shall work for the achievement of financial security in school budgets, because the present uncertainties of our educational finances must surely be eliminated if our teachers and school administrators are to do their best work without constant worry."

Natchez Editor New President Of State Group

NATCHEZ (Special) — A Natchez industrial editor has been elected president of the Industrial Editors Association of Mississippi.

Herman L. Moore, public relations representative of International Paper Company's Natchez Mill, was named president of the state industrial editors group at the association's monthly meeting in Jackson.

Other officers are Mrs. Betty Sadler, associate editor of The Journal of the Mississippi State Medical Association; Ed Poe, editor of the Mississippi Power and Light Company's NEWS, secretary; and Mrs. Louise Brantley, editor of the Deposit Guaranty Bank's DEEDS AND DATA, treasurer. The new slate will take office in October.

The IEAM, affiliated with the International Council of Industrial Editors, is made up of editors of business and industrial and association publications.

Moore edits the Natchez Ink Pad, an employee magazine published at Natchez for employees of International Paper Company in the Natchez area. He has been a member of IEAM since 1957 and served as vice - president in 1960.

A native of Little Rock, Ark., Moore is a graduate of Louisiana State University with a degree in journalism. He has been active in the daily newspaper field since 1950. He was editor of the now defunct Natchez Times for three and a half years before joining the International Paper Company in 1956.

For the past year, Moore was on active duty with the National Guard at Fort Bragg, N. C. He recently returned home after his discharge from service. Twenty six employees of the local mill have returned from a year of full-time military service, having been called up for the National Guard or Army Reserve because of international tensions.

ADJOURNMENT PUSH

Some Kennedy Bills Face Deep Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's congressional program may take a strong step forward this week after making considerable progress last week.

But a substantial part of it appears destined to remain in the congressional deep freeze at least until 1963.

Two major Kennedy bills will keep both the Senate and the House busy all week as leaders apply the spurs to reach their goal of final adjournment not later than Sept. 29.

The Senate's entire week has been set aside for consideration of a House-passed bill to give the President more authority to cut tariffs in trade negotiations with foreign countries.

The measure before the Senate comes closer to meeting the President's desires than does the House bill, thanks to administration strength in crucial votes in the Finance Committee.

After Senate action, a Senate-House conference committee will draft a compromise measure.

House leaders have all but abandoned hope to revive bills involving increased postal rates, pay raises for federal employes and controls on drugs.

The House passed on Friday one of the administration's top-priority measures when it approved authority for Kennedy to purchase up to $100 million in U.N. bonds. A similar measure already has cleared the Senate and no difficulty is foreseen in agreeing on a compromise.

In a late change of signals, the House decided to put off until the week of Sept. 24 consideration of a senate-passed resolution to give the President standby power to call to active duty 150,000 military Reserves and to extend the service period of personnel now on duty an extra 12 months if their tours expire before the end of next February.

Should We Expect Pride . . .

. . . WHEN THERE IS NOTHING TO INSTIL PRIDE?

Remember those old jokes about the farmer—his miserable facilities? Rural folks were looked down upon just because they didn't have modern conveniences . . . and couldn't get them until they organized member-owned Electric Cooperatives.

The new jobs, main street business, increased production, etc., that came from rural electrification are all wonderful, indeed. A great county agent added another contribution:

"Electric Co-ops made it possible for rural folks to have PRIDE—in themselves and their homes," he said.

HOW RIGHT HE WAS! Drive through rural Louisiana today and contrast it with the miserable picture when less than 2% of the homes had electricity.

Pride is built in people by helping them help themselves . . . not by handouts and criticism. Repayable REA loans with interest made it possible for rural citizens to help themselves and to become proud owners of their independent rural electric systems.

Electric Co-ops are the ONLY way ALL rural people can have electricity at rates ALL can afford. That's so important to both town and country progress.

"I am opposed to integration, and Federal meddling of any sort in local educational affairs.

"I have also declared that I advocate (1) reposing the maximum authority possible in our local school boards, because public education is primarily a local responsibility; (2) the continued growth of local colleges to make the best education possible available near home; (3) increased education in conservative economic principles; and (4) a free choice of academic courses for children going to college and vocational training for children not going to college.

"If elected, I shall work for the achievement of financial security in school budgets, because the present uncertainties of our educational finances must surely be eliminated if our teachers and school administrators are to do their best work without constant worry."

Natchez Editor New President Of State Group

NATCHEZ (Special) — A Natchez industrial editor has been elected president of the Industrial Editors Association of Mississippi.

Herman L. Moore, public relations representative of International Paper Company's Natchez Mill, was named president of the state industrial editors group at the association's monthly meeting in Jackson.

Other officers are Mrs. Betty Sadler, associate editor of The Journal of the Mississippi State Medical Association; Ed Poe, editor of the Mississippi Power and Light Company's NEWS, secretary; and Mrs. Louise Brantley, editor of the Deposit Guaranty Bank's DEEDS AND DATA, treasurer. The new slate will take office in October.

The IEAM, affiliated with the International Council of Industrial Editors, is made up of editors of business and industrial and association publications.

Moore edits the Natchez Ink Pad, an employee magazine published at Natchez for employees of International Paper Company in the Natchez area. He has been a member of IEAM since 1957 and served as vice - president in 1960.

A native of Little Rock, Ark., Moore is a graduate of Louisiana State University with a degree in journalism. He has been active in the daily newspaper field since 1950. He was editor of the now defunct Natchez Times for three and a half years before joining the International Paper Company in 1956.

For the past year, Moore was on active duty with the National Guard at Fort Bragg, N. C. He recently returned home after his discharge from service. Twenty six employees of the local mill have returned from a year of full-time military service, having been called up for the National Guard or Army Reserve because of international tensions.

ADJOURNMENT PUSH

Some Kennedy Bills Face Deep Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's congressional program may take a strong step forward this week after making considerable progress last week.

But a substantial part of it appears destined to remain in the congressional deep freeze at least until 1963.

Two major Kennedy bills will keep both the Senate and the House busy all week as leaders apply the spurs to reach their goal of final adjournment not later than Sept. 29.

The Senate's entire week has been set aside for consideration of a House-passed bill to give the President more authority to cut tariffs in trade negotiations with foreign countries.

The measure before the Senate comes closer to meeting the President's desires than does the House bill, thanks to administration strength in crucial votes in the Finance Committee.

After Senate action, a Senate-House conference committee will draft a compromise measure.

House leaders have all but abandoned hope to revive bills involving increased postal rates, pay raises for federal employes and controls on drugs.

The House passed on Friday one of the administration's top-priority measures when it approved authority for Kennedy to purchase up to $100 million in U.N. bonds. A similar measure already has cleared the Senate and no difficulty is foreseen in agreeing on a compromise.

In a late change of signals, the House decided to put off until the week of Sept. 24 consideration of a senate-passed resolution to give the President standby power to call to active duty 150,000 military Reserves and to extend the service period of personnel now on duty an extra 12 months if their tours expire before the end of next February.

Should We Expect Pride . . .

. . . WHEN THERE IS NOTHING TO INSTIL PRIDE?

Remember those old jokes about the farmer—his miserable facilities? Rural folks were looked down upon just because they didn't have modern conveniences . . . and couldn't get them until they organized member-owned Electric Cooperatives.

The new jobs, main street business, increased production, etc., that came from rural electrification are all wonderful, indeed. A great county agent added another contribution:

"Electric Co-ops made it possible for rural folks to have PRIDE—in themselves and their homes," he said.

HOW RIGHT HE WAS! Drive through rural Louisiana today and contrast it with the miserable picture when less than 2% of the homes had electricity.

Pride is built in people by helping them help themselves . . . not by handouts and criticism. Repayable REA loans with interest made it possible for rural citizens to help themselves and to become proud owners of their independent rural electric systems.

Electric Co-ops are the ONLY way ALL rural people can have electricity at rates ALL can afford. That's so important to both town and country progress.

Sarpy, speaking for the law institute, said he looks forward to working with local judges in the work of promoting the orderly development and growth of our laws. The law institute is an organization chartered by the State Legislature to study constantly the existing statutes in order to recommend needed changes and to recommend additional laws that are needed to the Legislature.

Other judges attending the ceremonies include Justice Frank W. Summers, State Supreme Court; Judge H. W. Ayres, 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals; City Judge W. M. Harper, Monroe; Judge James H. Bolin, Minden, Second Circuit Court of Appeals; and City Judge Woodrow Wilson, Bastrop. Speakers were introduced by Jesse McDonald, President of the local bar association.

Police jurors from both Ouachita and Morehouse Parishes were in attendance as well as all local legislators except Sen. Jamar Adcock, who was out of town.

The charge to Parker was delivered by Judge Mack Barham, while Senior Presiding Judge Jesse S. Heard gave the closing remarks, dedicating the court to the "promotion of justice."

Crowe was sworn in as assistant district attorney by B. S. McRainey, Ouachita Parish Clerk of Court. Crowe resigned his position as assistant city attorney for Monroe Friday to accept his new duties.

office for the southern New York district.

The Attorney General said Mishukov told Flink that Moscow "would contribute $3,000 to his political campaign in return for Mr. Flink's agreement to advocate certain policies, if elected, in speeches to organizations."

He said the $3,000 ultimately was paid to Flink and impounded by the FBI.

Kennedy said Mishukov also wanted Flink "to provide information regarding internal operations of U. S. government agencies, and personal information about influential members of Mr. Flink's political party."

A Justice Department spokesman said Flink actually had first been approached by Mishukov in the fall of 1959. Flink was then a young lawyer. He is now 27 years old.

The Attorney General said Flink reported the contact to the FBI.

He said that before Mishukov left the United States July 5, he arranged for Flink to meet Zaitsev who was to be his "replacement" and who was to "carry out the promises made by the Soviets."

Kennedy said the Justice and State Department informed the United Nations Secretariat of the activities of the Russians and both were discharged.

Mishukov was a translator in the U. N. office of conference services. Zaitsev was a political affairs officer in the U. N. political and security council affairs department.

The Attorney General said that Flink was a graduate of Brandeis University and the New York University Law School.

He served for about one year as a student assistant in the United States Attorney's office for the southern district of New York.

His first approach by the Russian came shortly after he left this job.

The Justice Department spokesman said that since the initial contact, Flink had acted under FBI instructions.

Kennedy said their activities were "a gross abuse of the privileges of residents accorded to employes of the Secretariat...and a violation of the obligations of an international civil servant."

THE ECONOMY

Moscow owns the economy. Fantastic numbers of trucks, jeeps and other vehicles pour in from the Red bloc, each batch making Cuba more dependent upon Soviet petroleum shipments.

Imports for 1962 from the U.S.S.R. include: wheat flour, cereal grains, edible oils, canned, frozen and cured meats, condensed milk, baby foods, rice, butter, lard, peas, canned fish, beans, potatoes, fertilizers, rayon and other textiles, superphosphates, trucks, jeeps, buses, tractors, a petroleum tanker, rice harvesters, machine tools, power shovels, graders, bulldozers, compressors, rolled steel, tinplate, steel pipes, cast iron, cardboard, raw materials for soap manufacture, cement, lubricants, ammonium nitrate and even containers for sugar.

Czechoslovakia is sending textile yarns, artificial leather, steel products, chemicals, glass, foodstuffs, newsprint, buses, tractors, trucks and tow trucks, machinery and tools, diesel motors, electronic units. Red China sends soybeans, rice, canned meat, medicines. Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Poland send food. The bloc also sends swarms of technical assistants.

Frogmen Okay After Day On Bottom Of Sea

MARSEILLES, France (UPI)—French frogmen Robert Falco, 35, and Claude Wesley, 30, spent the first day of their planned week at the bottom of the sea without incident, an attending physician reported Saturday night.

Dr. Xavier Fructus, member of the oceanography team of Cmdr. Jacques Cousteau, examined the men at their "home" 33 feet beneath the surface and said they worked, ate, relaxed and slept with no troubles under pressures never before experienced by man for such a long period.

A diver took them hot food.

The two men descended to their steel cylinder home wearing frogmen's equipment. They are able to relax inside the watertight cylinder without aqualungs but don them occasionally to explore neighboring waters.

Cousteau and his colleagues are able to observe the men through closed circuit television.

Efforts To Settle Rail Strike Are Broken Off

WASHINGTON (AP)—Efforts to settle the 17-day strike against the Chicago & North Western Railway were broken off Saturday and the railroad announced it was withdrawing from further discussions.

Federal mediators had announced the breakoff only minutes earlier but said they would attempt to renew settlement talks Monday.

Ben. W. Heineman, chairman of the railroad, told newsmen he doubts "we will be there."

Heineman said that before returning to the negotiations he wants assurances "from a responsible person that the union will accept the board's recommendation and report."

His reference was to findings of a presidential fact-finding board named in an unsuccessful effort to prevent the strike.

After management representatives left the mediation offices at 5 p.m., Francis A. O'Neill, the federal mediator on the case, announced another meeting Monday and expressed hope the management move was not a walkout.

A spokesman for the Order of Railway Telegraphers said his representatives would be there.

In his news conference Thursday, President Kennedy said the public interest calls for an early end to the strike and expressed hopes for a weekend settlement.

Heineman, in a statement issued at a news conference, said "the ORT has refused and is still refusing to accept the recommendations and report of the President's impartial fact-finding board."

He added, "It is our firm conviction, based upon innumerable meetings, that the ORT is continuing to expect concessions beyond the recommendations of the President's emergency board."

District Oil, Gas Activity Shows Big Rise

Reports this weekend from Monroe Oil & Gas District Manager Duncan S. Cook showed drilling activity in the 14 parishes surrounding the Twin Cities unabated and up, as well, from the preceding week, a big one itself.

Lingering summer defied a fall turndown as drillers reported an even dozen completions in the area—seven of them in Ouachita Parish—coupled with reports of 43 new locations and a whopping 30 rigs actively drilling or testing.

All seven finals in Ouachita Parish were in the Monroe Gas Field, gas wells of D. J. Simmons & Company, brought in at depths varying from 2186 to 2203 feet. Three completions were listed in LaSalle Parish and one each in Union and Rapides.

Totals on the new locations found five of them in Ouachita Parish, again all in the Monroe Field, while most, 10, were in Catahoula Parish. Of the active rigs, most were in Tensas Parish which reported nine, though a pair were operating in Ouachita—one drilling in the Cheniere Field at 6895 feet and the other in the Calhoun Field at 7529 feet.

Cook's weekly listing noted 11 wells plugged and abandoned during the week and the total on inactive sites rose to 143. Drilling was underway at 43 locations and locations numbered 81 overall.

Here's a summary of the manager's report, just released:

COMPLETIONS

Wildcat Test Run Is Slated

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Cities Service Petroleum Co. is clearing a location for a deep wildcat test in Greene County.

The southeast Mississippi test is the Robinson Land Co. No. 1 in section 15, 4 north, 8 west, about two miles south of the abandoned Sand Hill field.

The contract depth is 13,000 feet.

The Sand Hill field was the only oil producing area in Greene County and produced about 50,000 barrels before abandonment.

Skelly Oil Co. has staked location for its Duncan No. 1, sec. 33-1n-12e, a Walthall field. The well site is located near the Washington Parish, La., line and is to go to 11,500 feet.

Larco Drilling Co. is below 11,300 feet in its interesting Lamar County wildcat, the Lewis No. 1, sec. 19-2n-14w, located about 12 miles northeast of the Baxterville field near Purvis. Contract depth is 12,500 feet.

In Madison County, Continental Oil is below 10,300 feet in its wildcat, the Defore No. 1, sec. 27-9n-1w, between the Flora and Bentonia fields. It is to go to 11,600 feet.

In Pike County, King and Love are below 8,000 feet on their wildcat, the Fernwood Industries No. 1, sec. 35-4n-9e, about 7 miles north of the new Conerly oil field.

At Conerly, Sun Oil-Elam and Ballew are below 7,000 feet in their Holmes Unit No. 1, sec. 35-3n-9e, confirmation test in the new field. The venture is a northeast diagonal offset to the discovery well and is scheduled to be drilled to 10,800 feet.

Near the Thompson's Creek oil field in Wayne County, Furrh and Mateer are below 7,400 feet and nearing the contract depth in their wildcat, the USA No. 1, sec. 23-7n-9w, an 8,000 foot try.

South of the East Fork field in Amite County, Larco Drilling Co., Best Oil Co. and E. B. Launius are below 9,000 feet on their wildcat, the Whittington No. 1, sec. 4-2n-5e, with the test scheduled to be drilled to 11,500 feet.

Field drilling during the last week saw four new oilers completed and one gas condensate well finaled.

Monetary Fund Chief Questions U.S. Tax Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Per Jacobsson, managing director of the International Monetary Fund, affirmed Saturday his fears of an economic slump and questioned whether the high taxes of recent years still are wise.

Meeting with newsmen in advance of the annual meetings this week of the IMF and the World Bank, Jacobsson said high taxes which posed little problem during the post war inflation may have a much more retarding effect if a noninflationary world economy becomes sluggish.

The respected Swedish economist was not carried away with gloom, however. He spoke with approval of the Kennedy administration's plans for a 1963 tax cut. And he suggested that any threat of deflation, or recession, may be erased if non-communist countries worked together to increase credit and pursue expansionary policies.

He spoke of deflation as a threat still some distance away but suggested it should be pondered now before it becomes a reality.

Brown To Speak

DEPLETION ISSUE

Votes In Senate Please Oilmen

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Oilmen are pleased with the recent Senate votes on the industry's depletion tax allowance but they are not relaxing their vigilance.

The votes on the controversial 27½ per cent allowance were encouraging only because the opposition showed no indication of gaining strength.

There were a few shifts in Republican and Democratic votes but the outcome was practically the same as the last test in 1960.

The 1960 vote was something of a shock to the industry in that 30 senators voted to cut the allowance. A similar proposal in 1959 had drawn only 21 negative votes.

The Sept. 5 votes of 57-30 and 50-23 again sustained the tax statute that has remained unchanged since Congress adopted it in 1926 after studies resulting from adoption of the first income tax law in 1913.

The votes were on amendments submitted from the floor, as has been the case on all Senate attacks made since 1951.

A more serious attack may develop next year.

The administration has been studying depletion and may include recommendations in the tax bill to be placed before Congress in 1963.

Oilmen are confident an administration-backed proposal to cut or amend the statute would set off an all-out attack.

President Kennedy, who, as congressman and senator, voted for and against floor amendments, campaigned in 1960 while advocating an overall study of depletion allowances to determine if inequities exist. He said foreign operations possibly should be treated differently from domestic oil operations.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon testified before the Senate Finance Committe last spring on the Tax bill and told the group omission of any reference to depletion from his prepared statement was intentional.

Dillon said studies of overall income tax proposals for possible reforms were progressing but had not been completed.

"And one of the things that will be looked at and will be included with a recommendation one way or another are the depletion allowances, not just for oil but for everything," he said.

Depletion tax allowances apply to about 200 minerals and range from 5 per cent for sand and gravel to the maximum 27½ per cent for oil and gas.

Six Senate amendments to cut the 27½ per cent allowance have now been offered since 1958.

BOSTON STRANGLER

He Already Has Killed 7 Women

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (AP) — Like a fog creeping inland from the harbor, a clammy fear pervades much of Boston.

It's like the anxiety London knew 74 year ago when Jack the Ripper was on the prowl.

Here it's the Boston Strangler. He has already killed half a dozen women, and he may strike again.

The greatest concentration of police in the history of the department has been assigned to the case, but they don't know whom they are looking for. They have no tangible clues.

Psychiatrists believe the strangler is probably in his'30s, of at least average intelligence, and holds down a steady job. Maybe goes bowling with his colleagues once a week.

Up to this point he's like thousands among the two million people in and around Boston. The difference is that in this man, a periodic mental explosion makes him a homicidal maniac with an irresistible urge to kill.

Investigators fell sure one man is responsible for the six stranglings since June 14. The last occured Aug. 20.

Inevitably, his dark doings recall the London maniac who ripped or slashed the throats of at least seven victims, all women.

The Ripper was never caught, and investigators of that time theorized he was a respectable surgeon or businessman with a Jekyll-Hyde complex.

The same theory of split personality is held strongly by investigators in the Boston murders.

His victims, too, have all been women, ranging from 55 to 75 in age. All lived alone, five in Boston and one in Lynn about 12 miles to the north.

All were killed in their own homes but in no instance was there evidence of forced entry. Robbery was not a motive.

The time of the killings has been established in each case as shortly before 6 p.m.

Dr. Robert W. Hyde, Assistant to the Massachusetts Commissioner of Mental Health, says: "Perhaps he is on his way home from work. If he finished work at 5 p.m. he could make such an excursion without altering his timetable too greatly. Perhaps he could not leave his home without arousing suspicion."

The terror began Thursday, June 14. At 5:30 p.m., Anna E. Slesers, 55-year-old divorcee, was seen entering her third-floor apartment in the Back Bay after her day's work as a seamstress.

Two hours later her son arrived to take his mother to services at the Latvian Lutheran Church. He found her body on the kitchen floor. She was wearing only a housecoat, its cord knotted around her neck.

Sixteen days later, on June 30, Nina G. Nichols, aged 68, was found strangled with her own nylon stocking on the bedroom floor of her Commonwealth Avenue apartment about eight blocks away.

On July 2, neighbors discovered the body of Helen E. Blake, 65, on the bedroom floor of her apartment in Lynn. She had been dead about two days, strangled with her bra and stocking.

District Oil, Gas Activity Shows Big Rise

Reports this weekend from Monroe Oil & Gas District Manager Duncan S. Cook showed drilling activity in the 14 parishes surrounding the Twin Cities unabated and up, as well, from the preceding week—a big one itself.

Lingering summer defied a fall turndown as drillers reported an even dozen completions in the area—seven of them in Ouachita Parish—coupled with reports of 43 new locations and a whopping 30 rigs actively drilling or testing.

All seven finals in Ouachita Parish were in the Monroe Gas Field, gas wells of D. J. Simmons & Company, brought in at depths varying from 2186 to 2203 feet. Three completions were listed in LaSalle Parish and one each in Union and Rapides.

Totals on the new locations found five of them in Ouachita Parish, again all in the Monroe Field, while most, 10, were in Catahoula Parish. Of the active rigs, most were in Tensas Parish which reported nine, though a pair were operating in Ouachita—one drilling in the Cheniere Field at 6895 feet and the other in the Calhoun Field at 7529 feet.

Cook's weekly listing noted 11 wells plugged and abandoned during the week and the total on inactive sites rose to 143. Drilling was underway at 43 locations and locations numbered 84 overall.

Here's a summary of the manager's report, just released:

The votes on the controversial 27½ per cent allowance were encouraging only because the opposition showed no indication of gaining strength.

There were a few shifts in Republican and Democratic votes but the outcome was practically the same as the last text in 1960.

The 1960 vote was something of a shock to the industry in that 30 senators voted to cut the allowance. A similar proposal in 1959 had drawn only 21 negative votes.

The Sept. 5 votes of 57-30 and 50-23 again sustained the tax statute that has remained unchanged since Congress adopted it in 1926 after studies resulting from adoption of the first income tax law in 1913.

The votes were on amendments submitted from the floor, as has been the case on all Senate attacks made since 1951.

A more serious attack may develop next year.

The administration has been studying depletion and may include recommendations in the tax bill to be placed before Congress in 1963.

Oilmen are confident an administration-backed proposal to cut or amend the statute would set off an all-out attack.

President Kennedy, who, as congressman and senator, voted for and against floor amendments, campaigned in 1960 while advocating an overall study of depletion allowances to determine if inequities exist. He said foreign operations possibly should be treated differently from domestic oil operations.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon testified before the Senate Finance Committe last spring on the Tax bill and told the group omission of any reference to depletion from his prepared statement was intentional.

Dillon said studies of overall income tax proposals for possible reforms were progressing but had not been completed.

"And one of the things that will be looked at and will be included with a recommendation one way or another are the depletion allowances, not just for oil but for everything," he said.

Depletion tax allowances apply to about 200 minerals and range from 5 per cent for sand. and gravel to the maximum 27½ per cent for oil and gas.

Six Senate amendments to cut the 27½ per cent allowance have now been offered since 1958.

BOSTON STRANGLER

He Already Has Killed 7 Women

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (AP) — Like a fog creeping inland from the harbor, a clammy fear pervades much of Boston.

It's like the anxiety London knew 74 year ago when Jack the Ripper was on the prowl.

Here it's the Boston Strangler. He has already killed half a dozen women, and he may strike again.

The greatest concentration of police in the history of the department has been assigned to the case, but they don't know whom they are looking for. They have no tangible clues.

Psychiatrists believe the strangler is probably in his 30s, of at least average intelligence, and holds down a steady job. Maybe goes bowling with his colleagues once a week.

Up to this point he's like thousands among the two million people in and around Boston. The difference is that in this man, a periodic mental explosion makes him a homicidal maniac with an irresistible urge to kill.

Investigators fell sure one man is responsible for the six stranglings since June 14. The last occured Aug. 20.

Inevitably, his dark doings recall the London maniac who ripped or slashed the throats of at least seven victims, all women.

The Ripper was never caught, and investigators of that time theorized he was a respectable surgeon or businessman with a Jekyll-Hyde complex.

The same theory of split personality is held strongly by investigators in the Boston murders.

His victims, too, have all been women, ranging from 55 to 75 in age. All lived alone, five in Boston and one in Lynn about 12 miles to the north.

All were killed in their own homes but in no instance was there evidence of forced entry. Robbery was not a motive.

The time of the killings has been established in each case as shortly before 6 p.m.

Dr. Robert W. Hyde, Assistant to the Massachusetts Commissioner of Mental Health, says: "Perhaps he is on his way home from work. If he finished work at 5 p.m. he could make such an excursion without altering his timetable too greatly. Perhaps he could not leave his home without arousing suspicion."

The terror began Thursday, June 14. At 5:30 p.m., Anna E. Slesers, 55-year-old divorcee, was seen entering her third-floor apartment in the Back Bay after her day's work as a seamstress.

Two hours later her son arrived to take his mother to services at the Latvian Lutheran Church. He found her body on the kitchen floor. She was wearing only a housecoat, its cord knotted around her neck.

Sixteen days later, on June 30, Nina G. Nichols, aged 68, was found strangled with her own nylon stocking on the bedroom floor of her Commonwealth Avenue apartment about eight blocks away.

On July 2, neighbors discovered the body of Helen E. Blake, 65, on the bedroom floor of her apartment in Lynn. She had been dead about two days, strangled with her bra and stocking.

Stock Market Scores Gains During Week

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced a step last week for the first time in three weeks. All five sessions were characterized by a general lack of public interest. The popular market averages all showed gains.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .8 at 223.6 with industrials ahead 2.8, rails off 1.6 and utilities up .4.

The Dow Jones industrial average gained 4.98 but the 65-stock average was ahead only .48 Standard & Poor's 500-stock index picked up .51 at 58.89. On Wednesday the Dow Jones utility average closed above the rail average for the first time. It held a slight margin at the end of the week.

Investor indecision was apparent from the fact that in each session the daily trend was not definitely established until the final half hour of trading. Monday it was late buying that cut earlier losses to produce a mixed day. Tuesday there was a late sinking spell.

Almost all of Wednesday's gain was recorded in final trading while Thursday's market turned lower in final trading. Friday's rise wasn't established until the closing minutes.

There was some major business-economic news but in general it failed to influence the market to any important degree. Unrest over the Cuban situation centered on the Russian threat of a nuclear war and President Kennedy's reply that although there was no serious threat at this time we would protect ourselves.

Analysts were hopeful the week's gain meant the start of the widely expected post-Labor Day rally. Many weren't any longer so sure there would be one.

The government reported that before—tax profit of corporations hit a record annual rate during the June quarter, that personal income in August was $1 billion above July on a seasonally adjusted basis, that total August cash dividends paid by corporations issuing public reports exceeded a year ago by 6 per cent, and that industrial production in August was unchanged from July on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Volume failed to exceed 3.1 million on any day, compared with the daily average of almost 3.8 million for the week. Volume totaled 14,634,055 shares compared with 12,095,568 in four sessions last week.

On the bond market, price changes were small. Corporate volume for the week on the New York Stock Exchange was only $19,940,000, compared with $16,430,000 in the previous holiday-shortened week. U.S. government issues, for most distant maturities, closed higher than the previous week final prices.

Kiwanis Club To Hear Talk By Robinson

A. E. Robinson, assistant superintendent of public education, has been scheduled as the guest speaker to be featured in an address before a regular weekly meeting of the West Monroe Kiwanis club next Thursday at noon at Highland Park Country Club.

His topic will be "Communism — A Threat to World Peace."

Robinson, whose appearance has been arranged by the Vocational Guidance Committee of the Kiwanis, made a trip to West Germany in 1952 at the invitation of the government. In 1957 he went to central and eastern Africa.

His return from Africa was by way of lower Asia and around the world.

In 1961 British East Africa on a special assignment to inspect and evaluate progress of education under the auspices of International Cooperative Administration and the British government.

Workshop Is Set By Club Group

Members of the Fifth District Louisiana Federated Women's Clubs will attend a workshop at the Paragon Club next Saturday, from 9:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., according to Mrs. George Foreman, president of the organization.

Highlights of the workshop include a parliamentary drill by Mrs. A. Dent Tisdale, promotional publicity by Jack Gates, executive editor of the News-Star—World, and live television by Harry Arthur of KNOE-TV .

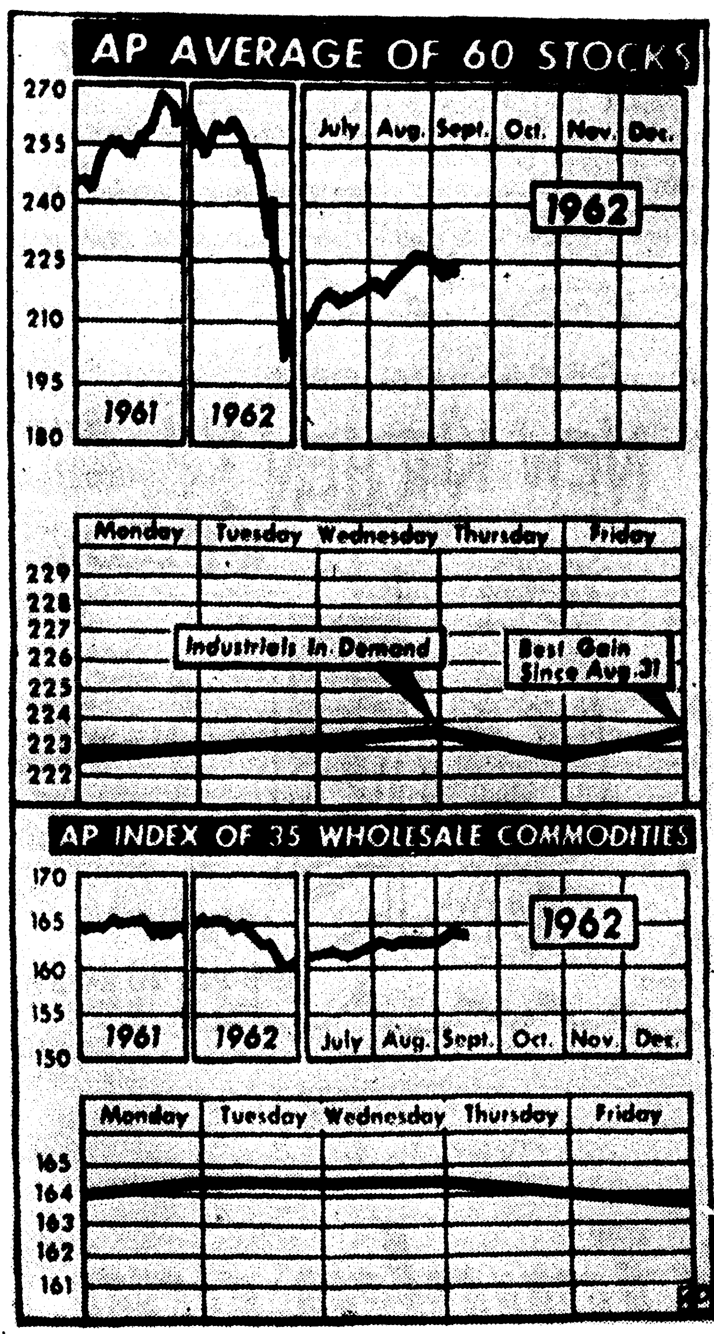
During the sessions Mrs. J. W. Evans will preside over a meeting for club presidents while Mrs. Tisdale will be in charge of the department division and committee chairman.

A brief meeting of the district board of directors will be held at the conclusion of the workshop.

Class Officers

SICILY ISLAND (Special) — Leah Jean Seymour was elected president of the Junior Class of Sicily Island high school.

Others elected were Irvin Maples, vice president; Pamela Franks, secretary; Sue Gambrell, treasurer and Judy Krause, reporter.



FOR THE FIRST time in three weeks the Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved higher, closing Friday at 223.6 from 222.8 a week ago. The commodity index declined this week to 163.8 from 164.0 in the preceding period. Grains were the major losers. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

George A. Burch, 80, Succumbs; Services Today

OAK GROVE (Special) — Funeral services will be held 2 p.m. today for George Allen Burch, 80, who died in a clinic here Friday night after an illness of about a year. He was a resident of Route Four, Oak Grove. Survivors include a daughter in West Monroe, Mrs. Jesse Roberts.

Services will be conducted at the Hickory Ridge Baptist Church at Florence, Miss. Burial will be in Sinani Cemetery, Florence, under the direction of Gay's Funeral Home of Oak Grove.

Other survivors are his widow, Mrs. Nettie Burch, Oak Grove; six sons, G. A. Burch, Richard Burch, both of New Orleans; Joe Burch, George A. Burch Jr., both of Oak Grove; Bobby Burch, Forest; Willie Burch, Shreveport; daughters, Mrs. P. C. Quimby, Florence, Miss.; Mrs. Beamus Russell, Vidalia; Mrs. J. L. Adams, Jackson, Miss.; Mrs. Sidney Blackwell, Mrs. Jack Berry, both of Epps; Mrs. Arthur L. Raymond, Shreveport; Miss Wanda Jean Burch, Miss Velda Ray Burch, both of Oak Grove; Miss Pauline Burch, New Orleans; one sister, Mrs. Hattie Sebren, Lake Providence; 30 grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren.

Cuban Refugees May Join Army

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — More than 50 Cuban refugees asked Saturday if they could join the Army. A spokesman said they hope to eventally see military service against Castro.

Their enlistment requests repeatedly will be forwarded to Washington.

Demo Leader Says Berlin Crisis Worse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., Saturday cautioned advocates of military action in Cuba against taking their eyes off the increasingly dangerous situation in Berlin.

Mansfield, the Senate majority leader, warned also that there are other potentially explosive areas in the world for which President Kennedy bears the overwhelming responsibility and that only the President can make a decision as to what we must do in our foreign policy.

He coupled his appeal for continued bipartisan support of the President on Cuba with a request for more support from our French and British allies in Berlin where he said the situation is getting steadily worse.

"I would like to see the Americans act less in a unilateral manner in their relations there with the Soviet Union," he said in a taped television interview with Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa.

Mansfield referred also to the dangers from unsettled conditions in Africa, the Middle East, Southeast Asia and in the straits around Formosa.

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committee will meet jointly Monday to hear Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara on the Cuban situation.

The meeting stems from Republican demands for a resolution authorizing President Kennedy to use troops if necessary to prevent the establishment of a Communist beachhead in Cuba. Mansfield has countered with a proposal to voice bipartisan support for the President in the crisis.

The Cuban development, he said, arouses our emotions tremendously, but the United States must "keep in mind a broad perspective, and not be diverted by one or another area."

Constitution Display Shown On South Grand

Members of the Monroe Pilot Club have installed a "Constitution Week" display in a window at 318 South Grand.

The display, commemorating the 175th anniversary of the United States Constitution, will feature a replica of the document and other historical papers.

The general public is urged to drive by and observe the display.

Mrs. Lois Hollingsworth, spokeman for the Pilot Club, announced completion of the display Saturday. She said it would remain intact through the coming week.

Reactions To Course Of Business Said 'Good But Not Good Enough'

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Good, but not good enough.

That was the reaction during the week to the newest reports on the course of business.

New records were established by corporation profits and personal income. While this was encouraging, the rate of gain was not up to expectations.

Retail sales dipped slightly in August from the record level of July but stayed ahead of August 1961.

Profits of corporations attained an annual rate of $50.9 billion in the April-June quarter, a period in which the stock market collapse occurred. In the preceding quarter the rate was $50.1 billion.

The total income of all Americans climbed by $900 million to an annual rate of $442.8 billion in August. However, there was a decline in manufacturing payrolls of $400 million to $94.1 billion.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges called the figures "not entirely satisfactory, but I still think, good."

He said business has bounced back a little from what it looked like two or three months ago, and added: "I would rather say that over the short term—I believe the economists call that about six months—I think business is going to stay good; not as much as we would like, but still good."

Retail sales slipped in August to $19.6 billion from July's peak of $19.7 billion, a drop of only 0.5 per cent. They were 8 per cent above a year earlier.

A survey by the national Retail Merchants Association indicated that retailers look for a sales increase in the second half of this year.

The Electronics Industries Association estimated that manufacturers' sales of electronic devices and equipment will increase this year to a record $13.1 billion from about $12 billion last year. It attributed most of the growth to equipment for the defense and space programs.

Production of passenger cars spurted to an estimated 120,000 during the week as assembly of 1963 models picked up speed. The output the previous week was 65,221.

Steel output dipped during the week, which was shortened by the Labor Day holiday. Production of 1,641,000 tons was 1.8 per cent below the previous week.

In August, steel production totabled 7.1 million tons, up from 6,174,187 in July and down from 8,660,527 in August 1961. In the first seven months of this year, shipment of finished steel products from mills amounted to 43,986,282 tons, a gain of 21 per cent over the similar 1961 period.

T. F. Patton, president of Republic Steel Corp., pleaded with the Senate Judiciary Committee that it not insist that steel companies submit confidential information on production costs. As spokesman for Republic, Bethlehem Steel, National Steel and Armco Steel, he said the data, if made public, would help the industry's domestic and foreign competitors.

The four companies had refused to answer subpoenas issued by the Judiciary Committee's antitrust subcommittee. Eight other steelmakers submitted the information. Subcommittee Chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., sought to have the full committee cite the four companies for contempt.

The subcommittee's investigation of steel industry competition is an outgrowth of the unsuccessful attempt to raise steel prices last spring.

A federal grand jury in Hartford, Conn., indicted 11 big fabricators of copper and brass products on charges of conspiring to fix prices of brass mill tube and pipe over a period of five or six years. Seven company officials also were indicted.

CAP Recruiting Drive Is Set By Local Squadron

A recruiting drive for the Monroe Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol is in the planning stages, according to Major Pat D. McHenry, local commander of the group.

Major Edward E. Christiansen Jr., liason officer of the Louisiana Wing of CAP, attended a meeting last week and helped to outline the drive plans.

Major McHenry said that personnel are needed for both flying and non-flying duty, and that everyone, regardless of any previous training, is urgently needed for the program. He added that there is a special need for persons interested in medical, legal, clerical, mechanical and flight duties.

The CAP, with some 13,000 radio stations, maintains one of the world's most effective emergency communications networks and does approximately 80 per cent of the air search and rescue work for the country.

Men and women can enlist in the program, the Major said, and can apply for information by attending one of the meetings held each Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Fleeman's Hangar, Selman Field. Interested persons may also telephone Major McHenry or Capt. F. K. Cole, executive officer.

Youngsters between the ages of 14 and 18 are also eligible for the cadet program which provides training in radio communications, basic aeronautics, first aid, and related subjects. The cadet exchange program also provides free trips to other countries for outstanding cadets.

Tax Bill Pensions Amendment May Be Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said Saturday they are confident a controversial tax bill amendment affecting profit-sharing pension plans would be killed.

The amendment to a bill allowing self-employed persons to set up tax-deductible pension funds was adopted Sept. 7 with little debate. Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., sponsored it.

It has brought a deluge of protesting telegrams and letters to many members of Congress. Gore said he has received more than 2,000.

Many of these have come from employes of Sears, Roebuck and Co. who have a widely known retirement income plan based on profit sharing. A Sears spokesman said more than 150,000 employes would be affected.

Conferees on the self-employed pension bill, long known as H.R. 10, are scheduled to consider it Monday.

Smathers, who will be a conferee, told a reporter he is confident the Gore amendment will be eliminated. Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, expressed the same view.

Gore's amendment was not aimed at profit-sharing plans but he conceded these would be affected to the extent that they are used to build up income for retirement purposes.

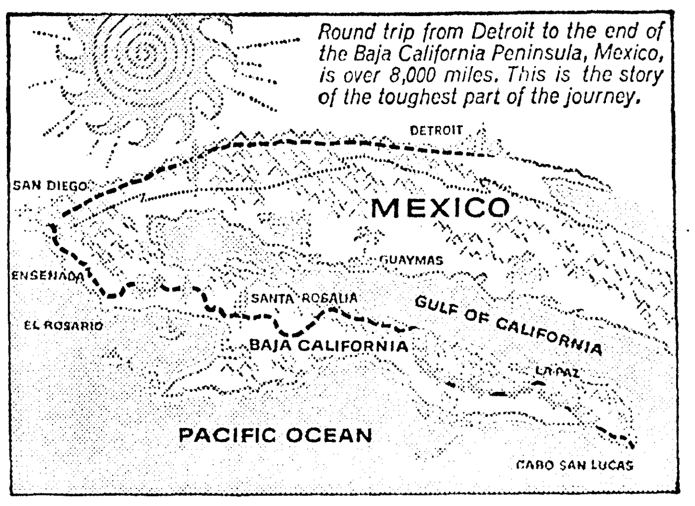
Tough new '63 Chevrolet Trucks are here!

...THE ONES THAT WHIPPED THE BAJA RUN...TOUGHEST UNDER THE SUN...
TO SHOW THE WORTH OF NEW ENGINES, FRAMES AND SUSPENSIONS!



Round trip from Detroit to the end of the Baja California Peninsula, Mexico, is over 8,000 miles. This is the story of the toughest part of the journey.

Millions of years ago nature fashioned a proving ground for trucks that man can never duplicate. Today it is known as the Baja (bah' hah) California Peninsula, Mexico.

If you think you build a tough truck, this is the place to find out.

From Tijuana to Cabo San Lucas at the lower tip is a thousand miles of trail that defies description, and also anyone who challenges it, every foot of the way. This road bears no resemblance to the modern highways on the Mexican mainland.

These pictures give you only a bare idea of the place. The road is fine for 140 miles below the U.S. border.

Then the beating begins. Rocks and hard-baked ruts bang, punch, jab and jerk the trucks from stem to stern. Dust chokes them. Heat roasts them. Rivers drench them.

The Baja Run took this Chevrolet truck caravan 17 days to go the 1,066 miles. The most distance ground out in any one day was 200 miles in 19 hours; the least was 32 miles in 9 hours. Highest temperature encountered was 122 degrees F. at Dry Lake.

All the trucks performed magnificently. Not one was forced to drop out because of mechanical difficulty. Each day's run was finished on schedule.

Trucks that can take this kind of beating can take on your toughest truck jobs. Come in now and see tough quality-built '63 Chevrolet trucks with all their new improvements.

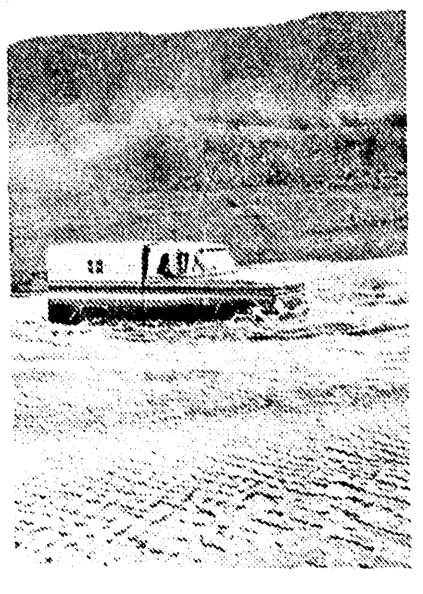
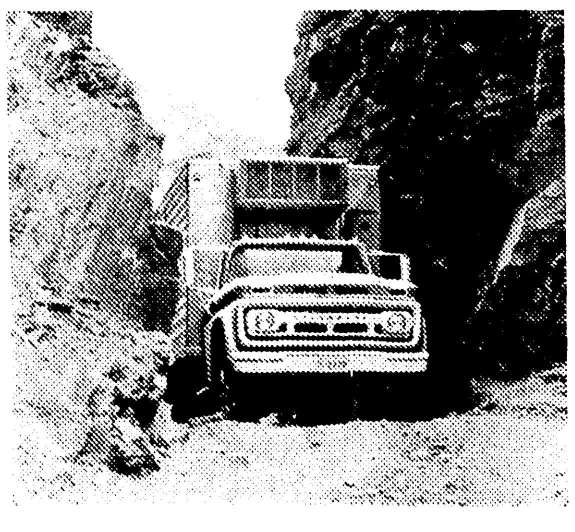
QUALITY TRUCKS COST LESS

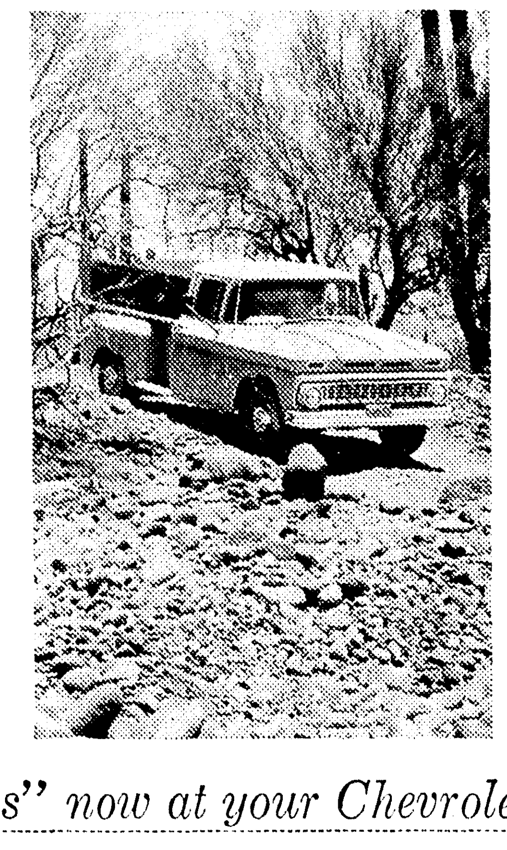
Sometimes the caravan crept along for hours in low gear. You see a few trucks, an occasional motorcycle, people on burros or horseback. It took 17 days to go 1,066 miles! This is the road south of Loreto.

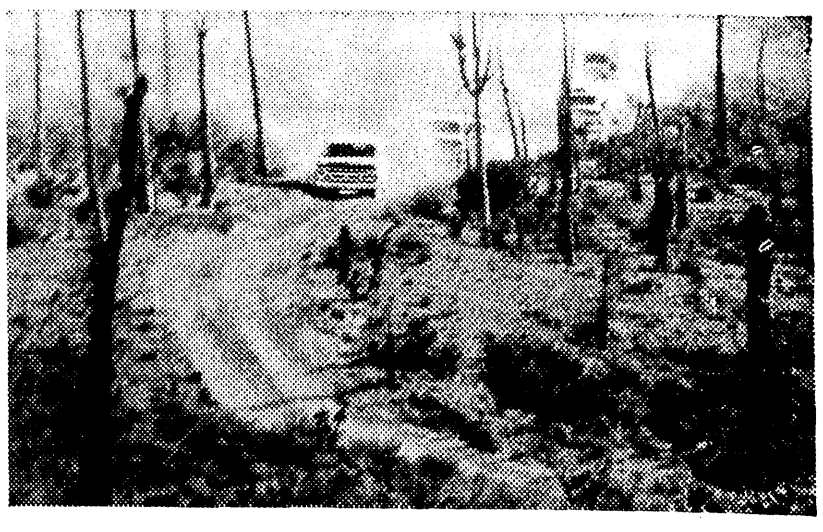


When you came to a river, you got wet. This Baja river bottom was covered with rocks. What a test for new light- and heavy-duty suspensions!



Tight squeeze for the medium- and heavy-duty units in this narrow gorge. New narrower front ends paid off here. (7 inches slimmer). Users who operate in close quarters will like this new '63 feature.





*◀ The new ladder-type frames took severe punishment from terrain such as this. Shown is the ¾-ton pickup with new 292-cu.-in.6-cylinder engine.

Temperatures as high as 122 degrees F. burned the land in the desert area around Dry Lake—one more ordeal any truck that goes to Baja has to shrug off.

AFTER BOYS' CLUB

West Monroe's Youth Crime Rate Said Down

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles dealing with the 13 agencies which make up the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish.)

Since the West Monroe Boys' Club went into operation earlier this year, juvenile deliquency and vandalism has been reduced 50 per cent in the area served by the club.

This fact, pointed to by West Monroe Police Chief Jeff Caldwell, is one of the most vital in showing the value of the newest organization supported by United Givers' Fund.

Boys' Club, along with 12 other agencies which served some 20,000 Ouachita pairsh residents this year, will share in the benefits from the United Fund drive due to start later this month.

The club's meteoric rise in membership points up the response which boys aged seven through 18 have shown, when given a chance to belong.

"On the first day, Feb. 23 of this year, we signed up 91 boys," recalled club director Kenneth Taylor. "After eight months, we now have 513 members."

Club President Judge John F. McCormick says that, "this number represents three times the number of boys we originally had anticipated would join and participate in the program.

"This is a character building organization. Out of all these members, none of them so far as I know, has been involved with the law."

The club's motto, "Juvenile Decency", is the substitute for the phrase juvenile delinquency.

Judge McCormick terms this the "unknown factor" — preventing delinquency. No one knows how many crimes never occurred, because Ouachita Parish boys have a worthwhile outlet for their energy.

The club has outgrown its building — and the American Legion post which leases the structure to the organization is adding a gymnasium, shower room and storage area to the present structure.

Starting tomorrow, the club will hold "Open House" for the entire week, from Sept. 17 through Sept. 22, from 3:30 to 9 p.m., on North Violet Street at the end of the New Natchitoches Road.

"Sketches of the additions to be made to the building will be on display," said Judge McCormick. "I should like to take this opportunity to encourage all citizens of Ouachita Parish to visit the club this week."

Officials say that the club has "filled a gap" by providing recreation and other activities for local boys.

"I don't know of any other free organization that serves in that area, aside from schools and churches," commented Taylor.

Membership is not limited to boys on the west side of the Ouachita River. "We have two or three from Monroe," says the director. "We wouldn't turn a boy away."

Entrance fees make membership relatively easy. When a boy joins, he pays one fee for all his activities during the entire year. Cost of membership is 25 cents for boys aged seven through 10 years, 50 cents for boys 11 through 13. Youths 14 through 16 pay 75 cents and those 17 and 18 pay $1.

"Dues are so low that any boy who wants to can take part," Taylor pointed out.

What does a boy find in the club: a games room, arts and crafts shop and library; activities including softball, flag football, basketball. The youngsters put out a news bulletin every two weeks on a duplicating machine.

The boys do their own writing and call the publication the "Boys Club Banner."

In the planning stage right now is a choir, for boys interested in music and singing.

"If a boy doesn't have guidance," says Taylor, "he will go out and find something to do. It might not be the best thing for him.

"Boys' Club advisors see the boys each day, and determine which ones need more guidance.

"Our main job is to promote the educational, social, health and character development of the boys.

"Many of them come by every day — the club is open from 3:30 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturdays.

"Some boys stop in two or three times a week, others once a month. . . it's according to their particular interests. When they take part in organized sports or craft classes, they are there at a certain time.

"The addition to the building will be a great asset. With it, we will be able to offer all types of indoor sports, to reach the most boys. They have a lot of extra energy which they can work off this way."

Taylor, who came here from Boys Club work in Camden, Ark., terms the work, "quite a challenge. Just the fact that you are working with boys who will be the leaders in a few years, and that you might be helping one of them, gives you a lot of satisfaction."

Roscoe Holcomb, a Louisiana Tech athlete who helped out with club activities during the summer program, has just been appointed an assistant to Taylor.

Starting tomorrow, the club will hold "Open House" for the entire week, from Sept. 17 through Sept. 22, from 3:30 to 9 p.m., on North Violet Street at the end of the New Natchitoches Road.

"Sketches of the additions to be made to the building will be on display," said Judge McCormick. "I should like to take this opportunity to encourage all citizens of Ouachita Parish to visit the club this week."

Officials say that the club has "filled a gap" by providing recreation and other activities for local boys.

"I don't know of any other free organization that serves in that area, aside from schools and churches," commented Taylor.

Membership is not limited to boys on the west side of the Ouachita River. "We have two or three from Monroe," says the director. "We wouldn't turn a boy away."

Entrance fees make membership relatively easy. When a boy joins, he pays one fee for all his activities during the entire year. Cost of membership is 25 cents for boys aged seven through 10 years, 50 cents for boys 11 through 13. Youths 14 through 16 pay 75 cents and those 17 and 18 pay $1.

"Dues are so low that any boy who wants to can take part," Taylor pointed out.

What does a boy find in the club: a games room, arts and crafts shop and library; activities including softball, flag football, basketball. The youngsters put out a news bulletin every two weeks on a duplicating machine.

The boys do their own writing and call the publication the "Boys Club Banner."

In the planning stage right now is a choir, for boys interested in music and singing.

"If a boy doesn't have guidance," says Taylor, "he will go out and find something to do. It might not be the best thing for him.

"Boys' Club advisors see the boys each day, and determine which ones need more guidance.

"Our main job is to promote the educational, social, health and character development of the boys.

"Many of them come by every day — the club is open from 3:30 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturdays.

"Some boys stop in two or three times a week, others once a month. . . it's according to their particular interests. When they take part in organized sports or craft classes, they are there at a certain time.

"The addition to the building will be a great asset. With it, we will be able to offer all types of indoor sports, to reach the most boys. They have a lot of extra energy which they can work off this way."

Taylor, who came here from Boys Club work in Camden, Ark., terms the work, "quite a challenge. Just the fact that you are working with boys who will be the leaders in a few years, and that you might be helping one of them, gives you a lot of satisfaction."

Roscoe Holcomb, a Louisiana Tech athlete who helped out with club activities during the summer program, has just been appointed an assistant to Taylor.

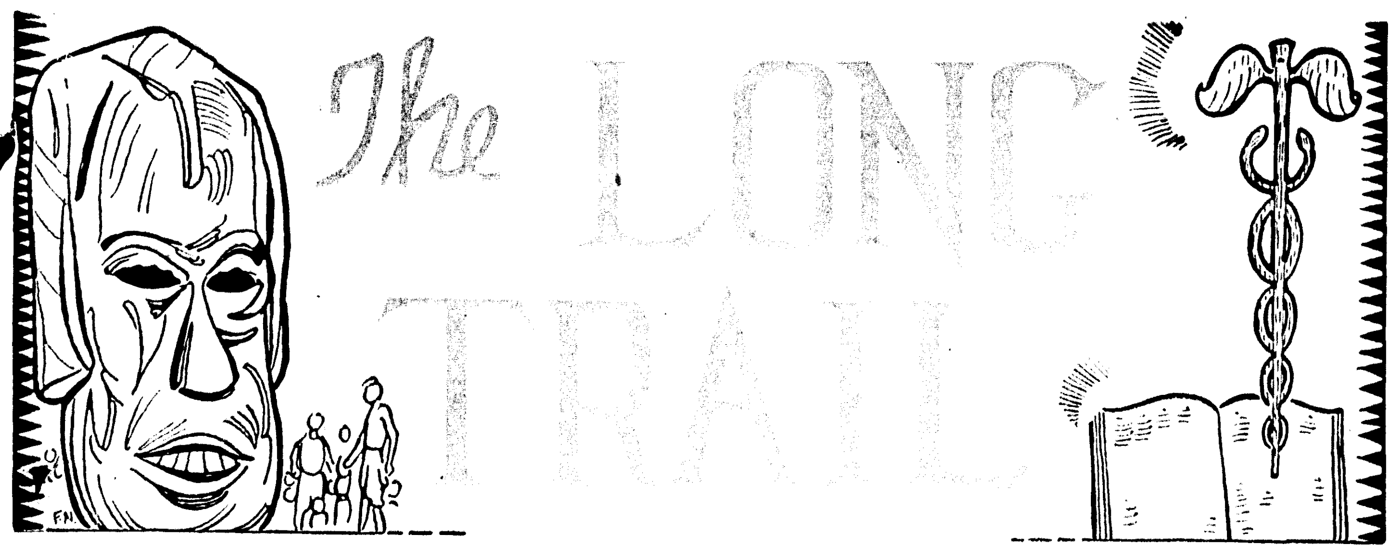
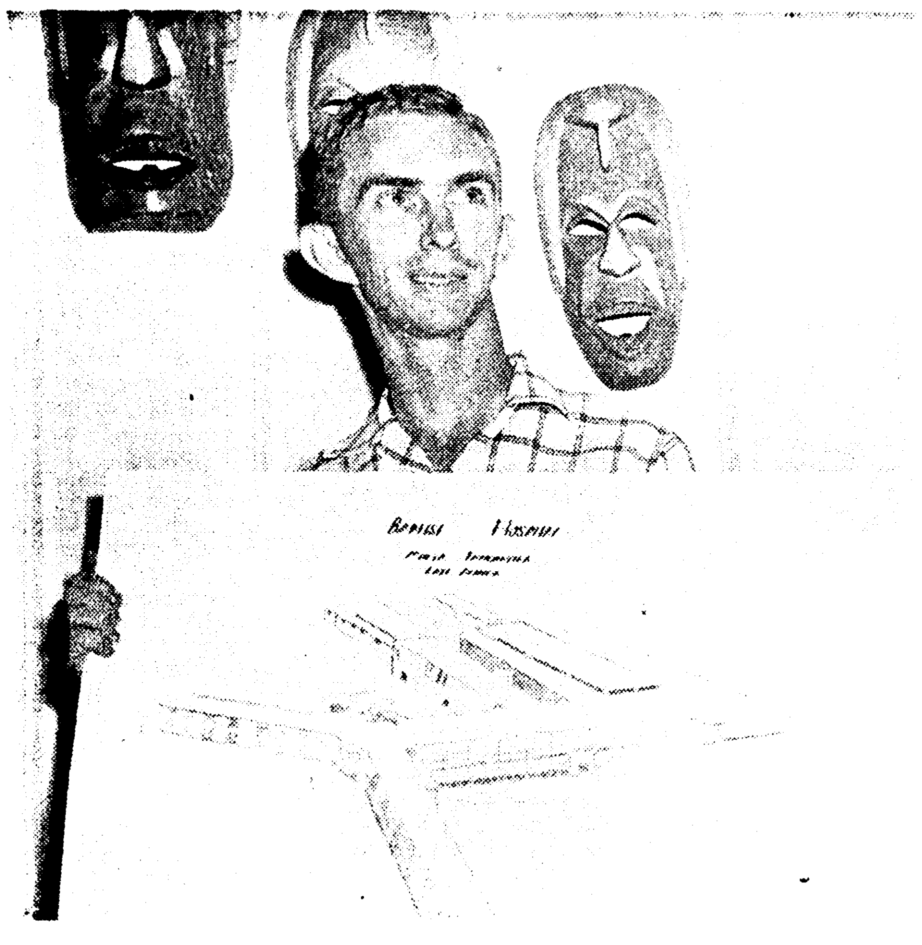
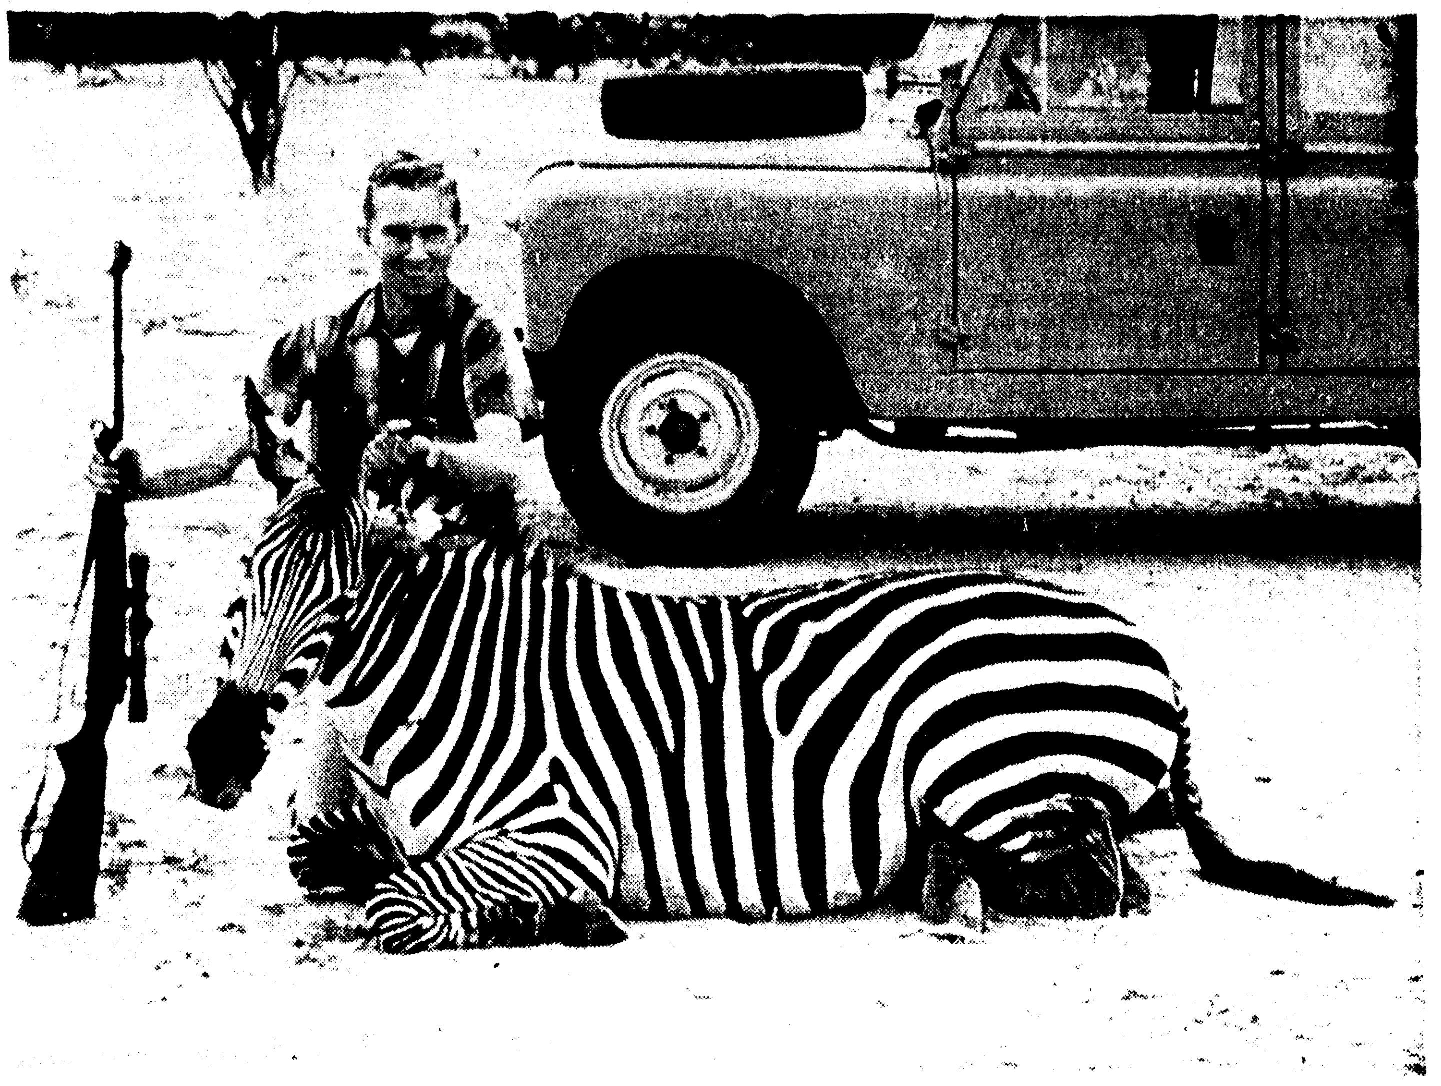
The LONG TRAIL



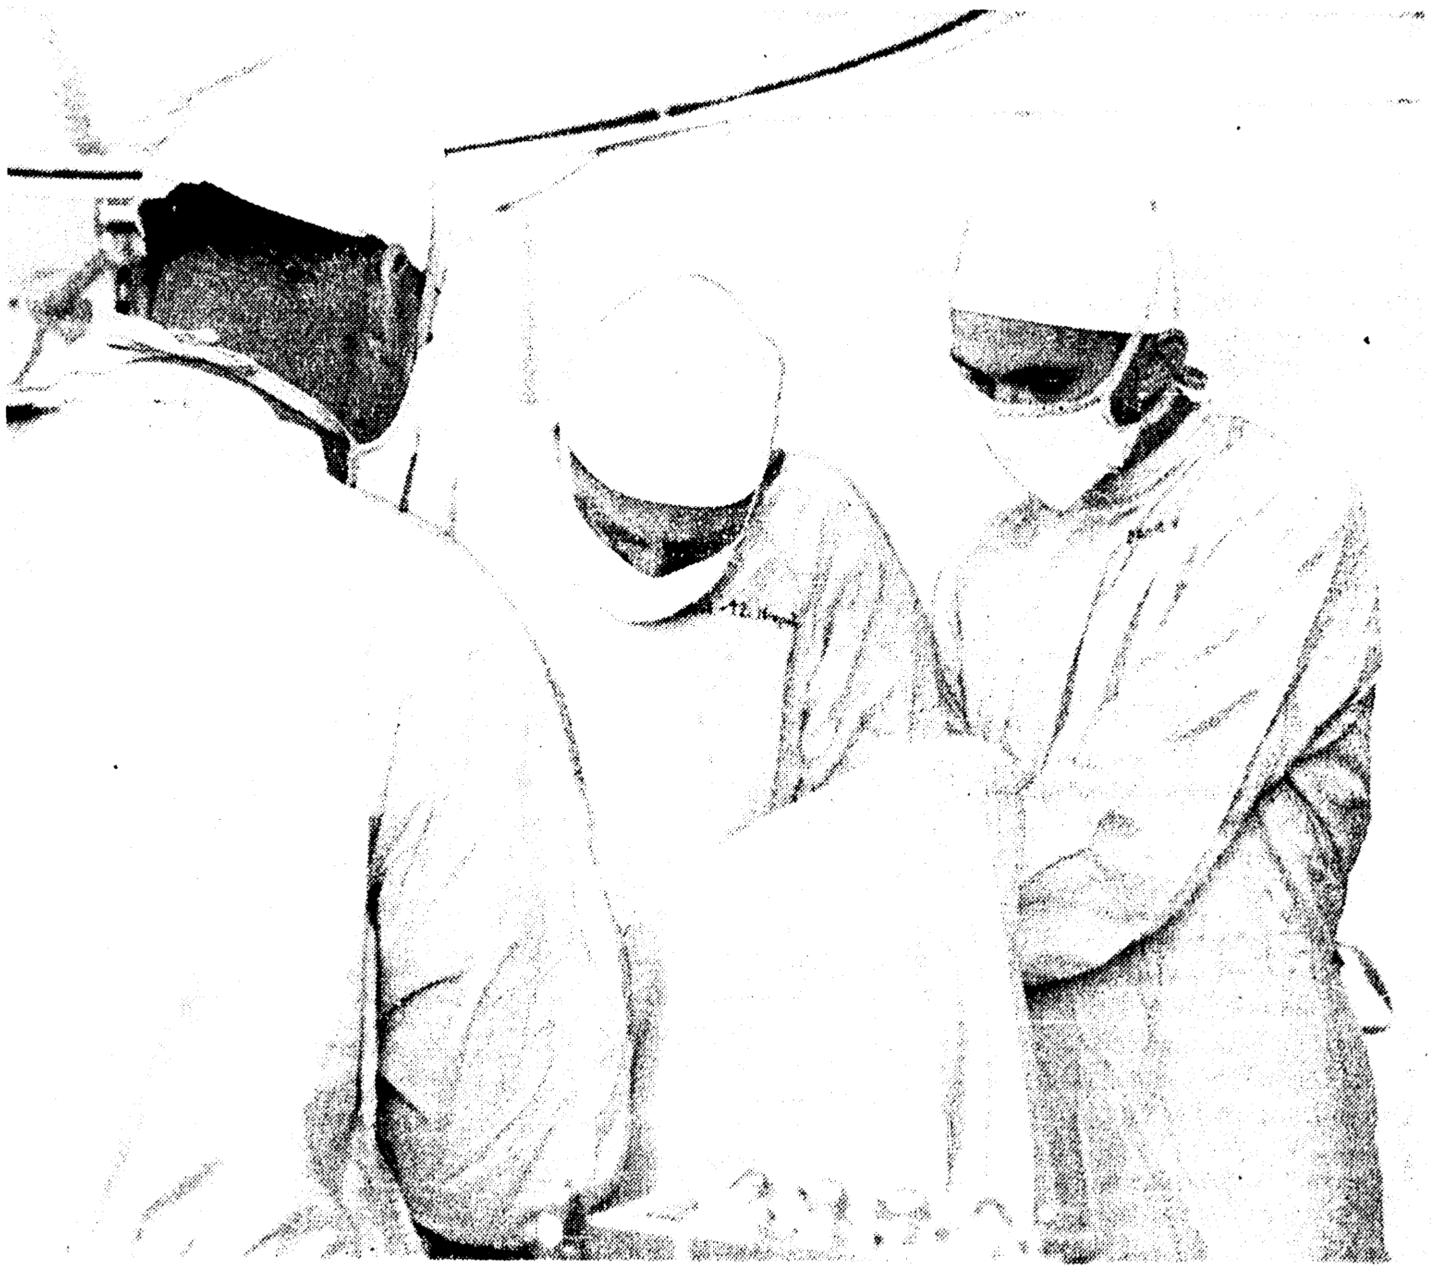
A summer spent on duty at a hospital in East Africa and assisting in bush clinics was another step on a long trail for Chester L. Todd of Monroe, leading to fulfillment of his ambition to become a medical missionary. Here is an account of his stay in Tanganyika.

Section B, Page One September 16, 1962
Editorials, Spotlight, Books, Theatres, Sports, Churches





AS INDICATED in these photographs, Dr. Chester L. Todd, whose home is in Monroe, had a variety of interest-packed experiences last year during a summer tour of duty in East Africa. On Safari he bagged a large zebra. In the operating room scene at Baptist Hospital in Mbeya, Tanganyika, he is shown at right assisting in surgery on a tuberculosis patient. Wood carvings made by native artists in Tanganyika are displayed by him, and at left, he holds up architect's drawing of the hospital in Mbeya.



The trail leading to assignment as a medical missionary is a long one filled with hard work, extensive study and sometimes adventure.

For Chester L. Todd, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester S. Todd, 1100 South Second St., Monroe, it has involved three years of pre-medical study, four years at medical school, a summer tour of duty in hospital and bush clinics in East Africa, and now hospital internship.

Next will be a residency assignment as a surgeon, before the medical missionary goal can be achieved.

Dr. Todd, who attended Ouachita Parish High School and Louisiana Tech, received his MD degree from Louisiana State University Medical School June 8th of this year. He is now on his second month of a one-year internship at Confederate Memorial Medical Center in Shreveport.

ANIMAL SKINS

On a visit home several days ago he displayed skins of animals he shot on safaris in East Africa, wood carvings acquired from native artists there, and photos of work in hospital and bush clinics.

He made the trip to Tanganyika, East Africa, then a colony, but now an independent country, in the summer of 1961, and served in the 104-bed modern hospital at Mbeya, a town of 2,000 population.

From June through August he assisted in surgery twice a week, made ward rounds with doctors to see patients, helped at an outpatient clinic three times a week, helped take x-rays, develop and read them, and aided in some laboratory procedures.

Once a week he went with doctors into the bush country to conduct clinics for the natives who could not come to the hospital.

"On Wednesday morning we would get into a land rover and leave for the clinic," he said. "Arriving about noon we would treat the patients and then stay overnight in an African mud brick hut or in a tent. The next day we would conduct a clinic until around noon at another location, before returning to the hospital."

TWO-FOLD

The work of a medical missionary is to alleviate human suffering and help in bringing people into the Christian faith.

"In Tanganyika, like other underdeveloped areas of the world tuberculosis and malaria run a close race for the title of number one killer of people," said Dr. Todd.

He was sent to East Africa by the Louisiana State Baptist Union, an organization of Baptist students on college campus. While there he was quartered in the homes of missionaries.

The 104-bed hospital, a two-story cinder block, steel reinforced structure with modern equipment, is considered as the country's best. In fact at the time of its construction it was the country's only hospital, he said. It has become a show place for visitors, said Dr. Todd.

It is supported by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

WATER BOILED

Dr. Todd said that all the water used by his group for drinking and cooking purposes was boiled and filtered.

"We would buy vegetables at the market, wash them real well and skin them before eating them," he said.

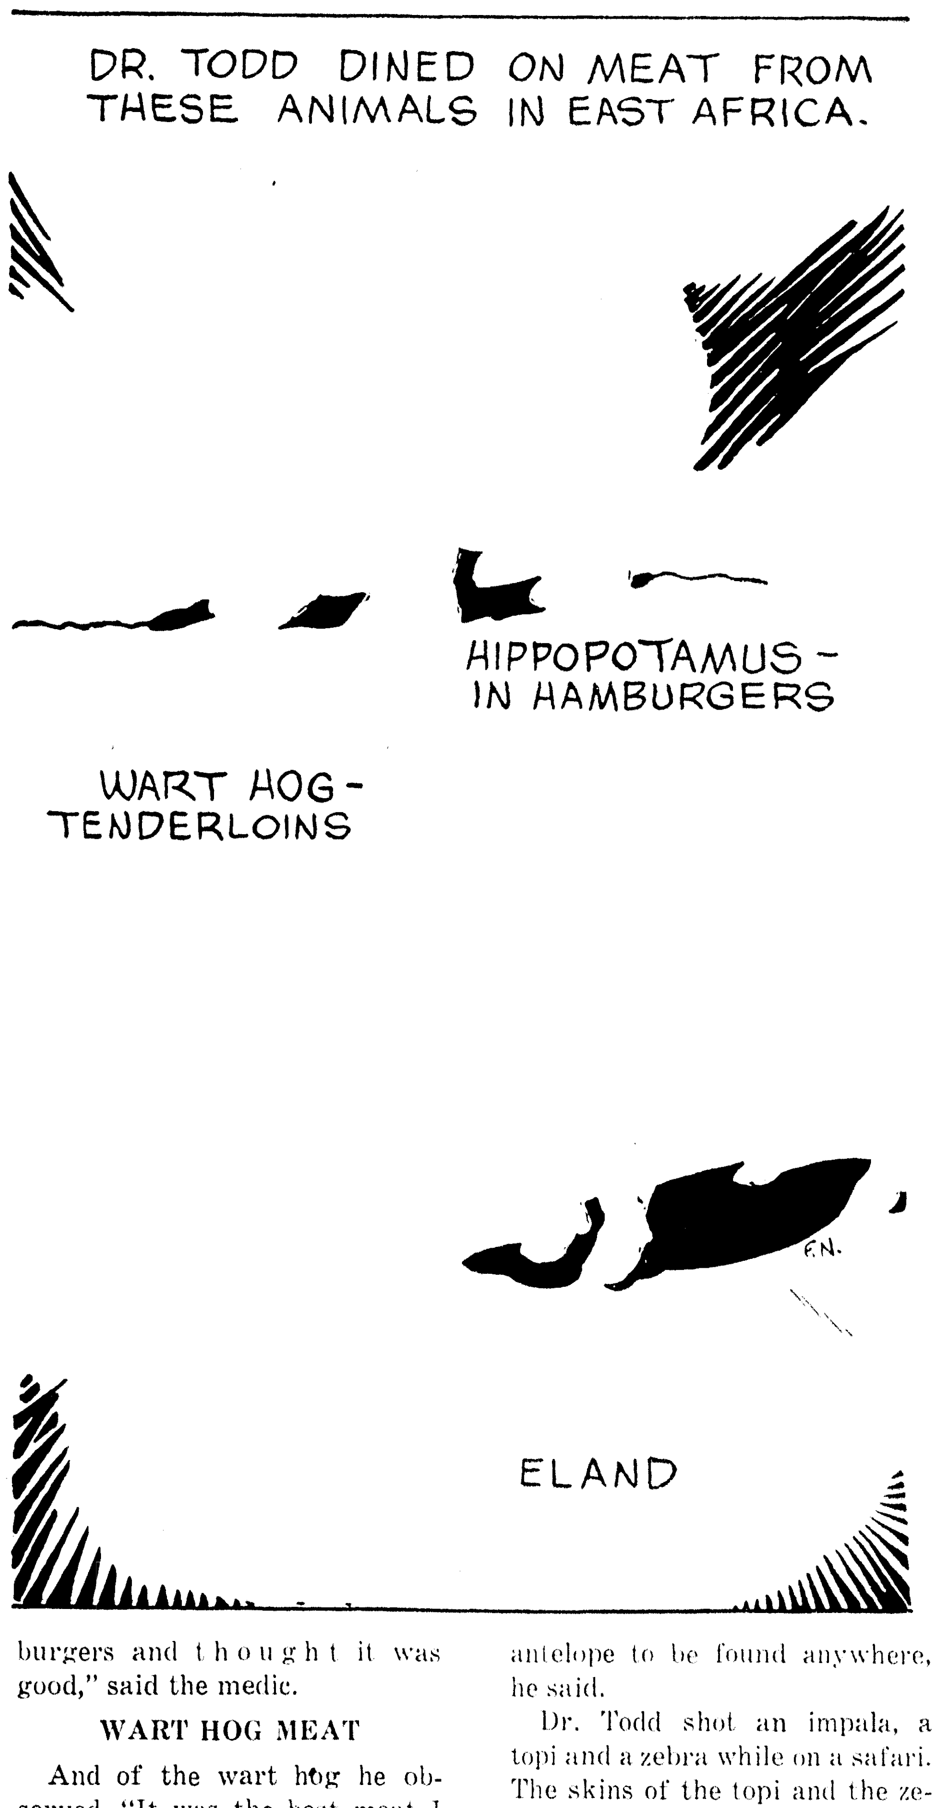
Although children in Tanganyika do not look forward to getting a shot of some sort of medicine when being treated by a doctor, the adults take a different view, he said.

"Grownups don't think they're getting good treatment unless they get a shot."

Some of the natives wear clothing patterned after that of the western world. Quite a few of the men wear shirts and short pants and the women wear dresses. However some wear a sheet wrapped around them. The sheet is called the konga.

The meat supply at the hospital came from animals shot on safaris, such as antelope, hippopotamus and wart hog.

"I ate hippopotamus in hamburgers and thought it was good," said the medic.



DR. TODD DINED ON MEAT FROM THESE ANIMALS IN EAST AFRICA.

WART HOG MEAT

And of the wart hog he observed, "It was the best meat I ever had, because I had been hunting all day and was about to starve. We returned late at night and cut out the tenderloins of the hog (like center cut pork chops) and cooked them. We had eggs as a side dish. I could have eaten 10 pounds of the meat."

Generally three types of antelopes were shot for meat. They were impala, topi and eland, the latter being the largest type of antelope to be found anywhere, he said.

Dr. Todd shot an impala, a topi and a zebra while on a safari. The skins of the topi and the zebra adorn his room at home as rugs.

While the zebra was of the same type as the others roaming the bush country, its skin was in unusually good condition.

Said the medic, "The best taxidermist in East Africa who tanned the skin told me it was in the upper two per cent of zebra skins in appearance. The skin was not clawed up as were the skins of many zebras shot there."

LION TRACKS

On one of the hunts he saw a leopard and after camping out overnight saw lion tracks about 15 feet from his tent door.

He traveled with a group to a game preserve near Nairobi, Kenya, to observe the wild animals. He was able to take photos of lions at close range from a car. The lions would attack antelopes and zebras for food and would attack people if provoked, he said.

Many natives live in mud brick huts which have stick reinforced grass thatched roofs. The houses will last generally from eight to 10 years, and if the rains come before the roof is added to the brick structure, the brick walls will collapse. Some structures have open doorways and some have closing doors.

The hospital which was always filled to capacity had three medical missionary doctors from the United States, one missionary nurse (with BS and RN) from the U.S., three African workers with more medical training than a nurse but less than a doctor, about six native nurses and nurses aides trained in Africa, and other workers who cleaned the hospital and did the cooking. There were about 50 African employees in the hospital.

After completing intership and perhaps a four-year period as a surgeon in residence he hopes to hit the trail again to underdeveloped areas in the role of a missionary carrying the help of medicine, and surgery for ailing bodies and God's message for spiritual ailments. It's a long, long trail.

Although children in Tanganyika do not look forward to getting a shot of some sort of medicine when being treated by a doctor, the adults take a different view, he said.

"Grownups don't think they're getting good treatment unless they get a shot."

Some of the natives wear clothing patterned after that of the western world. Quite a few of the men wear shirts and short pants and the women wear dresses. However some wear a sheet wrapped around them. The sheet is called the konga.

The meat supply at the hospital came from animals shot on safaris, such as antelope, hippopotamus and wart hog.

"I ate hippopotamus in hamburgers and thought it was good," said the medic.

WART HOG MEAT

And of the wart hog he observed, "It was the best meat I ever had, because I had been hunting all day and was about to starve. We returned late at night and cut out the tenderloins of the hog (like center cut pork chops) and cooked them. We had eggs as a side dish. I could have eaten 10 pounds of the meat."

Generally three types of antelopes were shot for meat. They were impala, topi and eland, the latter being the largest type of antelope to be found anywhere, he said.

Dr. Todd shot an impala, a topi and a zebra while on a safari. The skins of the topi and the zebra adorn his room at home as rugs.

While the zebra was of the same type as the others roaming the bush country, its skin was in unusually good condition.

Said the medic, "The best taxidermist in East Africa who tanned the skin told me it was in the upper two per cent of zebra skins in appearance. The skin was not clawed up as were the skins of many zebras shot there."

LION TRACKS

On one of the hunts he saw a leopard and after camping out overnight saw lion tracks about 15 feet from his tent door.

He traveled with a group to a game preserve near Nairobi, Kenya, to observe the wild animals. He was able to take photos of lions at close range from a car. The lions would attack antelopes and zebras for food and would attack people if provoked, he said.

Many natives live in mud brick huts which have stick reinforced grass thatched roofs. The houses will last generally from eight to 10 years, and if the rains come before the roof is added to the brick structure, the brick walls will collapse. Some structures have open doorways and some have closing doors.

The hospital which was always filled to capacity had three medical missionary doctors from the United States, one missionary nurse (with BS and RN) from the U.S., three African workers with more medical training than a nurse but less than a doctor, about six native nurses and nurses aides trained in Africa, and other workers who cleaned the hospital and did the cooking. There were about 50 African employees in the hospital.

After completing intership and perhaps a four-year period as a surgeon in residence he hopes to hit the trail again to underdeveloped areas in the role of a missionary carrying the help of medicine, and surgery for ailing bodies and God's message for spiritual ailments. It's a long, long trail.

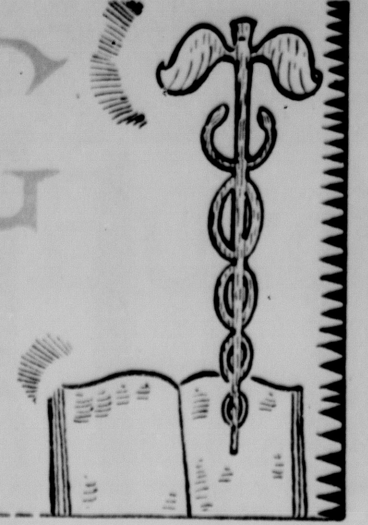
The LONG TRAIL



A summer spent on duty at a hospital in East Africa and assisting in bush clinics was another step on a long trail for Chester L. Todd of Monroe, leading to fulfillment of his ambition to become a medical missionary. Here is an account of his stay in Tanganyika.

The trail leading to assignment as a medical missionary is a long one filled with hard work, extensive study and sometimes adventure.

For Chester L. Todd, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester S. Todd, 1100 South Second St., Monroe, it has involved three years of pre-medical study, four years at medical school, a summer tour of duty in hospital and bush clinics in East Africa, and now hospital internship.

Next will be a residency assignment as a surgeon, before the medical missionary goal can be achieved.

Dr. Todd, who attended Ouachita Parish High School and Louisiana Tech, received his MD degree from Louisiana State University Medical School June 8th of this year. He is now on his second month of a one-year internship at Confederate Memorial Medical Center in Shreveport.

ANIMAL SKINS

On a visit home several days ago he displayed skins of animals he shot on safaris in East Africa, wood carvings acquired from native artists there, and photos of work in hospital and bush clinics.

He made the trip to Tanganyika, East Africa, then a colony, but now an independent country, in the summer of 1961, and served in the 104-bed modern hospital at Mbeya, a town of 2,000 population.

From June through August he assisted in surgery twice a week, made ward rounds with doctors to see patients, helped at an outpatient clinic three times a week, helped take x-rays, develop and read them, and aided in some laboratory procedures.

Once a week he went with doctors into the bush country to conduct clinics for the natives who could not come to the hospital.

"On Wednesday morning we would get into a land rover and leave for the clinic," he said. "Arriving about noon we would treat the patients and then stay overnight in an African mud brick hut or in a tent. The next day we would conduct a clinic until around noon at another location, before returning to the hospital."

TWO-FOLD

The work of a medical missionary is to alleviate human suffering and help in bringing people into the Christian faith.

"In Tanganyika, like other underdeveloped areas of the world tuberculosis and malaria run a close race for the title of number one killer of people," said Dr. Todd.

He was sent to East Africa by the Louisiana State Baptist Union, an organization of Baptist students on college campus. While there he was quartered in the homes of missionaries.

The 104-bed hospital, a two-story cinder block, steel reinforced structure with modern equipment, is considered as the country's best. In fact at the time of its construction it was the country's only hospital, he said. It has become a show place for visitors, said Dr. Todd.

It is supported by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

WATER BOILED

Dr. Todd said that all the water used by his group for drinking and cooking purposes was boiled and filtered.

"We would buy vegetables at the market, wash them real well and skin them before eating them," he said.

Although children in Tanganyika do not look forward to getting a shot of some sort of medicine when being treated by a doctor, the adults take a different view, he said.

"Grownups don't think they're getting good treatment unless they get a shot."

Some of the natives wear clothing patterned after that of the western world. Quite a few of the men wear shirts and short pants and the women wear dresses. However some wear a sheet wrapped around them. The sheet is called the konga.

Patriotism And Freedom

Patriotism is the essence of freedom. When we begin to lose our patriotism, when we begin to be afraid to let our patriotism show, when we reach the point where the enemies of freedom can coerce us into silence about our love of country, then we are in grave danger of losing our freedom.

Freedom is that intangible something which, when rightly used by man, makes him superior to the rest of God's creation.

We read that God made man in his own image and crowned him with glory and honor. One way in which man is created in the image of God is that man is given freedom to determine his own destiny, to choose his own way of life. This God-given freedom gives to the individual an inherent right of choice.

Ingrained in the very fiber of the people who have made up this nation since its founding is that love of freedom and dedication to its principles. It often appears that today's generation, never having known what tyranny or lack of freedom means, has less appreciation for it than did our forefathers. That fact is evident in the apathy of some people toward the forces which would destroy or take away our freedom. In fact, most of us hardly have given a thought to what our freedoms mean in everyday living.

It is under the American way of life, the American system of government, that man's freedom has been developed to the fullest degree yet known. That is why so many people now living in other countries would like so much to become citizens of the United States. That accounts for some of the jealousy shown by people who possess less freedom.

Freedom is the heart and core of all that is good in America today. If we should lose our freedom, then we would quickly sink to the level of less fortunate people. Our national anthem calls America the "land of the free and the home of the brave." Whence came that freedom of which we boast? And is there any danger that we might lose it?

The story of where we obtained our freedom is the story of history, of America herself. It is the Pilgrims landing on Plymouth Rock in search of religious freedom. It is the Quakers purchasing Pennsylvania because they were persecuted in England. It is the Huguenots of France seeking a place where they might worship God in their own way. It is the Catholics settling Maryland, the debtors founding Georgia. Coupled with all these were fearless pioneers seeking freedom to trade and amass material gain—in the Carolinas, Virginia and New York.

By the time they had braved the rigors of colonizing the New World, had fought off the hostile Indians, and had wrested from the soil a meager living for a few years, these people developed a self-reliance and a love of freedom which they prized very much. They lived simply, but they were limited only by their own abilities and by the rights of their neighbors.

So it was that King George III saw trade between the colonies and other countries growing. When he saw towns springing up and a few of the leaders becoming wealthy, he resolved to tax this trade and this wealth. Since the colonists felt with considerable justice that England had not been responsible for their good fortune, and since they had no representatives in the lawmaking body which imposed the tax, they argued that they should not be taxed. The war for independence resulted, with its ultimate victory for the colonists.

For the freedom of the seas our forefathers fought the War of 1812, and in support of freedom for Texas we went into battle against Mexico. In 1898 we fought Spain to gain freedom for Cuba and release for the Philippines. To salvage the freedom concept and "to make the world safe for democracy," our finest young men braved the Kaiser's terrible onslaught.

When Hitler, Mussolini, and Tojo threatened to overrun the world and reduce mankind to slavery, American manhood stepped into the breach to preserve freedom once more, and to gain for mankind what they hoped would be a lasting peace.

What, then, is the meaning of freedom? What freedoms do we have that are worth preserving?

The constitution guarantees to us the right of freedom of speech and assembly. We can gather peacefully in groups of any size we choose, say what we wish to say, and even voice criticism of our leaders and of national policy. No police or military authority may interfere or take away that right as long as we are peaceful and do not advocate or seek the unlawful overthrow of the government which guarantees that right.

Here in America we have the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness — the right to enter the occupation or profession of our choice, to compete actively in that choice, the right to develop the fullest individual potential, to achieve success based not on what the government allows but upon each individual's energy, initiative and ability, the right of the free press and of the spoken word, the right to attend the church we choose and to worship God in whatever manner we wish.

Everyone in every walk of life should proclaim his love of freedom and should fight as strongly against losing that right as he would fight against an intruder invading his home.

Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness are still as necessary to us as ever, but only by demanding these rights can we keep them.

See Officials Perform

Under the laws of Louisiana, every official meeting held by a state, parish or city body, such as the legislature, police jury, school board and city council, is open to the public. No citizen and no representative of a news agency or any other group can be barred from a meeting of this kind at which official action is taken.

Police juries, school boards and city councils have the dubious privilege of going into executive session and during that time the public may be evicted but no official action can be taken legally during an executive session. Before voting on, approving or rejecting any matter that is brought before it, the official body must go back into open session.

This means that the people—all the people—have a legal right to witness any official action that is taken by any official state body.

It is a well known fact that the more interest the citizens take in their government, whether national, state or local, the cleaner that government is likely to be. Most officials don't want to do anything that won't stand the light of day if their constituents are there seeing it done.

For these reasons, it is important that as many citizens as possible attend the meetings of the official bodies. Besides, the shows put on sometimes at these meetings can be termed ludicrous. Some of them have been described as "worse than a woman's sewing circle," whatever that means. Most of the meetings are entertaining enough and important enough to justify the presence of citizens who are interested in good government.

Curtis Choice Over Lodge

Well-Financed Stretch Drive In Massachusetts G. O. P. Senatorial Race Is Making Him Favorite

Representative Laurence Curtis' well - financed stretch drive in the G.O.P. Massachusetts senatorial race is making him the odd-on favorite to defeat George Lodge, son of former U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

The private polls of both candidates, which until this week showed Lodge leading, now reveal that the veteran Curtis has forged slightly ahead of his younger opponent.

These surveys agree that only an overwhelming "independent" vote for Lodge in the Republican primary can reverse the mushrooming Curtis trend. The 1.2 million registered "independent" voters in the state can, if they choose, vote in either the republican or democratic primary.

The surprise surge of Representative Curtis, who lost the G.O.P. convention nomination to Lodge in a close fight, is being attributed here to his quite face-to-face meetings with local G.O.P. leaders throughout the state.

In these little publicized talks, the veteran legislator has won over hundreds of these grass-room leaders whose job is to get out the vote both on September 18 and in the November election. To win these converts, Curtis used the selling point that his long public service and experience will make him the strongest Republican candidate regardless of whether the Democrats nominate Attorney General Edward McCormack or Edward M. Kennedy, youngest brother of the President.

Also Curtis has scored a big hit with a masterfully produced $25,000 TV show, portraying highlights of his military and political career. It is called "separating "Men from the Boys."

This political production has turned out to be such a TV hit that his supporters, who have spent $30,000 for TV time, are scheduling three more re-runs.

SHOW US MORE — This campaign strategy was decided on after several hundred viewers, following the first showing, wrote Curtis' headquarters urging more showings so that they could invite in their neighbors for a re-run.

One Republican woman voter who watched the show twice wrote.

"Your TV show is even better than the Kennedy - McCormack TV debates."

In the Democratic senatorial race neither young Kennedy, who is spending an estimated $1 million dollars in his campaign, and McCormack, who had budgeted $70,000 for his campaign, has come up with anything that can match the Curtis show for political appeal, drama or suspense.

To counter this Curtis ten-strike Lodge is going all out to urge the "independent" voters to come into the GOP primary and vote for him. His polls show that 60 per cent of the "independent" voters that plan to cast ballots in the Republican primary will support him. However, the same surveys indicate that at least 60 per cent of all "independent" voters that plan to vote on Sept. 18 will enter the Democratic primary, while an estimated 38 per cent plan to vote in the Republican primary.

There are approximately 630,000 registered Republican voters. With these voters, Curtis has an edge over Lodge of 47 per cent to 45 per cent, with 7 per cent of the voters still undecided.

Both young Kennedy and McCormack are privately predicting that Curtis will be their November opponent.

POLITICAL FLASHES — A campaign aide for Senator Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., has asked the Wisconsin medical profession to raise $50,000 to help the Senator's bid for re-election. The request was made to Dr. Robin N. Allin, who is chairman of the Wisconsin Professional Political Action Committee, which is supporting Wiley. Senator Wiley's Democratic opponent in the November election will be Governor Gaylord Nelson. The attractive Democratic governor has challenged Wiley to a series of TV debates but the veteran GOP Senator has refused, claiming that he is to busy in Washington to return to the state . . .

A Lou Harris poll in California shows that Governor Pat Brown leads former Vice President Richard Nixon, 47 per cent to 43 per cent, with 10 per cent of the voters still undecided. The same poll shows that if there was a re-run for the presidency today that President Kennedy would defeat Nixon 55 per cent to 45 per cent in California. Nixon, who is now seeking the governorship, won the state in 1960. This poll is the reason why Brown supporters want President Kennedy to make at least two more trips into the state before November . . . GOP Senator Thomas Kuchel is holding a 9 per cent lead over Richard Richards, his democratic opponent . . . House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., is greatly in demand as a campaign speaker. Already, he has campaigned in Maryland and West Virginia for Democratic house members, and has more than 100 additional requests to speak in other areas of the country . . . Vice President Lyndon Johnson is planning to hit the campaign trail later this month. He plans to concentrate in the Midwest, although a number of Democratic congressmen from New York has asked him to come to their districts . . . Leaders of both political parties report that the crises in Cuba and Berlin are fast becoming the chief campaign issues despite efforts by President Kennedy and former President Eisenhower to keep this discussion out of the election.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

Secretary of State Dean Rusk enumerated what some segments of the press have described as a policy of victory over the Communist in the cold war. The speech was made recently in Minneapolis to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Just why it took the Kennedy administration more than a year and a half to make the statement hasn't been explained. But I believe it is important for the American people to examine the secretary's words and compare them with some of our actions in the field of foreign policy.

Here is what Secretary Rusk told the VFW.

"We have a simple but transcendant goal. It is, in President Kennedy's words, 'a peaceful world community of free and independent states, free to choose their own future and their own system so long as it does not threaten the freedom of others.'

"This goal of ours — and of most of the nations of the world — and the Communist goal are incompatible. This global struggle will continue until freedom prevails. It goes without saying that our purpose is to win.

"One hears now and then that we have a no-win purpose or policies. This is simply not so. Of course we intend to win. And we are going to win. Our objective is a victory for all mankind."

These are resolute - sounding words. But one of the difficulties with the New Frontier has been words — too many of them — from high officials which don't match the government's performance.

If we are, as Secretary Rusk insists, following a policy of victory over the Communists, it certainly isn't evident today in Cuba.

Our government has been doing nothing about this dangerous situation 90 miles off our southern shores but talk importantly about economic sanctions. It has insisted over and over again that any forthright action, under the Monroe Doctrine, to end the Communist threat to the Western Hemisphere would lower American prestige with other Latin-American countries and with the African - Asian bloc in the United Nations. We have been assured that the Communist regime in Cuba doesn't pose an overriding threat to the security and freedom of the Western Hemisphere.

And now we are beginning to see the fruits of that do-nothing policy with regard to Cuba. The Soviet bloc, with complete impunity, has been busily turning the island off the Florida coast into an armed bastion. Reliable reports tell of tons of military equipment and thousands of military "technicians" pouring into Cuba from the Iron-Curtain countries.

This certainly is something less than a "win" policy, and no amount of speeches by President Kennedy and Secretary Rusk will make it that.

In Berlin, our policy under the New Frontier resulted in the erection of the Wall of Shame and the creation of a crisis which is likely to result in the loss of additional western rights in that beleaguered city. If this is what Secretary Rusk means when he speaks of a "win" policy, then this country might be better off with some other approach.

In Laos, we have forced the adoption of a coalition government of the type the Communists have always been able to turn to their own purposes of domination.

In the Congo, we have supported armed aggression by the United Nations against pro-western, anti-Communist Katanga.

In West New Guinea, we worked for a settlement which was nothing but naked appeasement of the Indonesia government's threat of aggression.

I suggest that there is a great difference between a speech claiming our purpose as one of victory over the Communists and the adoption of policies that will give the west some initiative in the cold war. So far, we have only the words and none of the music.

How do you stand, sir?

BASCOM TIMMONS

Kennedy Helpful?

Democrats Quietly Wonder If He Will Be Election Handicap

Democrats are quietly wondering whether John F. Kennedy will be a help or a handicap in the 1962 elections. The predominant conclusion is that he will be a little of each.

Recalling that the President ran behind Democratic candidates for the House on total state vote in 39 states, and either even with or ahead of them in only nine states, the number of incumbents and candidates seeking re-election who rely on the President to help them is not as large as might be expected, taking into account the supposed enthusiasm for the New Frontier, and the personal popularity of the President.

But Democrats have known ever since the President came into office that they lost 20 seats when he headed the ticket while the Republicans gained approximately 50 House seats when President Eisenhower ran the first time. The situations as the Democrats remind their listeners, were quite different. Eisenhower won the presidency by 6,000,000 votes, Kennedy by a little more than 100,000.

This does not mean that any Democratic candidate is at all concerned about President Kennedy coming into his district. He considers it an honor, and will squeeze all the publicity he can from it.

Up until recently, reports from the White House pictured the President as viewing the coming election with complete equanimity. Now with the Cuban and Berlin situations looking more serious day by day, and the record of congressional action on requested White House legislation becoming more uncertain as adjournment approaches, the Kennedy concern is chiefly political, rather than international. Despite the gloomy outlook, he expects to gain seats, even if only a handful, and intends to do all he can to bring that about.

But he is bound to be campaigning rather blindly, because only an approximate estimate can be made of districts which the Democrats might take from Republicans or others in which the Democrats incumbents are in real trouble. And the President speaks on a statewide basis not to help any individual House member unless the individual be very powerful, but nevertheless in trouble.

The doubtful districts include 47 carried by Republican Congressman by less than 5 per cent in 1960. These are scattered all over the political map. They include four in Kansas, 3 each in Indiana and Iowa, five in New York, four each in Ohio and Pennsylvania. The other half of the less than 5 per centers are scattered over 19 states, too much territory for the President or his close aides to cover during the present campaign, even if political scouting should indicate that this time the Democratic candidate could reverse the outcome.

The Democrats had 38 such marginal districts and those will be real fighting grounds. The party campaign directors realize that if they should lose 20 of those and gain only ten of the Republican marginal districts, they would start the congressional seat count with a loss of 10, and that under prevailing circumstances those ten might be indicative of more losses elsewhere.

President Kennedy, if he concentrates anywhere, will hit California again late in the campaign, with the intent of winning at least five of the eight new seats added to the Golden State representation as a result of population gains disclosed by the last census. Los Angeles county, which might be considered Kennedy territory, gained three seats, giving it 15. But it still has seven Republicans, which casts some doubt on the optimistic reckoning.

Kennedy would also like to gain senators and governors this fall to build the Democratic party's strength.

There an ironic situation presents itself, so far as both parties are concerned. In Connecticut and Maryland, Senators Preston Bush and John M. Butler declined to run, reportedly because they did not view their chances for re-election too optimistically. Now the Democrats in each are in an intraparty fight which does not promise well for their candidates, though former Governor Abraham Ribicoff, who quit the Kennedy Cabinet to run for Senator in Connecticut is still given a personal edge. Both of the retiring Republicans might have won.

Battle Of Dollar

'Weekly Bond Buyer' States Money Fight In U. S. Is Won

There will be no "sick, sick, sick" jokes about the U. S. dollar in the corridors and meeting halls of Washington's Sheraton Park Hotel today as the free world's financial leaders gather to open the 1962 meetings of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund.

For the U. S. dollar is hardly as sick as is claimed by malicious critics of our country, newspaper commentators and ruthless speculators — and the central bankers of the West know it. In fact, even as the speculators have been trying to stage a last-minute bear raid on our currency, "the battle of the dollar," in the words of the respected financial trade paper, "The Weekly Bond Buyer" is, "to all practical account, won."

We are not going to devalue our dollar under pressure now by raising the price we pay for gold from its long - held $35 an ounce level and thereby permit the gold speculators to make a killing.

We are not going to stoop to notice the dollar - baiting talk in countries which are free and prosperous today only because we have given and loaned them our dollars so generously.

We are not going to be pushed by incredibly short - sighted, selfish foreigners into acts of desperation that would undermine the entire free world and hand the Soviet Union an enormous victory. Again to quote The Bond Buyer, it is ludicrous "That so great a currency as the dollar is or can be imperiled by other relatively pip - squeak currencies, some of which were flat on their back a dozen years ago and would still be there if the dollar had not rescued them."

Yes, we are still running a deficit in our balance of payments spending more abroad then we're taking in from other countries, thereby allowing our foreign creditors to continue to build up claims against our dollar which they can (and do) withdraw in part in the form of gold. We are losing gold, we will lose more, and our gold reserve, already at a 23 - year low of $16 billion, will be still lower before yearend.

But the dollar is being protected by a series of unprecedented measures and the protection will go on until no longer necessary. The cooperation among the free world's financiers to defend the dollar and conserve the U. S. gold reserved in recent months has been nothing short of magnificent. The way the International Monetary Fund came to the rescue of the pound sterling a year ago and is now helping to develop dollar stabilizing techniques also is nothing short of magnificent.

The U. S. dollar is the pivot of the free world's currencies and economies - and one reason is that no other currency could do the job. No other nation except us puts absolutely no controls over currency movements; you can take any amount of dollars you have wherever you wish. No other nation except us says to any foreign borrower that he may enter our markets and borrow as much as our investors are willing to lend at a cost set by a free market. No other nation except us runs a balance of payments deficit just because we spend so much for the free world's military defense and economic welfare that this spending more than wipes out our huge surplus of exports over imports!

The sick, sick, sick jokes began when the financial leaders met in New Delhi for their 1958 meeting. The big story that year was that a Zurich banker had offered to bet Federal Reserve Board chairman Martin a bottle of champagne that the dollar would be devalued. Martin had refused to take the bet - and that meant devaluation was imminent.

They were revived when the financiers met in Washington in 1959. The big jokes that year were that we were the "world's poorest developed nation" and had the world's "fifth strongest currency."

They reached sickening crescendo in Vienna last year when our financial delegates had to spend endless hours explaining to the European Financiers that because a small - town U. S. banker on a European vacation said the dollar was going to be devalued didn't mean he knew anything about the subject and the same went for some of our newspaper reporters.

This year, the mood is different. It's serious, attentive, cooperative, for the dollar, even if the amateur rumor - mongers haven't caught up with the news yet.

Patriotism And Freedom

Patriotism is the essence of freedom. When we begin to lose our patriotism, when we begin to be afraid to let our patriotism show, when we reach the point where the enemies of freedom can coerce us into silence about our love of country, then we are in grave danger of losing our freedom.

Freedom is that intangible something which, when rightly used by man, makes him superior to the rest of God's creation.

We read that God made man in his own image and crowned him with glory and honor. One way in which man is created in the image of God is that man is given freedom to determine his own destiny, to choose his own way of life. This God-given freedom gives to the individual an inherent right of choice.

Ingrained in the very fiber of the people who have made up this nation since its founding is that love of freedom and dedication to its principles. It often appears that today's generation, never having known what tyranny or lack of freedom means, has less appreciation for it than did our forefathers. That fact is evident in the apathy of some people toward the forces which would destroy or take away our freedom. In fact, most of us hardly have given a thought to what our freedoms mean in everyday living.

It is under the American way of life, the American system of government, that man's freedom has been developed to the fullest degree yet known. That is why so many people now living in other countries would like so much to become citizens of the United States. That accounts for some of the jealousy shown by people who possess less freedom.

Freedom is the heart and core of all that is good in America today. If we should lose our freedom, then we would quickly sink to the level of less fortunate people. Our national anthem calls America the "land of the free and the home of the brave." Whence came that freedom of which we boast? And is there any danger that we might lose it?

The story of where we obtained our freedom is the story of history, of America herself. It is the Pilgrims landing on Plymouth Rock in search of religious freedom. It is the Quakers purchasing Pennsylvania because they were persecuted in England. It is the Huguenots of France seeking a place where they might worship God in their own way. It is the Catholics settling Maryland, the debtors founding Georgia. Coupled with all these were fearless pioneers seeking freedom to trade and amass material gain—in the Carolinas, Virginia and New York.

By the time they had braved the rigors of colonizing the New World, had fought off the hostile Indians, and had wrested from the soil a meager living for a few years, these people developed a self-reliance and a love of freedom which they prized very much. They lived simply, but they were limited only by their own abilities and by the rights of their neighbors.

So it was that King George III saw trade between the colonies and other countries growing. When he saw towns springing up and a few of the leaders becoming wealthy, he resolved to tax this trade and this wealth. Since the colonists felt with considerable justice that England had not been responsible for their good fortune, and since they had no representatives in the law-making body which imposed the tax, they argued that they should not be taxed. The war for independence resulted, with its ultimate victory for the colonists.

For the freedom of the seas our forefathers fought the War of 1812, and in support of freedom for Texas we went into battle against Mexico. In 1898 we fought Spain to gain freedom for Cuba and release for the Philippines. To salvage the freedom concept and "to make the world safe for democracy," our finest young men braved the Kaiser's terrible onslaught.

When Hitler, Mussolini, and Tojo threatened to overrun the world and reduce mankind to slavery, American manhood stepped into the breach to preserve freedom once more, and to gain for mankind what they hoped would be a lasting peace.

What, then, is the meaning of freedom? What freedoms do we have that are worth preserving?

The constitution guarantees to us the right of freedom of speech and assembly. We can gather peacefully in groups of any size we choose, say what we wish to say, and even voice criticism of our leaders and of national policy. No police or military authority may interfere or take away that right as long as we are peaceful and do not advocate or seek the unlawful overthrow of the government which guarantees that right.

Here in America we have the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness — the right to enter the occupation or profession of our choice, to compete actively in that choice, the right to develop the fullest individual potential, to achieve success based not on what the government allows but upon each individual's energy, initiative and ability, the right of the free press and of the spoken word, the right to attend the church we choose and to worship God in whatever manner we wish.

Everyone in every walk of life should proclaim his love of freedom and should fight as strongly against losing that right as he would fight against an intruder invading his home.

Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness are still as necessary to us as ever, but only by demanding these rights can we keep them.

See Officials Perform

Under the laws of Louisiana, every official meeting held by a state, parish or city body, such as the legislature, police jury, school board and city council, is open to the public. No citizen and no representative of a news agency or any other group can be barred from a meeting of this kind at which official action is taken.

Police juries, school boards and city councils have the dubious privilege of going into executive session and during that time the public may be evicted but no official action can be taken legally during an executive session. Before voting on, approving or rejecting any matter that is brought before it, the official body must go back into open session.

This means that the people—all the people—have a legal right to witness any official action that is taken by any official state body.

It is a well known fact that the more interest the citizens take in their government, whether national, state or local, the cleaner that government is likely to be. Most officials don't want to do anything that won't stand the light of day if their constituents are there seeing it done.

For these reasons, it is important that as many citizens as possible attend the meetings of the official bodies. Besides, the shows put on sometimes at these meetings can be termed ludicrous. Some of them have been described as "worse than a woman's sewing circle," whatever that means. Most of the meetings are entertaining enough and important enough to justify the presence of citizens who are interested in good government.

Curtis Choice Over Lodge

Well-Financed Stretch Drive In Massachusetts G. O. P. Senatorial Race Is Making Him Favorite

Representative Laurence Curtis' well - financed stretch drive in the G.O.P. Massachusetts senatorial race is making him the odds-on-favorite to defeat George Lodge, son of former U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

The private polls of both candidates, which until this week showed Lodge leading, now reveal that the veteran Curtis has forged slightly ahead of his younger opponent.

These surveys agree that only an overwhelming "independent" vote for Lodge in the Republican primary can reverse the mushrooming Curtis trend. The 1.2 million registered "independent" voters in the state can, if they choose, vote in either the republican or democratic primary.

The surprise surge of Representative Curtis, who lost the G.O.P. convention nomination to Lodge in a close fight, is being attributed here to his quite face-to-face meetings with local G.O.P. leaders throughout the state.

In these little publicized talks, the veteran legislator has won over hundreds of these grass-room leaders whose job is to get out the vote both on September 18 and in the November election. To win these converts, Curtis used the selling point that his long public service and experience will make him the strongest Republican candidate regardless of whether the Democrats nominate Attorney General Edward McCormack or Edward M. Kennedy, youngest brother of the President.

Also Curtis has scored a big hit with a masterfully produced $25,000 TV show, portraying highlights of his military and political career. It is called (separating) "Men from the Boys."

This political production has turned out to be such a TV hit that his supporters, who have spent $50,000 for TV time, are scheduling three more re-runs.

SHOW US MORE — This campaign strategy was decided on after several hundred viewers, following the first showing, wrote Curtis' headquarters urging more showings so that they could invite in their neighbors for a re-run.

One Republican woman voter who watched the show twice wrote:

"Your TV show is even better than the Kennedy - McCormack TV debates."

In the Democratic senatorial race neither young Kennedy, who is spending an estimated $1 million dollars in his campaign, and McCormack, who had budgeted $70,000 for his campaign, has come up with anything that can match the Curtis show for political appeal, drama or suspense.

To counter this Curtis ten-strike, Lodge is going all out to urge the "independent" voters to come into the GOP primary and vote for him. His polls show that 60 per cent of the "independent" voters that plan to cast ballots in the Republican primary will support him. However, the same surveys indicate that at least 60 per cent of all "independent" voters that plan to vote on Sept. 18 will enter the Democratic primary, while an estimated 38 per cent plan to vote in the Republican primary.

There are approximately 680,000 registered Republican voters. With these voters, Curtis has an edge over Lodge of 47 per cent to 45 per cent, with 7 per cent of the voters still undecided.

Both young Kennedy and McCormack are privately predicting that Curtis will be their November opponent.

POLITICAL FLASHES — A campaign aide for Senator Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., has asked the Wisconsin medical profession to raise $50,000 to help the Senator's bid for re-election. The request was made to Dr. Robin N. Allin, who is chairman of the Wisconsin Professional Political Action Committee, which is supporting Wiley. Senator Wiley's Democratic opponent in the November election will be Governor Gaylord Nelson. The attractive Democratic governor has challenged Wiley to a series of TV debates but the veteran GOP Senator has refused, claiming that he is to busy in Washington to return to the state . . .

A Lou Harris poll in California shows that Governor Pat Brown leads former Vice President Richard Nixon, 47 per cent to 43 per cent, with 10 per cent of the voters still undecided. The same poll shows that if there was a re-run for the presidency today that President Kennedy would defeat Nixon 55 per cent to 45 per cent in California. Nixon, who is now seeking the governorship, won the state in 1960. This poll is the reason why Brown supporters want President Kennedy to make at least two more trips into the state before November . . . GOP Senator Thomas Kuchel is holding a 9 per cent lead over Richard Richards, his democratic opponent . . . House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., is greatly in demand as a campaign speaker. Already, he has campaigned in Maryland and West Virginia for Democratic house members, and has more than 100 additional requests to speak in other areas of the country . . . Vice President Lyndon Johnson is planning to hit the campaign trail later this month. He plans to concentrate in the Midwest, although a number of Democratic congressmen from New York has asked him to come to their districts . . . Leaders of both political parties report that the crises in Cuba and Berlin are fast becoming the chief campaign issues despite efforts by President Kennedy and former President Eisenhower to keep this discussion out of the election.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

Secretary of State Dean Rusk enunciated what some segments of the press have described as a policy of victory over the Communist in the cold war. The speech was made recently in Minneapolis to the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Just why it took the Kennedy administration more than a year and a half to make the statement hasn't been explained. But I believe it is important for the American people to examine the secretary's words and compare them with some of our actions in the field of foreign policy.

Here is what Secretary Rusk told the VFW:

"We have a simple but transcendant goal. It is, in President Kennedy's words, 'a peaceful world community of free and independent states, free to choose their own future and their own system so long as it does not threaten the freedom of others.'

"This goal of ours — and of most of the nations of the world—and the Communist goal are incompatible. This global struggle will continue until freedom prevails. It goes without saying that our purpose is to win.

"One hears now and then that we have a no-win purpose or policies. This is simply not so. Of course we intend to win. And we are going to win. Our objective is a victory for all mankind."

These are resolute - sounding words. But one of the difficulties with the New Frontier has been words — too many of them — from high officials which don't match the government's performance.

If we are, as Secretary Rusk insists, following a policy of victory over the Communists, it certainly isn't evident today in Cuba.

Our government has been doing nothing about this dangerous situation 90 miles off our southern shores but talk importantly about economic sanctions. It has insisted over and over again that any forthright action, under the Monroe Doctrine, to end the Communist threat to the Western Hemisphere would lower American prestige with other Latin-American countries and with the African - Asian bloc in the United Nations. We have been assured that the Communist regime in Cuba doesn't pose an overriding threat to the security and freedom of the Western Hemisphere.

And now we are beginning to see the fruits of that do-nothing policy with regard to Cuba. The Soviet bloc, with complete impunity, has been busily turning the island off the Florida coast into an armed bastion. Reliable reports tell of tons of military equipment and thousands of military "technicians" pouring into Cuba from the Iron-Curtain countries.

This certainly is something less than a "win" policy, and no amount of speeches by President Kennedy and Secretary Rusk will make it that.

In Berlin, our policy under the New Frontier resulted in the erection of the Wall of Shame and the creation of a crisis which is likely to result in the loss of additional western rights in that beleaguered city. If this is what Secretary Rusk means when he speaks of a "win" policy, then this country might be better off with some other approach.

In Laos, we have forced the adoption of a coalition government of the type the Communists have always been able to turn to their own purposes of domination.

In the Congo, we have supported armed aggression by the United Nations against pro-western, anti-Communist Katanga.

In West New Guinea, we worked for a settlement which was nothing but naked appeasement of the Indonesia government's threat of aggression.

I suggest that there is a great difference between a speech claiming our purpose as one of victory over the Communists and the adoption of policies that will give the west some initiative in the cold war. So far, we have only the words and none of the music.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Kennedy Helpful?

Democrats Quietly Wonder If He Will Be Election Handicap

Democrats are quietly wondering whether John F. Kennedy will be a help or a handicap in the 1962 elections. The predominant conclusion is that he will be a little of each.

Recalling that the President ran behind Democratic candidates for the House on total state vote in 39 states, and either even with or ahead of them in only nine states, the number of incumbents and candidates seeking re-election who rely on the President to help them is not as large as might be expected, taking into account the supposed enthusiasm for the New Frontier, and the personal popularity of the President.

But Democrats have known ever since the President came into office that they lost 20 seats when he headed the ticket while the Republicans gained approximately 50 House seats when President Eisenhower ran the first time. The situations as the Democrats remind their listeners, were quite different. Eisenhower won the presidency by 6,000,000 votes, Kennedy by a little more than 100,000.

This does not mean that any Democratic candidate is at all concerned about President Kennedy coming into his district. He considers it an honor, and will squeeze all the publicity he can from it.

Up until recently, reports from the White House pictured the President as viewing the coming election with complete equanimity. Now with the Cuban and Berlin situations looking more serious day by day, and the record of congressional action on requested White House legislation becoming more uncertain as adjournment approaches, the Kennedy concern is chiefly political, rather than international. Despite the gloomy outlook, he expects to gain seats, even if only a handful, and intends to do all he can to bring that about.

But he is bound to be campaigning rather blindly, because only an approximate estimate can be made of districts which the Democrats might take from Republicans or others in which the Democrats incumbents are in real trouble. And the President speaks on a statewide basis not to help any individual House member unless the individual be very powerful, but nevertheless in trouble.

The doubtful districts include 47 carried by Republican Congressman by less than 5 per cent in 1960. These are scattered all over the political map. They include four in Kansas, 3 each in Indiana and Iowa, five in New York, four each in Ohio and Pennsylvania. The other half of the less than 5 per centers are scattered over 19 states, too much territory for the President or his close aides to cover during the present campaign, even if political scouting should indicate that this time the Democratic candidate could reverse the outcome.

The Democrats had 38 such marginal districts and those will be real fighting grounds. The party campaign directors realize that if they should lose 20 of those and gain only ten of the Republican marginal districts, they would start the cmngressional seat count with a loss of 10, and that under prevailing circumstances those ten might be indicative of more losses elsewhere.

President Kennedy, if he concentrates anywhere, will hit California again late in the campaign, with the intent of winning at least five of the eight new seats added to the Golden State representation as a result of population gains disclosed by the last census. Los Angeles county, which might be considered Kennedy territory, gained three seats, giving it 15. But it still has seven Republicans, which casts some doubt on the optimistic reckoning.

Kennedy would also like to gain senators and governors this fall to build the Democratic party's strength.

There an ironic situation presents itself, so far as both parties are concerned. In Connecticut and Maryland, Senators Preston Bush and John M. Butler declined to run, reportedly because they did not view their chances for re-election too optimistically. Now the Democrats in each are in an intraparty fight which does not promise well for their candidates, though former Governor Abraham Ribicoff, who quit the Kennedy Cabinet to run for Senator in Connecticut is still given a personal edge. Both of the retiring Republicans might have won.

Battle Of Dollar

'Weekly Bond Buyer' States Money Fight In U. S. Is Won

There will be no "sick, sick, sick" jokes about the U. S. dollar in the corridors and meeting halls of Washington's Sheraton Park Hotel today as the free world's financial leaders gather to open the 1962 meetings of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund.

For the U. S. dollar is hardly as sick as is claimed by malicious critics of our country, newspaper commentators and ruthless speculators - and the central bankers of the West know it. In fact, even as the speculators have been trying to stage a last-minute bear raid on our currency, "the battle of the dollar," in the words of the respected financial trade paper, "The Weekly Bond Buyer" is, "to all practical account, won."

We are not going to devalue our dollar under pressure now by raising the price we pay for gold from its long - held $35 an ounce level and thereby permit the gold speculators to make a killing.

We are not going to stoop to notice the dollar - baiting talk in countries which are free and prosperous today only because we have given and loaned them our dollars so generously.

We are not going to be pushed by incredibly short - sighted, selfish foreigners into acts of desperation that would undermine the entire free world and hand the Soviet Union an enormous victory. Again to quote The Bond Buyer, it is ludicrous "That so great a currency as the dollar is or can be imperiled by other relatively pip - squeak currencies, some of which were flat on their back a dozen years ago and would still be there if the dollar had not rescued them."

Yes, we are still running a deficit in our balance of payments spending more abroad then we're taking in from other countries, thereby allowing our foreign creditors to continue to build up claims against our dollar which they can (and do) withdraw in part in the form of gold. We are losing gold, we will lose more, and our gold reserve, already at a 23 - year low of $16 billion, will be still lower before yearend.

But the dollar is being protected by a series of unprecedented measures and the protection will go on until no longer necessary. The cooperation among the free world's financiers to defend the dollar and conserve the U. S. gold reserved in recent months has been nothing short of magnificent.The way the International Monetary Fund came to the rescue of the pound sterling a year ago and is now helping to develop dollar stabilizing techniques also is nothing short of magnificent.

The U. S. dollar is the pivot of the free world's currencies and economies - and one reason is that no other currency could do the job. No other nation except us puts absolutely no controls over currency movements; you can take any amount of dollars you have wherever you wish. No other nation except us says to any foreign borrower that he may enter our markets and borrow as much as our investors are willing to lend at a cost set by a free market. No other nation except us runs a balance of payments deficit just because we spend so much for the free world's military defense and economic welfare that this spending more than wipes out our huge surplus of exports over imports!

The sick, sick, sick jokes began when the financial leaders met in New Delhi for their 1958 meeting. The big story that year was that a Zurich banker had offered to bet Federal Reserve Board chairman Martin a bottle of champagne that the dollar would be devalued, Martin had refused to take the bet - and that meant devaluation was imminent.

They were revived when the financiers met in Washington in 1959. The big jokes that year were that we were the "world's poorest developed nation" and had the world's "fifth strongest currency."

They reached sickening crescendo in Vienna last year when our financial delegates had to spend endless hours explaining to the European Financiers that because a small - town U. S. banker on a European vacation said the dollar was going to be devalued didn't mean he knew anything about the subject and the same went for some of our newspaper reporters.

This year, the mood is different. It's serious, attentive, cooperative, for the dollar, even if the amateur rumor - mongers haven't caught up with the news yet.

World Spotlight; A Look Behind the Headlines

AIRVIEW LOOKS down on Iranian village of Danesfahan, almost completely destroyed by worst earthquake disaster to hit the country in 70 years. Savage earthquake left 10,000 dead. (AP Wirephoto)

Iran's Chief Problem Is Lack Of 'Housing'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The savage earthquake that rumbled through Iran two weeks ago and left 10,000 dead in the ruins of mud huts points up the country's chief problem—the way millions must live.

Outside bustling Tehran as many as 15 million Iranians dwell in grinding poverty in frail and primitive structures, despite Iran's oil wells and $1.3-billion American aid that brought roads, sanitation, electric lights and schools to some of the villages.

Critics charge that the government is failing to come to grips with the problem.

Faced with a budget deficit, heavy day-to-day government expenses, and the upkeep of an oversized army, Premier Assadullah Alam reportedly has shaved $625 million from Iran's next five-year economic development plan.

Some well-informed economic sources maintain the cutback is not drastic since the original plan, they say, was too big and unwieldly for the country to handle.

The destruction of the earthquake is not expected to be a major economic burden. Emergency aid from abroad will cover much of the cost of succor and reconstruction.

The chief strain on the economy is Iran's 205,000-man armed force. After a $15-million cutback in U.S. military aid, the shah last month agreed to whittle 30,000 men from the forces that are his chief support. Washington would like to see more whittling, down to 150,000 well-trained men for internal security.

Even though its manpower is being reduced, the military managed to get its budget increased this year by $26 million.

By its relief work in the earthquake disaster, however, the army may have gained some popularity among Iranians who bear a scarcely concealed aversion for its high-living officer corps.

To help slim the deficit, Mohammed Reza Shah Pahlevi ordered the army to sell a parade ground and part-time racetrack it owns, closed five overseas legations and withdrew the $260,000 yearly salary paid to his son, Crown Prince Reza, 22 months.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson made it clear here last month that while the United States will continue to strengthen Iran's defenses against the Soviet Union, Washington's chief interest is social, political and economic reform.

IMPRESSED

Johnson was reported impressed with the shah's determination to promote schools, housing, health, education and general progress.

Even supporters of the shah, however, are beginning to wonder when that determination will flower into an effective program, after years of plans and promises.

As premier, Alam replaced Dr. Ali Amini, a dynamic reformist, who had more independent authority than any Iranian premier since Mohammed Mossadegh ruled over the shah's head. Amini quit in July, in frustration over the budget.

Under Alam, a close friend of the shah, a business slump is easing off, work has been resumed on government construction, and provincial governors have been given new freedom of action.

Sources close to Amini estimate that in the past eight years, fully 20 per cent of Iran's total income went down the drain in corruption and misappropriations.

The average Iranian considers Iran's wealthy land-owning families enemies of reform. During the earthquake disaster many Iranians noted bitterly that the poor people of Tehran gave freely but almost no member of the rich class, aside from the royal family, made the slightest effort to help survivors.

These same families are under pressure from the government's Revolutionary Land Reform campaign which is skirting disaster in its haste. A centuries-old pattern of land ownership is to be broken up by next spring, and the feudal landlords who manage agriculture will be replaced by co-operatives.

Peasants across the country have been ordered by the government not to pay their landlords. Violence has been reported in several areas where peasants are forcibly taking over.

Iran's press is still censored. Parliament has been dissolved for 16 months. Premier Alam indicates long-awaited elections are at least six months away.

Clandestine broadcasts from the Soviet Union are continuing their campaign against the shah, but official relations are smooth, and the two countries recently signed a new $60-million trade agreement.

Europe Enjoys Big Boom

Editor's Note—J. Edward Murray was a foreign correspondent in Europe 1943-48, covering World War II and its immediate aftermath. He has revisited that area in a month-long survey for the Arizona Republic, where he is managing editor. His report, distributed by the Associated Press, follows.

By J. EDWARD MURRAY

After completing a trip through eight European countries, I have asked myself the questions people usually ask.

The questions are big and tough. The answers can be only guesses.

Q. What's really happening in Europe?

A. There's a new and tremendous prosperity in the last three years. The great postwar effort to rebuild after destruction, plus U.S. aid, plus the Common Market have made much of non-Communist Europe more wealthy in material goods than it has ever been.

The prosperity is spreading, pulling Portugal, Spain, Greece and even Yugoslavia in its wake. It also is a threat to the old-fashioned economies of these countries. It is a trade threat to the United States. It is giving Khrushchev fits.

WHO'S WINNING

Q. Who is winning?

A. Not Russia, nor the U.S., in my opinion, but Western Europe. She is getting rich while the big two knock themselves out on gigantic military budgets, on the expensive space-race and on big foreign aid expenditures.

The dollar is actually a bit softer than the lira or franc or mark for the first time in many decades, a sign that U.S. economic policy needs drastic overhaul with reference to our Western allies. Russia is in deep trouble with collectivized farming.

Western Europe is winning at the moment. That means our side, to be sure. But the Western alliance is full of uneasy stirrings.

Q. What do they think of us now?

A. Europeans are thinking less about Americans than they have since the war. Even though their leaders know the U.S. still carries the lion's share of the European defense budget, average Europeans I talked to seemed to feel quite independent of the U.S.

There probably is some residue of gratitude toward and solidarity with the U.S. But the new feeling is one of re-discovered self-confidence, a resumption of the old European posture of superiority to the U.S. because of age, experience, history and wisdom.

Q. What are the chances of war?

A. A major war seems unlikely. Only a Communist miscalculation, it seems to me, could spark an atomic holocaust. There are plenty of internal stresses and troubles in the Communist camp, which could cause the Red leaders to divert home attention to alleged foreign menaces. But Russian missile successes and bomb testing also teaches the horrors of megaton atomic bomb explosions and therefore deterrence from war-risk adventures.

There is widespread, and growing, fear of West Germany among the former German victims, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Poland. This is the fear Russia seeks to fan on the Berlin issue. So Berlin is still the main war seed.

Q. What is your main impression from the trip?

A. Surprising, explosive change. I thought I had Europe pretty well taped from living there, from return trips, and from close attention to foreign news. Nevertheless, I was repeatedly brought up short by new developments.

To list a few additional ones:

—Foreign aid is being adopted as a policy by both Western and Communist nations. Germany, Italy and France are extending long term credits to poorer nations coming into the Common Market, and to many of the newly created nations in Africa. Czechoslovakia, especially, is doing the same thing, willingly or under duress, on the Communist side.

—Communism is undergoing revolutionary changes, especially in Yugoslavia where many capitalistic and free enterprise methods are being tried in a socialistic framework. Hungary and Czechoslovakia, and probably other satellites, openly envy the new freedoms which Poland is being allowed by Russia.

EMERGING

—The traditionally conservative Roman Catholic Church is emerging as the strongest force for social-minded progress under a liberalizing Spanish dictatorship. The church, through the big Christian Democratic Party, obviously also has influenced the Italian government to set-up its "window on the left" cabinet. Pope John XXIII is moving from the right back toward the center.

—There is heavy new emphasis on technological education in all countries visited. In the train of educational needs have come the first real moves for reform of old tax systems which featured more escape than payment.

Q. What next in Europe?

A. The Common Market is headed toward a united Europe, whose political complexion will be mainly influenced by the terms on which Britain is admitted. The European economy is headed for even greater Americanization, with more U.S. advertising and business methods, more U.S. products. Supermarkets are even starting in backward Portugal. We got Coca Cola in almost every country.

Khrushchev's farm troubles, plus the success of 85 per cent privately-held land in Poland and Yugoslavia, plus the dramatic failure of collectivization in Cuba, might well lead to drastic revision of Communist agriculture theory.

The victory for free enterprise capitalism in Western Europe could shift the cold war struggle to Latin America, whose stage of development makes it riper for Communist attack than emerging Africa.

The success of the Common Market will lead to other common markets.

Prosperity will cause new strains in the NATO alliance, which may be harder to hold together in good times than it was when times were bad.

Some instability, confusion and possibly disruption, are likely with the changing of the guard in Portugal, Spain, France and Germany as aging Salazar, Franco, De Gaulle and Adenauer give way to younger leaders.

Leftists Oppose Korean Talks

By CONRAD FINK

TOKYO (AP) — Brawl-loving leftists are threatening a major campaign against Japan's efforts to end its 17-year diplomatic estrangement from South Korea.

Though bitterly split over ideological issues, the Socialist and Communist parties are negotiating a temporary cease-fire that would enable a common attack against talks now under way in Tokyo.

It is questionable whether the leftists still possess the power to formulate national policy in street brawls as they did as late as 1960. But it is clear the Socialists want to sway Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's government by massing thousands of demonstrators in Tokyo's streets.

The Socialists, second strongest party in Japan, have requested Communist assistance in a nationwide campaign, with rallies and demonstrations, against the talks.

FEEL

The leftists apparently feel there is greater possibility of a Tokyo-Seoul approachment than at any time during the intermittent talks of the past 11 years.

Informed diplomatic observers are not willing to predict an end to the quarreling that began with the Japanese occupation of Korea in 1904.

The leftists argue that even heightened good will would drag Japan into a U.S.-backed "Northeast Asia Treaty Organization" and ally Tokyo with South Korea against the Communist bloc.

Though never mentioning a Japan-South Korea military alliance, U.S. officials make no secret they would like to see non-Communist Asia strengthened by a partnership of the two nations.

The leftist thinking, however, has gotten through to thousands of Japanese. Representatives of women's clubs marched on the prime minister's residence the past week and handed over petitions declaring normalization would threaten world peace and hamper reunification of North and South Korea.

TALKS

Ikeda's government feels that if the current talks fail, it will be a long time before conditions are again right for negotiations on exchanging ambassadors and on closer economic cooperation.

The government believes Gen. Chung Hee Park, South Korean strong man, can wave the magic wand of friendship if negotiators reach agreement.

But if he first turns over the government to civilian control next summer, as he has promised the emotion-packed question of a settlement with Japan might be decided by the South Korean Parliament. Old quarrels could be dredged up again.

The biggest quarrel negotiators face is over the question of Japanese payment of property claims stemming from the 40-year occupation of South Korea.

South Korea has announced it claims sovereignty over all of Korea and reportedly demands $600 million. Japan reportedly offered $300 million in grants and long-term loans. It backs away from recognizing Seoul's sovereignty in the north.

Massachusetts Primary Set For Next Tuesday

BOSTON (AP)— "They look at Ted," said the Massachusetts politician, "and see Jack."

Translation: President Kennedy is hugely popular in his home state and his image is a major factor in the drive of his youngest brother, Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, to win the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

The Massachusetts primary, next Tuesday, names candidates for both major political parties.

How much of the President's popularity is rubbing off on Ted?

This question is haunting his opponent, Edward J. (Ed) McCormack Jr., state attorney general. He puts it this way:

"Jack Kennedy can do no wrong with the voters in Massachusetts. But the rub-off? It's like an iceberg. You can't see how much lies beneath the surface."

Ed also is the beneficiary of a tie with Washington. His uncle, silver-haired John W. McCormack is Speaker of the House of Representatives. The vote-rich wards of Boston have been re-electing him for more than 30 years.

This primary, in fact, goes beyond Ted and Ed as a battle of the scions. Striving for the Republican nomination is George Cabot Lodge, son of former senator and United Nations ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. He goes against Rep. Laurence Curtis.

But the main interest pivots on the clash between Ted and Ed. They have a good deal in common.

IN IMAGE

Each is much in the image of the modern politician—young, incisive, intelligent, handsome, highly articulate. Ted is 30, Ed 38. Each has a beautiful wife and attractive children.

McCormack is slim, with honey colored hair and electric blue eyes. He campaigns in an easy, quiet-spoken manner, using a deceptive soft sell.

Kennedy is tall, big shouldered, 6-foot-2, 202 pounds. He lost 10 pounds since the campaign began. He has wavy hair, rock-crusher jaws, the Kennedy profile. Campaigning, he is more intense, and at least as dynamic as the President.

He incites female riots everywhere. In South Boston, a woman comes boiling out of a store, clamps a headlock on Ted and shrieks, "here's my boy."

It's pretty much the same with McCormack. As he strolls the street, you hear, "My, he's good looking. . . . Isn't he the sweetest thing. . . . Too bad he's married."

Each is attentive to the state's minorities.

In a tannery, Kennedy pauses to talk with a Polish refugee. He trades ideas with the Greek help in a restaurant kitchen. He stops his sound truck to shake hands with an Italian policeman.

Touring a predominantly Jewish district, McCormack trades quips in Yiddish, learned from a Jewish roommate at the U.S. Naval Academy. He also knows some French, Italian, Greek and Lithuanian.

SUPPORTERS

McCormack supporters say the Kennedys are trying to give Ted a political carte blanche. He has held no elective office and is only a few years out of law school.

For Ted to "start at the top," as the McCormacks phrase it, is putting the blanche before the carte.

Ed emphasizes his own record, 10 years in public life. He was elected to the Boston City Council and was its president for one term. He was elected attorney general in 1958, reelected in 1960.

In the first of two televised debates, Ed went for the jugular. Fixing his eyes on Ted, he gritted out, "If your name were simply Edward Moore—instead of Edward Moore Kennedy—your candidacy would be a joke."

Ted took it stoically.

"I had to dramatize the point of his inexperience," Ed says. "That was the only way." He says the reaction was unfavorable. Three persons have told this correspondent in substantially the same words, "I didn't like that. I was undecided before McCormack attacked him, and I made up my mind then to vote for Kennedy."

Who's going to win?

Ed is strongest in the Boston area. Polls indicate Ted has an edge elsewhere around the state. About 60 per cent of the total vote comes from the area in a radius of about 16 miles from the heart of Boston. An estimated 1.2 million independent voters may tip the balance.

At the moment, it looks neck-and-neck.

UN 17 General Assembly Opens In Tension Tuesday

By A. I. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United Nations, broke but still brawling and growing, opens its 17th General Assembly on Tuesday in an atmosphere of tension.

Delegates from 104 nations—totaling 1,000 or more men and women—will play roles in the annual international drama of politics.

The 89-item agenda, or work program, does not include the question of Berlin and the wall specifically. There is no entry to pinpoint a debate about Moscow's use of Cuba as an entering wedge in the Western Hemisphere. The U2 headlines do not figure in the printed agenda.

But the program contains enough friction points to insure bitterness in debate for the three months or more of the session.

The agenda is shot through with hostilities — East against West, anticolonialists against colonial powers, anti-Communists against totalitarians—and in the case of South Africa, black against white.

DEBATE

To start the session a general policy debate lets spokesmen for all countries give their views about the state of the world and what the United Nations should do about it. These statements are made not only to impress other delegations but government officials and the folks back home.

Berlin, Cuba, Laos, Viet Nam, U2 incidents—all are likely to figure in many policy speeches.

In actual agenda items the delegates have before them a no-progress report on disarmament from the 18-nation committee that wrangled all summer in Geneva over Soviet and British-American disarmament plans.

They must debate bans on nuclear weapons tests of the kind that have stirred continuing U.S.-Soviet differences on cooperation for peaceful uses of outer space.

Delegates must decide whether the United Nations can go on pouring $10 million a month into the Congo in the face of a deficit mounting to $180 million because the Soviet bloc, France and some others refuse to pay assessed shares.

They must decide, in fact, whether the United Nations has enough money to keep going at all.

They must elect a secretary-general. The assembly and the Security Council hold the answer to whether U Thant, Burmese diplomat who was picked on a temporary basis to succeed the late Dag Hammarskjold, will get a full five-year term. Britain and the United States support Thant. A Soviet veto could end his career as chief U.N. executive next April.

TO DECIDE

Delegates will decide in the face of increasing clamor from the Soviet bloc and some African countries whether the United Nations should use force in ending South Africa's 40-year mandate over South West Africa and set that territory free. The delegates must pronounce on quick independence for half a dozen other dependent territories in Africa.

The United States probably will take its traditional spot in the policy debates next Thursday—two days after the assembly opening, unless deadlocks in electing assembly officers delay that.

Whether President Kennedy will come here to deliver the U.S. statement ranks in speculation with whether Soviet Premier Khrushchev will come back to the assembly hall where he banged his shoe in 1960.

Before the assembly is very old, at least four countries will be added to the roster, making the total 108. They are Rwanda and Burundi in Africa, Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago in the Caribbean.

Algeria, if it gets a stable government, and Uganda after independence Oct. 9 are expected to raise the membership total of 110 before the year end holidays.

Political Parties Feel Funds Lag

EDITOR'S NOTE — The not - so - secret ingredient in political campaigns is money, lots of it. Even with the Kennedys, the Democratic party's bankroll felt the pinch in the 1960 race.

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy has obligingly pitched in, with speeches at $100 and even $1,000 a plate dinners, and helped raise an estimated $3 million for his Democratic party.

Dwight D. Eisenhower has helped the Republicans rake in millions, too. In 1956, speaking over closed circuit television to 53 dinners, President Eisenhower enticed in $4 million, a record.

Lesser political stars have scurried about the country, striving to add glamor to dreary fund raising.

Under the present setup, there's no other way to stay in political business. And it helps to explain the growing demand for the government—that is, the taxpayers—to subsidize, either directly or indirectly, political parties.

For voters take a paradoxical view of politics.

In theory, almost all agree that a healthy, two-party system is a good thing. In practice, people are content to let both starve to death.

They indignantly condemn politicians for accepting large gifts from business, unions, lobbyists or from an operator like Billie Sol Estes of Texas, who has said he gave $100,000 to Democrats.

Yet despite their outrage they are so bipartisanly frugal that politicians are forced to take their money wherever they find it.

We deplore the shortage of first-rate candidates, but first-rate men know that if they make the leap they'll get precious little financial help.

During a presidential election year, when enthusiasm is highest and pocketbooks are loosest, only one person in 10 will contribute to a political organization.

In other years the percentage will jump to less than one in 30.

All over the nation this fall candidates are contesting for thousands of offices in what Republicans and Democrats agree is one of the most important off-year elections in modern times.

Although these candidates represent every shade of political opinion, they have this in common: chances are, they're strapped for funds.

All costs have soared, but the price of getting yourself elected, especially to statewide office, has shot into fiscal outer space.

If you want to run for the Senate in a big state like California, you and your friends had better figure at least [illegible].

In 1960 the expenses of all candidates for all offices in the United States probably reached [illegible] million.

Ordinary inflation has caused much of this, but a political race has other hazards.

New methods, such as campaigning by plane and by television, have increased the expenses. Not only is the population exploding, it's constantly on the move. A senator up for re-election will find a different electorate from the one that sent him here six years ago and so he must sell himself that much more intensively.

No one is more aware of the problem than John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

Possibly he's self-conscious because his own wealth, and that of his family, was used so lavishly and effectively in winning the Democratic presidential nomination. Possibly it's that, to get Kennedy elected, the Democrats went into hock by around $4 million.

At his first news conference, on Jan. 26, 1961, Kennedy was asked about changes in electoral procedures. He immediately turned to campaign financing.

"I'm hopeful that the Congress would consider the suggestions made, I think first by President Theodore Roosevelt, and later by Sen. Neuberger," Kennedy said, "of having the national government participate in the financing of national campaigns, because the present system is not satisfactory."

Republicans [illegible] directly opposed to any Democratic proposal [illegible] way with Kennedy here.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, Republican national chairman, [illegible] by the federal government but [illegible]

[illegible] to worry about raising money [illegible] don't have time to worry about [illegible]

[illegible]

"I understand their problem [illegible] look at the Republican side, the party out of power [illegible] larger share of [illegible]

Ronald J. Kovac is executive director of the Republican National Finance Committee. He's young and brisk and blunt, the sort you might expect to be a tycoon, with an oil company, which is what he was until he dipped into politics.

"We get a letter almost every day pointing out that Republicans got 34 million votes in 1960," Kovac says, "and if we could just get a dollar from each we would have $34 million."

Unfortunately, it doesn't work out that way—"basically," Kovac says, "the electorate is not interested in politics"—so the GOP is trying the next best thing.

It's on a drive for sustaining memberships, at $10 a head. Each member gets a card, with the inevitable picture of an elephant on it, to prove he's a member. So far results have been encouraging. On its best day, it picked up 560 memberships, or $5,600. Whole families, including grandchildren, are urged to join.

[illegible] the GOP enthusiasm, [illegible] the sustaining program.

It will never raise the kind of [illegible]

[illegible] the kind of money both parties [illegible] big money. It costs [illegible] a year for a party to [illegible] and the more [illegible] presidential [illegible]

[illegible] the party of the big contributor, and Democrats [illegible] as they like to [illegible] themselves, as the party of the little fellow scrabbling for a [illegible] here and there.

[illegible] both [illegible] Republicans and [illegible] must fill both big [illegible]

Kovac's figures show that in 1956 the GOP got 74 per cent of its income from those who contributed $500 or more, while the Democrats picked up 60 per cent.

But the larger gifts have been going down, at least in percentage. In Kovac's figures, in 1960 Republicans got 58 per cent of their funds from gifts of $500 or more, the Democrats 59 per cent.

[illegible] the parties [illegible] their [illegible]. The nation depends on their [illegible] to supply candidates, and in each campaign they do more to teach democracy than any other organization. Why shouldn't they get some financial support?"

World Spotlight; A Look Behind the Headlines

AIRVIEW LOOKS down on Iranian village of Danesfahan, almost completely destroyed by worst earthquake disaster to hit the country in 70 years. Savage earthquake left 10,000 dead. (AP Wirephoto)

Iran's Chief Problem Is Lack Of 'Housing'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The savage earthquake that rumbled through Iran two weeks ago and left 10,000 dead in the ruins of mud huts points up the country's chief problem—the way millions must live.

Outside bustling Tehran as many as 15 million Iranians dwell in grinding poverty in frail and primitive structures, despite Iran's oil wells and $1.3-billion American aid that brought roads, sanitation, electric lights and schools to some of the villages.

Critics charge that the government is failing to come to grips with the problem.

Faced with a budget deficit, heavy day-to-day government expenses, and the upkeep of an oversized army, Premier Assadullah Alam reportedly has shaved $625 million from Iran's next five-year economic development plan.

Some well-informed economic sources maintain the cutback is not drastic since the original plan, they say, was too big and unwieldly for the country to handle.

The destruction of the earthquake is not expected to be a major economic burden. Emergency aid from abroad will cover much of the cost of succor and reconstruction.

The chief strain on the economy is Iran's 205,000-man armed force. After a $15-million cutback in U.S. military aid, the shah last month agreed to whittle 30,000 men from the forces that are his chief support. Washington would like to see more whittling, down to 150,000 well-trained men for internal security.

Even though its manpower is being reduced, the military managed to get its budget increased this year by $26 million.

By its relief work in the earthquake disaster, however, the army may have gained some popularity among Iranians who bear a scarcely concealed aversion for its high-living officer corps.

To help slim the deficit, Mohammed Reza Shah Pahlevi ordered the army to sell a parade ground and part-time racetrack it owns, closed five overseas legations and withdrew the $260,000 yearly salary paid to his son, Crown Prince Reza, 22 months.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson made it clear here last month that while the United States will continue to strengthen Iran's defenses against the Soviet Union, Washington's chief interest is social, political and economic reform.

IMPRESSED

Johnson was reported impressed with the shah's determination to promote schools, housing, health, education and general progress.

Even supporters of the shah, however, are beginning to wonder when that determination will flower into an effective program, after years of plans and promises.

As premier, Alam replaced Dr. Ali Amini, a dynamic reformist, who had more independent authority than any Iranian premier since Mohammed Mossadegh ruled over the shah's head. Amini quit in July, in frustration over the budget.

Under Alam, a close friend of the shah, a business slump is easing off, work has been resumed on government construction, and provincial governors have been given new freedom of action.

Sources close to Amini estimate that in the past eight years, fully 20 per cent of Iran's total income went down the drain in corruption and misappropriations.

The average Iranian considers Iran's wealthy land-owning families enemies of reform. During the earthquake disaster many Iranians noted bitterly that the poor people of Tehran gave freely but almost no member of the rich class, aside from the royal family, made the slightest effort to help survivors.

These same families are under pressure from the government's Revolutionary Land Reform campaign which is skirting disaster in its haste. A centuries-old pattern of land ownership is to be broken up by next spring, and the feudal landlords who manage agriculture will be replaced by co-operatives.

Peasants across the country have been ordered by the government not to pay their landlords. Violence has been reported in several areas where peasants are forcibly taking over.

Iran's press is still censored. Parliament has been dissolved for 16 months. Premier Alam indicates long-awaited elections are at least six months away.

Clandestine broadcasts from the Soviet Union are continuing their campaign against the shah, but official relations are smooth, and the two countries recently signed a new $60-million trade agreement.

Europe Enjoys Big Boom

Editor's Note—J. Edward Murray was a foreign correspondent in Europe 1943-48, covering World War II and its immediate aftermath. He has revisited that area in a month-long survey for the Arizona Republic, where he is managing editor. His report, distributed by the Associated Press, follows.

By J. EDWARD MURRAY

After completing a trip through eight European countries, I have asked myself the questions people usually ask.

The questions are big and tough. The answers can be only guesses.

Q. What's really happening in Europe?

A. There's a new and tremendous prosperity in the last three years. The great postwar effort to rebuild after destruction, plus U.S. aid, plus the Common Market have made much of non-Communist Europe more wealthy in material goods than it has ever been.

The prosperity is spreading, pulling Portugal, Spain, Greece and even Yugoslavia in its wake. It also is a threat to the old-fashioned economies of these countries. It is a trade threat to the United States. It is giving Khrushchev fits.

WHO'S WINNING

Q. Who is winning?

A. Not Russia, nor the U.S., in my opinion, but Western Europe. She is getting rich while the big two knock themselves out on gigantic military budgets, on the expensive space-race and on big foreign aid expenditures.

The dollar is actually a bit softer than the lira or franc or mark for the first time in many decades, a sign that U.S. economic policy needs drastic overhaul with reference to our Western allies. Russia is in deep trouble with collectivized farming.

Western Europe is winning at the moment. That means our side, to be sure. But the Western alliance is full of uneasy stirrings.

Q. What do they think of us now?

A. Europeans are thinking less about Americans than they have since the war. Even though their leaders know the U.S. still carries the lion's share of the European defense budget, average Europeans I talked to seemed to feel quite independent of the U.S.

There probably is some residue of gratitude toward and solidarity with the U.S. But the new feeling is one of re-discovered self-confidence, a resumption of the old European posture of superiority to the U.S. because of age, experience, history and wisdom.

Q. What are the chances of war?

A. A major war seems unlikely. Only a Communist miscalculation, it seems to me, could spark an atomic holocaust. There are plenty of internal stresses and troubles in the Communist camp, which could cause the Red leaders to divert home attention to alleged foreign menaces. But Russian missile successes and bomb testing also teaches the horrors of megaton atomic bomb explosions and therefore deterrence from war-risk adventures.

There is widespread, and growing, fear of West Germany among the former German victims: Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Poland. This is the fear Russia seeks to fan on the Berlin issue. So Berlin is still the main war seed.

Q. What is your main impression from the trip?

A. Surprising, explosive change. I thought I had Europe pretty well taped from living there, from return trips, and from close attention to foreign news. Nevertheless, I was repeatedly brought up short by new developments.

To list a few additional ones:

—Foreign aid is being adopted as a policy by both Western and Communist nations. Germany, Italy and France are extending long term credits to poorer nations coming into the Common Market, and to many of the newly created nations in Africa. Czechoslovakia, especially, is doing the same thing, willingly or under duress, on the Communist side.

—Communism is undergoing revolutionary changes, especially in Yugoslavia where many capitalistic and free enterprise methods are being tried in a socialistic framework. Hungary and Czechoslovakia, and probably other satellites, openly envy the new freedoms which Poland is being allowed by Russia.

EMERGING

—The traditionally conservative Roman Catholic Church is emerging as the strongest force for social-minded progress under a liberalizing Spanish dictatorship. The church, through the big Christian Democratic Party, obviously also has influenced the Italian government to set-up its "window on the left" cabinet. Pope John XXIII is moving from the right back toward the center.

—There is heavy new emphasis on technological education in all countries visited. In the train of educational needs have come the first real moves for reform of old tax systems which featured more escape than payment.

Q. What next in Europe?

A. The Common Market is headed toward a united Europe, whose political complexion will be mainly influenced by the terms on which Britain is admitted. The European economy is headed for even greater Americanization, with more U.S. advertising and business methods, more U.S. products. Supermarkets are even starting in backward Portugal. We got Coca Cola in almost every country.

Khrushchev's farm troubles, plus the success of 85 per cent privately-held land in Poland and Yugoslavia, plus the dramatic failure of collectivization in Cuba, might well lead to drastic revision of Communist agriculture theory.

The victory for free enterprise capitalism in Western Europe could shift the cold war struggle to Latin America, whose stage of development makes it riper for Communist attack than emerging Africa.

The success of the Common Market will lead to other common markets.

Prosperity will cause new strains in the NATO alliance, which may be harder to hold together in good times than it was when times were bad.

Some instability, confusion and possibly disruption, are likely with the changing of the guard in Portugal, Spain, France and Germany as aging Salazar, Franco, De Gaulle and Adenauer give way to younger leaders.

Leftists Oppose Korean Talks

By CONRAD FINK

TOKYO (AP) — Brawl-loving leftists are threatening a major campaign against Japan's efforts to end its 17-year diplomatic estrangement from South Korea.

Though bitterly split over ideological issues, the Socialist and Communist parties are negotiating a temporary cease-fire that would enable a common attack against talks now under way in Tokyo.

It is questionable whether the leftists still possess the power to formulate national policy in street brawls as they did as late as 1960. But it is clear the Socialists want to sway Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's government by massing thousands of demonstrators in Tokyo's streets.

The Socialists, second strongest party in Japan, have requested Communist assistance in a nation-wide campaign, with rallies and demonstrations, against the talks.

FEEL

The leftists apparently feel there is greater possibility of a Tokyo-Seoul approachment than at any time during the intermittent talks of the past 11 years.

Informed diplomatic observers are not willing to predict an end to the quarreling that began with the Japanese occupation of Korea in 1904.

The leftists argue that even heightened good will would drag Japan into a U.S.-backed "Northeast Asia Treaty Organization" and ally Tokyo with South Korea against the Communist bloc.

Though never mentioning a Japan-South Korea military alliance, U.S. officials make no secret they would like to see non-Communist Asia strengthened by a partnership of the two nations.

The leftist thinking, however, has gotten through to thousands of Japanese. Representatives of women's clubs marched on the prime minister's residence the past week and handed over petitions declaring normalization would threaten world peace and hamper reunification of North and South Korea.

TALKS

Ikeda's government feels that if the current talks fail, it will be a long time before conditions are again right for negotiations on exchanging ambassadors and on closer economic cooperation.

The government believes Gen. Chung Hee Park, South Korean strong man, can wave the magic wand of friendship if negotiators reach agreement.

But if he first turns over the government to civilian control next summer, as he has promised the emotion-packed question of a settlement with Japan might be decided by the South Korean Parliament. Old quarrels could be dredged up again.

The biggest quarrel negotiators face is over the question of Japanese payment of property claims stemming from the 40-year occupation of South Korea.

South Korea has announced it claims sovereignty over all of Korea and reportedly demands $600 million. Japan reportedly offered $300 million in grants and long-term loans. It backs away from recognizing Seoul's sovereignty in the north.

Massachusetts Primary Set For Next Tuesday

BOSTON (AP)— "They look at Ted," said the Massachusetts politician, "and see Jack."

Translation: President Kennedy is hugely popular in his home state and his image is a major factor in the drive of his youngest brother, Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, to win the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

The Massachusetts primary, next Tuesday, names candidates for both major political parties.

How much of the President's popularity is rubbing off on Ted?

This question is haunting his opponent, Edward J. (Ed) McCormack Jr., state attorney general. He puts it this way:

"Jack Kennedy can do no wrong with the voters in Massachusetts. But the rub-off? It's like an iceberg. You can't see how much lies beneath the surface."

Ed also is the beneficiary of a tie with Washington. His uncle, silver-haired John W. McCormack is Speaker of the House of Representatives. The vote-rich wards of Boston have been re-electing him for more than 30 years.

This primary, in fact, goes beyond Ted and Ed as a battle of the scions. Striving for the Republican nomination is George Cabot Lodge, son of former senator and United Nations ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. He goes against Rep. Laurence Curtis.

But the main interest pivots on the clash between Ted and Ed. They have a good deal in common.

IN IMAGE

Each is much in the image of the modern politician—young, incisive, intelligent, handsome, highly articulate. Ted is 30, Ed 38. Each has a beautiful wife and attractive children.

McCormack is slim, with honey-colored hair and electric blue eyes. He campaigns in an easy, quiet-spoken manner, using a deceptive soft sell.

Kennedy is tall, big-shouldered, 6-foot-2, 202 pounds. He lost 10 pounds since the campaign began. He has wavy hair, rock-crusher jaws, the Kennedy profile. Campaigning, he is more intense, and at least as dynamic as the President.

He incites female riots everywhere. In South Boston, a woman comes boiling out of a store, clamps a headlock on Ted and shrieks, "here's my boy."

It's pretty much the same with McCormack. As he strolls the street, you hear, "My, he's good looking. . . . Isn't he the sweetest thing. . . . Too bad he's married."

Each is attentive to the state's minorities.

In a tannery, Kennedy pauses to talk with a Polish refugee. He trades ideas with the Greek help in a restaurant kitchen. He stops his sound truck to shake hands with an Italian policeman.

Touring a predominantly Jewish district, McCormack trades quips in Yiddish, learned from a Jewish roommate at the U.S. Naval Academy. He also knows some French, Italian, Greek and Lithuanian.

SUPPORTERS

McCormack supporters say the Kennedys are trying to give Ted a political carte blanche. He has held no elective office and is only a few years out of law school.

For Ted to "start at the top," as the McCormacks phrase it, is putting the blanche before the carte.

Ed emphasizes his own record, 10 years in public life. He was elected to the Boston City Council and was its president for one term. He was elected attorney general in 1958, reelected in 1960.

In the first of two televised debates, Ed went for the jugular. Fixing his eyes on Ted, he gritted out, "If your name were simply Edward Moore—instead of Edward Moore Kennedy—your candidacy would be a joke."

Ted took it stoically.

"I had to dramatize the point of his inexperience," Ed says. "That was the only way." He says the reaction was unfavorable. Three persons have told this correspondent in substantially the same words, "I didn't like that. I was undecided before McCormack attacked him, and I made up my mind then to vote for Kennedy."

Who's going to win?

Ed is strongest in the Boston area. Polls indicate Ted has an edge elsewhere around the state. About 60 per cent of the total vote comes from the area in a radius of about 16 miles from the heart of Boston. An estimated 1.2 million independent voters may tip the balance.

At the moment, it looks neck-and-neck.

Political Parties Feel Funds Lag

EDITOR'S NOTE — The not-so-secret ingredient in political campaigns is money, lots of it. Even with the Kennedys, the Democratic party's bankroll felt the pinch in the 1960 race.

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy has obligingly pitched in, with speeches at $100 and even $1,000 a plate dinners, and helped raise an estimated $3 million for his Democratic party.

Dwight D. Eisenhower has helped the Republicans rake in millions, too. In 1956, speaking over closed circuit television to 53 dinners, President Eisenhower enticed in $4 million, a record.

Lesser political stars have scurried about the country, striving to add glamor to dreary fund raising.

Under the present setup, there's no other way to stay in political business. And it helps to explain the growing demand for the government—that is, the taxpayers—to subsidize, either directly or indirectly, political parties.

For voters take a paradoxical view of politics.

In theory, almost all agree that a healthy, two - party system is a good thing. In practice, people are content to let both starve to death.

They indignantly condemn politicians for accepting large gifts from business, unions, lobbyists or from an operator like Billie Sol Estes of Texas, who has said he gave $100,000 to Democrats.

Yet despite their outrage they are so bipartisanly frugal that politicians are forced to take their money wherever they find it.

We deplore the shortage of first-rate candidates, but first-rate men know that if they make the leap they'll get precious little financial help.

During a presidential election year, when enthusiasm is highest and pocketbooks are loosest, only one person in 10 will contribute to a political organization.

In other years the percentage will slump to less than one in 20.

All over the nation this fall candidates are contesting for thousands of offices in what Republicans and Democrats agree is one of the most important off-year elections in modern times.

Although these candidates represent every shade of political opinion, they have this in common: chances are, they're strapped for funds.

All costs have soared, but the price of getting yourself elected, especially to statewide office, has shot into fiscal outer space.

If you want to run for the Senate in a big state like California, you and your friends had better have at least $750,000 handy.

In 1960, the expenses of all candidates for all offices in the United States probably reached $165 to $175 million.

Ordinary inflation has caused much of this, but a politician faces other hazards.

New methods, such as campaigning by plane and by television, have increased his expenses. Not only is the population exploding; it's constantly on the move. A senator up for re-election will find a different electorate from the one that sent him here six years ago—and so he must sell himself that much more intensively.

No one is more aware of the problem than John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

Possibly he's self-conscious because his own wealth, and that of his family, was used so lavishly and effectively in winning the Democratic presidential nomination. Possibly it's that, to get Kennedy elected, the Democrats went into hock by around $4 million.

At his first news conference, on Jan. 26, 1961, Kennedy was asked about changes in electoral procedures. He immediately turned to campaign financing.

"I'm hopeful that the Congress would consider the suggestions made, I think, first by President Theodore Roosevelt, and later by Sen. Neuberger," Kennedy said, "of having the national government participate in the financing of national campaigns because the present system is not satisfactory."

Republicans, who usually line up directly opposed to any Democratic proposal, go along part way with Kennedy here.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, Republican national chairman, is against direct subsidies by the federal government but favors making political contributions up to $50 or $100 tax deductible.

Congress so far has paid only cursory attention, partly because the problem is so complicated, partly because our statesmen are so worried about caging money for their own campaigns they don't have time to worry about others.

So the parties struggle on as best they can.

To understand their problems, let's look at the Republicans since the party out of power usually has the greater chore of collecting funds.

Frank J. Kovac is executive director of the Republican National Finance Committee. He's young, brisk and blunt, the sort you might expect to be a rising star with an oil company, which is what he was until he dipped into politics.

"We get a letter almost every day pointing out that Republicans got 34 million votes in 1960," Kovac says, "and if we could just get a dollar from each we would have $34 million."

Unfortunately, it doesn't work out that way—"basically," Kovac says, "the electorate is not interested in politics"—so the GOP is trying the next best thing.

It's on a drive for sustaining memberships, at $10 a head. Each member gets a card, with the inevitable picture of an elephant on it, to prove he's a member. So far results have been encouraging. On its best day, it picked up 560 memberships, or $5,600. Whole families, including grandchildren, are urged to join.

For all the GOP enthusiasm, Kovac says of the sustaining program:

"It will never raise the kind of money we need."

For the kind of money both parties need is big money. It costs $1 million a year for a party to operate nationally, and far more than that during a presidential year.

Republicans may still be thought of as the party of the big contributors, and Democrats may be thought of, as they like to picture themselves, as the party of the little tykes scrabbling for a buck here and there.

Kovac contends both images are false. He insists that in this expensive age Republicans and Democrats alike must hit both big and little spenders.

Kovac's figures show that in 1948 the GOP got 74 per cent of its income from those who contributed $500 or more, while the Democrats picked up 69 per cent.

But the larger gifts have been going down, at least in percentage. By Kovac's figures, in 1960 Republicans got 57 per cent of their funds from gifts of $500 or more, the Democrats 59 per cent.

On this the parties rest their case: The nation depends on them to supply candidates—and in each campaign they do more to teach democracy than any other organization. Why shouldn't they get some financial support?

Switzerland Area Of Many Contrasts

EDITOR'S NOTE: Switzerland is a country of many contrasting regions. Although relatively small, the country offers a variety of attractions with each region presenting almost "another world" to visit.

The sprawling Grisons embraces internationally famous resorts such as St. Moritz, Davos, Arosa, Klosters, Flims, Pontresina and Scuol, as well as the mountain regions where ancient festivals and customs are still practiced.

One of its chief attractions is the Swiss National Park, 60 square miles of virgin forest preserved especially as a rural refuge for nature lovers. It is a wonderful wilderness filled with plants, rocks, streams and animals such as stags, chamois and ibex. Many golden eagles nest in the pines which grow at an altitude of 6400 feet.

In the Grisons there are 150 valleys ornamented with alpine forests, magnificent mountains, glaciers, lakes glistening like well polished mirrors, vineyards and orchards. In addition, it is set at an altitude which makes it ideal as a winter wonderland for coldweather vacation.

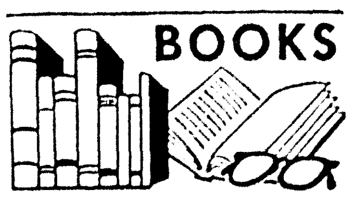
Winter comes early and departs late. Since it is situated far from the sea, the early snowfalls in the higher regions remain untouched. In the course of winter the accumulation often reaches as much as 10 feet. Since frost, too, arrives early, the first snow is quickly frozen hard and acts as a natural refrigerator insulating the terrain against the warmest sun.

However, the sun provides part of the marvelous contrasts of the area. The leisurely vacationists can enjoy its comforting rays and get a mid-winter sun tan in the mountains while sports enthusiasts can ski without the need for cumbersome sweaters and jackets.

One of the most unique features of the region is the heated mountain pool at Klosters. A nearby power station electrically heats a huge kettle through which the lake water is pumped. Imagine swimming in tepid pool water of 72 degrees while looking at the chilling Silvretta Glacier a short distance away.

Switzerland's internal network of railways and roads link the Grisons from anywhere in the country. There is a wide selection of express trains with through cars to Chur, where the Rhaetian Railway operates to Klosters, Davos and over the Bernina Pass. The Glacier Express connects with St. Moritz. The Rhaetian Railway and the Postal Motor Coaches link up the valleys of the Grisons while mountain railways bring travelers to the exciting higher spots of the region.

For tourists interested in excursions and circular tours, the Holiday Ticket offers an almost infinite variety of combinations at greatly reduced fares.



BOOKS

THE BLUE NILE, by Alan Moorehead (Harper & Row 2.95) The second volume of the history of the Nile's two tributaries ranges far from the river to describe a broad slice of Africa at the time of its awakening to the modern era. The White Nile told the story of 1856 to 1900. Its sequel moves back to 1768, when the first of the European gentleman - adventurers arrived. Buttressed by thorough research and made vivid by Moorehead's readable style, it is a fascinating story of exploration and battle, scientific discovery and savage massacres. Despots and conquerers wage war from the mouth of the Nile in Egypt, through the Sudan, to the source of the Blue Nile in Ethiopia. Napoleon is there, dressed in native costume to gain the sympathy of the conquered Egyptians. Other include the Scottish explorer Bruce, whose tales of savagery no one believed until others confirmed them decades later; the fierce Mamelukes, a warrior caste brought to Egypt as slaves from the Russian Caucasus to rule the nation; and the half mad Ethiopian emperor Theodore, who imprisoned a handful of Europeans and forced Victorian England to send a 30,000 - man expedition to free them.

I, MICHELANGELO, SCULPTOR, edited by Irving Stone (Doubleday $4.95) Michelangelo's letters have been selected and arranged chronologically for the first time in this book to form a sort of autobiography of the great Renaissance artist. Transitional pieces by Stone keep the narrative moving. This is a fine companion volume to Stone's biography of Michelangelo, "The Agony and the Ectasy."

THE SCANDALOUS MR. BENNETT, by Richard O'Connor (Doubleday $4.95). This is a biography of James Gordon Bennett, Jr., editor and publisher of the New York Herald when it was the most influential newspaper in the United States. But newspapering wasn't the only field in which the eccentric Mr. Bennett performed brilliantly. He was one of the ablest spendthrifts of his time, shoveling out $30 million in promoting his careers as a yachtsman and international Don Juan and bon vivant. But when he paid attention to business he was first rate — sponsoring exclusive stories for his paper — the Stanley hunt for Livingston in Africa, survivors' stories from the Titanic, the German army's approach to Paris in World War I. This biography makes no pretensions to being definitive but hits the highlights of Bennett's life and enough of the sidelights to make him seem real and interesting.

Gulf Pier Longest One In The World

PORT ARANSAS, (Special) — A 1,400-foot fishing pier, the longest in the Gulf of Mexico, will be formally dedicated here on Saturday, giving the Texas Tropical Coast the finest in free fishing facilities available in Gulf waters.

This edifice, called Horace Caldwell pier, and a similar structure at Padre Island Park, Bob Hall pier, will permit fishermen to land tarpon, kingfish and other species associated with deep-sea fishing, without a boat. Bob Hall Pier, 18 miles south of this location, will be dedicated next month.

In addition to being free, the Caldwell pier will be lighted for night fishing, have fresh water available, and an attached bait stand. Rest rooms on the pier are currently under construction.

The Caldwell pier, and the Bob Hall pier, which will jut 1,200 feet into the Gulf, are being constructed by the Nueces County Park Board at a cost of $225,000. Both were demolished by Hurricane Carla nearly a year ago, but the new constructions are considerably longer than the pre-Carla facilities.

The fact that Caldwell pier will have its unveiling in late September and the fact that October is the best month for tarpon fishing off the Texas Coast is merely a coincident. The pier has been under construction since last spring.

Bridge Link For Americas

PANAMA (AP)—The Americas, severed for half a century by the Panama Canal, will be firmly linked once again Oct. 12 with the dedication of a new 20-million bridge spanning the waterway.

A joint U.S.-Panama Commission has invited representatives from the American republics to the ceremonies dedicating the new Thatcher Ferry Bridge at the Pacific end of the canal.

The mile-long span will replace two small ferries and a swinging drawbridge at nearby Miraflores Locks. The roadway rises to a maximum of 222 feet above the high water mark.

At Panama's request, the United States agreed in 1955 to build the bridge and work began three years later. The bridge is named for former Rep. Maurice Thatcher of Kentucky, who headed the Canal Zone's civil administration during the construction years of 1910-12. Thatcher, now of Washington, D.C., authored the legislation that authorized the bridge.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Book By Master Good

BY FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A new book by John Master, is hailed with joy by those who like a good adventure story. "To the Coral Strand" is the title of Mr. Master's latest book and is more autobiographical than anything else he has written. This is the story of John Savage, a member of a distinguished English family who had served India for generations, but who after emancipation, finds no place there for his many talents. This is the story of a man who is a casualty of history. It is also the story of India today and presents many facets of contemporary Indian life. If you want an exciting story of action and exictement, do not miss this book. Novels of political intrigue have become increasingly popular in the last few years, probably because so many of us are distrubed by the events which are going on in Washington. The latest book of this type is "Seven Days in May" written by Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey II. The authors are both with the Washington Bureau of Cowles Publications. This is an account of what happened in seven days when the President of the United States and a few trusted men, were joined in contest with a well-organized group of unknown strength, led by a popular, powerful figure, with the American system of government itself at stake. This is a book to chill the spine. It is a book to make one think and the terrifying feature is that the book is so logically written, that we can see how it could well happen here.

ANOTHER ERA

Those who want to turn from all of the problems of the present day world, may like to read several books which were published some time back, but of which new editions have just come out. They are the Glencannon stories, written by Guy Gilpatrick. There are three of these books, "First Glencannon Omnibus", "Second Glencannon Omnibus", and "Last Glencannon Omnibus." If you want books of humor and relaxation be sure to read these.

Books of non-fiction continue to offer a variety of material. "Marlene Dietrich's ABC" written by the glamorous movie star consists of her impressions on a variety of present day topics. A lovely book of sympathy, dealing with the subject of immortality is "The Shadowed Valley" by Hyman Judah Schactel. An interesting picture of anti-semitism in this country is given in "Some of My Best Friends"... by Benjamin Epstein. A book which should be used extensively by parents of High School students is "Help Your Children Prepare for College" by Jean Wellington. The library has had so many requests for books on the subject of taxidermy that we recently purchased the only two which seem to be available. They are "Practical Taxidermy" by J. W. Moyer and "How to Make Fish Mounts and Other Fish Trophies" by Edward C. Migdalski. "Sight, A Handbook for Laymen" is an interesting book for those who need more information about the eyes.

NEW BOOKS

Two new books in the gardening field are :"Bulb Magic In Your Window" by Ruth Marie Peters and "Roses In Color" by Henry Edland. A very fine book concerned with the philosophy of art is called "The New Landscape In Art and Science" by Gyorgy Kepes. Those interesed in modern art will want to see "Art Since 1945" by Harry N. Abrams. This is a very fine presentation. Alfred Hamilton Barr has written a good discussion of modern painting which he calls "What Is Modern Painting?" this answers many of the questions which a layman is inclined to ask. "Contemporary Sculpture" by Carola Giedion-Welcker is a very good treatment of this interesting subject. Flower arrangers will want to see "Flowers; Creative Designs" by Morris Benz. This is a beautiful book, which was published in Houston and should be very valuable to our people.

An interesting reprint is "A Tour From the City of New York to Detroit in 1818" by William Darby. This book gives an excellent picture of life in the Old Northwest at the period.

ADDITIONS

Readers who use the genealogy collection will welcome two new additions. One is John H. Wheeler's "Reminiscences and Memoirs of North Carolina and Eminent North Carolinians." This is a very rare old book and the library was happy to receive it as a gift from the Barringer family. The other is volume 9 of the Mississippi Genealogical Society and contains a world of valuable information. Your library card is your passport to the world of books and knowledge. Do you have one? Are you using it?

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Now is the time for all good men and women to come to the aid of their 1962 summer photography. It's a time to edit, eliminate and put into viewing order the accumulation of pictures piled up through the busy shooting season which just ended.

It is also a time to tidy up the darkroom for fall and winter evenings of work ahead. Here photography can attain its fullest measure of meaning and satisfaction through personal attention to negatives and enlargements.

PICTURE AREA

To bring primary order out of picture chaos, snapshooters should set aside a picture area all their own. It could be a filing cabinet —that would be ideal — or it might be a drawer, shelf, cardboard or home - built box. At any rate, it's a specific place where your pictures can safely be put and speedily be found.

The next suggestion is to get a batch of filing envelopes or any type of uniform envelopes that will hold negatives and prints. Each envelope, identified on its upper edge with subject matter and date, could hold a related group of pictures. Other pertinent information could be written elsewhere on the envelope. By rifling through a stack of envelopes, any subject desired could be picked out when needed.

Some photographers prefer to file their negatives separately. Special negative files are sold by camera stores but inexpensive manila business envelopes could also be used. Here again, a uniform system of negative containers is far better than a motley assortment. Negatives, too, should be separated into related groups for filing together and each envelope identified and dated on the upper edge for quick reference. The negative containers should be put together in a box or place of its own.

A complete box might hold a single subject or event such as, "Vacation, 1962," "Seattle World's Fair" or "Susan at Camp, 1962." Each subject would have its individual envelopes containing groups of pictures or negatives that deal with a single topic like traveling, motel stops, eating, sightseeing, landmarks, etc.

One of the hardest things for a beginner to do—the hardest thing is to get started — is to discard his duds in filing. If a picture requires much explanation or any alibis as to why it isn't better, it should be eliminated. It'll make any photographer look better anyway if his mistakes are never seen.

The final goal is a careful selection of the best pictures put together in story - telling sequence in an album or portfolio. And, like a newspaper or magazine layout, a variety of picture sizes will make for better nelargements.

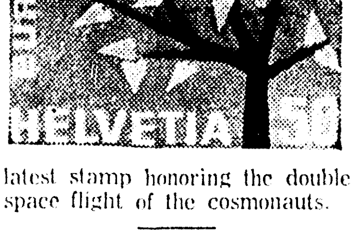
Stamp News

To show the cooperation of European nations in the field of posts and telecommunications, Switzerland has issued two new stamps of identical design, reports the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America.

The design of the new "Europa" stamps, selected by the Committee European of Posts and Telecommunications at a meeting held in Bonn, Germany, on March 16, was the creation of Lex Weyer of Luxembourg. It features a tree with 19 leaves—the symbol of the 19 CEPT nations.

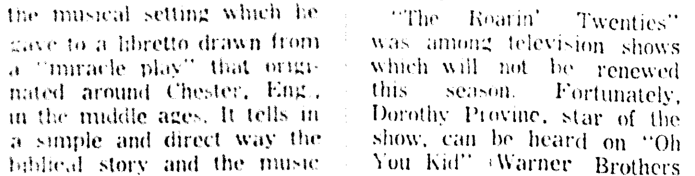
The 30 centimes is yellow brown, brown and yellow and the 50 c is blue, blue green and brown.

Word from behind the Iron Curtain reveals many new issues from Soviet Russia. One stamp honors the centenary of the Lenin Library, another pays tribute to Pasteur. A special issue was released for the international fur auction in Leningrad. Two stamps were issued for the Youth Festival. Of greatest interest, however, is Russia's latest stamp honoring the double space flight of the cosmonauts.



Argentina has issued a new stamp honoring the 50th anniversary of the Argentine Air Force. The design features a symbol soaring into space. The symbol is winged shape and bears Argentina's national colors. The stamp is a 2 pesos and the colors are red, blue and black.

For the first time in the history of the British Commonwealth and Empire Games, a Papua and New Guinea team compete. The Games this year are being held in Perth, Australia.



RECORDS

CONCERT

NEW YORK (UPI) — One disconcerting thing about English composers — (disconcerting to Americans, that is) — is their inclination to be cute. This is a way of saying Benjamin's Britten's "Noye's Fludde" would be instantly acceptable if it had been named "Noah's Flood."

But having overcome that cute introduction you can be both moved and amused by the musical setting which he gave to a libretto drawn from a "miracle play" that originated around Chester, Eng., in the middle ages. It tells in a simple and direct way the biblical story and the music in all instances faithfully reflects the turns in the story.

"The Voice of God," Noah and Mrs. Noah were all sung by professionals, and small chamber orchestra was also professional. The characters of the Noahs' sons and their wives and Mrs. Noah's friends or "gossips" were all taken by children. In addition there is a quite large "chorus of animals" made up of children and a large children's orchestra of strings, recorders, bugles, drums and hand bells.

All these potentially discordant forces were managed very well by Norman Del Mar, the conductor, with the aid of an assistant. You're told in a brochure how the stage was set and in the technically excellent stereo recording you can follow the action without effort.

Noah's faithfulness to his God and his simple piety in carrying out divine instructions to the letter are touching and edifying. Contrasting this is some slapstickity comedy, musically speaking, involving Mrs. Noah's relations with her daughters - in - law and her "gossips" and Noah's dealings with his cargo of animals.

The recording is of a performance at a festival in a church in Chester (London-25331).

After this education in the "miracle play" of the English middle ages as interpreted by the 20th century, you can get an education in the simple hearts of the Finns. It comes from a record called "Finnish Folk Songs." They're sung by a wonderful male chorus called Laulu-Miehet and they tingle your back (Capitol-10315.)

POPULAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — If James P. Johnson had not made a name for himself as a pianist, he would always have been remembered as the man who wrote "The Charleston," "Old Fashioned Love" and "If I Could Be With You One Hour Tonight."

Even these pop classics seem to fade, however, when compared with "Yamekraw," which Johnson described as a "Negro Rhapsody." Here is a tone poem in a jazz rhythm.

Moses Asch had the foresight to record Johnson playing "Yamekraw" (Folkways FJ 2842) before Jimmy's death in 1961. Thus Johnson was able to leave a rich legacy to all who cherish music with meaning.

Yamekraw was a small Negro settlement outside Savannah. It was like settlements in or near other big southern cities. Johnson captured the feeling of his people with spiritual melodies, blue notes and jazz rhythms and what was meant to be a musical picture of Yamekraw became a tonel tapestry of many places.

"The Roarin' Twenties" was among television shows which will not be renewed this season. Fortunately, Dorothy Provine, star of the show, can be heard on "Oh You Kid" (Warner Brothers W1466). With some fine backing by Joe "Fingers" Carr on the piano and the Four Sultans of Song, Dorothy has a lot of fun belting songs such as "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie" and "My Pony Boy."

Selected Singles — "Yeah, He's Got It" by The Creators (Philips 40058), "Little Black Book" by Jimmy Dean (Columbia 4-42529), "It Could Have Been Different" by Nick Adams (RCA Victor 47-8073), "Pretty Little Girl" by Joey Leal (Cub K9114), "Lie to Me" by Brook Benton with the Merry Melody Singers (Mercury 72024), "Tell All the World About You" by Peggy Lee (Capitol 4812), "Tambourines and Big Bass Drum" by Rudy Martin Crystalette 751).

LP's of the Week — Mono: "Ray Charles' Greatest Hits" (ABC - Paramount ABC-415). A musical anthology of Charles' best numbers, including "Georgia On My Mind" and "Ruby". Stereo: "50 Years of Dancing" by Hal Mooney and Orchestra (Mercury SR 60726). Begins with the Turkey Trot of 1911 and ends with the Twist. One of the best numbers dates back to 1937, "Lambeth Walk."

TRAVEL TOPICS

Lisbon Offers Tourist Much

By RALPH VILLERS

LISBON (UPI) — Where in the world, and when, can we go to avoid all those American tourists? For the answer, try Lisbon, anytime.

Here is a ciy both modern and romantically old at the same time. It has been visited, not always happily, by the Phoenicians, the Carthaginians, the Romans and the Moors. Later came the Europeans.

But only about 60,000 Americans visited Portugal last year. It is surprising that the increasingly sophisticated tourists from the United States seemingly never have found Lisbon in their search for something new. It was the first continental city served by the Clippers back in the relative Stone Age of aviation. Now it is regularly served from New York, and only a few weeks ago Pan American World Airways inaugurated mid-Atlantic jet service from Miami.

Lisbon is a city of mixture — traditional and modern Latin architecture set off by the brilliant glazed tile fronts of so many buildings.

Full-skirted women, baskets of silver fish upon their heads, still call their products out walking streets along which the latest model cars drive.

This is a sunwashed, mild climate (the year-round) city, possessed of so many enchantments as to bewilder the tourist who allows it only hours instead of days:

The imaginatively designed black and white mosaic sidewalks that stretch for miles and miles, and in a more practical society would have been done in concrete . . . the pastels of the stuccoed buildings which seemingly should be much nearer the equator than a latitude equivalent to Kansas City. . .

The seven hills, so reminiscent of Rome, but so uniquely Lisbon . . . viewed from the roof of the Hotel Mundial, with the twinkling lights of buildings stepping up the hill to St. George Castle. . . . the unique Royal Coach Museum, with its collection of 62 carriages going back some 400 years, one with an inlaid ivory floor and curtains woven from gold thread, and many with elaborate paintings as decoration. . .

Switzerland Area Of Many Contrasts

EDITOR'S NOTE: Switzerland is a country of many contrasting regions. Although relatively small, the country offers a variety of attractions — with each region presenting almost "another world" to visit.

The sprawling Grisons embraces internationally famous resorts such as St. Moritz, Davos, Arosa, Klosters, Flims, Pontresina and Scoul, as well as the mountain regions where ancient festivals and customs are still practiced.

One of its chief attractions is the Swiss National Park, 60 square miles of virgin forest preserved especially as a rural refuge for nature lovers. It is a wonderful wilderness filled with plants, rocks, streams and animals such as stags, chamois and ibex. Many golden eagles nest in the pines which grow at an altitude of 6000 feet.

In the Grisons there are 150 valleys ornamented with alpine forests, magnificent mountains, glaciers, lakes glistening like well buffed mirrors, vineyards and orchards. In addition, it is set at an altitude which makes it ideal as a winter wonderland for coldweather vacations.

Winter comes early and departs late. Since it is situated far from the sea, the early snowfalls in the higher regions remain unmelted. In the course of winter the accumulation often reaches as much as 10 feet. Since frost, too, arrives early, the first snow is quickly frozen hard and acts as a natural refrigerator insulating the ski runs against the warmest sun.

However, the sun provides part of the marvelous contrasts of the area. The leisurely vacationists can enjoy its comforting rays and get a mid - winter sun tan in the mountains while sports enthusiasts can ski without the need for cumbersome sweaters and jackets.

One of the most unique features of the region is the heated mountain pool at Klosters. A nearby power station electrically heats a huge kettle through which the lake water is pumped. Imagine swimming in tepid pool water of 72 degrees while looking at the chilling Silvretta Glacier a short distance away.

Switzerland's internal network of railways and roads link the Grisons from anywhere in the country. There is a wide selection of express trains with through cars to Chur, where the Rhaetian Railway operates to Klosters, Davos and over the Bernina Pass. The Glacier Express connects with St. Moritz. The Rhaetian Railway and the Postal Motor Coaches link up the valleys of the Grisons while mountain railways bring travelers to the exciting higher spots of the region.

For tourists interested in excursions and circular tours, the Holiday Ticket offers an almost infinite variety of combinations at greatly reduced fares.

Gulf Pier Longest One In The World

PORT ARANSAS, (Special) — A 1,400-foot fishing pier, the longest in the Gulf of Mexico, will be formally dedicated here on Saturday, giving the Texas Tropical Coast the finest in free fishing facilities available in Gulf waters.

This edifice, called Horace Caldwell pier, and a similar structure at Padre Island Park, Bob Hall pier, will permit fishermen to land tarpon, kingfish and other species associated with deep-sea fishing, without a boat. Bob Hall Pier, 18 miles south of this location, will be dedicated next month.

In addition to being free, the Caldwell pier will be lighted for night fishing, have fresh water available, and an attached bait stand. Rest rooms on the pier are currently under construction.

The Caldwell pier, and the Bob Hall pier, which will jut 1,200 feet into the Gulf, are being constructed by the Nueces County Park Board at a cost of $225,000. Both were demolished by Hurricane Carla nearly a year ago, but the new constructions are considerably longer than the pre-Carla facilities.

The fact that Caldwell pier will have its unveiling in late September and the fact that October is the best month for tarpon fishing off the Texas Coast is merely a coincident. The pier has been under construction since last spring.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Book By Master Good

BY FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A new book by John Master, is hailed with joy by those who like a good adventure story. "To the Coral Strand" is the title of Mr. Master's latest book and is more autobiographical than anything else he has written. This is the story of John Savage, a member of a distinguished English family who had served India for generations, but who after emancipation, finds no place there for his many talents. This is the story of a man who is a casualty of history. It is also the story of India today and presents many facets of contemporary Indian life. If you want an exciting story of action and exictement, do not miss this book. Novels of political intrigue have become increasingly popular in the last few years, probably because so many of us are distrubed by the events which are going on in Washington. The latest book of this type is "Seven Days in May" written by Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey II. The authors are both with the Washington Bureau of Cowles Publications. This is an account of what happened in seven days when the President of the United States and a few trusted men, were joined in contest with a well-organized group of unknown strength, led by a popular, powerful figure, with the American system of government itself at stake. This is a book to chill the spine. It is a book to make one think and the terrifying feature is that the book is so logically written, that we can see how it could well happen here.

ANOTHER ERA

Those who want to turn from all of the problems of the present day world, may like to read several books which were published some time back, but of which new editions have just come out. They are the Glencannon stories, written by Guy Gilpatrick. There are three of these books, "First Glencannon Omnibus", "Second Glencannon Onibus", and "Last Glencannon Omnibus." If you want books of humor and relaxation, be sure to read these.

Books of non-fiction continue to offer a variety of material. "Marlene Dietrich's ABC" written by the glamorous movie star consists of her impressions on a variety of present day topics. A lovely book of sympathy, dealing with the subject of immortality is "The Shadowed Valley" by Hyman Judah Schactel. An interesting picture of anti-semitism in this country is given in "Some of My Best Friends". . . by Benjamin Epstein. A book which should be used extensively by parents of High School students is "Help Your Children Prepare for College" by Jean Wellington. The library has had so many requests for books on the subject of taxidermy that we recently purchased the only two which seem to be available. They are "Practical Taxidermy" by J. W. Moyer and "How to Make Fish Mounts and Other Fish Trophies" by Edward C. Migdalski. "Sight, A Handbook for Laymen" is an interesting book for those who need more information about the eyes.

NEW BOOKS

Two new books in the gardening field are :"Bulb Magic In Your Window" by Ruth Marie Peters and "Roses In Color" by Henry Edland. A very fine book concerned with the philosophy of art is called "The New Landscape In Art and Science" by Gyorgy Kepes. Those interesed in modern art will want to see "Art Since 1945" by Harry N. Abrams. This is a very fine presentation. Alfred Hamilton Barr has written a good discussion of modern painting which he calls "What Is Modern Painting?" this answers many of the questions which a layman is inclined to ask. "Contemporary Sculpture" by Carola Giedion-Welcker is a very good treatment of this interesting subject. Flower arrangers will want to see "Flowers; Creative Designs" by Morris Benz. This is a beautiful book, which was published in Houston and should be very valuable to our people.

An interesting reprint is "A Tour From the City of New York to Detroit in 1818" by William Darby. This book gives an excellent picture of life in the Old Northwest at the period.

ADDITIONS

Readers who use the genealogy collection will welcome two new additions. One is John H. Wheeler's "Reminiscences and Memoirs of North Carolina and Eminent North Carolinians." This is a very rare old book and the library was happy to receive it as a gift from the Barringer family. The other is volume 9 of the Mississippi Genealogical Society and contains a world of valuable information. Your library card is your passport to the world of books and knowledge. Do you have one? Are you using it?

THE BLUE NILE, by Alan Moorehead (Harper & Row 2.95): The second volume of the history of the Nile's two tributaries ranges far from the river to describe a broad slice of Africa at the time of its awakening to the modern era. The White Nile told the story of 1856 to 1900. Its sequel moves back to 1768, when the first of the European gentleman - adventurers arrived. Buttressed by thorough research and made vivid by Moorehead's readable style, it is a fascinating story of exploration and battle, scientific discovery and savage massacres. Despots and conquerers wage war from the mouth of the Nile in Egypt, through the Sudan, to the source of the Blue Nile in Ethiopia. Napoleon is there, dressed in native costume to gain the sympathy of the conquered Egyptians. Other include the Scottish explorer Bruce, whose tales of savagery no one believed until others confirmed them decades later; the fierce Mamelukes, a warrior caste brought to Egypt as slaves from the Russian Caucasus to rule the nation; and the half mad Ethiopian emperor Theodore, who imprisoned a handful of Europeans and forced Victorian England to send a 30,000 - man expedition to free them.

I, MICHELANGELO, SCULPTOR, edited by Irving Stone (Doubleday $4.95): Michelangelo's letters have been selected and arranged chronologically for the first time in this book to form a sort of autobiography of the great Renaissance artist. Transitional pieces by Stone keep the narrative moving. This is a fine companion volume to Stone's biography of Michelangelo, "The Agony and the Ectasy."

THE SCANDALOUS MR. BENNETT, by Richard O'Connor (Doubleday $495): This is a biography of James Gordon Bennett, Jr., editor and publisher of the New York Herald when it was the most influential newspaper in the United States. But newspapering wasn't the only field in which the eccentric Mr. Bennett performed brilliantly. He was one of the ablest spendthrifts of his time, shoveling out $30 million in promoting his careers as a yachtsman and international Don Juan and bon vivant. But when he paid attention to business he was first rate — sponsoring exclusive stories for his paper—the Stanley hunt for Livingston in Africa, survivors' stories from the Titanic, the German army's approach to Paris in World War I. This biography makes no pretensions to being definitive but hits the highlights of Bennett's life and enough of the sidelights to make him seem real and interesting.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Now is the time for all good men and women to come to the aid of their 1962 summer photography. It's a time to edit, eliminate and put into viewing order the accumulation of pictures piled up through the busy shooting season which just ended.

It is also a time to tidy up the darkroom for fall and winter evenings of work ahead. Here photography can attain its fullest measure of meaning and satisfaction through personal attention to negatives and enlargements.

PICTURE AREA

To bring primary order out of picture chaos, snapshooters should set aside a picture area all their own. It could be a filing cabinet—that would be ideal — or it might be a drawer, shelf, cardboard or home - built box. At any rate, it's a specific place where your pictures can safely be put and speedily be found.

The next suggestion is to get a batch of filing envelopes or any type of uniform envelopes that will hold negatives and prints. Each envelope, identified on its upper edge with subject matter and date, could hold a related group of pictures. Other pertinent information could be written elsewhere on the envelope. By rifling through a stack of envelopes, any subject desired could be picked out when needed.

Some photographers prefer to file their negatives separately. Special negative files are sold by camera stores but inexpensive manila business envelopes could also be used. Here again, a uniform system of negative containers is far better than a motley assortment. Negatives, too, should be separated into related groups for filing together and each envelope identified and dated on the upper edge for quick reference. The negative containers should be put together in a box or place of its own.

A complete box might hold a single subject or event such as: "Vacation, 1962," "Seattle World's Fair" or "Susan at Camp, 1962." Each subject would have its individual envelopes containing groups of pictures or negatives that deal with a single topic like traveling, motel stops, eating, sightseeing, landmarks, etc.

One of the hardest things for a beginner to do—the hardest thing is to get started — is to discard his duds in filing. If a picture requires much explanation or any alibis as to why it isn't better, it should be eliminated. It'll make any photographer look better anyway if his mistakes are never seen.

The final goal is a careful selection of the best pictures put together in story - telling sequence in an album or portfolio. And, like a newspaper or magazine layout, a variety of picture sizes will make for better nelargements.

Bridge Link For Americas

PANAMA (AP)—The Americas, severed for half a century by the Panama Canal, will be firmly linked once again Oct. 12 with the dedication of a new 20-million bridge spanning the waterway.

A joint U.S.-Panama Commission has invited representatives from the American republics to the ceremonies dedicating the new Thatcher Ferry Bridge at the Pacific end of the canal.

The mile-long span will replace two small ferries and a swinging drawbridge at nearby Miraflores Locks. The roadway rises to a maximum of 222 feet above the high water mark.

At Panama's request, the United States agreed in 1955 to build the bridge and work began three years later. The bridge is named for former Rep. Maurice Thatcher of Kentucky, who headed the Canal Zone's civil administration during the construction years of 1910-12. Thatcher, now of Washington, D.C., authored the legislation that authorized the bridge.

CONCERT

NEW YORK (UPI) — One disconcerting thing about English composers — (disconcerting to Americans, that is) — is their inclination to be cute. This is a way of saying Benjamin's Britten's "Noye's Fludde" would be instantly acceptable if it had been named "Noah's Flood."

But having overcome that cute introduction you can be both moved and amused by the musical setting which he gave to a libretto drawn from a "miracle play" that originated around Chester, Eng., in the middle ages. It tells in a simple and direct way the biblical story and the music in all instances faithfully reflects the turns in the story.

"The Voice of God," Noah and Mrs. Noah were all sung by professionals, and small chamber orchestra was also professional. The characters of the Noahs' sons and their wives and Mrs. Noah's friends or "gossips" were all taken by children. In addition there is a quite large "chorus of animals" made up of children and a large children's orchestra of strings, recorders, bugles, drums and hand bells.

All these potentially discordant forces were managed very well by Norman Del Mar, the conductor, with the aid of an assistant. You're told in a brochure how the stage was set and in the technically excellent stereo recording you can follow the action without effort.

Noah's faithfulness to his God and his simple piety in carrying out divine instructions to the letter are touching and edifying. Contrasting this is some slapstickity comedy, musically speaking, involving Mrs. Noah's relations with her daughters - in - law and her "gossips" and Noah's dealings with his cargo of animals.

The recording is of a performance at a festival in a church in Chester (London-25331.)

After this education in the "miracle play" of the English middle ages as interpreted by the 20th century, you can get an education in the simple hearts of the Finns. It comes from a record called "Finnish Folk Songs." They're sung by a wonderful male chorus called Laulu-Miehet and they tingle your back (Capitol-10315.)

POPULAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — If James P. Johnson had not made a name for himself as a pianist, he would always have been remembered as the man who wrote "The Charleston," "Old Fashioned Love" and "If I Could Be With You One Hour Tonight."

Even these pop classics seem to fade, however, when compared with "Yamekraw," which Johnson described as a "Negro Rhapsody." Here is a tone poem in a jazz rhythm.

Moses Asch had the foresight to record Johnson playing "Yamekraw" (Folkways FJ 2342) before Jimmy's death in 1961. Thus Johnson was able to leave a rich legacy to all who cherish music with meaning.

Yamekraw was a small Negro settlement outside Savannah. It was like settlements in or near other big southern cities. Johnson captured the feeling of his people with spiritual melodies, blue notes and jazz rhythms and what was meant to be a musical picture of Yamekraw became a tonel tapestry of many places.

"The Roarin' Twenties" was among television shows which will not be renewed this season. Fortunately, Dorothy Provine, star of the show, can be heard on "Oh You Kid" (Warner Brothers W1466). With some fine backing by Joe "Fingers" Carr on the piano and the Four Sultans of Song, Dorothy has a lot of fun belting songs such as "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie" and "My Pony Boy."

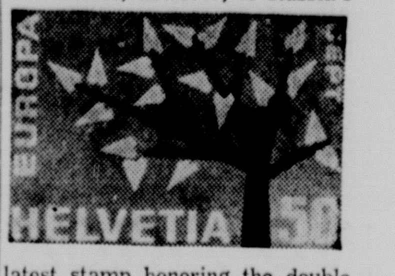
Stamp News

To show the cooperation of European nations in the field of posts and telecommunications, Switzerland has issued two new stamps of identical design, reports the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America.

The design of the new "Europa" stamps, selected by the Committee European of Posts and Telecommunications at a meeting held in Bonn, Germany, on March 16, was the creation of Lex Weyer of Luxembourg. It features a tree with 19 leaves—the symbol of the 19 CEPT nations.

The 30 centimes is yellow brown, brown and yellow and the 50 c is blue, blue green and brown.

Word from behind the Iron Curtain reveals many new issues from Soviet Russia. One stamp honors the centenary of the Lenin Library, another pays tribute to Pasteur. A special issue was released for the international fur auction in Leningrad. Two stamps were issued for the Youth Festival. Of greatest interest, however, is Russia's latest stamp honoring the double space flight of the cosmonauts.



Argentina has issued a new stamp honoring the 50th anniversary of the Argentine Air Force. The design features a symbol soaring into space. The symbol is winged shape and bears Argentina's national colors. The stamp is a 2 pesos and the colors are red, blue and black.

For the first time in the history of the British Commonwealth and Empire Games, a Papua and New Guinea team compete. The Games this year are being held in Perth, Australia.

Selected Singles — "Yeah, He's Got It" by The Creators (Philips 40058), "Little Black Book" by Jimmy Dean (Columbia 4-42529), "It Could Have Been Different" by Nick Adams (RCA Victor 47-8073), "Pretty Little Girl" by Joey Leal (Cub K9114), "Lie to Me" by Brook Benton with the Merry Melody Singers (Mercury 72024), "Tell All the World About You" by Peggy Lee (Capitol 4812), "Tambourines and Big Bass Drum" by Rudy Martin Crystalette 751).

LP's of the Week — Mono: "Ray Charles' Greatest Hits" (ABC - Paramount ABC-415). A musical anthology of Charles' best numbers. including "Georgia On My Mind" and "Ruby". Stereo: "50 Years of Dancing" by Hal Mooney and Orchestra (Mercury SR 60726). Begins with the Turkey Trot of 1911 and ends with the Twist. One of the best numbers dates back to 1937, "Lambeth Walk.'

Lisbon Offers Tourist Much

By RALPH VILLERS

LISBON (UPI) — Where in the world, and when, can we go to avoid all those American tourists? For the answer, try Lisbon, anytime.

Here is a ciy both modern and romantically old at the same time. It has been visited, not always happily, by the Phoenicians, the Carthaginians, the Romans and the Moors. Later came the Europeans.

But only about 60,000 Americans visited Portugal last year. It is surprising that the increasingly sophisticated tourists from the United States seemingly never have found Lisbon in their search for something new. It was the first continental city served by the Clippers back in the relative Stone Age of aviation. Now it is regularly served from New York, and only a few weeks ago Pan American World Airways inaugurated mid-Atlantic jet service from Miami.

Lisbon is a city of mixture — traditional and modern Latin architecture set off by the brilliant glazed tile fronts of so many buildings.

Full-skirted women, baskets of silver fish upon their heads, still call their products out walking streets along which the latest model cars drive.

This is a sunwashed, mild climate (the year-round) city, possessed of so many enchantments as to bewilder the tourist who allows it only hours instead of days:

The imaginatively designed black and white mosaic sidewalks that stretch for miles and miles, and in a more practical society would have been done in concrete . . . the pastels of the stuccoed buildings which seemingly should be much nearer the equator than a latitude equivalent to Kansas City. . .

The seven hills, so reminiscent of Rome, but so uniquely Lisbon . . . viewed from the roof of the Hotel Mundial, with the twinkling lights of buildings stepping up the hill to St. George Castle. . . . the unique Royal Coach Museum, with its collection of 62 carriages going back some 400 years, one with an inlaid ivory floor and curtains woven from gold thread, and many with elaborate paintings as decoration. . .

The elevators, some designed by Eiffel, to lift the weary walker to the next level of the city. . . . the open-air cafe that stretches so far along the Avenida da Liberdade, a park-like boulevard lined with tall, strong palms leading up to the delightful promenade of Edward VII park.

Possibly the best first move of any visitor is up the narrow Old World streets climbing to the heights on which St. George Castle sits. Its brick, stone and mortar inner and outer walls guard a view of hilly Lisbon that is unequaled. AMUSEMENTS

Curtain Call

Spectators are welcome at rehearsals for "The Solid Gold Cadillac" now in progress from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at Strauss Playhouse.

They will observe that the actors are still reading their lines from the playbooks while learning their blocking. The latter refers to the location of each actor on the set and his movement from one position to another. When seen in the final production, the physical actions on stage must appear natural and logical, so the blocking has to be meticulously planned by the director and rehearsed by the cast.

TWO ACTS

The action of "The Solid Gold Cadillac" takes place in two acts and fourteen scenes, with numerous set changes. This requires a good sized backstage crew to help with sets, properties, lights, sound and dressing. If you think you would enjoy participating in this activity, by all means come out to the theatre during rehearsal hours or call FAirfax 3-1235 after 1 p.m. weekdays.

In connection with our membership drive, we are distributing bumper stickers urging people to join Little Theatre now. If you would be willing to display one on your car for the next few weeks, please call Ruth or Larry Shipman at FAirfax 5-5602.

Speaking of membership, we urge that the names of all patrons be turned in at once so that our list for the program will be complete. We know that many patrons from last season who intend to renew have simply put it off, but please procrastinate no longer. Mrs. L. H. Carter, vice-president for membership, will be glad to hear from you at FAirfax 3-8509, especially now that "Carter" is rapidly mending at home after a siege at the hospital.

George Brian left this weekend for L. S. U., where he will pursue his doctorate during his leave of absence as associate speech professor at Northeast. His fine acting has distinguished many Little Theatre productions, most recently in "Inherit The Wind." He also directed "King Midas," and "The Clown And His Circus," which were given as the children's shows in our past two summer series.

OPPORTUNITY

In George's absence, Northeast students will have a chance to take courses under our executive director, Richard M. Clark. We hope many of them will also join Little Theatre at our special student rates. To make it easy for them, we will have Till Wright's colorful beach wagon on campus during registration, with volunteer workers ready to answer questions and accept memberships.

This past week some 6,000 families in Monroe and West Monroe received an attractive brochure inviting them to enjoy the coming play season. Twenty - five volunteers responded to Miss Lallage Feazel's call for assistance in mailing the brochures, including some from Bastrop and Winnsboro.

Meeting at the Rendezvous and making short work of a big job were Marie Bernstein, Bill Blythe, Julius Cahn, Myrtle Carter, Julia Colmer, Phares Corder, Mrs. Ivy Faulk, Lallage Feazel, Nancy and Beryl Franklin, Mary Gill, Bud Henry, Violet Holland, Velma McDonald, Frances McHenry, Mary Lee Milam, Mrs. Sol Snyder, Garry and Ray Vineyard, Shady Wall, Genevra Washburn, Karen White, and Mrs. Si Willing.

Actor Is Busy Backstage In Voice Projection

NEW YORK (AP) — A dedicated actor is Gene Saks. Even when he's not on stage he insists on performing in person.

In the comedy "A Thousand Clowns," Saks portrays the emcee of a television kiddie show. But in one 14 - minute scene, only his voice is heard over a telephone loudspeaker.

"A lot of people think the dialogue is recorded on tape," says Saks, "but it's not. I do the scene every night. My dressing room looks like a sound studio. I put on earphones and speak into a mike."

Opera Festival Films Planned

Presentations for the second Grand Opera Festival for Northeast Louisiana, were announced Saturday by Ted Hatfield, city manager for the Paramount-Gulf Theatres, which is sponsoring the event.

The festival, which will be in the Paramount Theatre in downtown Monroe, begins Thursday, Sept. 27, and will be held on every other Thursday after that for the four runs, with one exception. Both afternoon and evening performances will be shown.

SELECTION

Selections of the presentations were made from the list of preferences mailed to the theatre last week, Hatfield said.

The four, and the playing dates, are:

"Don Giovanni," the Mozart opera in Technicolor featuring the Vienna State Opera Chorus Ballet with music by the Philharmonic Orchestra on September 27.

"Rigoletto," starring Tito Gobbi and featuring the Rome Opera House Orchestra, on Thursday, October 18.

"The Royal Ballet," Technicolor presentation of Dame Margot Fonteyn in selections from "Swan Lake," "The Firebird," and "Ondine," on Thursday, October 25.

Curtain Call

Spectators are welcome at rehearsals for "The Solid Gold Cadillac" now in progress from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at Strauss Playhouse.

They will observe that the actors are still reading their lines from the playbooks while learning their blocking. The latter refers to the location of each actor on the set and his movement from one position to another. When seen in the final production, the physical actions on stage must appear natural and logical, so the blocking has to be meticulously planned by the director and rehearsed by the cast.

TWO ACTS

The action of "The Solid Gold Cadillac" takes place in two acts and fourteen scenes, with numerous set changes. This requires a good sized backstage crew to help with sets, properties, lights, sound and dressing. If you think you would enjoy participating in this activity, by all means come out to the theatre during rehearsal hours or call FAirfax 3-1235 after 1 p.m. weekdays.

In connection with our membership drive, we are distributing bumper stickers urging people to join Little Theatre now. If you would be willing to display one on your car for the next few weeks, please call Ruth or Larry Shipman at FAirfax 5-5602.

Speaking of membership, we urge that the names of all patrons be turned in at once so that our list for the program will be complete. We know that many patrons from last season who intend to renew have simply put it off, but please procrastinate no longer. Mrs. L. H. Carter, vice-president for membership, will be glad to hear from you at FAirfax 3-8509, especially now that "Carter" is rapidly mending at home after a siege at the hospital.

George Brian left this weekend for L. S. U., where he will pursue his doctorate during his leave of absence as associate speech professor at Northeast. His fine acting has distinguished many Little Theatre productions, most recently in "Inherit The Wind." He also directed "King Midas," and "The Clown And His Circus," which were given as the children's shows in our past two summer series.

OPPORTUNITY

In George's absence, Northeast students will have a chance to take courses under our executive director, Richard M. Clark. We hope many of them will also join Little Theatre at our special student rates. To make it easy for them, we will have Till Wright's colorful beach wagon on campus during registration, with volunteer workers ready to answer questions and accept memberships.

This past week some 6,000 families in Monroe and West Monroe received an attractive brochure inviting them to enjoy the coming play season. Twenty - five volunteers responded to Miss Lallage Feazel's call for assistance in mailing the brochures, including some from Bastrop and Winnsboro.

Meeting at the Rendezvous and making short work of a big job were Marie Bernstein, Bill Blythe, Julius Cahn, Myrtle Carter, Julia Colmer, Phares Corder, Mrs. Ivy Faulk, Lallage Feazel, Nancy and Beryl Franklin, Mary Gill, Bud Henry, Violet Holland, Velma McDonald, Frances McHenry, Mary Lee Milam, Mrs. Sol Snyder, Garry and Ray Vineyard, Shady Wall, Genevra Washburn, Karen White, and Mrs. Si Willing.

Actor Is Busy Backstage In Voice Projection

NEW YORK (AP) — A dedicated actor is Gene Saks. Even when he's not on stage he insists on performing in person.

In the comedy "A Thousand Clowns," Saks portrays the emcee of a television kiddie show. But in one 14 - minute scene, only his voice is heard over a telephone loudspeaker.

"A lot of people think the dialogue is recorded on tape," says Saks, "but it's not. I do the scene every night. My dressing room looks like a sound studio. I put on earphones and speak into a mike.'

WARREN LASSITER, 20, of Monroe, will be licensed today as a minister by the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe. The son of District Attorney and Mrs. Albin P. Lassiter, he is a junior at Northeast State College. He plans to supply for pastors and serve small churches while in school.

Donors See Mission Gift Destinations

NEW YORK (UPI) — A personalized touch has been added to missionary giving.

Church members in the past often have contributed to missionary work at home and abroad without knowing exactly where the money was going.

The Assemblies of God, largest of the evangelical denominations, has a program that its officials believe gives more meaning to giving than simply putting donations in the missionary barrel.

"Speed-the-light" is the program's name. It belongs to the young people of the denomination, who call themselves Christ's Ambassadors, or C.A.'s. They give for specific projects to specific missionaries and thus can see from the outset the significance of their participation.

OBJECTIVE

As its name indicates, Speed-the-Light is concerned with dissemination of the gospel, mainly with the vehicles used to carry the missionaries assigned to spread the word.

The program began in 1945 with the contribution of an amphibious airplane for use in Liberia. The second piece of equipment was a motorboat sent to the Bahama Islands. Later gifts were a jeep for Costa Rica, printing presses, radio equipment and public address systems.

To date, the young people have received and filled individual missionary requests for 517 bicycles, 187 auto, 385 station wagons, 164 motorcycles, 78 jeeps, 46 boats, 11 trailers, 31 motors, 27 buses and 26 airplanes. Also provided have been 33 animals for use in places where motorized conveyances cannot travel.

OTHER ITEMS

Other items contributed have included typewriters, recorders, transmitters and duplicating machines.

Here is how the program works: a missionary makes a request for a piece of equipment through his field secretary. The request is sent to Speed-the-Light, which raises the necessary funds through annual "Dollar day" services in local churches and individual contributions by young people.

The equipment then is purchased and sent on its way. Speed-the-Light has several firm rules. No luxury accessories are included on any piece of equipment. Every effort is made to distribute equipment evenly among the various missionaries. The necessary money must be raised before equipment is purchased. All equipment remains the property of Speed-the-Light and, when any of it is sold, the organization gets the money to use for new items.

EQUIPMENT

Thus far, more than $4 million worth of equipment has been bought and distributed by Speed-the-Light since its inception in 1945.

"One of the most significant aspects of the program is that the young people usually have a specific project for which to work," a spokesman for the denomination said. "Each gives for a certain item, such as a jeep or airplane, and all give to a missionary they know. This gives added meaning to missionary giving. It also stimulates the participation of youth in our church."

Memorial Park Baptist Plans Revival Series

The Rev. Paul Carter of Florine, La., Baptist Church, will be evangelist for a one-week revival starting today at Memorial Park Baptist Church, 203 Chappel St., Monroe.

Services will be held daily at 7:15 p.m. The revival will run through the following Sunday. Pastor is the Rev. Floyd Pate.

MINISTERS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The Assemblies of God, through the denomination's home missions department, has appointed four four persons for ministry to drug addicts in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area.

RITUALISTIC FORMS

Opinions Vary About Worship

CHICAGO (AP) — Churches are leaning today toward more ritualistic forms of worship. Some persons oppose it as a return to "Phariseeism," others laud it as a maturing of religious sensibility.

The Rev. Kermit L. Long, pastor of Central Methodist Church, Phoenix, Ariz., charges in a Methodist publication. Together, that "numbing spectoritis" has infected many Methodist Churches.

The Rev. Mr. Long said his plea is not for shallow emotionalism in worship or a return to the amen corner or sawdust trail of early Methodism.

URGES RENEWAL

He urges a renewal of the "spontaneity, creativity and fervor which carried Methodism over America on the wings of young ideas."

He brands the liturgical revival as "religious status-seeking," in which there is a drifting toward the "tawdry imitation of high churches which supposedly possess more dignity and rank higher in social acceptance."

"Tasks performed by rote involve neither the mind nor the spirit," he said. "Only when worshippers are personally involved with all their minds and souls are they stimulated to greater effort and achievement.

"Each service should take us back to the headwaters of our faith. I refuse to believe that Methodism's early vigor has been so spent that it now must walk upon the crutch of ceremony."

Opposing the Rev. Mr. Long in the printed debate, The Rev. Romey Pitt Marshall, pastor of Summerdale, Pa., Methodist Church, feels that true worship, which is liturgical worship, requires congregational participation in every phase of the service.

VIEW

In his view, those who speak vaguely of freedom and spontaneity envision the worship service as a continual experiment—a Sunday workshop conducted by the minister.

The Rev. Mr. Marshall believes liturgical worship may take place in a bare hall without choir and without vestments. It all depends upon whether or not the people take part—and how they do.

He feels certain things assist in such worship—such as a church building which reminds them of God and certain symbols, such as a cross and candles.

"Rather than abandon these aids to worship, the minister should teach the people what they mean," he said.

REV. ISAAC JOHNSON, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church of Tyler, Texas, will be evangelist at revival services opening Monday and continuing through the following Sunday at Highland Park Baptist Church, Roberts at Orleans Street, Monroe. Services will be held nightly at 7:30, and Tuesday through Friday at 9:30 a.m. Special singer will be Rev. Isaac Kulcke, church music director, assisted by Revival Choir and pianist, Miss Beverly Richey. Rev. Edgar L. Wiggins is pastor. Nursery will be open during services.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: I know that all my loved ones are concerned about me as I worry a great deal. Can you help me? D. C.

ANSWER: God has made you a responsible person and has entrusted to your care certain work. There are many things you can do nothing about, but there is nothing God cannot do. I would suggest that you first make sure that you have faithfully discharged your own responsibility. When you have done so, you can then commit the outcome to God. Remember the Bible says, "Casting all your care (anxiety) upon Him for He careth for you." As for the multitude of things over which you have no control, you can be sure that insofar as they concern you at all, they are in His power. Jesus said: "Take no thought for the morrow," for He knew well that there were many who would do just what you are doing.

It is possible that your worry grows out of a knowledge that all is not right with God. This is so general a problem that I suggest it to you. Trust in Christ for salvation, yield yourself to God, and then commit every problem to Him for He is able to solve your many problems.

Theology School Studies Planned

L. Noland Pipes Jr., 26, of Rayville, who recently completed service with the Air Force as a first lieutenant, will start studies soon at the Episcopal School of Theology at University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.

He is a graduate of Rayville High School and Virginia Military Institute, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Pipes Sr., Rayville.

Local Delegates Attend Assembly

Among delegates to the recent 57th World-wide Assembly of the Church of God of Prophecy in Cleveland, Tenn., were Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Whittington, 104 Somerset Dr., Monroe.

More than 10,000 persons were registered at the meeting, which drew representation from 50 countries in which the organization has congregations.

Revival Is Slated At Church Here

A revival meeting opening Thursday and continuing through Sept. 30 at the Monroe First Church of the Nazarene, 201 Thomas Ave., will feature the Rev. Everett Johnston as evangelist.

Services will be held daily at 7:30 p.m., it was announced by the Rev. E. P. Akin, pastor.

CHURCH GOING UP

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Church attendance in Norway has risen an average of 14.2 per cent in the past five years, a survey shows. During the same period, population increased only 4.4 per cent.

News Briefs In Religion

DETROIT (AP) — Planners of a convention here Nov. 3-7 of the National Council of Catholic Women are selling "shares of stock" to "stockholders" in the affair — at 50 cents a share. It's a fund-raising gimmick, and holders of the specially printed "shares" will get dividends" in the form of admission to special convention programs.

ADVICE TO WIVES

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A new York anthropologist, Dr. Ethel J. Alpenfels, told a meeting of Lutheran women here that the major reason why men die younger than women "seems to be our failure to allow men emotional expression."

She said wives can keep their husband alive longer by giving them freer rein for expression and partnership in the home.

PRIEST RATIO SLIPS

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican's Sacred Congregation of Seminaries and Universities reports that the number of diocesan priests in Europe has declined slightly in the last five years, in the face of population gains. Only in America has a ratio of one priest per 1,000 Catholics been maintained, the report said.

VIEWPOINT

RIDGECREST, N. C. (AP) — "Too many people today are trying to live the Christian life," Howard E. Butt, Texas business executive and lay Baptist evangelist, told a conference here. "Only Jesus Christ is capable of such a life, and our job is to trust Him and let Him live His life through us."

'SPACE' CHAPLAINS

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Members of the space-conscious First Baptist Church here, adjacent to Cape Canaveral, have urged Southern Baptist convention agencies to start training chaplains for space duty.

With future space flights expected to last extended periods, properly trained chaplains should be ready to go along, said the Rev. James A. Sawyer, pastor. He said it will require chaplains of physical stamina, who are versed in the relationships of science and religion, and able to cope with the unexpected.

WRECKS CHURCH

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A bolt of lightning set off a fire that did $75,000 damage to the B. H. Carroll Baptist Church here.

TAKES POST

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A journalist-clergyman, the Rev. Lester F. Heins, religion editor of the Toledo, Ohio, Blade for the past six years, has been named director of the public information department of the American Lutheran Church, a 1961 merger of three former Lutheran branches.

RESURGENCE IN RUSSIA

NEW YORK (AP) — Religion in Russia is having a rebirth, despite Communist efforts to stamp it out, says Harrison E. Salisbury, New York Times correspondent, who details his finding on the subject in a book published by Harper & Row.

He says the resurgence of religious faith is particularly strong among Russian scientists and intellectuals.

WARREN LASSITER, 20, of Monroe, will be licensed today as a minister by the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe. The son of District Attorney and Mrs. Albin P. Lassiter, he is a junior at Northeast State College. He plans to supply for pastors and serve small churches while in school.

Donors See Mission Gift Destinations

NEW YORK (UPI) — A personalized touch has been added to missionary giving.

Church members in the past often have contributed to missionary work at home and abroad without knowing exactly where the money was going.

The Assemblies of God, largest of the evangelical denominations, has a program that its officials believe gives more meaning to giving than simply putting donations in the missionary barrel.

"Speed-the-light" is the program's name. It belongs to the young people of the denomination, who call themselves Christ's Ambassadors, or C.A.'s. They give for specific projects to specific missionaries and thus can see from the outset the significance of their participation.

OBJECTIVE

As its name indicates, Speed-the-Light is concerned with dissemination of the gospel, mainly with the vehicles used to carry the missionaries assigned to spread the word.

The program began in 1945 with the contribution of an amphibious airplane for use in Liberia. The second piece of equipment was a motorboat sent to the Bahama Islands. Later gifts were a jeep for Costa Rica, printing presses, radio equipment and public address systems.

To date, the young people have received and filled individual missionary requests for 517 bicycles, 497 auto, 385 station wagons, 164 motorcycles, 78 jeeps, 46 boats 41 trailers, 31 motors, 27 buses and 26 airplanes. Also provided have been 33 animals for use in places where motorized conveyances cannot travel.

OTHER ITEMS

Other items contributed have included typewriters recorders, transmitters and duplicating machines.

Here is how the program works: a missionary makes a request for a piece of equipment through his field secretary. The request is sent to Speed-the-Light, which raises the necessary funds through annual "Dollar day" services in local churches and individual contributions by young people.

The equipment then is purchased and sent on its way.Speed - the Light has several firm rules. No luxury accessories are included on any piece of equipment. Every effort is made to distribute equipment evenly among the various missionaries. The necessary money must be raised before equipment is purchased. All equipment remains the property of Speed - the Light and, when any of it is sold, the organization gets the money to use for new items.

EQUIPMENT

Thus far, more than $4 million worth of equipment has been bought and distributed by Speed-the - Light since its inception in 1945.

"One of the most significant aspects of the program is that the young people usually have a specific project for which to work," a spokesman for the denomination said. "Each gives for a certain item, such as a jeep or airplane, and all give to a missionary they know. This gives added meaning to missionary giving. It also stimulates the participation of youth in our church."

Memorial Park Baptist Plans Revival Series

The Rev. Paul Carter of Florine, La., Baptist Church, will be evangelist for a one - week revival starting today at Memorial Park Baptist Church, 203 Chappel St., Monroe.

Services will be held daily at 7:15 p.m. The revival will run through the following Sunday. Pastor is the Rev. Floyd Pate.

MINISTERS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The Assemblies of God, through the denomination's home missions department, has appointed four four persons for ministry to drug addicts in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area.

RITUALISTIC FORMS

Opinions Vary About Worship

CHICAGO (AP)— Churches are leaning today toward more ritualistic forms of worship. Some persons oppose it as a return to "Phariseeism," others laud it as a maturing of religious sensibility.

The Rev. Kermit L. Long, pastor of Central Methodist Church, Phoenix, Ariz., charges in a Methodist publication, Together, that "numbing spectoritis" has infected many Methodist Churches.

The Rev. Mr. Long said his plea is not for shallow emotionalism in worship or a return to the amen corner or sawdust trail of early Methodism.

URGES RENEWAL

He urges a renewal of the "spontaneity, creativity and fervor which carried Methodism over America on the wings of young ideas."

He brands the liturgical revival as "religious status-seeking," in which there is a drifting toward the "tawdry imitation of high churches which supposedly possess more dignity and rank higher in social acceptance."

"Tasks performed by rote involve neither the mind nor the spirit," he said. "Only when worshippers are personally involved with all their minds and souls are they stimulated to greater effort and achievement.

"Each service should take us back to the headwaters of our faith. I refuse to believe that Methodism's early vigor has been so spent that it now must walk upon the crutch of ceremony."

Opposing the Rev. Mr. Long in the printed debate, The Rev. Romey Pitt Marshall, pastor of Summerdale, Pa., Methodist Church, feels that true worship, which is liturgical worship, requires congregational participation in every phase of the service.

VIEW

In his view, those who speak vaguely of freedom and spontaneity envision the worship service as a continual experiment—a Sunday workshop conducted by the minister.

The Rev. Mr. Marshall believes liturgical worship may take place in a bare hall without choir and without vestments. It all depends upon whether or not the people take part—and how they do.

He feels certain things assist in such worship—such as a church building which reminds them of God and certain symbols, such as a cross and candles.

"Rather than abandon these aids to worship, the minister should teach the people what they mean," he said.

REV. ISAAC JOHNSON, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church of Tyler, Texas, will be evangelist at revival services opening Monday and continuing through the following Sunday at Highland Park Baptist Church, Roberts at Orleans Street, Monroe. Services will be held nightly at 7:30, and Tuesday through Friday at 9:30 a.m. Special singer will be Rev. Isaac Kulcke, church music director, assisted by Revival Choir and pianist, Miss Beverly Richey. Rev. Edgar L. Wiggins is pastor. Nursery will be open during services.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: I know that all my loved ones are concerned about me as I worry a great deal. Can you help me? D. C.

ANSWER: God has made you a responsible person and has entrusted to your care certain work. There are many things you can do nothing about, but there is nothing God cannot do. I would suggest that you first make sure that you have faithfully discharged your own responsibility. When you have done so, you can then commit the outcome to God. Remember the Bible says, "Casting all your care (anxiety) upon Him for He careth for you." As for the multitude of things over which you have no control, you can be sure that insofar as they concern you at all, they are in His power. Jesus said: "Take no thought for the morrow," for He knew well that there were many who would do just what you are doing.

It is possible that your worry grows out of a knowledge that all is not right with God. This is so general a problem that I suggest it to you. Trust in Christ for salvation, yield yourself to God, and then commit every problem to Him for He is able to solve your many problems.

Theology School Studies Planned

L. Noland Pipes Jr., 26, of Rayville, who recently completed service with the Air Force as a first lieutenant, will start studies soon at the Episcopal School of Theology at University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.

He is a graduate of Rayville High School and Virginia Military Institute, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Pipes Sr., Rayville.

Local Delegates Attend Assembly

Among delegates to the recent 57th World-wide Assembly of the Church of God of Prophecy in Cleveland, Tenn., were Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Whittington, 104 Somerset Dr., Monroe.

More than 10,000 persons were registered at the meeting, which drew representation from 50 countries in which the organization has congregations.

Revival Is Slated At Church Here

A revival meeting opening Thursday and continuing through Sept. 30 at the Monroe First Church of the Nazarene, 201 Thomas Ave., will feature the Rev. Everett Johnston as evangelist.

Services will be held daily at 7:30 p.m., it was announced by the Rev. E. P. Akin, pastor.

CHURCH GOING UP

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Church attendance in Norway has risen an average of 14.2 per cent in the past five years, a survey shows. During the same period, population increased only 4.4 per cent.

ADVICE TO WIVES

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A new York anthropologist, Dr. Ethel J. Alpenfels, told a meeting of Lutheran women here that the major reason why men die younger than women "seems to be our failure to allow men emotional expression."

She said wives can keep their husband alive longer by giving them freer rein for expression and partnership in the home.

PRIEST RATIO SLIPS

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican's Sacred Congregation of Seminaries and Universities reports that the number of diocesan priests in Europe has declined slightly in the last five years, in the face of population gains. Only in America has a ratio of one priest per 1,000 Catholics been manntained, the report said.

VIEWPOINT

RIDGECREST, N. C. (AP) — "Too many people today are trying to live the Christian life," Howard E. Butt, Texas business executive and lay Baptist evangelist, told a conference here. "Only Jesus Christ is capable of such a life, and our job is to trust Him and let Him live His life through us."

'SPACE' CHAPLAINS

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Members of the space - conscious First Baptist Church here, adjacent to Cape Canaveral, have urged Southern Baptist convention agencies to start training chaplains for space duty.

With future space flights expected to last extended periods, properly trained chaplains should be ready to go along, said the Rev. James A. Sawyer, pastor. He said it will require chaplains of physical stamina, who are versed in the relationships of science and religion, and able to cope with the unexpected.

Tommy Davis Gets Bums Run In 9th

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Tommy Davis stole home, triggering a triple steal with two out in the ninth inning to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 6-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

With the score tied 4-4, the bases loaded and Andy Carey at bat, Davis broke for home. Pitcher Glen Hobbie then uncorked a wild pitch and the Dodgers cashed in with an insurance run in a game marked by seven errors.

The victory, coupled with San Francisco's 5-1 loss to Pittsburgh, gave the Dodgers a commanding four-game lead in their bid for the National League pennant. With 13 games remaining, any combination of 10 Dodger victories and San Francisco defeats would assure Los Angeles of the flag.

In all, the Dodgers committed four errors and stole five bases in their uphill victory. Maury Wills stole his 92nd base in the fifth inning and is only four shy of Ty Cobb's record set in 1915.

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead with an unearned run in the fourth inning but the Cubs, taking advantage of Los Angeles' shabby defensive play, scored four runs in the bottom of the fourth.

Kenny Hubbs opened the Cub fourth by beating out a bounder down the third base line for the first hit off starter Don Drysdale. Billy Williams then bounced to first baseman Ron Fairly. Fairly threw to Wills trying to force Hubbs but Wills dropped the ball.

Erne Banks then bounced to Wills, who threw to home trying to cut off Hubbs. Hubbs, however, raced back to third and catcher John Roseboro threw wildly past third with Hubbs and Williams scoring and Banks taking second. George Altman was intentionally walked and after Ron Santo sacrificed, Andre Rodgers was passed intentionally. Dick Bertell then singled to right, scoring Banks and Altman.

Wills opened the fifth with a single, stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored on Fairly's sacrifice fly. The Dodgers then waited until the eighth inning to tie the game.

A hit batsman, a walk and a passed ball put runners on second and third with one out and Wally Moon, batting for Drysdale, doubled home a pair of runs to tie the count.

Tommy Davis started the fateful ninth by reaching first on an error. Fairly followed with a single to left but Frank Howard bounced into a double pla with Davis moving to third.

Pinch batter Tim Harkness was hit by a pitch and Roseboro walked to fill the bases. Davis then broke for the plate and before the Cubs could recover Hobbie's wild pitch, Harkness also scored.

SANFORD IS BEATEN

Pirates Hand Jolt To Fading Giants

By BEN DE FOREST

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates snapped right-hander Jack Sanford's 16-game wining streak and handed second-place San Francisco another severe pennant jolt by defeating the Giants 5-1 Saturday.

Bob Friend dealt the Giants their fourth straight defeat, limiting them to five hits. The only run the Giants got off the veteran right-hander was unearned.

The Pirates scored four runs in the eighth inning to snap a 1-1 tie. Sanford, who hadn't been beaten since last June, had permitted the Pirates only two hits and had retired the first two batters in the eighth when the Pirates erupted.

Smoky Burgess singled and Howie Goss, his pinch runner, took second on a passed ball. Roberto Clemente doubled to make it 2-1. Don Clendenon was purposely passed for Bob Bailey, but the rookie third baseman foiled the strategy, slamming a triple over right fielder Willie McCovey's head to score Clemente and Clendenon.

After Bill Mazeroski was given an intentional walk, Friend blooped a single to drive in the fourth run of the inning.

Friend struck out eight and walked only one en route to his 17th triumph. He has lost 13.

Sanford, now 22-7, walked eight batters and fanned three.

The Giants' slugging star, Willie Mays, was still out of action although he was in uniform. Mays, who collapsed in the dugout at Cincinnati last Wednesday night, rejoined his teammates Friday on the eve of their four-game series with the Pirates.

The Giants have lost all three games that Willie missed on this trip. A recap showed that in nine years since Mays' return from the Army, he has been absent from the starting line-up 36 times. The Giants have won 12 and lost 24 of those games.

The Giants were the first to score, taking a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Felipe Alou reached second base on Bailey's wild throw of his grounder, took third on McCovey's fly and scored when Mazeroski threw out Orlando Cepeda.

The Pirates got the run back in their half of the fourth when Burgess walked, Clemente singled him to third, Clendenon walked to fill the bases and Bailey forced Clendenon, Burgess scoring. Sanford induced Mazeroski to hit into a double play to squeach the rally.

Denver Fights From Behind To Win By 3

By BOB POWELL

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Gene Mingo kicked a 10-yard field goal with 31 seconds remaining to give the maverick Denver Broncos a thrilling 23-20 come-from-behind victory over the Buffalo Bills Saturday night before 30,557 American Football League fans.

Buffalo blew a 20-3 halftime lead in dropping its second game of the season. It was Denver's second upset triumph.

Frank Tripucka's passing set up Mingo's third and deciding field goal when Denver got possession of the ball with two minutes to go.

First Tripucka hit end Gene Prebola, who lateraled to Al Frazier for a 27-yard gain to the Buffalo 42. Then he pitched a 10-yarder to fullback Bo Dickinson and a 21-yarder to end Lionel Taylor to the Bills' 9.

Three plays failed to put the ball over and Mingo blasted the ball home from an awkward angle to the right.

Buffalo took a quick lead on the third play of the game when fullback Cookie Gilchrist raced 42 yards through the Denver defenders to score.

Mingo kicked his first field goal from 29 yards for the only other scoring in the opening period.

Quarterback Al Dorow sparked Buffalo to two touchdowns in the second period on a 12-yard pass to end Ernie Warlick and an 18-yard pitch to Gilchrist.

In the third period Tripucka narrowed the Denver deficit to 10 points when he sent a bullet to end Bob Scarpitto for a 20-yard touchdown completion.

The tying touchdown came midway in the last period after Mingo's successful field goal from 37 yards out. Tripucka, hurried by Bills defenders deep in his own end zone, threw one down the middle to Frazier, who took it at the 35 and ran away from everyone for a 96-yard scoring play.

Wisner's Bulldogs Defeat Sterlington

STERLINGTON (Special) — Larry Larsen pickd up a bouncing Sterlington fumble in the second quarter here Saturday night and scooted 40-yards for the first Wisner TD and keked two extra, points to lead the Bulldogs over the Panthers, 20-0.

He converted after the first Tally.

Larson's other conversion came in the third period after Mike Caldwell capped an 80-yard drive with a one-yard plunge around right end.

Early in the fourth quarter, W. H. Sanders ended another Wisner drive, which started at the Panthers' 40-yard line, with a three yard sweep around end. Larson's kick for PAT failed.

Sterlington threatened early in the second half when they drove to the Wisner nine after taking the opening kick-off. However, Bulldog defensive steps pushed the hosts back to the 30 - yard line before the Panthers took over on downs.

Wisner is ranked sixth in Louisiana Class B.

Caldwell aided the longest Wisner drive in the third period with a 30-yard run that placed the Bulldogs on the Sterlington five-yard line. Three plays later he scored.

Panthers' defense stopped the visitors at one point in the third period when Wisner recovered a Sterlington fumble on the Panthers' 30-yard line. The Wisner squad was unable to convert the recovery into a touchdown.

Wisner moved into position to collect its final score of the evening after a Bulldog defensive back intercepted a Panther pass on the Sterlington 40-yard line. Wisner drove to the hosts' three before Sanders went across.

Sterlington, after playing its opening two games of the 1962 season at home on Saturday nights, takes to the road next Friday night and travels to Oak Grove.

Tigers Get Win Over Tennessee

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Quarterback Russell Vollmer and fullback Dave Casinelli sloshed through Tennessee Tech's defenses for one touchdown each to lead Memphis State to a fumble-filled 12-6 win here Saturday night in the season opener for both teams.

Vollmer, a lanky 178-pound junior, broke the scoring ice on an eight-yard jaunt around end on the first play of the second quarter. Casinelli, a 200-pound fullback, who ripped the Golden Eagle line for repeated gains, scored in the final period from one yard out.

Tech toyed with the lighter foe and the first unit played only a fraction of the contest. The Cardinals used 44 players in romping to two touchdowns in the first period, two more in the second and finished with a lone tally in the final quarter.

Sam Houston Falls To Wildcats

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — Louisiana College took advantage of an intercepted pass by halfback Jerry Meredith to set up the only score as the Wildcats defeated Sam Houston (Tex.) State 8-0 in the opener for both colleges Saturday night.

Meredith picked off a Ken Wiggington aerial with 1:45 left in the third stanza and a minute later fullback Billy Horn plunged over from the two.

Bombers Score 4 In Ninth To Win

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON (AP) — The shaky New York Yankees pulled themselves together for a four-run last-ditch rally capped by Elston Howard's homer and defeated Boston 9-6 Saturday.

The margin of the American League leaders appeared about to be cut when the Red Sox, held to one, tainted single over 7 1-3 innings, scored five times in the bottom of the eighth and went ahead 6-5.

An error and a walk by relief pitcher Hal Kolstad started the Yankees off in the ninth inning comeback. Mickey Mantle traveled the well known path of goat to hero when his single sent home the tying run.

Roger Maris, who had one of the three earlier New York homers, then hit a sacrifice fly and Howard, unable to get the ball out of the infield earlier, lashed a two-run round-tripper into the left field screen.

Mantle had kept alive the big Boston eighth when he dropped a fly ball for a two-run error, one of four costly Yankee bobles which had more than offset the earlier home runs.

Pinch hitter Joe Pepiton, put up to swing for tiring Bill Stafford, who had a one-hitter going, slammed his two-run homer in the top of the eighth. Before that, Maris hit his 32nd with one man on and rookie Tom Tresh slugged his 19th with the bases empty.

After one out in the Boston eighth, a walk, Bobby Richardson's error, a double by Lu Clinton, Mantle's error on Frank Malzones lazy fly, pinch hitter Russ Nixons single and a two-run double by Chuck Schilling brought Boston to life and into a brief lead.

New York wound up outhitting the Red Sox 13-5.

WITH TWO HOMERS

Killebrew Leads Twins To Victory

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Harmon Killebrew crashed two home runs as the Minnesota Twins ripped Cleveland 12-2 Saturday to remain four games behind the New York Yankees.

It was the third straight win for the Twins, 11-1 victors over Cleveland Friday night.

Killebrew, a second-inning replacement for Tony Oliva who twisted an ankle catching a fly ball in the first inning, raised his American League-leading home run total to 39 with he two blows.

He socked a three-run homer to pace a six-run Twins second inning and clouted a two-run blast in the sixth.

Bob Allison also hit a homer, his 27th, as Minnesota tacked on five runs in the sixth to make it easy for southpaw Jim Kaat to record his 17th victory against 13 setbacks.

The Twins teed off on loser Barry Latman (8-12) and relievers Pedro Ramos and Dave Tyriver.

Killebrew's runs batted in production gave him 109 for the season, tying him with Rocky Colavito of Detroit, who played a night game.

Cleveland took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Bubba Phillips got a pop fly double to right and came around on two wild pitches by Kaat.

Minnesota exploded for six in the second to erase that lead, however, and the Indians were never close again.

Two runs came home when Latman threw wild to first on rookie Orlando Martinez' bunt. Martinez then scored on Lenny Greens single and the other three runs came on Killebrew's first homer into the left field bleachers.

In the sixth, Killebrew's second homer of the day scored the singling Don Mincher ahead of him. Allison followed with his shot and later Bernie Allen's single and Martinez' triple plated two more tallies.

Sullivan's Single Gives Athletics First Tilt Of Two

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Haywood Sullivan singled off Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm Saturday night and drove home Norm Siebern with the winning run for the Kansas City Athletics in a 4-3 10-inning victory in the first game of a doubleheader.

Bill Fischer, who had gone 61 2-3 innings without giving up a base on balls, started the second game for the A's against Robin Roberts. Fischer had a chance to surpass the record of 68 consecutive walkless innings set by Cristy Mathewson of the New York Giants in 1913.

Fischer, who had lost three 1-0 games since he started his no-base-on-balls skein Aug. 3, had dropped his last five decisions. He had an over-all 4-9 record and a 3.81 earned run average.

Dave Nicholson hit a home run for the Orioles in the ninth inning of the first game that tied the score 3-3.

Wilhelm, who escaped a bad jam in the ninth by striking out Jerry Lumpe, gave up a single to Siebern to start the 10th. Siebern stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Wilhelm walked both John Wojcik and Wayne Causey after striking out Ed Charles.

VMI Races To 22-6 Win Over Colonial Eleven

LYNCHBURG, Va. (UPI)— Halfback Andy Tucker raced 86 yards with a George Washington kickoff Saturday night to break a 6-6 tie and lead Virginia Military Institute to a 22-6 win over the Colonials.

After the Colonials had scored in the second quarter, Tucker scooped up the kick on his own 14-yard line, headed up the middle, found an open area and scampered for the score.

The Keydets quickly scored again to run up a 22-6 halftime score.

VMI end Ken Reeder scored on a 3-yard pass from quarterback Mark Mulrooney after Mulrooney helped move the ball into scoring position with a 19-yard pass to halfback Chuck Beale.

Virginia Military scored first in the contest with a 6-yard pass from starting quarterback Butch Nunnally to end Joe Bush. Nunnally launched the attack with passes of 10 and 11 yards to halfback Pete Mazik.

FROM FIELD OF 200

Amateurs To Find 'Another Nicklaus'

By DON WEISS

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Amateur golf this week picks its successor to burly Jack Nicklaus, who abdicated as king for money.

A field of 200 will start the all match play competition Monday in the 62nd U.S. Amateur Championship at the No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club, and with Nicklaus now a pro it could be the most wide-open scramble in years before the winner comes next Saturday.

There are six former champions competing, including Deane Beman, Harvie Ward and Charlie Coe. There's Dick Sikes, the public links champ the last two years. There's Richard Davies, the Californian who won the British amateur title this summer, and there are "name" amateurs like the beaten finalist last year Dud Wysong, Billy Joe Patton, Bill Hyndman, Bill Camp[illegible], Bob Gardner, [illegible], Charlie Smith and [illegible] Updegraff.

But none is comparable to a Nicklaus, who dominated amateur play for three years and won the national championship in 1959 and 1961 before turning professional at the ripe old age of 21.

With the hulking figure of Nicklaus absent, a record number of 2,057 amateurs filed entries for the championship and of the 200 who made it, 187 did so in 36-hole qualifying tests across the country 10 days ago.

The 13 exemptions were headed by former champions Beman (1960), Coe (1949, 1958), Ward (1955, 1956), Dick Chapman (1940), Ted Bishop (1946), and the grand old man of the amateurs, Charles (Chick) Evans of Chicago, the 1916 and 1920 champion who will be playing in the National Amateur for the 50th time.

The 7,051-yard No. 2 course is par 36-36—72.

Detroit Tigers Defeat Angels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dick Brown and Norm Cash drove in three runs apiece Saturday night as the Detroit Tigers dealt the diving Los Angeles Angels their fourth straight loss, 7-3.

Brown hit a two-run homer and a run-scoring bunt single and Cash slammed his 37th homer with two men aboard.

The Angels, shut out for seven innings, scored three runs off Mossi in the eighth. Bob Rodgers drove in the first run with a double and Lee Thomas brought in two with a single. With one out, Bunning relieved Mossi and struck out pinch hitter Tom Burgess. Then he gave up a harmless single to pinch hitter Tom Satriano and got Jim Fregosi to end the inning by flying out.

Angel starter Eli Grba didn't allow a hit for four innings. But, in the fifth, Frank Kostro singled and Brown followed with his 12th home run of the season, a 330-foot drive into the left field pavilion.

In the Detroit sixth, Cash walked, took third on a single by Dick McAuliffe and scored when Brown laid down a squeeze bunt for a single.

Dodgers 'Steal' Win From Chicago Cubs, 6-4

Shaky NY Yankees Need Last Ditch Rally To Catch Red Sox, 9-6

Tommy Davis Gets Bums Run In 9th

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Tommy Davis stole home, triggering a triple steal with two out in the ninth inning to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 6-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

With the score tied 4-4, the bases loaded and Andy Carey at bat, Davis broke for home. Pitcher Glen Hobbie then uncorked a wild pitch and the Dodgers cashed in with an insurance run in a game marked by seven errors.

The victory, coupled with San Francisco's 5-1 loss to Pittsburgh, gave the Dodgers a commanding four-game lead in their bid for the National League pennant. With 13 games remaining, any combination of 10 Dodger victories and San Francisco defeats would assure Los Angeles of the flag.

In all, the Dodgers committed four errors and stole five bases in their uphill victory. Maury Wills stole his 92nd base in the fifth inning and is only four shy of Ty Cobb's record set in 1915.

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead with an unearned run in the fourth inning but the Cubs, taking advantage of Los Angeles' shabby defensive play, scored four runs in the bottom of the fourth.

Kenny Hubbs opened the Cub fourth by beating out a bounder down the third base line for the first hit off starter Don Drysdale. Billy Williams then bounced to first baseman Ron Fairly. Fairly threw to Wills trying to force Hubbs but Wills dropped the ball.

Erne Banks then bounced to Wills, who threw to home trying to cut off Hubbs. Hubbs, however, raced back to third and catcher John Roseboro threw wildly past third with Hubbs and Williams scoring and Banks taking second. George Altman was intentionally walked and after Ron Santo sacsacrificed, Andre Rodgers was passed intentionally. Dick Bertell then singled to right, scoring Banks and Altman.

Wills opened the fifth with a single, stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored on Fairly's sacrifice fly. The Dodgers then waited until the eighth inning to tie the game.

A hit batsman, a walk and a passed ball put runners on second and third with one out and Wally Moon, batting for Drysdale, doubled home a pair of runs to tie the count.

Tommy Davis started the fateful ninth by reaching first on an error. Fairly followed with a single to left but Frank Howard bounced into a double pla with Davis moving to third.

Pinch batter Tim Harkness was hit by a pitch and Roseboro walked to fill the bases. Davis then broke for the plate and before the Cubs could recover Hobbie's wild pitch, Harkness also scored.

SANFORD IS BEATEN

Pirates Hand Jolt To Fading Giants

By BEN DE FOREST

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates snapped right-hander Jack Sanford's 16-game wining streak and handed second-place San Francisco another severe pennant jolt by defeating the Giants 5-1 Saturday.

Bob Friend dealt the Giants their fourth straight defeat, limiting them to five hits. The only run the Giants got off the veteran right-hander was unearned.

The Pirates scored four runs in the eighth inning to snap a 1-1 tie. Sanford, who hadn't been beaten since last June, had permitted the Pirates only two hits and had retired the first two batters in the eighth when the Pirates erupted.

Smoky Burgess singled and Howie Goss, his pinch runner, took second on a passed ball. Roberto Clemente doubled to make it 2-1. Don Clendenon was purposely passed for Bob Bailey, but the rookie third baseman foiled the strategy, slamming a triple over right fielder Willie McCovey's head to score Clemente and Clendenon.

After Bill Mazeroski was given an intentional walk, Friend blooped a single to drive in the fourth run of the inning.

Friend struck out eight and walked only one en route to his 17th triumph. He has lost 13.

Sanford, now 22-7, walked eight batters and fanned three.

The Giants' slugging star, Willie Mays, was still out of action although he was in uniform. Mays, who collapsed in the dugout at Cincinnati last Wednesday night, rejoined his teammates Friday on the eve of their four-game series with the Pirates.

The Giants have lost all three games that Willie missed on this trip. A recap showed that in nine years since Mays' return from the Army, he has been absent from the starting line-up 36 times. The Giants have won 12 and lost 24 of those games.

The Giants were the first to score, taking a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Felipe Alou reached second base on Bailey's wild throw of his grounder, took third on McCovey's fly and scored when Mazeroski threw out Orlando Cepeda.

The Pirates got the run back in their half of the fourth when Burgess walked, Clemente singled him to third, Clendenon walked to fill the bases and Bailey forced Clendenon, Burgess scoring. Sanford induced Mazeroski to hit into a double play to squelch the rally.

Denver Fights From Behind To Win By 3

By BOB POWELL

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Gene Mingo kicked a 10-yard field goal with 31 seconds remaining to give the maverick Denver Broncos a thrilling 23-20 come-from-behind victory over the Buffalo Bills Saturday night before 30,557 American Football League fans.

Buffalo blew a 20-3 halftime lead in dropping its second game of the season. It was Denver's second upset triumph.

Frank Tripucka's passing set up Mingo's third and deciding field goal when Denver got possession of the ball with two minutes to go.

First Tripucka hit end Gene Prebola, who lateraled to Al Frazier for a 27-yard gain to the Buffalo 42. Then he pitched a 10-yarder to fullback Bo Dickinson and a 21-yarder to end Lionel Taylor to the Bills' 9.

Three plays failed to put the ball over and Mingo blasted the ball home from an awkward angle to the right.

Buffalo took a quick lead on the third play of the game when fullback Cookie Gilchrist raced 42 yards through the Denver defenders to score.

Mingo kicked his first field goal from 29 yards for the only other scoring in the opening period.

Quarterback Al Dorow sparked Buffalo to two touchdowns in the second period on a 12-yard pass to end Ernie Warlick and an 18-yard pitch to Gilchrist.

In the third period Tripucka narrowed the Denver deficit to 10 points when he sent a bullet to end Bob Scarpitto for a 10-yard touchdown completion.

The tying touchdown came midway in the last period after Mingo's successful field goal from 37 yards out. Tripucka, hurried by Bills defenders deep in his own end zone, threw one down the middle to Frazier, who took it at the 35 and ran away from everyone for a 96-yard scoring play.

Wisner's Bulldogs Defeat Sterlington

STERLINGTON (Special) — Larry Larsen pickd up a bouncing Sterlington fumble in the second quarter here Saturday night and scooted 40-yards for the first Wisner TD and kcked two extra, points to lead the Bulldogs over the Panthers, 20-0.

He converted after the first Tally.

Larson's other conversion came in the third period after Mike Caldwell capped an 80-yard drive with a one-yard plunge around right end.

Early in the fourth quarter, W. H. Sanders ended another Wisner drive, which started at the Panthers' 40-yard line, with a three yard sweep around end. Larson's kick for PAT failed.

Sterlington threatened early in the second half when they drove to the Wisner nine after taking the opening kick-off. However, Bulldog defensive steps pushed the hosts back to the 30 - yard line before the Panthers took over on downs.

Wisner is ranked sixth in Louisiana Class B.

Caldwell aided the longest Wisner drive in the third period with a 30-yard run that placed the Bulldogs on the Sterlington five-yard line. Three plays later he scored.

Panthers' defense stopped the visitors at one point in the third period when Wisner recovered a Sterlington fumble on the Panthers' 30-yard line. The Wisner squad was unable to convert the recovery into a touchdown.

Wisner moved into position to collect its final score of the evening after a Bulldog defensive back intercepted a Panther pass on the Sterlington 40-yard line. Wisner drove to the hosts' three before Sanders went across.

Sterlington, after playing its opening two games of the 1962 season at home on Saturday nights, takes to the road next Friday night and travels to Oak Grove.

Tigers Get Win Over Tennessee

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Quarterback Russell Vollmer and fullback Dave Casinelli sloshed through Tennessee Tech's defenses for one touchdown each to lead Memphis State to a fumble-filled 12-6 win here Saturday night in the season opener for both teams.

Vollmer, a lanky 178-pound junior, broke the scoring ice on an eight-yard jaunt around end on the first play of the second quarter. Casinelli, a 200-pound fullback, who ripped the Golden Eagle line for repeated gains, scored in the final period from one yard out.

Sam Houston Falls To Wildcats

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — Louisiana College took advantage of an intercepted pass by halfback Jerry Meredith to set up the only scored as the Wildcats defeated Sam Houston (Tex.) State 8-0 in the opener for both colleges Saturday night.

Meredith picked off a Ken Wiginton aerial with 1:45 left in the third stanza and a minute later fullback Billy Horn plunged over from the two.

Killebrew Leads Twins To Victory

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Harmon Killebrew crashed two home runs as the Minnesota Twins ripped Cleveland 12-2 Saturday to remain four games behind the New York Yankees.

It was the third straight win for the Twins, 11-1 victors over Cleveland Friday night.

Killebrw, a second-inning replacement for Tony Oliva who twisted an ankle catching a fly ball in the first inning, raised his American League-leading home run total to 39 with he two blows.

He socked a three-run homer to pace a six-run Twins second inning and clouted a two-run blast in the sixth.

Bob Allison also hit a homer, his 27th, as Minnesota tacked on five runs in the sixth to make it easy for southpaw Jim Kaat to record his 17th victory against 13 setbacks.

The Twins teed off on loser Barry Latman (8-12) and relievers Pedro Ramos and Dave Tyriver.

Killebrew's runs batted in production gave him 109 for the season, tying him with Rocky Colavito of Detroit, who played a night game.

Cleveland took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Bubba Phillips got a pop fly double to right and came around on two wild pitches by Kaat.

Minnesota exploded for six in the second to erase that lead, however, and the Indians were never close again.

Two runs came home when Latman threw wild to first on rookie Orlando Martinez' bunt. Martinez then scored on Lenny Greens single and the other three runs came on Killebrew's first homer into the left field bleachers.

In the sixth, Killebrew's second homer of the day scored the singling Don Mincher ahead of him. Allison followed with his shot and later Bernie Allen's single and Martinez' triple plated two more tallies.

FROM FIELD OF 200

Amateurs To Find 'Another Nicklaus'

By DON WEISS

PINEHURST, N.C., (AP)—Amateur golf this week picks its successor to burly Jack Nicklaus, who abdicated as king for money.

A field of 200 will start the all match play competition Monday in the 62nd U.S. Amateur Championship at the No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club, and with Nicklaus now a pro it could be the most wide-open scramble in years before the windup comes next Saturday.

There are six former champions competing, including Deane Beman, Harvie Ward and Charlie Coe. There's Dick Sikes, the public links champ the last two years. There's Richard Davies, the Californian who won the British amateur title this summer, and there are "name" amateurs like the beaten finalist last year, Dud Wysong, Billy Joe Patton, Bill Hyndman, Bill Campbell, Bob Gardner, Arnold Blum, Charlie Smith and Dr. Ed Updegraff.

But none is comparable to a Nicklaus, who dominated amateur play for three years and won the national championship in 1959 and 1961 before turning professional at the ripe, old age of 21.

With the hulking figure of Nicklaus absent, a record number of 2,053 amateurs filed entries for the championship and of the 200 who made it, 187 did so in 36-hole qualifying tests across the country 10 days ago.

The 13 exemptions were headed by former champions Beman (1960), Coe (1949, 1958), Ward (1955, 1956), Dick Chapman (1940), Ted Bishop (1946, and the grand old man of the amateurs, Charles (Chick) Evans of Chicago, the 1916 and 1920 champion who will be playing in the National Amateur for the 50th time.

The 7,051 - yard No. 2 course is par 36-36--72.

Bombers Score 4 In Ninth To Win

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON (AP) — The shaky New York Yankees pulled themselves together for a four-run last-ditch rally capped by Elston Howard's homer and defeated Boston 9-6 Saturday.

The margin of the American League leaders appeared about to be cut when the Red Sox, held to one, tainted single over 7 1-3 innings, scored five times in the bottom of the eighth and went ahead 6-5.

An error and a walk by relief pitcher Hal Kolstad started the Yankees off in the ninth inning comeback. Mickey Mantle traveled the well known path of goat to hero when his single sent home the tying run.

Roger Maris, who had one of the three earlier New York homers, then hit a sacrifice fly and Howard, unable to get the ball out of the infield earlier, lashed a two-run round-tripper into the left field screen.

Mantle had kept alive the big Boston eighth when he dropped a fly ball for a two-run error, one of four costly Yankee bobles which had more than offset the earlier home runs.

Pinch hitter Joe Pepiton, put up to swing for tiring Bill Stafford, who had a one-hitter going, slammed his two-run homer in the top of the eighth. Before that, Maris hit his 32nd with one man on and rookie Tom Tresh slugged his 19th with the bases empty.

After one out in the Boston eighth, a walk, Bobby Richardson's error, a double by Lu Clinton, Mantle's error on Frank Malzones lazy fly, pinch hitter Russ Nixons single and a two-run double by Chuck Schilling brought Boston to life and into a brief lead.

New York wound up outhitting the Red Sox 13-5.

Sullivan's Single Gives Athletics First Tilt Of Two

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Haywood Sullivan singled off Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm Saturday night and drove home Norm Siebern with the winning run for the Kansas City Athletics in a 4-3 10-inning victory in the first game of a doubleheader.

Bill Fischer, who had gone 61 2-3 innings without giving up a base on balls, started the second game for the A's against Robin Roberts. Fischer had a chance to surpass the record of 68 consecutive walkless innings set by Cristy Mathewson of the New York Giants in 1913.

Fischer, who had lost three 1-0 games since he started his no-base-on-balls skein Aug. 3, had dropped his last five decisions. He had an over-all 4-9 record and a 3.81 earned run average.

Dave Nicholson hit a home run for the Orioles in the ninth inning of the first game that tied the score 3-3.

Wilhelm, who escaped a bad jam in the ninth by striking out Jerry Lumpe, gave up a single to Siebern to start the 10th. Siebern stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Wilhelm walked both John Wojcik and Wayne Causey after striking out Ed Charles.

Demons In Win Over SFA, 23-6

SHREVEPORT (Special) — The Northwestern Demons rallied in the second half to defeat a stubborn band of Lumberjacks from Stephen F. Austin, 23-6.

Northwestern trailed 6-2 at halftime, but scored three times in the last half to secure the victory.

VMI Races To 22-6 Win Over Colonial Eleven

LYNCHBURG, Va. (UPI)—Halfback Andy Tucker raced 86 yards with a George Washington Kickoff Saturday night to break a 6-6 tie and lead Virginia Military Institute to a 22-6 win over the Colonials.

After the Colonials had scored in the second quarter, Tucker scooped up the kick on his own 14-yard line, headed up the middle, found an open area and scampered for the score.

The Keydets quickly scored again to run up a 22-6 halftime score.

VMI end Ken Reeder scored on a 3-yard pass from quarterback Mark Mulrooney after Mulrooney helped move the ball into scoring position with a 19-yard pass to halfback Chuck Beale.

Virginia Military scored first in the contest with a 6-yard pass from starting quarterback Butch Nunnally to end Joe Bush. Nunnally launched the attack with passes of 10 and 11 yards to halfback Pete Mazik.

Detroit Tigers Defeat Angels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dick Brown and Norm Cash drove in three runs apiece Saturday night as the Detroit Tigers dealt the diving Los Angeles Angels their fourth straight loss 7-3.

Brown hit a two-run homer and a run-scoring bunt single and Cash slammed his 37th homer with two men aboard.

The Angels, shut out for seven innings, scored three runs off Mossi in the eighth. Bob Rodgers drove in the first run with a double and Lee Thomas brought in two with a single. With one out, Bunning relieved Mossi and struck out pinch hitter Tom Burgess. Then he gave up a harmless single to pinch hitter Tom Satriano and got Jim Fregosi to end the inning by flying out.

Angel starter Eli Grba didn't allow a hit for four innings. But, in the fifth, Frank Kostro singled and Brown followed with his 12th home run of the season, a 380-foot drive into the left field pavillion.

In the Detroit sixth, Cash walked, took third on a single by Dick McAuliffe and scored when Brown laid down a squeeze bunt for a single.

Maroon Team

With Rick Bryan

(This is the second in a series of articles on the personnel of the Northeast State three-team system. The first was on the gold team, the two way outfit.)

Northeast's offensive club is the Maroon team. At present it is being run by quarterback Ronnie Myrick (175), the fastest man on the team. Myrick, who was fifth in the Gulf States conference with 593 yards total offense last year, was regarded as the finest freshman quarterback in Northeast history. The Indian coaching staff feels he has a brilliant future.

Playing with Myrick on this team are four juniors, three sophomores, two freshmen and one senior.

Junior Jim Love (198) is at one end and freshman Sherrel Smith (190) at the other. Love sprained an ankle before drills started this fall and missed out on the early work. He is an aggressive defender. Smith, the Springhill star, is one of the best Indian pass receivers. He caught three in in the high school all - star game and is one of the better new Tribe recruits.

The Tribe has junior Jim La Coste (230) and freshmen Melvin Doucet (210) or Wayne Clements (210) at the Maroon team tackles. LaCoste, an all - stater from Istrouma, was a starter on occasion last year. Doucet, a La Grange High product, signed in 1960, but spent a year in the service when his National Guard unit was activated. The additional maturity is serving him well. Clements played for Istrouma in high school.

Joe McClain [illegible], the most improved Indian in spring practice, is sharing guard duties with junior Don King (200). McClain a sophomore, is from Sevellton, where he was an all - state tackle. King, another former all - stater, hails from Bossier City.

Sophomore Tommy Beaube (210), the ex - Ouachita star, has the center job. He is an outstanding linebacker.

Monte (Joe) Thrailkill (180), the only Maroon team senior and oldest man on the squad at 25, has one of the halfback spots. Thrailkill, an ex - sailor from Duncan, Okla., played with Northeast in 1959. He is a powerful runner with good speed.

The other halfback post is the object of a three - way switch since the first scrimmage a week ago. Apache or third - unit halfback Gordon Salsman (170) was moved up to the first team after doing well in drills. This put gold club back Ken Newton (180) back on the Maroon squad and dropped sophomore Dean Mann (170) to the Apache group.

The offensive team fullback is hard - running Devone Payne (190). Payne, oldest son of the late Northeast coach by the same name, is a junior. He was the team's number three rusher last fall with 262 yards and a 7.2 per-carry average.

Indian Runners

Northeast's cross country team which won the Gulf States title the past two years and tied for it in 1958, should be a strong contender again this year. However, the Indians could be pushed by other conference teams.

Coach Bob Groseclose lost his two top finishers from the 1961 conference run — Don "Buddy" Eiland, who finished second, and steady Bill Frye — seventh.

Seven letter winners return. They are senior George Abbott, who finished eighth, Bill White, John Baker, David Hankins and Bobby Bryant.

Cross country, by the way, is almost too short a run for Hankins. The Oak Grove sophomore ran non - stop last spring from Monroe to his hometown — 61 miles away. His reward was a wrecked pair of shoes.

Strong support for the veteran harriers will come from five freshmen runners. New additions to Groseclose's club are Tom Brown, Hallsville, Tex.; Drew Butler, Plain Dealing; Charles Golightly, Shreveport; Gayland LeBlanc, Lake Arthur; and Bill Smith Haynesville.

Rained Out

Saturday afternoon's rain forced the Indians to cancel their scheduled scrimmage, the last one before next Saturday night's opener with Lamar Tech here.

In workouts last spring and this fall the Redskins have shown a lot of improvement. Their running attack is much smoother.

The passing seems a little more accurate too, though it is not as consistant as might be desired. Really efficient passing is hard to come by. It's a lot more than getting a man open and throwing him the ball. Carried to its peak, passing is an exact science of timing and position.

A Change

Louisiana Tech has undergone a change in its current offensive philosophy that will become apparent as the season goes on. With the present Canine personnel situation it could mean the difference in some close games. Nor should it be too much of a change for the veteran squad members to master. A number of the techniques have been in operation to varying degrees for some time.

One thing is certain. Junior halfback Paul Labenne proved the wrongness of the idea that Tech can't run because the team lacks big bruising backs. Labenne took a low punt near his 15 and weaved his way back downfield for a touchdown.

True, without runners like Paul Hynes, J. W. Slack for Max Rudd, the Bulldogs aren't going to blast open partial line holes too well. But they can move when the openings are there. One of the goals of the offensive thinking this year is going to be getting that running room.

W&M Field Goal Defeats Virginia

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Kicking specialist Steve Bishop booted a 20-yard last-period field goal for William and Mary Saturday and the victory-hungry Indians made it stand up for a 3-0 Southern Conference fotball victory over fiercely counter-attacking Virginia Tech.

Bishop, 22-year-old senior who never does anything but put the foot in the football, made the decisive field goal at a time when the Indians, after advancing 78 yards, appeared stalled on the Tech 2.

The kick was from an angle to the left but from the moment Bishop's trusty toe hit the ball there was never any doubt it was going cleanly through the crossbars. Earier, he had missed a field goal from the 21 in the first period.

Reds Down Mets To Keep Pennant Hopes Still Alive

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds kept their faint pennant hopes alive by defeating the New York Mets 9-6 Saturday as right-hander Bob Purkey, with the help of Jim Maloney, pitched his 22nd victory of the season.

The Reds raked starter and loser Jay Hook for 10 of their 11 hits, including a home run by Jerry Lynch. The four-bagger, coming in the seventh inning with a man on base, was the 187th off New York pitching.

Braves Top Colts With 9th Inning Three Run Rally

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves moved to within one game of fifth place St. Louis by defeating the Houston Colts 9-8 Saturday night on a three-run ninth inning rally.

After dropping behind 8-5 in the top of the eighth, the Braves picked up one run in their half and then pulled out the victory in the ninth on a two-run homer by Joe Adcock, his 27th, and an unearned run on an error, Bob Taylor's fifth consecutive single and Lee Maye's bloop hit to short left.

Stovall's Efforts Spark Practice

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Quarterback Jimmy Fields and elusive halfback Jerry Stovall were standouts Saturday as fifth-ranked Louisiana State scrimmaged in a light drizzle.

It was the Tigers' final rough work before next Saturday's opener here against Texas A&M.

Stovall's running and the passing and running of Fields sparked a sharp-blocking White team against a red-shirted defensive unit emulating the Texas Aggies.

PALMER SIX BACK

Nicklaus, Player Make Move In Seattle Open

SEATTLE (AP)—Two of pro golf's big time, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, shot sub-par third rounds in the $30,000 Seattle Open Golf Tournament Saturday. Nicklaus moved out two strokes in front at the 54-hole mark with 197.

Nicklaus, the Ohioan playing out of Tucson, Ariz., had his second five under round with 65. His three-day total is 67-65-65—197.

Player, the South African who confided here in mid-week he was "about at the top of his game," was six under par with a 64. He goes into Sunday's final round with a 68-67-74—199.

"It was a good round, but I'm still second," Player said. "Don't get me wrong. You have to be greedy in this game."

Nicklaus, who said he was "holding back on his drives" to control the ball better, had five birdies. His 197 tied this year's pro tour record set by Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., in the Tucson Open.

Al Johnston of Montreal, Canada, also shot a 6-under-par 64 for a 71-67-64—202.

Billy Casper, Apple Valley, Calif., who had the low round of the tournament to date, a 63, and who held the lead at start of play Saturday, faded to a 71 and a 201. He was tied with Bob Rosburg of Portland, Ore., who shot a 5-under 65 for 69-67-65—201.

Two other players, Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa. and Bob Harrison, Pacific Palisades, Calif., were tied with Johnston at 202.

Arnold Palmer, Miami, Fla., was tied with six others at 7-65-68—203.

The field was cut to the low 60 pros, with 211 the cut-off point. Among pros who failed to qualify were Don Massingale, Jacksboro, Tex., who faded from a first-round 66 to a total of 212; Lionel Hebert, Kern City, Calif.; Dutch Harrison, San Francisco; and Claud Harmon, Mamaroneck, N.Y.

Sunny skies which helped dry out the greens and fairways also brought out a crowd of about 8,000 to the 6,328-yard Broadmoor Country Club layout.

MIRA SHINES

Hurricanes Roll Over Pitt, 23-14

By LOU PRATO

PITTSBURGH (AP) — All-America quarterback candidate George Mira dazzled a television audience with his running and passing Saturday and halfback Nick Spinelli scored two touchdowns in leading Miami to a 23-14 victory over Pit.

Mira, an impetuous junior from Key West, Fla., completed 13 passes in 25 attempts for 162 yards and one touchdown. But it was his deceptive running that frustrated the Pitt defenders in the opening game of the season for both teams.

He zig-zagged down field for 86 yards, picking up most of his yardage at crucial moments for the Hurricanes.

Spinelli, a junior from nearby Coraopolis, scored on runs of a yard and 8 yards. He also caught six passes from Mira for 67 yards.

Miami's stubborn defense held Pitt's highly - touted attack in check most of the game. The Panthers scored with 19 seconds left in the first half on Paul Martha's fourth-down 9-yard pass to Al Grigaliunas. Ed Clark ran 4 yards for Pitt's other touchdown with 50 seconds left in the game.

For awhile, the game appeared as if it was going to be a defensive struggle. Both teams had drives thwarted before Miami's Bob Wilson booted a 25-yard field goal three minutes into the second quarter.

But then Mira and Spinelli went to work in earnest, leading the Hurricanes on a 97-yard drive for a touchdown. Mira ran for 19 and 8 yards and also hit with a key 15-yard aerial to Spinelli. The hard - running Spinelli plunged over for the score from a yard out. Wilson kicked the conversion.

Mira's dead-eye passing and Spenelli's running and receiving broke the game open in the second half.

Mira, apparently trapped, broke away from tacklers and raced 36 yards to help set up Miami's second touchdown in the opening minutes of the third quarter. Spinelli smashed 8 yards off right guard for the score to climax a 73-yard drive. Wilson's kick again was good.

Maroon Team

With Rick Bryan

(This is the second in a series of articles on the personnel of the Northeast State three-team system. The first was on the gold team, the two-way outfit.)

Northeast's offensive club is the Maroon team. At present it is being run by quarterback Ronnie Myrick (175), the fastest man on the team. Myrick, who was fifth in the Gulf States conference with 593 yards total offense last year, was regarded as the finest freshman quarterback in Northeast history. The Indian coaching staff feels he has a brilliant future.

Playing with Myrick on this team are four juniors, three sophomores, two freshmen and one senior.

Junior Jim Love (198) is at one end and freshman Sherrel Smith (190) at the other. Love sprained an ankle before drills started this fall and missed out on the early work. He is an aggressive defender. Smith, the Springhill star, is one of the best Indian pass receivers. He caught three in in the high school all - star game and is one of the better new Tribe recruits.

The Tribe has junior Jim LaCoste (230) and freshmen Melvin Doucet (210) or Wayne Clements (210) at the Maroon team tackles. LaCoste, an all - stater from Istrouma, was a starter on occasion last year. Doucet, a LaGrange High product, signed in 1960, but spent a year in the service when his National Guard unit was activated. The additional maturity is serving him well. Clements played for Istrouma in high school.

Joe McClain (195), the most improved Indian in spring practice, is sharing guard duties with junior Don King (200). McClain a sophomore, is from Newellton, where he was an all - state tackle. King, another former all - stater, hails from Bossier City.

Sophomore Tommy Beaube (210), the ex - Ouachita star, has the center job. He is an outstanding linebacker.

Monte (Joe) Thrailkill (180), the only Maroon team senior and oldest man on the squad at 27, has one of the halfback spots. Thrailkill, an ex - sailor from Duncan, Okla, played with Northeast in 1959. He is a powerful runner with good speed.

The other halfback post is the object of a three - way switch since the first scrimmage a week ago. Apache or third - unit halfback Gordon Salsman (170) was moved up to the first team after doing well in drills. This put gold club back Ken Newton (180) back on the Maroon squad and dropped sophomore Dean Mann (170) to the Apache group.

The offensive team fullback is hard - running Devone Payne (190). Payne, oldest son of the late Northeast coach by the same name, is a junior. He was the team's number three rusher last fall with 262 yards and a 7.2 per-carry average.

Indian Runners

Northeast's cross-country team which won the Gulf States title the past two years and tied for it in 1958, should be a strong contender again this year. However, the Indians could be pushed by other conference teams.

Coach Bob Groseclose lost his two top finishers from the 1961 conference run - Don "Buddy" Eiland, who finished second, and steady Bill Frye (seventh).

Seven letter winners return. They are senior George Abbott, who finished eighth, Bill White, John Baker, David Hankins and Bobby Bryant.

Cross country, by the way, is almost too short a run for Hankins. The Oak Grove sophomore ran non - stop last spring from Monroe to his hometown - 61 miles away. His reward was a wrecked pair of shoes.

Strong support for the veteran harriers will come from five freshmen runners. New additions to Groseclose's club are Tom Brown, Hallsville, Tex.; Drew Butler, Plain Dealing; Charles Golightly, Shreveport; Gayland LeBlanc, Lake Arthur; and Bill Smith Haynesville.

Rained Out

Saturday afternoon's rain forced the Indians to cancel their scheduled scrimmage, the last one before next Saturday night's opener with Lamar Tech here.

In workouts last spring and this fall the Redskins have shown a lot of improvement. Their running attack is much smoother.

The passing seems a little more accurate too, though it is not as consistant as might be desired. Really efficient passing is hard to come by. It's a lot more than getting a man open and throwing him the ball. Carried to its peak, passing is an exact science of timing and position.

A Change

Louisiana Tech has undergone a change in its current offensive philosophy that will become apparent as the season goes on. With the present Canine personnel situation it could mean the difference in some close games. Nor should it be too much of a change for the veteran squad members to master. A number of the techniques have been in operation to varying degrees for some time.

One thing is certain. Junior halfback Paul Labenne proved the wrongness of the idea that Tech can't run because the team lacks big bruising backs. Labenne took a low punt near his 15 and weaved his way back downfield for a touchdown.

True, without runners like Paul Hynes, J. W. Slack for Max Rudd, the Bulldogs aren't going to blast open partial line holes too well. But they can move when the openings are there. One of the goals of the offensive thinking this year is going to be getting that running room.

W&M Field Goal Defeats Virginia

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Kicking specialist Steve Bishop booted a 20-yard last-period field goal for William and Mary Saturday and the victory-hungry Indians made it stand up for a 3-0 Southern Conference fotball victory over fiercely counter-attacking Virginia Tech.

Bishop, 22-year-old senior who never does anything but put the foot in the football, made the decisive field goal at a time when the Indians, after advancing 78 yards, appeared stalled on the Tech 2.

The kick was from an angle to the left but from the moment Bishop's trusty toe hit the ball there was never any doubt it was going cleanly through the crossbars. Earier, he had missed a field goal from the 21 in the first period.

Reds Down Mets To Keep Pennant Hopes Still Alive

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds kept their faint pennant hopes alive by defeating the New York Mets 9-6 Saturday as righthander Bob Purkey, with the help of Jim Maloney, pitched his 22nd victory of the season.

The Reds raked starter and loser Jay Hook for 10 of their 11 hits, including a home run by Jerry Lynch. The four-bagger, coming in the seventh inning with a man on base, was the 187th off New York pitching.

Braves Top Colts With 9th Inning Three Run Rally

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves moved to within one game of fifth place St. Louis by defeating the Houston Colts 9-8 Saturday night on a three-run, ninth-inning rally.

After dropping behind 8-5 in the top of the eighth, the Braves picked up one run in their half and then pulled out the victory in the ninth on a two-run homer by Joe Adcock, his 27th, and an unearned run on an error, Bob Taylor's fifth consecutive single and Lee Maye's bloop hit to short left.

Stovall's Efforts Spark Practice

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Quarterback Jimmy Fields and elusive halfback Jerry Stovall were standouts Saturday as fifth-ranked Louisiana State scrimmaged in a light drizzle.

It was the Tigers' final rough work before next Saturday's opener here against Texas A&M.

Stovall's running and the passing and running of Fields sparked a sharp-blocking White team against a red-shirted defensive unit emulating the Texas Aggies.

PALMER SIX BACK

Nicklaus, Player Make Move In Seattle Open

SEATTLE (AP)—Two of pro golf's big time, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, shot sub-par third rounds in the $30,000 Seattle Open Golf Tournament Saturday. Nicklaus moved out two strokes in front at the 54-hole mark with 197.

Nicklaus, the Ohioan playing out of Tucson, Ariz., had his second five under round with 65. His three-day total is 67-65-65—197.

Player, the South African who confided here in mid-week he was "about at the top of his game," was six under par with a 64. He goes into Sunday's final round with a 68-67-74—199.

"It was a good round, but I'm still second," Player said. "Don't get me wrong. You have to be greedy in this game."

Nicklaus, who said he was "holding back on his drives" to control the ball better, had five birdies. His 197 tied this year's pro tour record set by Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., in the Tucson Open.

Al Johnston of Montreal, Canada, also shot a 6-under-par 64 for a 71-67-64—202.

Billy Casper, Apple Valley, Calif., who had the low round of the tournament to date, a 63, and who held the lead at start of play Saturday, faded to a 71 and a 201. He was tied with Bob Rosburg, Portland, Ore., who shot a 5-under 65 for 69-67-65—201.

Two other players, Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa. and Bob Harrison, Pacific Palisades, Calif., were tied with Johnston at 202.

Arnold Palmer, Miami, Fla., was tied with six others at 7-65-68—203.

The field was cut to the low 60 pros, with 211 the cut-off point. Among pros who failed to qualify were Don Massingale, Jacksboro, Tex., who faded from a first-round 66 to a total of 212; Lionel Hebert, Kern City, Calif.; Dutch Harrison, San Francisco; and Claud Harmon, Mamaroneck, N.Y.

Sunny skies which helped dry out the greens and fairways also brought out a crowd of about 8,000 to the 6,328-yard Broadmoor Country Club layout.

MIRA SHINES

Hurricanes Roll Over Pitt, 23-14

By LOU PRATO

PITTSBURGH (AP) — All-America quarterback candidate George Mira dazzled a television audience with his running and passing Saturday and halfback Nick Spinelli scored two touchdowns in leading Miami to a 23-14 victory over Pit.

Mira, an impetuous junior from Key West, Fla., completed 13 passes in 25 attempts for 162 yards and one touchdown. But it was his deceptive running that frustrated the Pitt defenders in the opening game of the season for both teams.

He zig-zagged down field for 86 yards, picking up most of his yardage at crucial moments for the Hurricanes.

Spinelli, a junior from nearby Coraopolis, scored on runs of a yard and 8 yards. He also caught six passes from Mira for 67 yards.

Miami's stubborn defense held Pitt's highly - touted attack in check most of the game. The Panthers scored with 19 seconds left in the first half on Paul Martha's fourth-down 9-yard pass to Al Grigaliunas. Ed Clark ran 4 yards for Pitt's other touchdown with 50 seconds left in the game.

For awhile, the game appeared as if it was going to be a defensive struggle. Both teams had drives thwarted before Miami's Bob Wilson booted a 25-yard field goal three minutes into the second quarter.

But then Mira and Spinelli went to work in earnest, leading the Hurricanes on a 97-yard drive for a touchdown. Mira ran for 19 and 8 yards and also hit with a key 15-yard aerial to Spinelli. The hard - running Spinelli plunged over for the score from a yard out. Wilson kicked the conversion.

Mira's dead-eye passing and Spenelli's running and receiving broke the game open in the second half.

Mira, apparently trapped, broke away from tacklers and raced 36 yards to help set up Miami's second touchdown in the opening minutes of the third quarter. Spinelli smashed 8 yards off right guard for the score to climax a 73-yard drive. Wilson's kick again was good.

Guns For Youngsters

Now that hunting seasons are about to open on a full scale basis, youngsters who are going to follow their dads and companions to the woods should be taught how to handle a gun.

This is a good time to do it, since the first leg of the dove season ends today and the squirrel season opens October 1st.

Hunters are accidentially shot each year — often young hunters who are unskilled in the proper methods of safely handling a weapon.

All guns should be considered as loaded, which is the most fundamental rule to learn. But there are other things that young sportsmen should know.

Best way for them to learn is for an older hunter to teach them. If that older hunter cannot be the father, then it should be an uncle or a neighbor or any adult who is interested enough to take time to teach a kid that guns were built to kill.

Some moms and dads fear that a gun is too dangerous for their boys to own. They, of course, are free to believe as they wish and do as they like.

But personally we feel that a young boy can learn a lot in the field and that it is best for the youngster to own his own gun after he has been taught how to handle one.

Boys who are going to hunt will get their hands on a gun whether their dads supervise them or not.

It's two weeks away from the squirrel season. Take a boy to the field and teach him to shoot and handle a gun properly. Tomorrow may be too late.

Dove Hunting Slow

Louisiana's first leg of the dove season closes today, but so far the hunting hasn't been as good as it was this time last year.

That's mainly because hunters have found few legal fields with large concentrations of of birds. There have been some good shoots, however.

But since the opening two or three days the hunting has been awfully slim, according to all the reports that we have heard and seen.

The heat has kept a lot of hunters at home too.

We noted one published report regarding the disease trichomoniasis that showed up in the dove population around Tennessee.

Pigeon raisers are familiar with trichomoniasis, which is sort of a throat cancer in birds.

The disease prevents the birds from swallowing.

While trichomoniasis was found in the doves of Tennessee, so far, according to our own biologists, the Louisiana birds have been in pretty good shape.

Unofficially, we understand that only one dove was found with trichomoniasis and that case was reported in the Alexandria area.

At any rate birds with the disease can be eaten safely. The only thing is, they're pretty skinny.

Work At Russell Sage

Personnel of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission have been spending a lot of time preparing the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area in Lafourche Swamp for the coming hunting seasons.

Russell Sage runs from Wham Brake through the heart of Lafourche, covering Ouachita, Morehouse and Richland.

A big step toward having the area ready for hunters has been directed toward the construction of a jeep road on the edge of the swamp boundary.

The road has been built and according to our information it will afford the hunter an access route into the woods — by jeep, when the weather is good.

But it'll be a tough go when the road is wet and muddy.

At any rate work is underway to have Russell Sage in best shape as possible for the opening of the hunting seasons. The area is marked and hunters will have little difficulty in making sure that they're on hunting grounds.

We'll have more on this before the season open.

The Bow Season

Bow hunters will get a nice opportunity to bag a buck in just two weeks from now when the bow season on deer opens October 1st in all areas that will open later for gun hunters.

A bow season has been one of Louisiana's greatest needs in many years, especially since the bow and arrow has returned as a sport. Bow hunters, who must practice the greatest amount of woods lore to even get a shot at a deer, just can't operate when the woods are full of people.

Bow hunters, however, have certain rules to follow, as set forth by the state commissions.

For instance, arrows used for hunting deer must have well - sharpened metal broadhead blades not less than 7/8 inch and not more than 1½ inch in width.

In addition, the following will be unlawful:

1. To have strung bows in any vehicle.

2. To have in possession any gun while hunting with bow and arrow during the special bow and arrow deer season.

3. To have in possession, or under control while hunting, any poisoned arrows, arrows with explosive tips, or any bow drawn, held or released by mechanical means.

4. To hunt deer with a bow having a pull less than 30 pounds.

Little Man's Corner

With the doves scattered, the little men had trouble making news afield, but some did anyway.

For instance, Hollis Ervin at Tallulah says about 35 or 40 sportsmen have been enjoying good shoots in the Madison Parish area. Reports from Tensas, however, differ.

Madison hunters getting some good shooting include Sonny Todd, Bobby Todd, Wallace Luckett, Salo Abrahm, J. C. David, Hollis Ervin and Walter Scott.

Lake Providence getting the limit included James H. Crews, Jim Baur Sr. and Jim Baur Jr., Pat Bonner, Lloyd Clements, Dan Hammett, Charlie Allen, Jimmy McIntyre and Phillip Stafford.

Fishing hasn't been bad, though, and closer to home, Casey Osborn at Moon Lake says the bass are striking there.

Tom Musgrove landed 15 bass in Old River near Lake Providence. Mr. and Mrs. James H. Matthews got the limit of bream in Gassoway. A Delhi angler, Alvie Lambert landed 24 white perch in Lake Concordia.

In Saline Lake, Walter Durham got the limit of bass.

And in the Vidalia area, at Deer Park, Doy and William Hinson caught 29 bass.

OPPOSING QUARTERBACKS in Saturday night's Lamar Tech-Northeast game here will be Lamar's Windell Hebert (left) and Northeast's Ronnie Myrick. The two stars staged a spectacular show last fall when the two teams met in Beaumont, Tex.

WHEN THE CARDINALS INVADE

Myrick, Herbert May Tie Up In Aerial Duel

If Ronnie Myrick and Windell Hebert are going to put on a show at Saturday night's Northeast-Lamar Tech here like the one they staged last year, those with weak hearts should stay home.

The two quarterbacks — Myrick of Northeast and Hebert of Lamar — together accounted for 356 yards in their meeting last year in Beaumont, Tex., completed 11 of 22 passes and had a direct hand in four touchdowns.

Hebert's team won 38-34, with the Cardinal passing ace firing touchdown strikes of 64 and 55 yards within a three-minute period in the final quarter to win it. Myrick, however, came out on top in their personal duel, outgaining Hebert and narrowly missing pulling the game out of the fire with a last-minute aerial barrage.

2ND COLLEGE GAME

Myrick, then a freshman playing in only his second college game, completed six of 13 passes for 134 yards and ran five times for 47 yards and two touchdowns in the game. He also had a 13-yard scoring pass to halfback Ken Newton erased because of a penalty.

Hebert, now a senior, threw nine passes in the game and completed five for 161 yards. He ran three times for 14 yards.

Both players proved their performances in the game were not flukes by going on to lead their teams in total offense for the season. Hebert gained a grand total of 1,280 yards, a figure that was also tops in the Lone Star Conference and 13th in the nation among small college backs.

Myrick, who divided Northeast's quarterback chores with senior Don Wattigny last season, finished with 593 yards, fourth highest in the Gulf States Conference, and led his team with five touchdowns.

Now weighing a husky 175 pounds, the Oak Grove star has been alternating with senior Pete Vincent at quarterback in pre-season drills and the pair give Coach Jack Rowan a potent 1-2 punch at the vital position.

Myrick is not only an adequate passer but is also one of the fastest man on the squad and defensive ends and linebackers have trouble containing him on wide end sweeps. He picked up 271 yards on 66 rushes last fall, averaging 4.1 yards a try, and passed 57 times for 25 completions and 322 yards, tops among Indian throwers.

ALL STAR CANDIDATE

Lamar is pushing Hebert for Little All-America honors this year and the 161 - pound passing whiz boasts impressive credentials. He completed 62 of 141 passes for 1,138 yards and ran for an extra 142 yards. He holds three Tech career records and four season standards.

An "A" student in engineering, Hebert will handle offensive quarterback duties on both of Lamar's offensive teams this fall and will not be allowed to play any defense. Ronnie Wright was the No. 2 quarterback last year but has been shifted to halfback this season.

Wright quarterbacked Lamar to its first score, a field goal, in last year's game with Northeast but Hebert did most of the work and directed the team on its first touchdown drive, the six - pointer coming early in the second period and leaving the Cards with a 10-0 lead.

Myrick snapped Northeast back into contention pronto. On the first play following the kickoff, he gave to fullback Willie Ragan on a line smash for one yard then faked to Ragan and passed to end Bo Dick Smith for 58 yards. The play carried to the one and Al Ott scored from that point.

After Lamar scored again, Myrick fed to Ragan again for four yards, then faked to the Indian fullback and hit Smith on the same play this time for 31 yards to the 10. He swept end for the touchdown.

Lamar led at half time, 17-14, and added another touchdown in the third before Northeast exploded for three rapid-fire touchdowns in the fourth, Myrick scoring one of them on a 15-yard sweep after his scoring toss to Newton had been nullified.

With Lamar trailing, 34-24, with 5:33 left in the game, Hebert passed 64 to Bobby Jancik for a Card touchdown and then, with 1:33 remaining, hit the speedy halfback for 55 yards and another score to make the score 38-34.

BLAZES BACK

After Northeast returning the kickoff to its 32, Myrick quickly moved the Indians back into scoring position with a pass to Ken Thornhill for nine yards and another to Smith for 23. But four passes fell incomplete and Lamar took over the ball on its 36 with six seconds left and ran out the clock.

Both the star receivers of last year's game — Jancik of Tech and Smith of Northeast—are gone but Myrick and Hebert are well supplied with capable pass catchers and both, especially Hebert, are expected to throw often next Saturday night.

Tickets for the Lamar game are on sale at the Northeast athletic office. Orders may be placed by calling FA 5-6361, extension 317, or FA 5-1804.

Tech Has Frosh On Second Unit

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech gridders wound up the second week of practice with a light scrimmage Friday and another head - knocking session Saturday.

Tech coaches feel that much remains to be done before the Bulldogs are ready for the McNeese State clash Sept. 29. And the start of classes this week will cut the field sessions down from two to one per day.

As the week ended, Tech had an all - veteran first unit with second and third units sprinkled with sophomores and frosh.

The first unit includes Jerry Griffin of Springhill and Charles Bourgeois of Sulphur at ends; Red Malone of Springhill and Jim Willis of Shreveport at tackle; J. R. Williamson of El Dorado at center; Mickey Slaughter of Alexandria at Quarterback; Paul Labenne of Shreveport and Corky Cockern of Bossier City at halfback, and Ronnie Carson of Jonesboro at fullback.

The second unit is composed of Billy Keever of Sulphur and Pat Lynch of New Orleans at end; Bill McBunch of Istrouma and Claude Carrigan of Shreveport at tackle; Donald Hodge of Tallulah and Ricky Lott of Bossier City at guard; Wally Martin of Ruston at center, and Pat Shows of Ruston or Bruce Weaver of Vivian at quarterback. Dwain Nettles and Alvin Ballard, both of Istrouma, at halfback and Charlie Miller of Sicily Island at fullback.

A third unit is composed of Wayne Davis of Shreveport and David Lee of Minden or Bob Jolet of Sulphur at end; Dan Irby of Bastrop and Dickie Walden of Shreveport at tackle; Jerry Arledge of Oil City and David Bass of Shreveport at guard; Billy Laird of Shreveport at quarterback; Mickey Strother of Farmerville or Jack Odom of Shreveport and Tommy Robertson of Dixie at halfback; Gerald McDowell of Sulphur or Wayne Noland of Tallulah at fullback.

A fourth unit is practically an all - frosh outfit which includes Maurice Greer of Vidalia and Herbert Kendrick of Las Vegas, Nev., at end; Corky Cassidy of Shreveport and Wally Ford of Hammond, Ind., at tackle; Pete DeSordi of Homer or Billy Miller of Rayville and Bobby Duncan of Monroe at guard; Mike Cheatham of Eagle Lake, Tex., at center; Jim Stringer of Vidalia at quarterback; Jay Westbrook of Ruston and Jerry Barr of Shreveport or Jerry Lindsay of Shreveport at halfback, and Jack Hopkins of Waterproof at fullback.

Tackles Billy Bagwell of Vivian and Andy Malone of Longview, Tex., are still on the no-contact list, although they are doing some running.

First game opponent McNeese State opens against Mexico Poly Saturday. They will meet the Techmen in a Gulf States conference headliner here the following Saturday night.

Recreation Grid Quiz Now Starting

The Recreation Grid Quiz, that annual contest in which football fans of this area try their skill at predicting the results of selected games, is ready for the first of its ten-week schedule.

The Monroe Recreation Department conducts the contest and rewards winners with trophies designating them as champion football forecasters. Duplicate awards are given for men and women.

All that is necessary to compete is to circle the names of the teams you think will win from each week's selections, sign your name and address clearly and mail to "Recreation Grid Quiz, P. O. Box 1293, Monroe, La." for a postmark not later than midnight Wednesday.

Here goes with test No. 1:

Phillies Score 3 In 9th Inning; Top Cardinals, 5-4

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies scored three runs in the ninth inning Saturday to nose out the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4. Pnch hitter Mel Roach singled home the winning tally with one out.

It was the third straight game the Phillies won by staging a ninth-inning rally, the second from the Cards.

Jack Baldschun relieved Dallas Green in the ninth to earn his 11th victory against seven losses. He was one of four Phillies pitchers. Boby Shantz (6-4) was the loser.

Villanova Downs West Chester 11

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Sun Bowl champion Villanova, helped by size and depth, overpowered game little West Chester State College 31-6 Saturday before 12,000 shirtsleeved football fans in Villanova Stadium.

The Wildcats, with a fair nucleus of the 1961 team that won eight and lost two, outrushed and outpassed West Chester from the kickoff but held only a 12-6 lead into the fourth quarter.

Then, starting with Bob Merenda's 2-yard thrust off tackle, the Wildcats scored three TDs in the final five minutes.

West Chester's all-time ground gaining champion, Joe Iacone, a Little All-America last year, produced the Rams' only touchdown going the last 5 yards to cap a 77-yard third period march.

Senators Down White Sox With Rookie Bouldin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rookie Carl Bouldin, captain of the University of Cincinnati's NCAA basketball champions two years ago, won his first major league baseball game Saturday night as the Washington Senators defeated the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

Bouldin, who will be 23 on Monday, retired the first 12 to face him, gave up a run in the fifth on Deacon Jones' double and Camilo Carreon's single, and pitched shutout ball from that point. He fanned seven and walked only one.

The Senators had only three hits for the second straight night off Juan Pizarro and Turk Lown but made them count.

Guns For Youngsters

Now that hunting seasons are about to open on a full scale basis, youngsters who are going to follow their dads and companions to the woods should be taught how to handle a gun.

This is a good time to do it, since the first leg of the dove season ends today and the squirrel season opens October 1st.

Hunters are accidentially shot each year — often young hunters who are unskilled in the proper methods of safely handling a weapon.

All guns should be considered as loaded, which is the most fundamental rule to learn. But there are other things that young sportsmen should know.

Best way for them to learn is for an older hunter to teach them. If that older hunter cannot be the father, then it should be an uncle or a neighbor or any adult who is interested enough to take time to teach a kid that guns were built to kill.

Some moms and dads fear that a gun is too dangerous for their boys to own. They, of course, are free to believe as they wish and do as they like.

But personally we feel that a young boy can learn a lot in the field and that it is best for the youngster to own his own gun after he has been taught how to handle one.

Boys who are going to hunt will get their hands on a gun whether their dads supervise them or not.

It's two weeks away from the squirrel season. Take a boy to the field and teach him to shoot and handle a gun properly.

Tomorrow may be too late.

Dove Hunting Slow

Louisiana's first leg of the dove season closes today, but so far the hunting hasn't been as good as it was this time last year.

That's mainly because hunters have found few legal fields with large concentrations of of birds. There have been some good shoots, however.

But since the opening two or three days the hunting has been awfully slim, according to all the reports that we have heard and seen.

The heat has kept a lot of hunters at home too.

We noted one published report regarding the disease trichomoniasis that showed up in the dove population around Tennessee.

Pigeon raisers are familiar with trichomoniasis, which is sort of a throat cancer in birds.

The disease prevents the birds from swallowing.

While trichomoniasis was found in the doves of Tennessee, so far, according to our own biologists, the Louisiana birds have been in pretty good shape.

Unofficially, we understand that only one dove was found with trichomoniasis and that case was reported in the Alexandria area.

At any rate birds with the disease can be eaten safely. The only thing is, they're pretty skinny.

Work At Russell Sage

Personnel of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission have been spending a lot of time preparing the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area in Lafourche Swamp for the coming hunting seasons.

Russell Sage runs from Wham Brake through the heart of Lafourche, covering Ouachita, Morehouse and Richland.

A big step toward having the area ready for hunters has been directed toward the construction of a jeep road on the edge of the swamp boundary.

The road has been built and according to our information it will afford the hunter an access route into the woods — by jeep, when the weather is good.

But it'll be a tough go when the road is wet and muddy.

At any rate work is underway to have Russell Sage in best shape as possible for the opening of the hunting seasons. The area is marked and hunters will have little difficulty in making sure that they're on hunting grounds.

We'll have more on this before the season open.

The Bow Season

Bow hunters will get a nice opportunity to bag a buck in just two weeks from now when the bow season on deer opens October 1st in all areas that will open later for gun hunters.

A bow season has been one of Louisiana's greatest needs in many years, especially since the bow and arrow has returned as a sport. Bow hunters, who must practice the greatest amount of woods lore to even get a shot at a deer, just can't operate when the woods are full of people.

Bow hunters, however, have certain rules to follow, as set forth by the state commissions.

For instance, arrows used for hunting deer must have well - sharpened metal broadhead blades not less than ⅞ inch and not more than 1½-inch in width.

In addition, the following will be unlawful:

.1. To have strung bows in any vehicle.

2. To have in possession any gun while hunting with bow and arrow during the special bow and arrow deer season.

3. To have in possession, or under control while hunting, any poisoned arrows, arrows with explosive tips, or any bow drawn, held or released by mechanical means.

4. To hunt deer with a bow having a pull less than 30 pounds.

Little Man's Corner

With the doves scattered, the little men had trouble making news afield, but some did anyway.

For instance, Hollis Ervin at Tallulah says about 35 or 40 sportsmen have been enjoying good shoots in the Madison Parish area. Reports from Tensas, however, differ.

Madison hunters getting some good shooting include Sonny Todd, Bobby Todd, Wallace Luckett, Salo Abrahm, J. C. David, Hollis Ervin and Walter Scott.

Lake Providence getting the limit included James H. Crews, Jim Baur Sr. and Jim Baur Jr., Pat Bonner, Lloyd Clements, Dan Hammett, Charlie Allen, Jimmy McIntyre and Phillip Stafford.

Fishing hasn't been bad, though, and closer to home, Casey Osborn at Moon Lake says the bass are striking there.

Tom Musgrove landed 15 bass in Old River near Lake Providence. Mr. and Mrs. James H. Matthews got the limit of bream in Gassoway. A Delhi angler, Alvie Lambert landed 24 white perch in Lake Concordia.

In Saline Lake, Walter Durham got the limit of bass.

And in the Vidalia area, at Deer Park, Doy and William Hinson caught 29 bass.

Villanova Downs West Chester 11

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Sun Bowl champion Villanova, helped by size and depth, overpowered game little West Chester State College 31-6 Saturday before 12,000 shirtsleeved football fans in Villanova Stadium.

The Wildcats, with a fair nucleus of the 1961 team that won eight and lost two, outrushed and outpassed West Chester from the kickoff but held only a 12-6 lead into the fourth quarter.

Then, starting with Bob Merenda's 2-yard thrust off tackle, the Wildcats scored three TDs in the final five minutes.

West Chester's all-time ground gaining champion, Joe Iacone, a Little All-America last year, produced the Rams' only touchdown going the last 5 yards to cap a 77-yard third period march.

Recreation Grid Quiz Now Starting

The Recreation Grid Quiz, that annual contest in which football fans of this area try their skill at predicting the results of selected games, is ready for the first of its ten-week schedule.

The Monroe Recreation Department conducts the contest and rewards winners with trophies designating them as champion football forecasters. Duplicate awards are given for men and women.

All that is necessary to compete is to circle the names of the teams you think will win from each week's selections, sign your name and address clearly and mail to "Recreation Grid Quiz, P. O. Box 1293, Monroe, La." for a postmark not later than midnight Wednesday.

Here goes with test No. 1:

WHEN THE CARDINALS INVADE

Myrick, Herbert May Tie Up In Aerial Duel

If Ronnie Myrick and Windell Hebert are going to put on a show at Saturday night's Northeast-Lamar Tech here like the one they staged last year, those with weak hearts should stay home.

The two quarterbacks — Myrick of Northeast and Hebert of Lamar — together accounted for 356 yards in their meeting last year in Beaumont, Tex., completed 11 of 22 passes and had a direct hand in four touchdowns.

Hebert's team won 38-34, with the Cardinal passing ace firing touchdown strikes of 64 and 55 yards within a three-minute period in the final quarter to win it. Myrick, however, came out on top in their personal duel, outgaining Hebert and narrowly missing pulling the game out of the fire with a last-minute aerial barrage.

2ND COLLEGE GAME

Myrick, then a freshman playing in only his second college game, completed six of 13 passes for 134 yards and ran five times for 47 yards and two touchdowns in the game. He also had a 13-yard scoring pass to halfback Ken Newton erased because of a penalty.

Hebert, now a senior, threw nine passes in the game and completed five for 161 yards. He ran three times for 14 yards.

Both players proved their performances in the game were not flukes by going on to lead their teams in total offense for the season. Hebert gained a grand total of 1,280 yards, a figure that was also tops in the Lone Star Conference and 13th in the nation among small college backs.

Myrick, who divided Northeast's quarterback chores with senior Don Wattigny last season, finished with 593 yards, fourth highest in the Gulf States Conference, and led his team with five touchdowns.

Now weighing a husky 175 pounds, the Oak Grove star has been alternating with senior Pete Vincent at quarterback in pre-season drills and the pair give Coach Jack Rowan a potent 1-2 punch at the vital position.

Myrick is not only an adequate passer but is also one of the fastest man on the squad and defensive ends and linebackers have trouble containing him on wide end sweeps. He picked up 271 yards on 66 rushes last fall, averaging 4.1 yards a try, and passed 57 times for 25 completions and 322 yards, tops among Indian throwers.

ALL STAR CANDIDATE

Lamar is pushing Hebert for Little All-America honors this year and the 161 - pound passing whiz boasts impressive credentials. He completed 62 of 141 passes for 1,138 yards and ran for an extra 142 yards. He holds three Tech career records and four season standards.

An "A" student in engineering, Hebert will handle offensive quarterback duties on both of Lamar's offensive teams this fall and will not be allowed to play any defense. Ronnie Wright was the No. 2 quarterback last year but has been shifted to halfback this season.

Wright quarterbacked Lamar to its first score, a field goal, in last year's game with Northeast but Hebert did most of the work and directed the team on its first touchdown drive, the six - pointer coming early in the second period and leaving the Cards with a 10-0 lead.

Myrick snapped Northeast back into contention pronto. On the first play following the kickoff, he gave to fullback Willie Ragan on a line smash for one yard then faked to Ragan and passed to end Bo Dick Smith for 58 yards. The play carried to the one and Al Ott scored from that point.

After Lamar scored again, Myrick fed to Ragan again for four yards, then faked to the Indian fullback and hit Smith on the same play this time for 31 yards to the 10. He swept end for the touchdown.

Lamar led at half time, 17-14, and added another touchdown in the third before Northeast exploded for three rapid-fire touchdowns in the fourth, Myrick scoring one of them on a 15-yard sweep after his scoring toss to Newton had been nullified.

With Lamar trailing, 34-24, with 5:33 left in the game, Hebert passed 64 to Bobby Jancik for a Card touchdown and then, with 1:33 remaining, hit the speedy halfback for 55 yards and another score to make the score 38-34.

BLAZES BACK

After Northeast returning the kickoff to its 32, Myrick quickly moved the Indians back into scoring position with a pass to Ken Thornhill for nine yards and another to Smith for 23. But four passes fell incomplete and Lamar took over the ball on its 36 with six seconds left and ran out the clock.

Both the star receivers of last year's game — Jancik of Tech and Smith of Northeast—are gone but Myrick and Hebert are well supplied with capable pass catchers and both, especially Hebert, are expected to throw often next Saturday night.

Tickets for the Lamar game are on sale at the Northeast athletic office. Orders may be placed by calling FA 5-6361, extension 317, or FA 5-1804.

Touch Football Leagues Slated To Begin Soon

The Monroe Recreation Department is now in the process of organizing its fall touch football leagues.

Any team desiring to enter is urged to contact Jackie Neal at the Benoit Center 1700 Oaklawn Drive or telephone 325-3895.

There will be two leagues this fall, one a high school league and the other a city league. The leagues will begin play in two weeks.

Ed Kennedy Confident Of Election Win

BOSTON (AP) — President Kennedy's youngest brother, Edward M. Kennedy, neared the climax of his hurricane campaign for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate on Saturday, gravel-voiced and weary, but bulging with confidence.

"It's a tight race which he should win," said Stephen Smith, one of his key advisors. Smith's wife is the former Jean Kennedy, a member of the President's family.

The Democratic and Republican primaries will be held Tuesday.

At stake is the Senate seat, with two years remaining, that the President vacated. Thus, if his brother should win, they will be on the same ticket in 1964.

Kennedy's opponent is State Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., former presdent of the Boston City Council and serving a second full term in his present office.

The GOP contest pits George Cabot Lodge against Rep. Laurence Curtis. Lodge's father and great-grandfather were senators. Curtis is a veteran of 10 years in Congress.

In state conventions last June, Kennedy and Lodge won the endorsement of their respective parties. This is one reason why some Massachusetts political observers expect them to win next Tuesday.

But especially in the Democratic race, a number of quicksilver factors are present, questions the election alone can answer. These are the main ones:

1. What's the effect of the name "Kennedy?"

2. How many of the estimated 1.2 million independents vote, and for whom?

3. Has the experience-vs youth argument caught on?

4. Who will get the women's vote?

To thousands of voters, the Kennedy name is magic. "I think his brothers are doing a good job in Washington," said the interurban train conductor, "and he will, too."

To others, it's poison. "I'm a Democrat," said a Boston cab driver, "but if they nominate Kennedy, I'll vote Republican in November."

You hear references to the "Kennedy dynasty." One man said of them, spurning the grammar, "They're throwing money around like it's going out of fashion, and that don't set well with me."

As to the independent vote, Archibald MacLeish, poet, playwright and educator, came out for McCormack last Wednesday, and urged other independents to vote in the primary — which many thousands of them usually avoid.

MacLeish issued a statement saying the point of voting for McCormack is "to save the President from the damage to his prestige implicit in the candidacy of his young brother."

New Oak Grove Post Office Building Opened

OAK GROVE (Special) — Oak Grove's new post office held open house Wednesday and it's first day of business in its new quarters Thursday.

Instead of the usual service windows in the lobby a counter design was installed with no windows. There are approximately 540 rental boxes, post master's office, a mailing vestibule, mailing platform, two rest rooms and storage room. An unobstructed view of all working areas can be seen from the counter. The building has central heating and air conditioning, and the outside front has a buff colored solar wall.

Besides L. B. Moseley, the postmaster, there Mrs. Mrs. Essie Leach, assistant postmaster; John L. Sanders, regular clerk; Archie Chapman, regular clerk; John Emmitt Davis, substitute clerk; and four rural carriers: A. L. Sandifer, John Kester, French Jones and Jack Everett.

Electric Rates Cut In Vidalia

VIDALIA (Special) — A reduction in the electric rate of the town of Vidalia is announced by Mayor Sidney A. Murry Jr., and members of the board of aldermen.

Mayor Murray said that the rate of the town owned utility had also been released a year ago. He said that at that time the rate was reduced from two cents per kilowatt hour to a cent and three quarters. The present reduction for residential users brings the rate to a cent and a half per kilowatt hour.

Mayor Murray added that the rate reduction which was voted this week by the board of aldermen will go into effect October 1 and will show on the November billing. He added that the current rate reduction is expected to enable Vidalians to use more electrical appliances.

Bids Opened By U.S. Engineers

FERRIDAY (Special) — Bids opened Friday by the U. S. Engineer Office in Vicksburg, Miss., for the construction of Point Pleasant Levee Setback. G. D. Knickerbocker, contractor of Monroe, was the apparent low bidder.

The firm's bid was for $56,568. The government estimate was $66,311.

Several parties this week have been given honoring BETTY and B. F. CUMMINGS, who plan to move to Jacksonville, Texas, about October 1. Ten families, neighbors on West Highland avenue in West Monroe, attended a barbecue in Bernstein Park Saturday night.

Hostesses DOT PATTERSON and T. B. SMITH invited the group, including children, for the cookout, which included chicken cooked on the spot, and all the trimmings . . . . On Sunday, LaVERNE and JOHN BAYLES had the Cummings for family dinner.

Wednesday afternoon, BONNIE BENNETT entertained Betty and some thirty - seven friends at an informal conversational hour. The guest of honor received a corsage of white chrysanthemums and a birthday cup as a farewell present from the hostess.

Lavender and purple chrysanthemums centered the table, with punch in multi - colored tumblers contributing to the colorful decor. Other goodies included apricot rolls, cheese biscuits, and lemon cookies. Guests called between three and five for a visit with Betty.

Visitors in the home of JEANNETTE and OTHA RODDEY this weekend are his sister and brother-in-law, NANCY and DICK HOEN of Milwaukee, Wisconsin. The guests arrived Thursday, stopping over for a few days en route to the Canary Islands, where they will spend the winter. They plan to leave on Tuesday next.

GARDEN CLUB MEMBERS from throughout the Fifth District are making their plans to attend the district meeting Thursday in Vidalia. Ferriday and Vidalia Garden clubs will be co - hostesses for the all - day program, which begins with a business session at Vidalia Civic Center at 10 a.m. The ladies will adjourn to Natchez at noon for luncheon at the Carriage House. Later MRS. JAMES S. HENDERSON, landscape architect of Atlanta Georgia, will speak at Stanton Hall. There will be a free and optional tour of some of Natchez's historic homes following the featured speaker.

Today marks the beginning of CONSTITUTION WEEK, sponsored locally by Ft. Miro chapter, DAR. This week is set aside to stimulate knowledge of and interest in our U. S. Constitution. Displays in keeping with the week's theme will be seen at various spots throughout the Twin Cities.

First of the Fall parties was held last Friday night by Cosmopolitan Dance club. A theme of "Autumn Nocturne" was carried out in decorations at Paragon ballroom, where Jerry Lane and his orchestra played from nine until one. Among the dance frocks we noted JO ELEANOR BENTON's cafe aulait chiffon, beautifully draped from top to bottom . . . and EZELL GENTRY'S red lace with silver accessories . . . Brown satin flowers encircled the neck of JOYCE BURKHALTER's champagne satin with skirt of unpressed pleats . . . MARIE TOLSON chose turquoise chiffon with wide satin belt and matching satin shoes . . . . One touch of glitter was provided by the rhinestone clip which ornamented KAY HOOD's black silk crepe, styled with blouson top and pleated skirt.

Almost as much fun as a treasure hunt is fixing up an old house and discovering lovely pieces forgotten in attic or closet. The LOUIS MILNERS, JR., have returned to Monroe after six years in Collinston and have spent the summer renovating the old Milner home at 1517 Park Avenue. This Spanish colonial house is of white stucco over brick (walls eighteen inches thick) and is encircled with arches. At each side are open arcades doubling as carports and entrances. Main living rooms are through the center of the house, with children's bedrooms in the wing to the left, master bedroom and kitchen in right wing, as one faces the house.

A facade of four windows faces the street. These form one entire wall of the family room, which may be entered from arcades at each side. Draw draperies of natural linen patterned in beige and green cover three window-filled walls. On the floor are Spanish tiles, which are repeated in a chair rail set into white plaster.

In this room one finds the first of numerous delightful pieces rescued from storage. Beside one entrance is an antique French commode, with a gold - framed mirror above. Opposite, by the door on the other side, is an Oriental chest of Phillipine mahogany inlaid with pearl and ivory. On an oak refectory table (made of one solid slab laid on a wrought iron base) are a cloissone bowl and vase flanked by a pair of inlaid bronze candlesticks . . Three arches fill the wall leading into the living room, two steps up from the family room level. Between the arches are a pair of Italian majolica wine jugs on cast iron stands.

The living room is lighted by six sconces of gold bronze brushed with silver. Rosewood furniture, upholstered with red silk damask, is used in this room, and a chinese red lacquered chest. The marble mantel, one of a pair taken from an old house in New Orleans, is installed on an inside wall, back to back with its mate in the dining room. The fireplaces contain the original fire dogs and fenders.

An antique French bronze chandelier with prisms of four shades of crystal hangs over the dining table. Against a long wall is a large buffet of mission oak, and in a corner, an old sugar chest of cherry wood. Sheer white draperies hang from cornice rods over the three French doors which open to the glassed - in porch converted into a den. Here arches which formerly opened onto the arcades at each side of the house have been converted into bookcases at one end and a glass, lockable gun case at the other. The den in turn opens onto the patio and the garden, reaching all the way through the block and centered around a wishing well.

The master bedroom enjoys the vaulted ceiling of the former dining room. Here draperies and upholstered bed are made of the same material: scenes from Fragonard done in red on white. In Arches recessed into the thick outer walls are seen several pieces from Polly's collection of Bohemian glass.

Throughout the house, ceiling, doors, and hardware are particularly outstanding. Floors are of quarter - sawed pine. Ceilings are of pine in the children's room; of hand - hewn cypress beams in the living area. Doors are of old - stained pine, with handsome hand wrought iron hinges and keyplates. Even knockers on the children's bedroom doors are unusual: a pair found in the attic. For Breard and Louis, two little boys; and for Polly and Nancy, tiny girls, each done in bas-relief on a knocker less than two inches in diameter. The girls' room has white walls and curtains of tiered eyelet. Furniture includes a pair of spool beds, an antique love seat, and a charming little walnut doll bed. The boys' room has its own entrance through their private den - workshop

For our poem today, we have a sonnet by Monroe's own MAY SMITH WHITE. It describes moving of the old Gunby home, previously described in this column:

MOVING ANCESTRAL HOME

A landmark standing on a quiet street . . .
Long sheltered by the age-old red-oak trees;
Those living here have always known retreat,
Like balm that comes with early autumn's breeze.
Progress decreed that soon this house must go—
To give an overpass the right-of-way!
But those who love this home then came to know
Their need to seek another site that day
A perfect lot with aging trees was found—
The house was moved by men who braced each wall.
The lawn was leveled, plants put in the ground;
And here the trees bowed gracefully to all.
While lengthy windows shed their light once more,
Camellias blossom just outside the door

MRS. JAMES PATRICK SMITH JR.

Sandra Stokes Becomes Bride In Shreveport

Miss Sandra Stokes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stokes of Shreveport, former residents of Monroe, became the bride of James Patrick Smith Jr., son of Mrs. R. C. McGinty and the late James Patrick Smith Sr., Shreveport, on Saturday, September 8.

Vows were exchanged in Broadmoor Baptist church, in Shreveport at 7 p.m. with Dr. Scott L. Tatum performing the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of candlelight silk peau de soie, which featured scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves appliqued in rich imported Alencon lace. Her veil of illusion fell from a crown of pearlized orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis atop a Bible.

Miss Jan Stokes, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Thigpen and Miss Annette Wimberley. They wore ballet length gowns of leaf gold silk taffeta, with scoop necklines and brief sleeves. The skirts swept to the back in bustle effect with obi bows at the back waistline. They carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums with Rainbow streamers and pompons.

Candles were lighted by Beverly Stokes and Susan Stokes, cousins of the bride.

David Paul Smith attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were Richard Smith and Don Adair. Serving as ushers were Ronald Stokes, Fred Shewmake, Dick Heard and Thomas Sleamaker.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in the church parlor. After a wedding trip the couple will establish a home in Shreveport.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wiggins, Flomaton, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Stokes of Mangham, La. Born in Monroe, she is a graduate of Byrd high school and Centenary College, and is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha social sorority; Alpha Sigma Pi, scholastic fraternity, served as class secretary and was on the Dean's list.

Mr. Smith is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Johnson of Taylor, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Smith of York, Ala. He is a graduate of Fair Park high school, and attended Northwestern and Centenary College. He is a member of Kappa Sigma social fraternity and sports editor of Centenary College newspaper

Accessories Become Part Of Fashion Theme

Stoles and scarves are more than accessories this fall. They're an integral part of two of fashion's most important themes, the "muffled up" look and the Western look.

Wide and wider are stoles meant to wrap up at least chin deep. Some of them double as hoods, too. Fabrics for the muffled neckline are surface - textured and, at night, touched with glitter.

Merilyn Magnon Wed In Candlelight Setting

College Place Baptist Church was scene of the wedding Saturday, September 15 of Miss Gladys Merilyn Magnon of Monroe and Winston - Salem, N. C. and William Adolph Hanewinckel III of Winston - Salem. Rev. T. Earl Ogg performed the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. in a setting of yellow and white gladioli, alternated with branched candelabra holding lighted tapers and a background of greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Luke Magnon, 202 Columbia Ave., Monroe, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. W. A Hanewinckel Jr. of Winston - Salem and the late Mr. Hanewinckel.

Traditional nuptial selections were provided by Mrs. C. L. Dillingham, organist and soloists, Mrs. Bob Oldenburg and Max Dillingham.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta in waltz length with peau de soie poufs marking the back waistline. The fitted bodice was overlaid with Alencon lace, embroidered in seed pearls and the applique motifs were repeated on the bouffant skirt. A queen's crown held her veil of illusion. She wore short mitts of Alencon lace over organza, embroidered in seed pearls and carried a white Bible on which rested a yellow throated white orchid and lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Bob Oldenburg of Fort Worth, Texas served as matron of honor and Miss Charlene Webb of Shreveport, cousin of the bride was maid of honor. They wore identical gowns of yellow organza over gold taffeta, fashioned similar to the bride's dress. Their headdresses were matching pillboxes with short illusion veils and they carried nosegays of small yellow pompons.

Candlelighters, Miss Judy Branch and Miss Peggy Ogg, were gold taffeta dresses fashioned along the same lines of the other attendants with wrist corsages of yellow chrysanthemums.

Sam Miles of Chattanooga, Tenn., cousin of the groom, served as best man and groomsman was Norman Robertson of Delhi. Serving as ushers were Charles K. Webb of Shreveport and Truman Potts of Monroe.

Mrs. Magnon was wearing for her daughter's wedding a Dior blue lace sheath with side drape, and accessories to match. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Hanewinckel wore a dress of mauve lace accented by satin inserts with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of split carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the social room of the church. Centering the serving table was an arrangement of yellow and white flowers flanked by yellow tapers in silver candelabra. The bride's table was centered with the tiered wedding cake encircled with greenery.

Mrs. G. M. Todd of Gulfport, Miss., and Mrs. D. E. Howard of Shreveport, aunts of the bride, poured punch and Mrs. C. C. Kornmann and Mrs. Mike Deshong served the wedding cake. Others who assisted were Mrs. W. Netherland, Mrs. Ruby Richardson and Mrs. Alton Branch. Tea girls were Mrs. Irwin Roberts, Mrs. Truman Potts, Misses Linda and Janie Webb of Shreveport. Rice bags were distributed among the guests by Miss Judy Branch and Miss Peggy Ogg.

For a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains the bride changed into an early fall suit in shades of brown, accented with a gold and green blouse, brown accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Winston - Salem.

Mrs. Hanewinckel graduated from Neville high school and Northeast State College and received her master's degree in Religious Education from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas. The bridegroom graduated from Reynolds high school in Winston-Salem, attended Gulford College, Greensboro, N. C. and the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

Out - of - town guests were Mrs. W. A. Hanewinckel Jr., Winston - Salem; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Miles of Chattanooga, Tenn., Mrs. R. L. Mitchell of Memphis, Tenn., Mrs. G. M. Todd, Gulfport; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Magnon of Vicksburg, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Wardlow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Webb, Misses Charlene and Janie Webb; Joe S. Webb and Jerry, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton M. Webb, Miss Linda Webb and Gary Wayne, Mike and Stevie Webb, all of Shreveport.

Several parties this week have been given honoring BETTY and B. F. CUMMINGS, who plan to move to Jacksonville, Texas, about October 1. Ten families, neighbors on West Highland avenue in West Monroe, attended a barbecue in Bernstein Park Saturday night.

Hostesses DOT PATTERSON and T. B. SMITH invited the group, including children, for the cookout, which included chicken cooked on the spot, and all the trimmings . . . . On Sunday, LAVERNE and JOHN BAYLES had the Cummings for family dinner.

Wednesday afternoon, BONNIE BENNETT entertained Betty and some thirty - seven friends at an informal conversational hour. The guest of honor received a corsage of white chrysanthemums and a birthday cup as a farewell present from the hostess.

Lavender and purple chrysanthemums centered the table, with punch in multi - colored tumblers contributing to the colorful decor. Other goodies included apricot rolls, cheese biscuits, and lemon cookies. Guests called between three and five for a visit with Betty.

Visitors in the home of JEANNETTE and OTHA RODDEY this weekend are his sister and brother-in-law, NANCY and DICK HOEN of Milwaukee, Wisconsin. The guests arrived Thursday, stopping over for a few days en route to the Canary Islands, where they will spend the winter. They plan to leave on Tuesday next.

GARDEN CLUB MEMBERS from throughout the Fifth District are making their plans to attend the district meeting Thursday in Vidalia. Ferriday and Vidalia Garden clubs will be co - hostesses for the all - day program, which begins with a business session at Vidalia Civic Center at 10 a.m. The ladies will adjourn to Natchez at noon for luncheon at the Carriage House. Later MRS. JAMES S. HENDERSON, landscape architect of Atlanta Georgia, will speak at Stanton Hall. There will be a free and optional tour of some of Natchez's historic homes following the featured speaker.

Today marks the beginning of CONSTITUTION WEEK, sponsored locally by Ft. Miro chapter, DAR. This week is set aside to stimulate knowledge of and interest in our U. S. Constitution. Displays in keeping with the week's theme will be seen at various spots throughout the Twin Cities.

First of the Fall parties was held last Friday night by Cosmopolitan Dance club. A theme of "Autumn Nocturne" was carried out in decorations at Paragon ballroom, where Jerry Lane and his orchestra played from nine until one. Among the dance frocks we noted JO ELEANOR BENTON's cafe aulait chiffon, beautifully draped from top to bottom . . . and EZELL GENTRY'S red lace with silver accessories . . . Brown satin flowers encircled the neck of JOYCE BURKHALTER's champagne satin with skirt of unpressed pleats . . . MARIE TOLSON chose turquoise chiffon with wide satin belt and matching satin shoes . . . . One touch of glitter was provided by the rhinestone clip which ornamented KAY HOOD's black silk crepe, styled with blouson top and pleated skirt.

Almost as much fun as a treasure hunt is fixing up an old house and discovering lovely pieces forgotten in attic or closet. The LOUIS MILNERS, JR., have returned to Monroe after six years in Collinston and have spent the summer renovating the old Milner home at 1517 Park Avenue. This Spanish colonial house is of white stucco over brick (walls eighteen inches thick) and is encircled with arches. At each side are open arcades doubling as carports and entrances. JoAnette Johns Becomes Bride Of Ernest Rhymes

In a double ring ceremony solemnized Saturday, September 15, Miss JoAnette Johns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Johns, 302 Woodrow, West Monroe, became the bride of Ernest E. Rhymes, son of Rev. and Mrs. T. L. Rhymes of Monroe. The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's father in the home of the bride's parents at 5 p.m.

White chrysanthemums and pink gladioli banked the hearth of the open fireplace which formed an improvised altar for the exchange of vows. Baskets of white carnations and pink roses with greenery, accented by candelabra completed the setting. Mrs. Ray Walker sang two selections preceding the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her waltz length gown of white brocade satin featured a fitted bodice with brief sleeves and belled skirt with pleated front folded to the sides. Her blush veil of illusion was held in place by a crown - hat combination of brocade satin, encrusted with pearls and rhinestones. She wore matching slippers and gloves and carried a bouquet of white roses atop a white Bible.

Miss Doyce Sanders, aunt of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a dress of pastel blue peau de soie fashioned with fitted bodice and bouffant skirt with matching headdress and slippers. She carried a colonial bouquet of carnations and chrysanthemum in pink and white, showered with white streamers.

T. L. Rhymes Jr. was best man for his brother and ushers were George Garner and Ray Walker.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Johns wore a sheath of pale pink brocade with accessories to match and a corsage of pink feathered carnations. Mrs. Rhymes, mother of the bridegroom, wore a beige linen dress with matching accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

A reception was held in the home following the ceremony. The bride's table in the dining room was covered with a cloth of beige imported lace over pink linen and centered with a pyramid of white carnations and pink roses, flanked by white tapers in triple candelabra.

Mrs. C. R. Sanders presided at the punch bowl and the wedding cake was served by Mrs. T. W. Johns.

For going - away the bride wore a white floral chiffon voile dress with a corsage of white roses from her bouquet. On their return from a short wedding trip the couple will reside in West Monroe.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. A graduate of Dodson high school, Mr. Rhymes is a junior majoring in business administration at Northeast Louisiana State College.

MRS. WILLIAM FREDERICK REGENOLD

Regenold-Bonner Vows Read In St. Patrick's

The marriage of Miss Florence Anne Bonner and William Frederick Regenold was solemnized Saturday, Sept. 1 at 6:30 p.m. in the St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Lake Providence. Rev. C. O'Brien officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Frank Bonner Jr. and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Regenold, of Lake Providence.

Altar vases filled with white stock, chrysanthemums and gladioli and branched candelabra holding white tapers formed a setting for the exchange of vows. The altar railing was trellised with ivy and boxes of ivy and white chrsanthemums banked the windows.

Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Anna R. Cox, organist and Mrs. Stephen H. Guenard and L. Seymore Myers Jr., vocalists.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin with fitted bodice and long sleeves forming points over the hands. The scalloped Sabrina neckline was etched with imported lace, encrusted with iridescent sequins and seed pearls and the bouffant skirt with overskirt of Chantilly lace, extended into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of frenched chrysanthemums stephanotis and satin streamer, which she placed at the shrine of the Blessed Mother and then carried a white prayer book, topped with an orchid.

Mrs. Samuel O. Henry, Baton Rouge, sister of the bridegroom, served as maton of honor, and Miss Barbara Nell Bonner, sister of the bride, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Bitsy Patrick and Miss Daphne Deal, cousin of the bride. Flower girl was Evelyn Claire Holt, a cousin and Douglas Bonner, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

The attendants wore afternoon length gowns of irridescent taffeta in apricot citrus shades, featuring fitted bodices, encircled at the waist with pleated cummerbunds of peach satin peu de soie with wide panel down the back in draped effect. A large rose of satin and taffeta in apricot and peach marked the waistline. They wore queen's crowns of apricot lace and open work pearls with tear drops and matching nylon tulle circular veils. They wore matching slippers and carried Frenched chrysanthemums with English ivy.

The flower girl wore a full length dress in apricot taffeta and peach satin peau with floral crown headdress.

Mrs. Bonner chose for her daughter's wedding a salmon chiffon blouson sheath, embroidered with white and silver sequins and gold bugle beads. She wore a bronze feather pillbox and matching accessories and her corsage was an apricot cymbidium orchid. Mrs. Regenold wore a sheath dress of candlelight French silk with matching shoes and hat and a green cymbidium orchid attached to her purse.

Mr. Regenold attended his son as best man. Ushers were Pat and Bud Bonner, brothers of the bride; Samuel C. Henry, brother in - law of the bridegroom; Jerry Bayles and Tommy Ellis. Altar boys were Frank Voelker III and Gordon Cain.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonner entertained with a reception at the American Legion Home on Bayou Tensas following the church ceremony. Arrangements, carrying out the theme of the wedding, were placed about the rooms. A mass arrangement of bronze mums and orange pyracantha berries in a Grecian urn graced the piano and similar bouquets with marigolds and orange berries were noted elsewhere. In one corner was a bride's tree, featuring white wedding bells, poufs of tulle and miniature colored lights. A tall white memory candle, based with stock and clematis, adorned the table at which Miss Mancy Marcus registered guests.

The three refreshment tables were covered with satin cloths, overlaid with net. Mrs. A. P. Patrick served cake and alternating at the coffee table were Mrs. Harold Thomas and Mrs. Baxter Deal. Mrs. Jack Holt presided at the silver punch bowl and others assisting were Mrs. Wallace Regenold, Tallulah; Miss Collette Moss, Miss Sally Patrick and Miss Betty Patrick.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Florida, the bride was wearing a red silk suit, black hat, accented with red feathers and black accessories. Her corsage was an orchid. On their return the couple will reside in Houma.

William Jenkins, Bride Establish Home In Monroe

Baskets of gladioli formed a setting in Third Christian Church of Topeka, Kansas for the wedding of Miss Shirley Ray Cummins daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Cummins, Topeka, to William P. Jenkins, son of Mrs. Willie L. O'Connor of Monroe, which was solemnized September 2 at 3 p.m.

Rev. R. W. Vaughan performed the double ring vows following organ selections by Miss Gertrude Orelup, who also accompanied Mrs. Harold Williams, as she sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white marquisette and Chantilly lace over satin. The fitted bodice of hand - clipped Chantilly lace featured a scalloped round neckline and long sleeves tapered to points at the wrists. The lace extended from the bodice to form a deep petal shaped peplum over the skirt. She carried a cascade of deep red roses and white button chrysanthemums.

Miss Marlene Payne of Topeka, maid of honor, wore a dress of royal blue satin brocade, styled with fitted bodice, scoop neckline and bell skirt. Her headdress was a crushed bow with flirtation veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white carnations. Bridesmaid, Mrs. A. Kenley of Lake Charles, sister of the bridegroom, was dressed indentically to the maid of honor.

Candlelighters, Miss Mary Cummins, sister of the bride and Miss Linda Barr, were dressed identically to the other attendants and wore wrist corsages of yellow and white carnations. The flower girl, Miss Vicki Williams, wore a white organdy dress accented by a blue sash.

Eugene Peters of Milwaukee, Wisc., served as best man. Groomsman was William Kenley of Lake Charles and ushers were Warren Taylor and Frederick Barnes.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore an orchid dress with burgundy dots, black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the social rooms of the church.

The couple has established a home in Monroe, where Mr. Jenkins, a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, is attending Northeast Louisiana State College. Mrs. Jenkins is a graduate of Topeka high school and is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Donald C. Hughes and Miss Leah Laing of Monroe; W. S. Laing of Bastrop and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Kenley of Lake Charles.

LITTLE FURS

The current fashion swing to fur scarves and little fur muffs has increased the number of bargain hunters at second hand stores. They're looking for enough good pelts in otherwise worn fur pieces to create home made versions of these.

Fur, fabric, or leather scarves are used to fill in last year's stand - away or deep V necklines on suits and dresses.

Her headdress was a crushed bow with flirtation veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white carnations. Bridesmaid, Mrs. A. Kenley of Lake Charles, sister of the bridegroom, was dressed indentically to the maid of honor.

Candlelighters, Miss Mary Cummins, sister of the bride and Miss Linda Barr, were dressed identically to the other attendants and wore wrist corsages of yellow and white carnations. The flower girl, Miss Vicki Williams, wore a white organdy dress accented by a blue sash.

Eugene Peters of Milwaukee, Wisc., served as best man. Groomsman was William Kenley of Lake Charles and ushers were Warren Taylor and Frederick Barnes.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore an orchid dress with burgundy dots, black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the social rooms of the church.

The couple has established a home in Monroe, where Mr. Jenkins, a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, is attending Northeast Louisiana State College. Mrs. Jenkins is a graduate of Topeka high school and is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Donald C. Hughes and Miss Leah Laing of Monroe; W. S. Laing of Bastrop and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Kenley of Lake Charles.

LITTLE FURS

The current fashion swing to fur scarves and little fur muffs has increased the number of bargain hunters at second hand stores. They're looking for enough good pelts in otherwise worn fur pieces to create home made versions of these.

Fur, fabric, or leather scarves are used to fill in last year's stand - away or deep V necklines on suits and dresses.

MRS. DOUGLAS WILLIAMS

Couple At Home Here Following Nuptials

First Baptist Church in Tallulah, was scene of the wedding September 1 at 7 p.m. of Miss Sonya Bowden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bowden of Tallulah and Douglas Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Williams of Delhi. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul Lipe of Delhi.

Tiers of white cathedral candles in branched candelabra, decorated with magnolia foliage and white satin bows formed a background for arrangements of white gladioli, chyrsanthemums and greenery.

Mrs. Tommy Wixson presented nuptial music and accompanied Newton Horn, who sang "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. Bowden gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of Venice lace and taffeta, designed with fitted bodice with Sabrina neckline and long sleeves of the lace and voluminous taffeta skirt which extended into a chapel train. Her circular veil of illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls and iridescent pendants. She carried a nosegay of white carnations and lilies of the valley.

Miss Nelwyn Tullos, maid of honor and bridesmaids, Mrs. Jim Brown and Miss Dot Williams, wore identical dresses of gold silk peau de soie, styled with bateau neckline and elbow length sleeves. The sheath skirts featured a draped back and their headdresses were matching Dior bows with short maline veils. They wore matching shoes and white gloves and carried bouquets of bronze pompons and green maline, tied with bronze ribbons.

Flower girl was Sonny Lynn Stephens, who wore a white frock with gold cummerbund and headdress of gold satin and net. She carried a white and gold basket. Andy Bowden, brother of the bride, acted as ringbearer.

Mr. Williams attended his son as best man. Groomsmen were John David Gowan and Joe Mack O'Neal and serving as ushers were Kenneth Futch and H. M. Dartlone, all of Delhi.

The bride's mother wore a copper silk shantung sheath, with gold accessories and a bronze orchid corsage. Mrs. Williams, mother of the groom, wore a dark blue silk sheath with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

At a reception which followed in the church social hall the refreshment table, overlaid with white net over satin, was centered with an arrangement of gladioli and chrysanthemums. Punch was served by Miss Sue Russell and Miss Petti Williams. At an adjoining table the wedding cake was served by Mrs. Ross Graves and Miss Mary Jane King, while Miss Toni Reed registered guests in the bride's book. Assisting in the courtesies were Misses Lee Craig, Carolyn Friis and Dorothy Gilfoil.

For travel the bride changed to a mint green silk shantung suit with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Williams are students at Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe, where they will reside.

LaPetite Maison Garden Club Begins Season

La Petite Maison Garden Club launched the new fall season last Friday afternoon when it met in the home of Mrs. Walter Ernst on Point Drive.

Mrs. Carey Thompson Jr., president, reviewed the program for the year and outlined duties of the officers. Mrs. Ben Johnston introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. V. S. Garnett.

Mrs. Garnett, president of the Welcome Garden Club and head of the handicraft department with the Monroe Recreation Center, addressed the group concerning garden club federation.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with an arrangement of vari-colored zinnias. Mrs. Frank Wells, co-hostess for the affair, assisted Mrs. Ernst with the courtesies.

Mrs. Johnston distributed year books to the following members, Mrs. Reneau Breard, Mrs. Sylvester Breard, Mrs. Beatle Eason, Mrs. Walter Ernst, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. Lester High, Mr. Ed Heard, Mrs. A. Highland PTA Plans Tea

First meeting of Highland PTA was held Wednesday, September 12 at 2:30 p.m. in the school cafetorium with Mrs. William Kelly, president, in charge.

Mrs. Kelly welcomed all new mothers of Highland school and introduced the executive committee chairmen and co-chairmen.

During the business session projects for the year were discussed and approved, including those concerning the school driveways. It was also voted to have Dad's Night on October 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafetorium at which time Dr. Lake Oxford will be guest speaker. This will be the only Dad's night meeting and all parents of Highland school are urged to attend.

Plans were announced for a tea for all first grade mothers to be held Tuesday, September 18 from 2 until 3 p.m.

Mrs. Elnora McClendon, principal of the school, was speaker for the afternoon. Room count was won by Mrs. Reed's first grade and at conclusion of the meeting a social period was held with refreshments served by Mrs. W. C. Bell and her hospitality committee.

Louisiana Tech Students Wed In Grayson Church

A double ring ceremony solemnized September 2 in Grayson Methodist Church united in marriage Miss Joy Irene Darden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Darden and John I. Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McKeithen, all of Grayson.

White wrought iron candelabra holding white tapers interspersed with arrangements of white gladioli and killian daisies flanked an arch of magnolia foliage and blossoms to form a setting at the altar where the ceremony was performed at 4 p.m. by Rev. Theron McKisson.

Mrs. Cylida Brown, organist, accompanied Mrs. Rosa Gail Miller, who sang "Whither Thou Goest," and Mrs. Marie Burns, as who sang "O Perfect Love," as the couple knelt at the altar.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride was wearing a gown of white ruffled tulle and Chantilly lace, featuring a sculptured lace bodice with scalloped portrait neckline. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a crown of pearls and rhinestones. She wore long lace gloves and carried a bouquet of white cattleya orchids, surrounded by feathered white carnations with miniature satin leaves, pearl and white streamers.

Mrs. Ann Patterson, sister of the groom, wore a beige linen sheath with full overskirt of matching embroidered silk organza and matching linen shoes. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and cymbidium orchids.

Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendant were Misses Betty Sue Bostick and Mildred Darden, nieces of the bride. They carried colonial bouquets of pink debutant carnations and sweetheart roses.

Candles were lighted by William Frank Darden, Monroe, nephew of the bride and Don Burns of Grayson.

Jerry Richardson served as best man and ushers were John E. Wells, Monroe, nephew of the bride and James Roy Mixon, nephew of the groom and ring bearer was John Wesley McKeithen, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Darden chose for her daughter's wedding a silk shantung sheath of periwinkle blue with matching accessories and a pink cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. McKeithen, mother of the groom, wore a tropic blue silk shantung sheath with accessories to match and a cymbidium orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. White candelabra holding white tapers in an arrangement of gardenias centered the linen covered bride's table which held the crystal punch bowl and tiered wedding cake. Alternating at the punch service were Miss Suebelle McKeithen and Miss May Robinson. Guests were registered by Mrs. Valda Rushing at a small table adorned with wedding bells.

They will be at home in Ruston where the bride is a junior and Mr. Patterson a senior at Louisiana Tech.

MRS. WILLIAM HALEY

Haley-Gordy Vows Read

Fan shaped arrangements of white gladioli against a background of fern trees and southern smilax and branched candelabra formed a setting in Temple Baptist Church for the wedding of Miss Shirley Ann Gordy and William Haley. Rev. Leon Ivey officiated at the double ring ceremony on September 1 at 7 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman T. Gordy, 1107 South 7th, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Haley, 1502 South 8th.

Mrs. Phillip Kulke, organist, accompanied Mr. Kuleke, as he sang "The Twelfth of Never," and "The Lord's Prayer," and played traditional nuptial music.

Mr. Gordy gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a waltz length gown of imported French Galloon lace over bridal peau de soie with scalloped neckline, etched with seed pearls. Her veil of illusion was attached to a lace crown and she wore matching lace mitts, and carried a bouquet of white cymbidium orchids with fleur d'amour, atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Billy Hearne, was matron of honor and candelighters were Mrs. George Douglas and Mrs. C. L. Hinton Jr. They wore full skirted dresses of camellia pink silk organza, with tiny bows accenting the scooped necklines. White organza bows with eyelash veils formed their headdresses. The honor attendant carried a crescent bouquet of white asters. Miss Vicki Renea Hitt, flower girl, wore a white organdy dress with camellia pink sash, white accessories and a headpiece of white flowers.

Larry Kuleke served as best man and ushers were George Douglas, Johnny Luton and Timmy Gordy.

Mrs. Gordy, mother of the bride, wore a blue crepe sheath with blue accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a dusty rose lace sheath with white accessories. Both had corsages of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. Centerpiece for the bride's table was pink ginger lilies flanked by white candles in silver candelabra. The table was covered with a white lace cloth over pink. Ivy and wedding bells formed a background for the receiving line.

Mrs. John Luton served the wedding cake and Miss Nancy Gordy presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Dick Hitt had charge of the guest book on a table with a miniature bride and groom centerpiece.

After a wedding trip to Eureka Springs, Ark. the couple has established a home in Monroe, where Mr. Haley is attending Northeast Louisiana State College. For travel the bride wore a brown fall suit with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Jewelry Plays Leading Role

Against a background of elegantly-simple fashions in rich fabrics, jewelry plays a leading role for fall.

Far Eastern look, with Egyptian and Indian influences, is one of the most important, interpreted in colorful bibs and collars, pendant pins, long earrings, outsize rings, bracelets to multiply several to an arm.

Pins are everywhere, in every shape. Large and bold, but light in weight, they blaze with colorful stones or gleam with classic gold and pearls.

To fill in bateau or V necklines are necklaces aglow with colorful stones or beads. These have the importance of a scarf or collar.

Pakistan Coed Entering Northeast Is Honored

Miss Donna Gail Pulley entertained Thursday at 10 a.m. in Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist church of Oak Grove, honoring Miss Terry Deane of Karachi, Pakistan. Miss Deane, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. William W. Deane with the diplomatic corps in Pakistan, will attend Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe this fall.

Guests were greeted by the hostess, her mother, Mrs. T. N. Pulley, Jr. and Mrs. C. W. Gunter, grandmother of the honoree and introduced to the guest of honor.

Decorations carried out the college theme in the colors of maroon, blue, black and gold, and pennants of N.L.S.C. and Louisiana Tech were displayed on the two refreshment tables. "Mike" a replica of the L. S. U. Tiger, formed the centerpiece for the main table, from which party foods were served. A huge white plush bulldog with blue ears, represented Louisiana Tech and drums provided the symbol of the Northeast Louisiana State College Indians.

During the social hour recordings provided background music as guests were served buffet style. Assisting with the courtesies were Miss Marilyn Cannon and Miss Charlotte Sanford.

A gift of the hostess to Miss Deane was a stuffed animal for the coed's room in the NLSC colors of maroon and gold.

College coeds attending were Misses Wanda Chandler, Gail Sawyer, Charlotte Sanford, Linda Fox, Lorraine Layton, Marilyn Cannon, Glenda Robinson, Connie Kovac, Ollie Ainsworth, Ricki Primm, Sonnye Ruth Howell, Martha Anna Lipp, Gail Weems, Carolyn McCormick, Olivia Whitten, June Parker, Sharon Stoll, Aurita Smith, Robbie Pennington, Wanda Faye Thomas, Christine Walker, Cecille Moore, Brenda Berry, Joyce Standifer, Annette Doyle, JoAnn Kelly and Sue Wasson.

Louisiana Tech Students Wed In Grayson Church

A double ring ceremony solemnized September 2 in Grayson Methodist Church united in marriage Miss Joy Irene Darden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Darden and John I. Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McKeithen, all of Grayson.

White wrought iron candelabra holding white tapers interspersed with arrangements of white gladioli and killian daisies flanked an arch of magnolia foliage and blossoms to form a setting at the altar where the ceremony was performed at 4 pm. by Rev. Theron McKisson.

Mrs. Cylida Brown, organist, accompanied Miss Rosa Gail Miller, who sang "Whither Thou Goest," and Mrs. Marie Burns, as whe sang "O Perfect Love," as the couple knelt at the altar.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride was wearing a gown of white ruffled tulle and Chantilly lace, featuring a sculptured lace bodice with scalloped portrait neckline. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a crown of pearls and rhinestones. She wore long lace gloves and carried a bouquet of white cattleya orchids, surrounded by feathered white carnations with miniature satin leaves, pearls and white streamers.

Miss Ann Patterson, sister of the groom, wore a beige linen sheath with full overskirt of matching embroidered silk organza and matching linen shoes. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and cymbidium orchids. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendant were Misses Betty Sue Bostick and Mildred Darden, nieces of the bride. They carried colonial bouquets of pink debutant carnations and sweetheart roses.

Candles were lighted by William Frank Darden, Monroe, nephew of the bride and Don Burns of Grayson.

Jerry Richardson served as best man and ushers were John E. Wells, Monroe, nephew of the bride and James Roy Mixon, nephew of the groom and ring bearer was John Wesley McKeithen, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Darden chose for her daughter's wedding a silk shantung sheath of periwinkle blue with matching accessories and a pink cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. McKeithen, mother of the groom, wore a tropic blue silk shantung sheath with accessories to match and a cymbidium orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. White candelabra holding white tapers in an arrangement of gardenias centered the linen covered bride's table which held the crystal punch bowl and tiered wedding cake. Alternating at the punch service were Miss Suebelle McKeithen and Miss May Robinson. Guests were registered by Miss Valda Rushing at a small table adorned with wedding bells.

MRS. JOHN F. RUSSELL

MRS. H. MAURICE LEDNICKY

Mary Lou Holley Marries In Dallas Church Chapel

Forest Chapel of Oak Lawn Methodist Church in Dallas, Tex. was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Mary Lou Holley and John F. Russell, both of Dallas, which was solemnized September 1 at 5:30 p.m. The bride who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holley, Route 1, Pioneer, studied piano under R. Frank Parker Jr. of Monroe and was winner of two youth auditions. She was presented as guest piano soloist with the El Dorado Symphony Orchestra and the Twin City Symphony Orchestra of Monroe. Parents of Mr. Russell are Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Russell of Fentress, Virginia.

Rev. Kenneth Hampson performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of white gladioli and carnations. Miss Lou Ann Williams, organist, accompanied Mrs. Rene Conn as she sang "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer." and rendered traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a traditional gown of white satin and lace, fashioned with basque bodice, long tapered sleeves and round neckline. The skirt fell in folds from double box pleats and her veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and English ivy.

Miss Joyce Holley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Betty Russell, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of mint green cotton satin and lace, with headpieces of mint green satin and tulle. They wore matching shoes and gloves and carried nosegays of tangerine carnations.

Serving as best man for his brother was Carroll C. Russell and groomsman was Earl Brantley. Ushers were Carl Scamardo and Bill Arrington.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Holley wore a sheath dress of blue embroidered linen with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a dacron ensemble of brown tones with accessories to match and a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the church following the ceremony. Centerpiece for the lace - covered bride's table was of carnations and greenery with the wedding cake, adorned with green tinted roses.

Lednicky-Allen Nuptials Solemnized In Bastrop

Miss Marcia Louise Allen, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Allen of Bastrop, became the bride of Rev. H. Maurice Lednicky, son of Rev. and Mrs. C. F. Lednicky of Houston, Texas, in a double ring ceremony at Bastrop Assembly of God on September 1 at 7 p.m. Rev. Allen, assisted by the bridegroom's father, performed his daughter's wedding.

Baskets of gladioli and pompons formed a background for an arch of Emerald fern and huckleberry, where the couple knelt on a prie dieu. Candelabra, entwined with ivy completed the altar setting and tropical palms were placed around front of the church.

Bob Sheddan, of Corpus Christi, Texas, was organist and accompanied Miss Toni Taylor of Waxahachie, Tex., who sang.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over nylon tulle, featuring a lace bodice with long pointed sleeves and sweetheart neckline, etched with bridal satin. The bouffant skirt of bridal satin formed a train and was caught up in front to reveal tiers of the lace. Her veil of illusion fell from a queen's crown, which was an identical replica of Queen Margaret's. She carried a garland bouquet of stephanotis and feathered chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid.

Miss Marigold Allen, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of gold crystaline with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and bell shaped skirt. Her hat was of matching material with nylon tulle circlet. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendant were Miss Dorothy Drew, Miss Linda Jean Moreland, Miss Margaret Zieglier and Miss Ruthie DeVore. They carried crescent bouquets of glamelias.

Flower girl, Rebecca Goodwin, wore a long gown of gold crystaline with matching bandeau.

Donald Lednicky, Houston, Tex., served as best man for his brother. Groomsmen were Jim Mackey, Johnnie Moreland, Darwin McGough and David DeVore and serving as ushers were Charles Johnston and Eddie Gene Fair. Candlelighters were Charles McGough and Juanita Smith and ring bearer was David Brown of Snook, Texas.

The bride's mother wore a dress of gold brocade satin with black and beige accessories and glamelia corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a blue silk dress with black accessories and a corsage of glamelias.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the Youth Hall of the church. Covered with a pale gold linen cloth, overlaid with lace, the bride's table was centered with an arrangement of gladioli and pompons. Sweetheart roses and ivy encircled the three branched candelabra. Mrs. J. C. Moulard and Mrs. Carl Linderman alternated at the crystal punch bowl and Miss Irma Jean Deggis served the cake. Mrs. Bobby Goodwin presided at the guest book.

For a wedding trip to Florida the bride changed into a black silk suit with beige accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Waxahachie, Texas, where Rev. Lednicky will graduate in May, 1963 from Southwestern Assemblies of God College, with a B.A. degree. Mrs. Lednicky graduated from Bastrop high school and attended Southwestern Assemblies of God College, Junior College Division.

OES Plans Inspection

MRS. JOHN F. RUSSELL

Mary Lou Holley Marries In Dallas Church Chapel

Forest Chapel of Oak Lawn Methodist Church in Dallas, Tex. was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Mary Lou Holley and John F. Russell, both of Dallas, which was solemnized September 1 at 5:30 p.m. The bride who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holley, Route 1, Pioneer, studied piano under R. Frank Parker Jr. of Monroe and was winner of two youth auditions. She was presented as guest piano soloist with the El Dorado Symphony Orchestra and the Twin City Symphony Orchestra of Monroe. Parents of Mr. Russell are Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Russell of Fentress, Virginia.

Rev. Kenneth Hampson performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of white gladioli and carnations. Miss Lou Ann Williams, organist, accompanied Mrs. Rene Conn as she sang "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer," and rendered traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a traditional gown of white satin and lace, fashioned with basque bodice, long tapered sleeves and round neckline. The skirt fell in folds from double box pleats and her veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and English ivy.

Miss Joyce Holley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Betty Russell, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of mint green cotton satin and lace, with headpieces of mint green satin and tulle. They wore matching shoes and gloves and carried nosegays of tangerine carnations.

Serving as best man for his brother was Carroll C. Russell and groomsman was Earl Brantley. Ushers were Carl Scamardo and Bill Arrington.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Holley wore a sheath dress of blue embroidered linen with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a dacron ensemble of brown tones with accessories to match and a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the church following the ceremony. Centerpiece for the lace - covered bride's table was of carnations and greenery with the wedding cake, adorned with green tinted roses.

MRS. H. MAURICE LEDNICKY

Lednicky-Allen Nuptials Solemnized In Bastrop

Miss Marcia Louise Allen, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Allen of Bastrop, became the bride of Rev. H. Maurice Lednicky, son of Rev. and Mrs. C. F. Lednicky of Houston, Texas, in a double ring ceremony at Bastrop Assembly of God on September 1 at 7 p.m. Rev. Allen, assisted by the bridegroom's father, performed his daughter's wedding.

Baskets of gladioli and pompons formed a background for an arch of Emerald fern and huckleberry, where the couple knelt on a prie dieu. Candelabra, entwined with ivy completed the altar setting and tropical palms were placed around front of the church.

Bob Sheddan, of Corpus Christi, Texas, was organist and accompanied Miss Toni Taylor of Waxahachie, Tex., who sang.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over nylon tulle, featuring a lace bodice with long pointed sleeves and sweetheart neckline, etched with bridal satin. The bouffant skirt of bridal satin formed a train and was caught up in front to reveal tiers of the lace. Her veil of illusion fell from a queen's crown, which was an identical replica of Queen Margaret's. She carried a garland bouquet of stephanotis and feathered chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid.

Miss Marigold Allen, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of gold crystaline with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and bell shaped skirt. Her hat was of matching material with nylon tulle circlet. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendant were Miss Dorothy Drew, Miss Linda Jean Moreland, Miss Margaret Zieglier and Miss Ruthie DeVore. They carried crescent bouquets of glamelias.

Flower girl, Rebecca Goodwin, wore a long gown of gold crystaline with matching bandeau.

Donald Lednicky, Houston, Tex., served as best man for his brother. Groomsmen were Jim Mackey, Johnnie Moreland, Darwin McGough and David DeVore and serving as ushers were Charles Johnston and Eddie Gene Fair. Candlelighters were Charles McGough and Juanita Smith and ring bearer was David Brown of Snook, Texas.

The bride's mother wore a dress of gold brocade satin with black and beige accessories and glamelia corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a blue silk dress with black accessories and a corsage of glamelias.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the Youth Hall of the church. Covered with a pale gold linen cloth, overlaid with lace, the bride's table was centered with an arrangement of gladioli and pompons. Sweetheart roses and ivy encircled the three branched candelabra. Mrs. J. C. Moulard and Mrs. Carl Linderman alternated at the crystal punch bowl and Miss Irma Jean Deggis served the cake. Mrs. Bobby Goodwin presided at the guest book.

For a wedding trip to Florida the bride changed into a black silk suit with beige accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Waxahachie, Texas, where Rev. Lednicky will graduate in May, 1963 from Southwestern Assemblies of God College, with a B.A. degree. Mrs. Lednicky graduated from Bastrop high school and attended Southwestern Assemblies of God College, Junior College Division.

OES Plans Inspection

Betrothal Revealed At Tea

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Penny Meredith, daughter of Ivy Dixon Meredith Jr., Baton Rouge and the late Mrs. Meredith to William Mack Hunt of Luling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dunbar Hunt, 401 N. Sixth, West Monroe, is made by her father.

The engagement was revealed at an announcement tea Saturday, September 15 at the home of Mrs. W. T. Robinson in Baton Rouge. Mrs. T. R. Robinson was co-hostess for the event from 4 until 6 p.m.

The wedding is planned for October 13 at 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Baton Rouge, with Dr. J. Norris Palmer officiating. A reception will follow in the Woman's Club House in Baton Rouge.

NEW DICKEY IDEA

A new idea in neckline fillers is a dickey with a turtle neck collar, offering the throat covered look without the bulkiness of a sweater under a jacket.

Mom Spends Liberally In Super Market

How did Mom spend an average $20 bill at the grocery store last year?

Quickly, says Food Topics, a leading food trade journal, in its 15th annual survey of consumer grocery store expenditures.

The September survey reveals that the American housewife spent 3.8 per cent more in the super market in 1961 than in the previous year.

MRS. JERRY TILL

Gretchen Gresham Weds Jerry Till In Bernice

In a candlelight ceremony solemnized Friday, September 7 in Bernice First Baptist Church, Miss Gretchen Gresham became the bride of Jerry Till. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Gresham Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Till, all of Bernice.

Rev. R. B. Middleton performed the double ring ceremony before the altar which was decorated with baskets of yellow and white gladioli, and ivy-entwined candelabra holding lighted tapers.

Nuptial music was provided by Miss Jane Lee, organist, and Miss Gayle Ferguson, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white bridal satin, which featured a crushed cummerbund of satin and short jacket of Chantilly lace with long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. The full skirt extended into a chapel train. Her waist length veil of English silk illusion fell from a scalloped crown of pearls and her bouquet was composed of a large white orchid in a cluster of stephanotis, which she carried atop a white Bible.

Miss Carolyn Gresham of Bernice, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Judith Ann Cathey and Miss Carol Turnipseed, both of West Monroe, cousins of the bridegroom. They wore sheath dresses of yellow cotton satin, with full overskirts of matching silk organza. They wore matching pillbox hats, short white gloves and carried bouquets of daisies.

Billy Till of Linville, attended his brother as best man and groomsmen - ushers were Bobby Till, Dubach, also a brother and Harry Cook of Bernice.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a sheath dress of light blue linen trimmed in matching satin, with blue accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of pink lace over satin with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's bouquet was placed on a mirror in center of the table which was covered with a floor length cloth of white tulle, garlanded with ivy. Baskets of yellow and white gladioli formed a background for the receiving line and the yellow and white theme was carried out in all appointments. Yellow net encircled the punch bowl and wedding cake. Mrs. Bobby Till of Dubach presided at the crystal punch bowl and Mrs. Billy Till, Linville served the cake. Mrs. Billy Gene Pearson of West Monroe, had charge of the bride's book, which was on a table graced with a memory candle, encircled by yellow net ruffles.

Miss Diane Foster of Bernice, served as tea girl and others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Sam Johnson, Mrs. Prentiss Reeves, Mrs. Billy Troy Riordan, Mrs. Huey Roberson and Mrs. Wayne Eskridge. Rice bags were presented guests by Misses Caroline McIntosh and Angelique Pearson, who were dressed in identical frocks of yellow cotton satin with white carnation corsages.

For a wedding trip to points of interest in Mississippi the bride changed to an olive green linen jacket ensemble with matching hat and gloves and brown shoes and bag. The couple will be at home in Bernice while Mr. Till continues his studies at Louisiana Tech, from where he will graduate in January. He is a senior majoring in Wildlife Conservation. Mrs. Till also attended Louisiana Tech and is presently employed in Ruston.

On the evening preceding the wedding the bridegroom's parents were hosts at a rehearsal supper in the church parlor. Yellow and white pompons and ivy centered the table. The couple presented gifts to their attendants during the evening.

MRS. JERRY TILL

Gretchen Gresham Weds Jerry Till In Bernice

In a candlelight ceremony solemnized Friday, September 7 in Bernice First Baptist Church, Miss Gretchen Gresham became the bride of Jerry Till. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Gresham Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Till, all of Bernice.

Rev. R. B. Middleton performed the double ring ceremony before the altar which was decorated with baskets of yellow and white gladioli, and ivy-entwined candelabra holding lighted tapers.

Nuptial music was provided by Miss Jane Lee, organist and Miss Gayle Ferguson, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white bridal satin, which featured a crushed cummerbund of satin and short jacket of Chantilly lace with long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. The full skirt extended into a chapel train. Her waist length veil of English silk illusion fell from a scalloped crown of pearls and her bouquet was composed of a large white orchid in a cluster of stephanotis, which she carried atop a white Bible.

Miss Carolyn Gresham of Bernice, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Judith Ann Cathey and Miss Carol Turnipseed, both of West Monroe, cousins of the bridegroom. They wore sheath dresses of yellow cotton satin, with full overskirts of matching silk organza. They wore matching pillbox hats, short white gloves and carried bouquets of daisies.

Billy Till of Linville, attended his brother as best man and groomsmen - ushers were Bobby Till, Dubach, also a brother and Harry Cook of Bernice.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a sheath dress of light blue linen trimmed in matching satin, with blue accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of pink lace over satin with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's bouquet was placed on a mirror in center of the table which was covered with a floor length cloth of white tulle, garlanded with ivy. Baskets of yellow and white gladioli formed a background for the receiving line and the yellow and white theme was carried out in all appointments. Yellow net encircled the punch bowl and wedding cake. Mrs. Bobby Till of Dubach presided at the crystal punch bowl and Mrs. Billy Till, Linville served the cake. Mrs. Billy Gene Pearson of West Monroe, had charge of the bride's book, which was on a table graced with a memory candle, encircled by yellow net ruffles.

Miss Diane Foster of Bernice, served as tea girl and others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Sam Johnson, Mrs. Prentiss Reeves, Mrs. Billy Troy Riordan, Mrs. Huey Roberson and Mrs. Wayne Eskridge. Rice bags were presented guests by Misses Caroline McIntosh and Angelique Pearson, who were dressed in identical frocks of yellow cotton satin with white carnation corsages.

For a wedding trip to points of interest in Mississippi the bride changed to an olive green linen jacket ensemble with matching hat and gloves and brown shoes and bag. The couple will be at home in Bernice while Mr. Till continues his studies at Louisiana Tech, from where he will graduate in January. He is a senior majoring in Wildlife Conservation. Mrs. Till also attended Louisiana Tech and is presently employed in Ruston.

On the evening preceding the wedding the bridegroom's parents were hosts at a rehearsal supper in the church parlor. Yellow and white pompons and ivy centered the table. The couple presented gifts to their attendants during the evening.

Constitution Week Plans Made By Ft. Miro DAR

Fort Miro Chapter, Daughters of the American Revloution, opened the 1962-63 year Saturday, September 8 in the Louis Lock Room of Ouachita Parish Library. Mrs. Richard D. Kellogg, regent, presided over the first meeting of the new season.

Miss Carrie Dee Drew outlined programs for the year which develop the theme "Prove All Things; Hold Fast That Which Is Good." She then introduced Pascal Norris who spoke on Communism and the alarming conditions in the world today.

Plans for observance of Constitution Week September 17-23 were given by Mrs. Mary Jane Hobgood. She reported that superintendents of both the Ouachita Parish school system and the City of Monroe school system had been contacted and asked to emphasize the observance in schools.

Announcement was made that the district meeting of the D.A.R. will be held September 27 in Bastrop with headquarters at the Louisiana Hotel. General William Carroll Chapter of Bastrop will serve as hostess chapter.

Mrs. Kellogg informed the chapter that at least 20 percent of the officers and committee chairmen must attend in order for the chapter to meet honor roll requirements.

Miss Frances Flanders, membership chairman, introduced one new member, Mrs. Mebin Short of Sterlington.

The national defense report was given by Mrs. W. E. Leigh and a letter from the state chairman of national defense was read. Members were advised to contact their congressmen requesting them to vote against the Trade Expansion Bill.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served with Miss Frances Flanders presiding at the coffee service. Mrs. W. H. Anders, hostess chairman, was assisted by Mrs. C. A. Caldwell, Mrs. David Garrett Sr., Mrs. Ray Junod, Mrs. Gilbert Marx, Mrs. B. A. Trousdale Jr. and Mrs. F. Jones.

Other members present were Mrs. Richard D. Kellogg, Mrs. Culbert Lee, Mrs. C. E. Buckley, Miss Ina Merle Thomas, Mrs. Shelby Meek, Mrs. Guy H. Popham Jr., Mrs. Elbert Nettles, Mrs. E. J. Future Plans Made By Better Homemakers HD

A nominating committee to select officers for the coming year was named at the September 6 meeting of the Better Homemakers Home Demonstration club held in the home of Mrs. W. H. Pogue, 6407 Sterlington Road in Monroe.

Mrs. Ernest Grubbs, president, conducted the business session during which Mrs. Rayford Wright and Mrs. Robert Smith discussed Farm and Home Week in Baton Rouge. Theme of the fair booth and articles to be made by members was discussed by Mrs. Frank Buce.

Mrs. Audrey Dawson announced she would hold open house in her home for members of the club December 13 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 2 until 5:30 p.m. She also announced a wool contest in Alexandria, November 17 featuring only American made wool.

Mrs. Wright, vice - president, read a poem after which a report on food preservation was given by Mrs. Ernest Grubbs. Mrs. Wright presented Mrs. Dawson, who gave a demonstration on "Taking the Guess out of Buying Fabrics."

A recreation period was led by Mrs. Robert Smith after which the hostess served refreshments to Mrs. Grubbs, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Courtland Hathaway, Mrs. Buce, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Sydney Taylor, Mrs. K. O. Smith, Mrs. H. T. Everitt, Mrs. J. D. Logan and two guests, Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. Sally Grubbs.

JEWELED UMBRELLAS

Umbrellas with gaudy jeweled handles are flooding the rainy day fashion market. But the status symbols are those with catskin handles that match similarly trimmed rain coats.

Mrs. Padgett Fetes Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae

Mrs. James Padgett was hostess to members of Monroe Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae club Monday night, September 10 in her home on Auburn Avenue.

[illegible] informal social period preceded the business meeting at which time the hostess served a dessert course.

Mrs. John Goorley, president, conducted the meeting during which plans were discussed as to how the Monroe Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae club could assist Alpha Chi Omega at Louisiana Tech.

A gift was presented to Mrs. Goorley in appreciation of her leadership as president.

Members present were Mrs. Goorley, Mrs. L. A. Newman Jr., Mrs. Charles Vaughan, Mrs. Warren Maddry and the hostess.

PRESIDENT'S WORKSHOP

Mrs. George Forman, president of the 5th District Federation of Women's Club ask yours tryly to invite all new club presidents of this area to attend a workshop on Saturday, September 22 9:30 a.m. - 12 noon, at the Paragon Club in Monroe. The workshop is to help new club presidents get up to date on how to preside and handle promotional projects.

Mrs. Forman said the workshop is an educational responsibility and is offered to any club woman in Northeast Louisiana desiring to participate. This includes you, Mrs. President, of a Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Forman says there will be a small fee for registration.

Red is the leading color for this fall. So if red is a good color for you, be sure to include at least one red garment in your wardrobe planning for fall. Black and white will be used alone and also combined in giant plaids, tiny checks and tweeds. Navy is no longer considered just a color for spring. Bright navy leads in the blue family for fall wear. Other blues range from paler to the greened blues. You will see green ranging from hunter green to bright green, brassy green, and paled gray greens.

As to fabrics, knits have no limit this coming season. You will see double knit, jersey plain and fancy.

Textures offer new excitement in loops, diagonals, twills and tweeds. Boucles are back witn us again this fall.

Crepes are shown in sheer wool rayon and in blends.

In the construction area you will see sleeves slimmer and longer this year which will bring back the return of the shorter glove.

Skirts will be more comfortable for sitting and walking. The general effect is slim but other trends are gentle flares, gores from 6 to 16. A shaped, pleats in every possible way. Necklines are higher and collars are narrow.

SILVER

Good silver improves with use Washing and drying it wili automatically cut down on heavy polishing jobs. Wash your silver in hot soapy water, and be sure to dry it completely before you put it away. It is best to keep flat silver in a container or drawer with tarnish proof lining. You can buy tarnish proof lining by the yard if your storing place is not equipped it it. Holloware, not in constant use, should be kept in tarnish proof bags. Stored pieces should be cleaned monthly.

All silver should be treated to a fine silver crean or polish. Clean gently, scratching pads used for removing food will make deep marks.

A THOUGHT

Most things that are put off until tomorrow should have been done yesterday.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Techniques Are Shown

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Garden Center and T. V. were blessed with another exceptionally good program last week. Since last fall quite a number of garden workers, and I should say, flower lovers, have requested a repeat program on dried arrangements that Mrs. M. L. Johnson brought to us so expertly.

We were quite lucky to have Mrs. Johnson again last week. She is a busy executive, owner of a large local dairy, naturalist, horticulturist, club worker with College Height's Garden Club of Monroe, and a very accomplished flower arranger.

Her newest hobby is drying materials that she has grown in her own garden and arranging them in flower designs. She has gained quite a knowledge of this art through her experience and is happy to share her findings with others. The show that she gave Wednesday was the finished product. Her program was extended through Thursday primarily to tell how she dried or preserved her materials. This is the type of program that is so interesting to all of us and needless to say, instructive.

POSSIBILITIES

Mrs. Johnson began by saying that the possibilities of dried materials are unlimited. The most beautiful arrangement can be made from the most simple type materials. The beauty of her first design was brought out in it's simplicity — a single, twisted cedar root, grey in color, formed the line material in a light grey oriental vase on a black footed base.

Three clusters of glycerinized tea olive leaves were placed within the curving line, forming a triangle. For an accessory she used a very life-like ceramic cow reclining at the base of the design. The whole unit was placed on a black base, giving balance. The rosy brown color of the foliage blended with the natural brown tones of the cow.

Mrs. Johnson cleverly painted an orange juice bottle with brown oil paint for her next container. This bottle was placed on a round footed base, also brown. The line material in this design was made of the light tan florets of hydrangea (dried). These florets were wired on a heavy wire to form the spikes. It was a very interesting use of hydrangea. Within this assymetrical triangle she used dried ivy, and a diagonal line of deep pink dried celosia. The celosia backed by glycerinized ivy leaves formed the focal interest. To add weight and interest she placed a cluster of dried Louisiana seed pods just below the celosia. One branch of glycerinized ivy branch was added low to the right of the design adding a feeling of serenity. Mrs. Johnson remarked that she used this arrangement in her entrance hall.

GREEN PILLAR

A dark green pillar vase served as the container for the next design, a triangle line made of dried canna leaves. These dried naturally and curved into a gracefully formed triangle line, rosy beige in color. Dried garlic blossoms were placed within the focal area. This design was placed on a heavy grass mat of straw color. A figurine of a Chinaman in a sitting position was placed at the base of the container, thus completing the unit. Simplicity again was the keynote to beauty in this design.

The ever-dependable dock was displayed in the next design, a triangle. The low tan pottery bowl served as a very appropriate container. The triangle line was filled in with a row of wild yucca seed pods (light tan), sand dried marigolds and a row of light tan hydrangea florets used to enhance the color of the orange marigolds. Glycerinized magnolia leaves were added within the design to give depth and background.

Driftwood took an important role in the next design. It was used, two branches, to form the line on a large sanded log round base. A cluster of glycerinized sea grape leaves formed the focal balance. For interest and contrast a line of dried thistles was placed within the line and clustered in the center of the sea grape leaves. For an accessory a light tan ceremic squirrel was placed low to the right, the curve of it's tail followed the line of the curving wood.

Very unusual color (vivid red) dried celosia was used in a spiral design just opposite clusters of glycerinized photenia leaves forming a vertical in another orange juice bottle (colored brown). A cluster of deep red grapes hung over the neck of the bottle adding weight to the design.

To give added balance this design was placed on a large round woven mat - deep blue in color.

TIP

Mrs. Johnson gave a tip on how she painted the orange juice bottle. She used one cup of oil paint, left over from painting her shutters, to three quarts of water. Stir well and dip the bottle in this solution. Place the bottle upright on a stick to dry. This gives a smooth finish and keeps fingers and paint brushes clean. When dry add sand to the bottle for weight. Next push a piece of styrafoam in the neck and secure with slightly melted wax. This forms the holder for your dried materials. Hope all of you saw this wonderful program, plus the continued program on Thursday. This program gave all the details of how she dried her materials in her workshop at home. Isn't this a wonderful hobby for such a busy person. Thanks to Mrs. Johnson for sharing her hobby with all of us so graciously.

This week — one we haven't seen since July and will be so glad to welcome back. Dr. John Wright, horticulture professor from Louisiana Tech, Ruston.

An Invitation to Garden Clubs — The Fifth District, Federation of Women's Clubs will have a Workshop for Clubwomen Sat. Sept. 22nd at the Paragon Club. There will be a small fee of 50 cents for registration which will begin at 9:30 a.m. There will be two discussion groups — one pertaining to delegating, keeping members interested, civic participation and such — the second group will be composed of projects, department division and special chairman who will be concerned with questions of communication, how to present projects, etc. The president, Mrs. George Forman, asks that all club women participate in this workshop, affirming that it is an educational responsibility and is offered to any clubwoman in Northeast Louisiana desiring to take part.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

New, Colorful Spider Lily

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Spider lily enthusiasts will be happy to know that the California bulb nurseries are offering us a beautiful new "peaches-and-cream" spider lily in their fall catalogues.

Bulbs of this Japanese or Chinese lycoris were offered some years ago from imported stock, and we reported in this column two of the different types that flowered for your columnist.

My bulbs came to me from Cecil Houdyshel, the eminent bulb fancier in La Verne, California, who is one of the bulb specialists offering them again this year as lycoris albiflora.

SLOW SETTLERS

It took my bulbs several years to settle down. They gave me only a blossom or two each year for a year or so, but then they started to bloom in late August as fully as our old common red spider lily.

The flowers opened up in shades of peach and cream. Then they faded to nearly white with the faintest imaginable hint of rose. From tip to tip, they were eight inches across and exotic indeed, especially in the blazing heat and droughts of late August.

In our region, this new spider lily is a little tender in very cold winters. The foliage is just not as tough as that of our old red kind. After very cold winters, the bulbs do not send up many flowers the following August. Nevertheless, this newcomer is so exceedingly beautiful that is is worthwhile to protect its leaves a little during the coldest parts of winter. This can be done with no special trouble by laying pine branches over the bed or by covering the area with tobacco or cheese cloth from December until March. There are not many plants worth this trouble in your columnists's estimation, but these new spider lilies in their amazing colors and blooming, as they do in August are fully worth the trouble.

SURPRISES

If you order lycoris albiflora or lycoris albiflora carnea from one of the catalogues, you may be in for some nice surprises. Bulbs imported under these names in 1948 and subsequent years have given me all sorts of variations. One was a very large creamy white. On the peaches-and-cream type, there are always some deep bright pink pin-stripes. This led me to think that in, perhaps years and years, a pure pink might possibly be developed. Last week, when I went out on my daily rounds, gathering and storing pollen and cross - fertilizing spider lilies, I was amazed to see what I could scarcely believe: there was my bright pink spider lily, right before my eyes.

This flower is porcelain pink by the colour chart of the Royal Horticultural Society. It will be, possibly, the ancestor of many other fine pink spider lilies that will bloom before the old red ones.

Black and white will be used alone and also combined in giant plaids, tiny checks and tweeds. Navy is no longer considered just a color for spring. Bright navy leads in the blue family for fall wear. Other blues range from paler to the greened blues. You will see green ranging from hunter green to bright green, brassy green, and paled gray greens.

As to fabrics, knits have no limit this coming season. You will see double knit, jersey plain and fancy.

Textures offer new excitement in loops, diagonals, twills and tweeds. Boucles are back witn us again this fall.

Crepes are shown in sheer wool rayon and in blends.

In the construction area you will see sleeves slimmer and longer this year which will bring back the return of the shorter glove.

Skirts will be more comfortable for sitting and walking. The general effect is slim but other trends are gentle flares, gores from 6 to 16, A shaped, pleats in every possible way. Necklines are higher and collars are narrow.

SILVER

Good silver improves with use Washing and drying it will automatically cut down on heavy polishing jobs. Wash your silver in hot soapy water, and be sure to dry it completely before you put it away. It is best to keep flat silver in a container or drawer with tarnish proof lining. You can buy tarnish proof lining by the yard if your storing place is not equipped it it. Holloware, not in constant use, should be kept in tarnish proof bags. Stored pieces should be cleaned monthly.

All silver should be treated to a fine silver crean or polish. Clean gently, scratching pads used for removing food will make deep marks.

A THOUGHT

Most things that are put off until tomorrow should have been done yesterday.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

New, Colorful Spider Lily

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Spider lily enthusiasts will be happy to know that the California bulb nurseries are offering us a beautiful new "peaches-and-cream" spider lily in their fall catalogues.

Bulbs of this Japanese or Chinese lycoris were offered some years ago from imported stock, and we reported in this column two of the different types that flowered for your columnist.

My bulbs came to me from Cecil Houdyshel, the eminent bulb fancier in La Verne, California, who is one of the bulb specialists offering them again this year as lycoris albiflora.

SLOW SETTLERS

It took my bulbs several years to settle down. They gave me only a blossom or two each year for a year or so, but then they started to bloom in late August as fully as our old common red spider lily.

The flowers opened up in shades of peach and cream. Then they faded to nearly white with the faintest imaginable hint of rose. From tip to tip, they were eight inches across and exotic indeed, especially in the blazing heat and droughts of late August.

In our region, this new spider lily is a little tender in very cold winters. The foliage is just not as tough as that of our old red kind. After very cold winters, the bulbs do not send up many flowers the following August. Nevertheless, this newcomer is so exceedingly beautiful that is is worthwhile to protect its leaves a little during the coldest parts of winter. This can be done with no special trouble by laying pine branches over the bed or by covering the area with tobacco or cheese cloth from December until March. There are not many plants worth this trouble in your columnists's estimation, but these new spider lilies in their amazing colors and blooming, as they do in August are fully worth the trouble.

SURPRISES

If you order lycoris albiflora or lycoris albiflora carnea from one of the catalogues, you may be in for some nice surprises. Bulbs imported under these names in 1948 and subsequent years have given me all sorts of variations. One was a very large creamy white. On the peaches-and-cream type, there are always some deep bright pink pin-stripes. This led me to think that in, perhaps years and years, a pure pink might possibly be developed. Last week, when I went out on my daily rounds, gathering and storing pollen and cross - fertilizing spider lilies, I was amazed to see what I could scarcely believe: there was my bright pink spider lily, right before my eyes.

This flower is porcelain pink by the colour chart of the Royal Horticultural Society. It will be, possibly, the ancestor of many other fine pink spider lilies that will bloom before the old red ones.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Techniques Are Shown

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Garden Center and T. V. were blessed with another exceptionally good program last week. Since last fall quite a number of garden workers, and I should say, flower lovers, have requested a repeat program on dried arrangements that Mrs. M. L. Johnson brought to us so expertly.

We were quite lucky to have Mrs. Johnson again last week. She is a busy executive, owner of a large local dairy, naturalist, horticulturist, club worker with College Height's Garden Club of Monroe, and a very accomplished flower arranger.

Her newest hobby is drying materials that she has grown in her own garden and arranging them in flower designs. She has gained quite a knowledge of this art through her experience and is happy to share her findings with others. The show that she gave Wednesday was the finished product. Her program was extended through Thursday primarily to tell how she dried or preserved her materials. This is the type of program that is so interesting to all of us and needless to say, instructive.

POSSIBILITIES

Mrs. Johnson began by saying that the possibilities of dried materials are unlimited. The most beautiful arrangement can be made from the most simple type materials. The beauty of her first design was brought out in it's simplicity — a single, twisted cedar root, grey in color, formed the line material in a light grey oriental vase on a black footed base.

Three clusters of glycerinized tea olive leaves were placed within the curving line, forming a triangle. For an accessory she used a very life-like ceramic cow reclining at the base of the design. The whole unit was placed on a black base, giving balance. The rosy brown color of the foliage blended with the natural brown tones of the cow.

Mrs. Johnson cleverly painted an orange juice bottle with brown oil paint for her next container. This bottle was placed on a round footed base, also brown. The line material in this design was made of the light tan florets of hydrangea (dried). These florets were wired on a heavy wire to form the spikes. It was a very interesting use of hydrangea. Within this assymetrical triangle she used dried ivy, and a diagonal line of deep pink dried celosia. The celosia backed by glycerinized ivy leaves formed the focal interest. To add weight and interest she placed a cluster of dried Louisiana seed pods just below the celosia. One branch of glycerinized ivy branch was added low to the right of the design adding a feeling of serenity. Mrs. Johnson remarked that she used this arrangement in her entrance hall.

GREEN PILLAR

A dark green pillar vase served as the container for the next design, a triangle line made of dried canna leaves. These dried naturally and curved into a gracefully formed triangle line, rosy beige in color. Dried garlic blossoms were placed within the focal area. This design was placed on a heavy grass mat of straw color. A figurine of a Chinaman in a sitting position was placed at the base of the container, thus completing the unit. Simplicity again was the keynote to beauty in this design.

The ever-dependable dock was displayed in the next design, a triangle. The low tan pottery bowl served as a very appropriate container. The triangle line was filled in with a row of wild yucca seed pods (light tan), sand dried marigolds and a row of light tan hydrangea florets used to enhance the color of the orange marigolds. Glycerinized magnolia leaves were added within the design to give depth and background.

Driftwood took an important role in the next design. It was used, two branches, to form the line on a large sanded log round base. A cluster of glycrinized sea grape leaves formed the focal balance. For interest and contrast a line of dried thistles was placed within the line and clustered in the center of the sea grape leaves. For an accessory a light tan ceremic squirrel was placed low to the right, the curve of it's tail followed the line of the curving wood.

Very unusual color (vivid red) dried celosia was used in a spiral design just opposite clusters of glycerinized photenia leaves forming a vertical in another orange juice bottle (colored brown). A cluster of deep red grapes hung over the neck of the bottle adding weight to the design.

To give added balance this design was placed on a large round woven mat - deep blue in color.

TIP

Mrs. Johnson gave a tip on how she painted the orange juice bottle. She used one cup of oil paint. left over from painting her shutters, to three quarts of water. Stir well and dip the bottle in this solution. Place the bottle upright on a stick to dry. This gives a smooth finish and keeps fingers and paint brushes clean. When dry add sand to the bottle for weight. Next push a piece of styrafoam in the neck and secure with slightly melted wax. This forms the holder for your dried materials. Hope all of you saw this wonderful program, plus the continued program on Thursday. This program gave all the details of how she dried her materials in her workshop at home. Isn't this a wonderful hobby for such a busy person. Thanks to Mrs. Johnson for sharing her hobby with all of us so graciously.

This week — one we haven't seen since July and will be so glad to welcome back. Dr. John Wright, horticulture professor from Louisiana Tech, Ruston.

MRS. JERRY TILL

Gretchen Gresham Weds Jerry Till In Bernice

In a candlelight ceremony solemnized Friday, September 7 in Bernice First Baptist Church, Miss Gretchen Gresham became the bride of Jerry Till. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Gresham Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Till, all of Bernice.

Rev. R. B. Middleton performed the double ring ceremony before the altar which was decorated with baskets of yellow and white gladioli, and ivy-entwined candelabra holding lighted tapers.

Nuptial music was provided by Miss Jane Lee, organist and Miss Gayle Ferguson, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white bridal satin, which featured a crushed cummerbund of satin and short jacket of Chantilly lace with long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. The full skirt extended into a chapel train. Her waist length veil of English silk illusion fell from a scalloped crown of pearls and her bouquet was composed of a large white orchid in a cluster of stephanotis, which she carried atop a white Bible.

Miss Carolyn Gresham of Bernice, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Judith Ann Cathey and Miss Carol Turnipseed, both of West Monroe, cousins of the bridegroom. They wore sheath dresses of yellow cotton satin, with full overskirts of matching silk organza. They wore matching pillbox hats, short white gloves and carried bouquets of daisies.

Billy Till of Linville, attended his brother as best man and groomsmen - ushers were Bobby Till, Dubach, also a brother and Harry Cook of Bernice.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a sheath dress of light blue linen trimmed in matching satin, with blue accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of pink lace over satin with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's bouquet was placed on a mirror in center of the table which was covered with a floor length cloth of white tulle, garlanded with ivy. Baskets of yellow and white gladioli formed a background for the receiving line and the yellow and white theme was carried out in all appointments. Yellow net encircled the punch bowl and wedding cake. Mrs. Bobby Till of Dubach presided at the crystal punch bowl and Mrs. Billy Till, Linville served the cake. Mrs. Billy Gene Pearson of West Monroe, had charge of the bride's book, which was on a table graced with a memory candle, encircled by yellow net ruffles.

Miss Diane Foster of Bernice, served as tea girl and others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Sam Johnson, Mrs. Prentiss Reeves, Mrs. Billy Troy Riordan, Mrs. Huey Roberson and Mrs. Wayne Eskridge. Rice bags were presented guests by Misses Caroline McIntosh and Angelique Pearson, who were dressed in identical frocks of yellow cotton satin with white carnation corsages.

For a wedding trip to points of interest in Mississippi the bride changed to an olive green linen jacket ensemble with matching hat and gloves and brown shoes and bag. The couple will be at home in Bernice while Mr. Till continues his studies at Louisiana Tech, from where he will graduate in January. He is a senior majoring in Wildlife Conservation. Mrs. Till also attended Louisiana Tech and is presently employed in Ruston.

On the evening preceding the wedding the bridegroom's parents were hosts at a rehearsal supper in the church parlor. Yellow and white pompons and ivy centered the table. The couple presented gifts to their attendants during the evening.

14th District VFW, Auxiliary Convenes Here

MRS. JERRY TILL

Gretchen Gresham Weds Jerry Till In Bernice

In a candlelight ceremony solemnized Friday, September 7 in Bernice First Baptist Church, Miss Gretchen Gresham became the bride of Jerry Till. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Gresham Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Till, all of Bernice.

Rev. R. B. Middleton performed the double ring ceremony before the altar which was decorated with baskets of yellow and white gladioli, and ivy-entwined candelabra holding lighted tapers.

Nuptial music was provided by Miss Jane Lee, organist and Miss Gayle Ferguson, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white bridal satin, which featured a crushed cummerbund of satin and short jacket of Chantilly lace with long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. The full skirt extended into a chapel train. Her waist length veil of English silk illusion fell from a scalloped crown of pearls and her bouquet was composed of a large white orchid in a cluster of stephanotis, which she carried atop a white Bible.

Miss Carolyn Gresham of Bernice, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Judith Ann Cathey and Miss Carol Turnipseed, both of West Monroe, cousins of the bridegroom. They wore sheath dresses of yellow cotton satin, with full overskirts of matching silk organza. They wore matching pillbox hats, short white gloves and carried bouquets of daisies.

Billy Till of Linville, attended his brother as best man and groomsmen - ushers were Bobby Till, Dubach, also a brother and Harry Cook of Bernice.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a sheath dress of light blue linen trimmed in matching satin, with blue accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of pink lace over satin with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's bouquet was placed on a mirror in center of the table which was covered with a floor length cloth of white tulle, garlanded with ivy. Baskets of yellow and white gladioli formed a background for the receiving line and the yellow and white theme was carried out in all appointments. Yellow net encircled the punch bowl and wedding cake. Mrs. Bobby Till of Dubach presided at the crystal punch bowl and Mrs. Billy Till, Linville served the cake. Mrs. Billy Gene Pearson of West Monroe, had charge of the bride's book, which was on a table graced with a memory candle, encircled by yellow net ruffles.

Miss Diane Foster of Bernice, served as tea girl and others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Sam Johnson, Mrs. Prentiss Reeves, Mrs. Billy Troy Riordan, Mrs. Huey Roberson and Mrs. Wayne Eskridge. Rice bags were presented guests by Misses Caroline McIntosh and Angelique Pearson, who were dressed in identical frocks of yellow cotton satin with white carnation corsages.

For a wedding trip to points of interest in Mississippi the bride changed to an olive green linen jacket ensemble with matching hat and gloves and brown shoes and bag. The couple will be at home in Bernice while Mr. Till continues his studies at Louisiana Tech, from where he will graduate in January. He is a senior majoring in Wildlife Conservation. Mrs. Till also attended Louisiana Tech and is presently employed in Ruston.

On the evening preceding the wedding the bridegroom's parents were hosts at a rehearsal supper in the church parlor. Yellow and white pompons and ivy centered the table. The couple presented gifts to their attendants during the evening.

PRESIDENT'S WORKSHOP

Mrs. George Forman, president of the 5th District Federation of Women's Club ask yours tryly to invite all new club presidents of this area to attend a workshop on Saturday, September 22 9:30 a.m. - 12 noon, at the Paragon Club in Monroe. The workshop is to help new club presidents get up to date on how to preside and handle promotional projects. Mrs. Forman said the workshop is an educational responsibility and is offered to any club woman in Northeast Louisiana desiring to participate. This includes you, Mrs. President, of a Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Forman says there will be a small fee for registration.

Red is the leading color for this fall. So if red is a good color for you, be sure to include at least one red garment in your wardrobe planning for fall. Black and white will be used alone and also combined in giant plaids, tiny checks and tweeds. Navy is no longer considered just a color for spring. Bright navy leads in the blue family for fall wear. Other blues range from paler to the greened blues. You will see green ranging from hunter green to bright green, brassy green, and paled gray greens.

As to fabrics, knits have no limit this coming season. You will see double knit, jersey plain and fancy.

Textures offer new excitement in loops, diagonals, twills and tweeds. Boucles are back witn us again this fall.

Crepes are shown in sheer wool rayon and in blends.

In the construction area you will see sleeves slimmer and longer this year which will bring back the return of the shorter glove.

Skirts will be more comfortable for sitting and walking. The general effect is slim but other trends are gentle flares, gores from 6 to 16, A shaped, pleats in every possible way. Necklines are higher and collars are narrow.

SILVER

Good silver improves with use Washing and drying it will automatically cut down on heavy polishing jobs. Wash your silver in hot soapy water, and be sure to dry it completely before you put it away. It is best to keep flat silver in a container or drawer with tarnish proof lining. You can buy tarnish proof lining by the yard if your storing place is not equipped it it. Holloware, not in constant use, should be kept in tarnish proof bags. Stored pieces should be cleaned monthly.

All silver should be treated to a fine silver crean or polish. Clean gently, scratching pads used for removing food will make deep marks.

A THOUGHT

Most things that are put off until tomorrow should have been done yesterday.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

New, Colorful Spider Lily

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Spider lily enthusiasts will be happy to know that the California bulb nurseries are offering us a beautiful new "peaches-and-cream" spider lily in their fall catalogues.

Bulbs of this Japanese or Chinese lycoris were offered some years ago from imported stock, and we reported in this column two of the different types that flowered for your columnist.

My bulbs came to me from Cecil Houdyshel, the eminent bulb fancier in La Verne, California, who is one of the bulb specialists offering them again this year as lycoris albiflora.

SLOW SETTLERS

It took my bulbs several years to settle down. They gave me only a blossom or two each year for a year or so, but then they started to bloom in late August as fully as our old common red spider lily.

The flowers opened up in shades of peach and cream. Then they faded to nearly white with the faintest imaginable hint of rose. From tip to tip, they were eight inches across and exotic indeed, especially in the blazing heat and droughts of late August.

In our region, this new spider lily is a little tender in very cold winters. The foliage is just not as tough as that of our old red kind. After very cold winters, the bulbs do not send up many flowers the following August. Nevertheless, this newcomer is so exceedingly beautiful that is is worthwhile to protect its leaves a little during the coldest parts of winter. This can be done with no special trouble by laying pine branches over the bed or by covering the area with tobacco or cheese cloth from December until March. There are not many plants worth this trouble in your columnists's estimation, but these new spider lilies in their amazing colors and blooming, as they do in August are fully worth the trouble.

SURPRISES

If you order lycoris albiflora or lycoris albiflora carnea from one of the catalogues, you may be in for some nice surprises. Bulbs imported under these names in 1948 and subsequent years have given me all sorts of variations. One was a very large creamy white. On the peaches-and-cream type, there are always some deep bright pink pin-stripes. This led me to think that in, perhaps years and years, a pure pink might possibly be developed. Last week, when I went out on my daily rounds, gathering and storing pollen and cross - fertilizing spider lilies, I was amazed to see what I could scarcely believe: there was my bright pink spider lily, right before my eyes.

This flower is porcelain pink by the colour chart of the Royal Horticultural Society. It will be, possibly, the ancestor of many other fine pink spider lilies that will bloom before the old red ones.

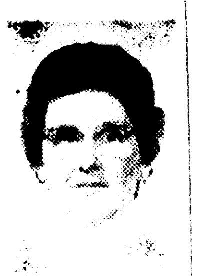
GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Techniques Are Shown



By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Garden Center and T. V. were blessed with another exceptionally good program last week. Since last fall quite a number of garden workers, and I should say, flower lovers, have requested a repeat program on dried arrangements that Mrs. M. L. Johnson brought to us so expertly.

We were quite lucky to have Mrs. Johnson again last week. She is a busy executive, owner of a large local dairy, naturalist, horticulturist, club worker with College Height's Garden Club of Monroe, and a very accomplished flower arranger.

Her newest hobby is drying materials that she has grown in her own garden and arranging them in flower designs. She has gained quite a knowledge of this art through her experience and is happy to share her findings with others. The show that she gave Wednesday was the finished product. Her program was extended through Thursday primarily to tell how she dried or preserved her materials. This is the type of program that is so interesting to all of us and needless to say, instructive.

POSSIBILITIES

Mrs. Johnson began by saying that the possibilities of dried materials are unlimited. The most beautiful arrangement can be made from the most simple type materials. The beauty of her first design was brought out in it's simplicity — a single, twisted cedar root, grey in color, formed the line material in a light grey oriental vase on a black footed base.

Three clusters of glycerinized tea olive leaves were placed within the curving line, forming a triangle. For an accessory she used a very life-like ceramic cow reclining at the base of the design. The whole unit was placed on a black base, giving balance. The rosy brown color of the foliage blended with the natural brown tones of the cow.

Mrs. Johnson cleverly painted an orange juice bottle with brown oil paint for her next container. This bottle was placed on a round footed base, also brown. The line material in this design was made of the light tan florets of hydrangea (dried). These florets were wired on a heavy wire to form the spikes. It was a very interesting use of hydrangea. Within this assymetrical triangle she used dried ivy, and a diagonal line of deep pink dried celosia. The celosia backed by glycerinized ivy leaves formed the focal interest. To add weight and interest she placed a cluster of dried Louisiana seed pods just below the celosia. One branch of glycerinized ivy branch was added low to the right of the design adding a feeling of serenity. Mrs. Johnson remarked that she used this arrangement in her entrance hall.

GREEN PILLAR

A dark green pillar vase served as the container for the next design, a triangle line made of dried canna leaves. These dried naturally and curved into a gracefully formed triangle line, rosy beige in color. Dried garlic blossoms were placed within the focal area. This design was placed on a heavy grass mat of straw color. A figurine of a Chinaman in a sitting position was placed at the base of the container, thus completing the unit. Simplicity again was the keynote to beauty in this design.

The ever-dependable dock was displayed in the next design, a triangle. The low tan pottery bowl served as a very appropriate container.' The triangle line was filled in with a row of wild yucca seed pods (light tan), sand dried marigolds and a row of light tan hydrangea florets used to enhance the color of the orange marigolds. Glycerinized magnolia leaves were added within the design to give depth and background.

Driftwood took an important role in the next design. It was used, two branches, to form the line on a large sanded log round base. A cluster of glycerinized sea grape leaves formed the focal balance. For interest and contrast a line of dried thistles was placed within the line and clustered in the center of the sea grape leaves. For an accessory a light tan ceremic squirrel was placed low to the right, the curve of it's tail followed the line of the curving wood.

Very unusual color (vivid red) dried celosia was used in a spiral design just opposite clusters of glycerinized photenia leaves forming a vertical in another orange juice bottle (colored brown). A cluster of deep red grapes hung over the neck of the bottle adding weight to the design.

To give added balance this design was placed on a large round woven mat - deep blue in color.

TIP

Mrs. Johnson gave a tip on how she painted the orange juice bottle. She used one cup of oil paint, left over from painting her shutters, to three quarts of water. Stir well and dip the bottle in this solution. Place the bottle upright on a stick to dry. This gives a smooth finish and keeps fingers and paint brushes clean. When dry add sand to the bottle for weight. Next push a piece of styrafoam in the neck and secure with slightly melted wax. This forms the holder for your dried materials. Hope all of you saw this wonderful program, plus the continued program on Thursday. This program gave all the details of how she dried her materials in her workshop at home. Isn't this a wonderful hobby for such a busy person. Thanks to Mrs. Johnson for sharing her hobby with all of us so graciously.

This week — one we haven't seen since July and will be so glad to welcome back. Dr. John Wright, horticulture professor from Louisiana Tech, Ruston.

Mrs. George Forman, president of the 5th District Federation of Women's Club ask yours tryly to invite all new club presidents of this area to attend a workshop on Saturday, September 22 9:30 a.m. - 12 noon, at the Paragon Club in Monroe. The workshop is to help new club presidents get up to date on how to preside and handle promotional projects.

Mrs. Forman said the workshop is an educational responsibility and is offered to any club woman in Northeast Louisiana desiring to participate. This includes you, Mrs. President, of a Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Forman says there will be a small fee for registration.

Red is the leading color for this fall. So if red is a good color for you, be sure to include at least one red garment in your wardrobe planning for fall. Black and white will be used alone and also combined in giant plaids, tiny checks and tweeds. Navy is no longer considered just a color for spring. Bright navy leads in the blue family for fall wear. Other blues range from paler to the greened blues. You will see green ranging from hunter green to bright green, brassy green, and paled gray greens.

As to fabrics, knits have no limit this coming season. You will see double knit, jersey plain and fancy.

Textures offer new excitement in loops, diagonals, twills and tweeds. Boucles are back witn us again this fall.

Crepes are shown in sheer wool rayon and in blends.

In the construction area you will see sleeves slimmer and longer this year which will bring back the return of the shorter glove.

Skirts will be more comfortable for sitting and walking. The general effect is slim but other trends are gentle flares, gores from 6 to 16, A shaped, pleats in every possible way. Necklines are higher and collars are narrow.

SILVER

Good silver improves with use Washing and drying it will automatically cut down on heavy polishing jobs. Wash your silver in hot soapy water, and be sure to dry it completely before you put it away. It is best to keep flat silver in a container or drawer with tarnish proof lining. You can buy tarnish proof lining by the yard if your storing place is not equipped it it. Holloware, not in constant use, should be kept in tarnish proof bags. Stored pieces should be cleaned monthly.

All silver should be treated to a fine silver crean or polish. Clean gently, scratching pads used for removing food will make deep marks.

A THOUGHT

Most things that are put off until tomorrow should have been done yesterday.

New, Colorful Spider Lily

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Spider lily enthusiasts will be happy to know that the California bulb nurseries are offering us a beautiful new "peaches-and-cream" spider lily in their fall catalogues.

Bulbs of this Japanese or Chinese lycoris were offered some years ago from imported stock, and we reported in this column two of the different types that flowered for your columnist.

My bulbs came to me from Cecil Houdyshel, the eminent bulb fancier in La Verne, California, who is one of the bulb specialists offering them again this year as lycoris albiflora.

SLOW SETTLERS

It took my bulbs several years to settle down. They gave me only a blossom or two each year for a year or so, but then they started to bloom in late August as fully as our old common red spider lily.

The flowers opened up in shades of peach and cream. Then they faded to nearly white with the faintest imaginable hint of rose. From tip to tip, they were eight inches across and exotic indeed, especially in the blazing heat and droughts of late August.

In our region, this new spider lily is a little tender in very cold winters. The foliage is just not as tough as that of our old red kind. After very cold winters, the bulbs do not send up many flowers the following August. Nevertheless, this newcomer is so exceedingly beautiful that is is worthwhile to protect its leaves a little during the coldest parts of winter. This can be done with no special trouble by laying pine branches over the bed or by covering the area with tobacco or cheese cloth from December until March. There are not many plants worth this trouble in your columnists's estimation, but these new spider lilies in their amazing colors and blooming, as they do in August are fully worth the trouble.

SURPRISES

If you order lycoris albiflora or lycoris albiflora carnea from one of the catalogues, you may be in for some nice surprises. Bulbs imported under these names in 1948 and subsequent years have given me all sorts of variations. One was a very large creamy white. On the peaches-and-cream type, there are always some deep bright pink pin-stripes. This led me to think that in, perhaps years and years, a pure pink might possibly be developed. Last week, when I went out on my daily rounds, gathering and storing pollen and cross - fertilizing spider lilies, I was amazed to see what I could scarcely believe: there was my bright pink spider lily, right before my eyes.

This flower is porcelain pink by the colour chart of the Royal Horticultural Society. It will be, possibly, the ancestor of many other fine pink spider lilies that will bloom before the old red ones.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Techniques Are Shown

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Garden Center and T. V. were blessed with another exceptionally good program last week. Since last fall quite a number of garden workers, and I should say, flower lovers, have requested a repeat program on dried arrangements that Mrs. M. L. Johnson brought to us so expertly.

We were quite lucky to have Mrs. Johnson again last week. She is a busy executive, owner of a large local dairy, naturalist, horticulturist, club worker with College Height's Garden Club of Monroe, and a very accomplished flower arranger.

Her newest hobby is drying materials that she has grown in her own garden and arranging them in flower designs. She has gained quite a knowledge of this art through her experience and is happy to share her findings with others. The show that she gave Wednesday was the finished product. Her program was extended through Thursday primarily to tell how she dried or preserved her materials. This is the type of program that is so interesting to all of us and needless to say, instructive.

POSSIBILITIES

Mrs. Johnson began by saying that the possibilities of dried materials are unlimited. The most beautiful arrangement can be made from the most simple type materials. The beauty of her first design was brought out in it's simplicity — a single, twisted cedar root, grey in color, formed the line material in a light grey oriental vase on a black footed base.

Three clusters of glycerinized tea olive leaves were placed within the curving line, forming a triangle. For an accessory she used a very life-like ceramic cow reclining at the base of the design. The whole unit was placed on a black base, giving balance. The rosy brown color of the foliage blended with the natural brown tones of the cow.

Mrs. Johnson cleverly painted an orange juice bottle with brown oil paint for her next container. This bottle was placed on a round footed base, also brown. The line material in this design was made of the light tan florets of hydrangea (dried). These florets were wired on a heavy wire to form the spikes. It was a very interesting use of hydrangea. Within this assymetrical triangle she used dried ivy, and a diagonal line of deep pink dried celosia. The celosia backed by glycerinized ivy leaves formed the focal interest. To add weight and interest she placed a cluster of dried Louisiana seed pods just below the celosia. One branch of glycerinized ivy branch was added low to the right of the design adding a feeling of serenity. Mrs. Johnson remarked that she used this arrangement in her entrance hall.

GREEN PILLAR

A dark green pillar vase served as the container for the next design, a triangle line made of dried canna leaves. These dried naturally and curved into a gracefully formed triangle line, rosy beige in color. Dried garlic blossoms were placed within the focal area. This design was placed on a heavy grass mat of straw color. A figurine of a Chinaman in a sitting position was placed at the base of the container, thus completing the unit. Simplicity again was the keynote to beauty in this design.

The ever-dependable dock was displayed in the next design, a triangle. The low tan pottery bowl served as a very appropriate container. The triangle line was filled in with a row of wild yucca seed pods (light tan), sand dried marigolds and a row of light tan hydrangea florets used to enhance the color of the orange marigolds. Glycerinized magnolia leaves were added within the design to give depth and background.

Driftwood took an important role in the next design. It was used, two branches, to form the line on a large sanded log round base. A cluster of glycrinized sea grape leaves formed the focal balance. For interest and contrast a line of dried thistles was placed within the line and clustered in the center of the sea grape leaves. For an accessory a light tan ceremic squirrel was placed low to the right, the curve of it's tail followed the line of the curving wood.

Very unusual color (vivid red) dried celosia was used in a spiral design just opposite clusters of glycerinized photenia leaves forming a vertical in another orange juice bottle (colored brown). A cluster of deep red grapes hung over the neck of the bottle adding weight to the design.

To give added balance this design was placed on a large round woven mat - deep blue in color.

TIP

Mrs. Johnson gave a tip on how she painted the orange juice bottle. She used one cup of oil paint. left over from painting her shutters, to three quarts of water. Stir well and dip the bottle in this solution. Place the bottle upright on a stick to dry. This gives a smooth finish and keeps fingers and paint brushes clean. When dry add sand to the bottle for weight. Next push a piece of styrafoam in the neck and secure with slightly melted wax. This forms the holder for your dried materials. Hope all of you saw this wonderful program, plus the continued program on Thursday. This program gave all the details of how she dried her materials in her workshop at home. Isn't this a wonderful hobby for such a busy person. Thanks to Mrs. Johnson for sharing her hobby with all of us so graciously.

This week — one we haven't seen since July and will be so glad to welcome back. Dr. John Wright, horticulture professor from Louisiana Tech, Ruston.

Reminder — Flower Show School No. 111 —Sept. 27, 28, 29- Ruston, Student Center at Louisiana Tech. Schedule as follows:

Stage Set For Showdown Fight In Mississippi School Mix Case

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—James Howard Meredith and the state of Mississippi expect a crucial battle next week in their legal war over whether he will become the first Negro to enter the University of Mississippi.

Although neither side disclosed detailed strategy for the opening of the university's fall term, both made clear they planned a showdown fight.

Meredith, a 29-year-old Kosciusko Air Force veteran, armed with a federal court order directing the university to admit him, is backed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He is described as a "man with a mission in life to correct all the ills of the world."

Gov. Ross Barnett took over state defenses last Thursday night when he ordered leaders to defy federal court desegregation orders and said he would take any legal responsibility for their acts. However, Barnett was not a defendant in the suit.

Barnett is regarded as an astute lawyer and the 64-year-old arch-segregationist is backed by most of Mississippi officials in his fight against integrating the university. He also has broad popular backing from his fellow members of the citizens councils and others.

The big question, however, remained unanswered. It involved how far officials and citizens who agree with Barnett's aims would go along with his methods. University officials and members of the State College Board consistently declined comment during the Meredith case.

Sources close to the college board indicated the board was divided on whom many view as the final decision—whether to go to jail for defying a federal court order, whether to close the university, or whether to accept Meredith.

The lengthy battle has brought up touchy questions, both in the courts and on the campus.

Because neither side went into detail about its plans, school officials could only guess what action the government would take in the event Meredith is rejected when he seeks to enroll, or what action Barnett would take if Meredith is accepted.

Legal sources said the action of Barnett interposing the sovereignty of the state between the government and the university brought up problems in state law. The interposition proclamation marked the first use of the state law.

Barnett indicated he felt his proclamation put him in control of the university, in effect, but the courts would make the final decision on this.

Campus questions include how the student body would accept Meredith, who promised an effort to enroll but declined to say on what day.

He can certainly expect problems if he is enrolled. The involved legal war has not endeared him to many students. After university officials told student leaders this week Meredith would have to be treated like any other student, a cross was burned Tuesday night near the veterans apartment building rumored as his campus home.

A student spokesman said students regarded Meredith as an "intruder and troublemaker more interested in making headlines in New York papers than in seeking an education."

Early Friday Meredith was hung in effigy and a note was appended to the dummy praising Barnett's resistance to integrating the school.

Student leaders said many students preferred admitting Meredith to closing the university and some of these said he probably would fail scholastically within a month. Others predicted outsiders would provoke violence.

Ouachita Bank Plans To Open Branch Office

The Ouachita National Bank will open a new branch office at the corner of Hudson Lane and North Eighteenth Street in approximately five months it was was announced Saturday by R. L. Vanderpool Jr., president.

The branch will be known as the Northside office and will be the sixth location of the Ouachita National Bank organization.

Approval for the office has been received from the Comptroller of Currency in Washington D.C., the regulatory agency for national banks.

"In establishing this new office our bank is following its policy of placing branches in the most convenient and accessible locations in the twin cities. The growth of the area surrounding this proposed location has been outstanding, and we are confident that our bank will give this development additional impetus," Vanderpool stated.

The architectural firm of Johns and Neel has been engaged to design and oversee the construction of the building. "Emphasis on convenience for the customer will be the keynote in the design of the building. Our site fronts 200 feet on Eighteenth Street and 175 feet on Hudson Lane which will permit easy access and ample parking. The building will feature two drive-in windows, night depository, adequate safe deposit box accomodations, and all the other facilities required to furnish complete banking services," Vanderpool said.

TOKYO (AP)—The City of Itami, near Osaka, has approved plans for a mobile mail-drop system. It will place post boxes on 40 buses operating along 20 routes. The boxes will be taken off at fixed points and their contents collected by mailmen.

GEORGIA BANK LOOTED

Bloodhounds Help To Catch Robbers

TALLAPOOSA, Ga. (UPI) — Four Atlanta men robbed a bank of $11,800 Saturday but were apprehended less than two hours later with the help of bloodhounds.

Authorities said all except about $500 of the loot was recovered.

An agent of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation identified the suspects as Harold Almond Jr., 28, and Kenneth Hayes, 32, both formerly of Anniston, Ala.; Robert Whisonhund, formerly of Buchanan, Ga., and Roy Shelton, 32, formerly of Morristown, Tenn.

Hayes and Almond entered the West Georgia bank here about 9:05 a.m., while the others waited in Shelton's car, authorities said.

Hayes drew a gun on a bank employe and demanded the money, the F.B.I. agent said. Hayes turned part of it over to Almond and the pair fled in the car with the others, authorities said.

A police roadblock stopped the car, a 1954 bluish green Chevrolet, at Bowdon, about 15 miles south of here, within a half hour of the holdup.

Bowdon police arrested Whisonhund and Shelton, but Hayes and Almond fled to the surrounding woods.

State police, helped by bloodhounds from the Carroll County prison camp, combed the area and an hour later apprehended the other two.

Authorities said $5,665 was found on Hayes. They said Almond directed Haralson County Sheriff L. B. Allen back to where he had his share of the loot, and another $5,125 was found.

Authorities said a car which earlier was believed to be the getaway vehicle was found a few miles south of here shortly after the holdup. They said the second vehicle was under investigation and may be involved in some way in the robbery.

Authorities said the four had moved to Atlanta less than eight months ago.

N.Y. Delegates To Name Slates Of Candidates

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The vanguard of Democratic and Republican delegates and alternates to New York State nominating conventions began pouring into their respective convention cities Saturday to choose their slates of candidates and endorse party platforms.

The scenes contrasted sharply. Republicans, oozing optimism, converged on their headquarters in Buffalo to frolic and whoop it up for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his running mates on the GOP state ticket that needed only the formal stamp of approval.

Four of the six spots on their ticket were nailed down tightly by the incumbent office holders — Rockefeller, Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson, Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz and U.S. Sen. Jacob Javits.

And the word was that leaders had about settled on candidates for the other two positions — comptroller and judge of the Court of Appeals, the state's highest tribunal.

Although the convention does not open until Tuesday, the advance elements arrived Saturday to complete preparations.

At Syracuse, the four candidates seeking the Democratic nod to oppose Rockefeller were locked in a bitter struggle to nail down the 570 votes necessary for the nomination.

Many Cities Halt Type 3 Polio Shots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many communities will follow a U.S. Public Health Service recommendation and halt use of Type III oral polio vaccine despite urging by its developer that immunization programs go on as planned.

Reports from all over the country showed that most local and state officials are adopting a "wait-and-see" attitude toward the recommendation announced Saturday by the health service despite its advisory nature.

The Public Health Service recommended continued use of Types I and II oral vaccines and use of Type III on children.

In many communities the decision will be no immediate problem because no Type III vaccinations are planned immediately.

In Maryland, for example, plans have been made for vaccination with Type I in October, Type II in November, and Type III in January.

Accidents Slight In Twin Cities Despite Deluge

Although rains deluged the Twin Cities Saturday, accidents were kept to a minimum and only one involved injury when a child sustained bruises after being struck by a car.

Monroe police investigated 10 vehicle accidents, West Monroe only reported one while Troop F, state police had none reported Saturday.

However, Monroe officers were kept busy with investigations of thefts and burglaries, and cleared one theft report with three arrests.

Chief James C. Kelly said his department booked three Negroes on theft counts — Monroe Dixon, No. Three Ross's Alley; Will Carter Jr., 30, 1241 Rear DeSiard St., and J. W. McClain, 32, 300 N. 19th St.

They are charged with theft of a billfold containing $20 from another Negro, Joe Lee Johnson, of 714 Rear Adams St. Johnson told officers that one Negro lured him into Ross's alley Friday night, then pretended to leave to find him a date. He said that at that time two other Negroes jumped on him and took the wallet.

The three Negroes were apprehended early Saturday and held under $360 bonds.

Monroe officers were also investigating the burglary of lockers in the football stadium at Carroll High School that occurred during the game Friday night. Henry Carroll, principal of the school, said that six wallets, a number of clothing articles and a total of $12 in change was taken in the raid of the lockers.

Meanwhile, West Monroe officers booked Lloyd William Mitchell, 37, 2340 Jonesboro Rd., West Monroe, for forgery. He allegedly forged a $20 check at Gibson's Wholesale last May.

West Monroe police also booked a Hamburg, Ark., man for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages Saturday night. Arthur D. Summit, 22, Hamburg, was booked at 8:55 p.m. after his apprehension at South Fourth and Coleman Streets.

2 Boys Wreck $9,000 Plane

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — Two boys, 15 and 17, neither with flying experience, admitted to police Saturday they had taken a plane from the municipal airport "for a little ride" Friday night, but that they had a little trouble landing.

Both escaped unhurt but the plane, valued at $9,000, burst into flames and was destroyed moments after a pancake landing.

The two took the plane on a 10-minute flight at 2,000 feet over the southern Minnesota community in the darkness.

British Leader Scores Gains On Mart Plans

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan made further gains Saturday in his effort to get Commonwealth leaders to drop their open hostility to Britain's Common Market plans.

The prime minister still was not out of trouble, but a few new allies have tiptoed into his camp.

Macmillan looked tired. He worked on the draft of a final plea for understanding which he will deliver Monday to a full session of the 16-nation Commonwealth prime ministers conference.

Coroner Rules In Baby Death

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A 17-month-old boy apparently killed his 9-day-old sister by beating her with a feeding bottle, a coroner said Saturday.

Coroner W. C. Telford quoted Mrs. Randall McCoy, mother of the children, as saying she left the girl on a bed in a room Friday. She said when she returned to the room she found the boy on the bed striking the infant with a bottle.

Shreveport Ad Club Is Set For Anniversary

The Advertising Club of Shreveport, celebrating its 25th anniversary, plays host Sept. 20-22 to the Advertising Federation of America's 10th District Convention.

Convention headquarters will be located in the Capt. Shreve and Washington Youree Hotels with registration to get underway from 1 to 9 p.m. Sept. 20.

Gov. Jimmie Davis is slated to address the group during the convention opening and other speakers will take the form of businessmen from various nationally known corporations and businesses.

A social highlight of the meet will be a big "Shrimp Bust" Cajun Party where the group will "Miss Shrimp Bust" in the person of a curvy 39" - 23" - 37" Lynn Anderson.

Members of the A. F. A. are urged to attend and non members can attend by calling and sending registration fees.

TREES CENTURIES OLD

TOKYO (AP)—Trees more than 10 centuries old still are growing near Hangchow in Red China's Chekiang Province, says the New China news agency. Among the group is a 60-foot-high camphor tree.

GEORGIA BANK LOOTED

Bloodhounds Help To Catch Robbers

TALLAPOOSA, Ga. (UPI) — Four Atlanta men robbed a bank of $11,800 Saturday but were apprehended less than two hours later with the help of bloodhounds.

Authorities said all except about $500 of the loot was recovered.

An agent of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation identified the suspects as Harold Almond Jr., 28, and Kenneth Hayes, 32, both formerly of Anniston, Ala.; Robert Whisonhund, formerly of Buchanan, Ga., and Roy Shelton, 32, formerly of Morristown, Tenn.

Hayes and Almond entered the West Georgia bank here about 9:05 a.m., while the others waited in Shelton's car, authorities said.

Hayes drew a gun on a bank employe and demanded the money, the F.B.I. agent said. Hayes turned part of it over to Almond and the pair fled in the car with the others, authorities said.

A police roadblock stopped the car, a 1954 bluish green Chevrolet, at Bowdon, about 15 miles south of here, within a half-hour of the holdup.

Bowdon police arrested Whisonhund and Shelton, but Hayes and Almond fled to the surrounding woods.

State police, helped by bloodhounds from the Carroll County prison camp, combed the area and an hour later apprehended the other two.

Authorities said $5,673 was found on Hayes. They said Almond directed Haralson County Sheriff L. B. Allen back to where he had his share of the loot, and another $5,125 was found.

Authorities said a car which earlier was believed to be the getaway vehicle was found a few miles south of here shortly after the holdup. They said the second vehicle was under investigation and may be involved in some way in the robbery.

Authorities said the four had moved to Atlanta less than eight months ago.

N.Y. Delegates To Name Slates Of Candidates

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The vanguard of Democrat and Republican delegates and alternates to New York State's nominating conventions began pouring into their respective convention cities Saturday to choose their slates of candidates and endorse party platforms.

The scenes contrasted sharply. Republicans, oozing optimism, converged on their headquarters in Buffalo to frolic and whoop it up for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his running mates on the GOP state ticket that needed only the formal stamp of approval.

Four of the six spots on their ticket were nailed down tightly by the incumbent office holders —Rockefeller, Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson, Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz and U.S. Sen. Jacob Javits.

And the word was that leaders had about settled on candidates for the other two positions — comptroller and judge of the Court of Appeals, the state's highest tribunal.

Although the convention does not open until Tuesday, the advance elements arrived Saturday to compelte preparations.

At Syracuse, the four candidates seeking the Democratic nod to oppose Rockefeller were locked in a bitter struggle to nail down the 570 votes necessary for the nomination.

Many Cities Halt Type 3 Polio Shots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many communities will follow a U.S. Public Health Service recommendation and halt use of Type III oral polio vaccine despite urging by its developer that immunization programs go on as planned.

Reports from all over the country showed that most local and state officials are adopting a "wait-and-see" attitude toward the recommendation announced Saturday by the health service—despite its advisory nature.

The Public Health Service recommended continued use of Types I and II oral vaccines and use of Type III on children.

In many communities the decision will be no immediate problem because no Type III vaccinations are planned immediately.

In Maryland, for example, plans have been made for vaccination with Type I in October, Type II in November, and Type III in January.

She is survived by one son, Harrison Prince, Jonesville; one brother, Oscar Hester, Taylorville, Miss.; and five grandchildren.

Accidents Slight In Twin Cities Despite Deluge

Although rains deluged the Twin Cities Saturday, accidents were kept to a minimum and only one involved injury when a child sustained bruises after being struck by a car.

Monroe police investigated 10 vehicle accidents, West Monroe only reported one while Troop F, state police had none reported Saturday.

However, Monroe officers were kept busy with investigations of thefts and burglaries, and cleared one theft report with three arrests.

Chief James C. Kelly said his department booked three Negroes on theft counts — Monroe Dixon, No. Three Ross's Alley; Will Carter Jr., 30, 1244 Rear DeSiard St.; and J. W. McClain, 32, 300 N. 19th St.

They are charged with theft of a billfold containing $20 from another Negro, Joe Lee Johnson, of 714 Rear Adams St. Johnson told officers that one Negro lured him into Ross's alley Friday night, then pretended to leave to find him a date. He said that at that time, two other Negroes jumped on him and took the wallet.

The three Negroes were apprehended early Saturday and held under $360 bonds.

Monroe officers were also investigating the burglary of lockers in the football stadium at Carroll High School that occurred during the game Friday night. Henry Carroll, principal of the school, said that six wallets, a number of clothing articles and a total of $12 in change was taken in the raid of the lockers.

Meanwhile, West Monroe officers booked Lloyd William Mitchell, 37, 2440 Jonesboro Rd., West Monroe, for forgery. He allegedly forged a $20 check at Gibson's Wholesale last May.

West Monroe police also booked a Hamburg, Ark., man for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages Saturday night. Arthur D. Summit, 22, Hamburg, was booked at 8:55 p.m. after his apprehension at South Fourth and Coleman Streets.

2 Boys Wreck $9,000 Plane

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — Two boys, 15 and 17, neither with flying experience, admitted to police Saturday they had taken a plane from the municipal airport "for a little ride" Friday night, but that they had a little trouble landing.

Both escaped unhurt but the plane, valued at $9,000, burst into flames and was destroyed moments after a pancake landing.

The two took the plane on a 10-minute flight at 2,000 feet over the southern Minnesota community in the darkness.

British Leader Scores Gains On Mart Plans

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan made further gains Saturday in his effort to get Commonwealth leaders to drop their open hostility to Britain's Common Market plans.

The prime minister still was not out of trouble, but a few new allies have tiptoed into his camp.

Macmillan looked tired. He worked on the draft of a final plea for understanding which he will deliver Monday to a full session of the 16-nation Commonwealth prime ministers conference.

Coroner Rules In Baby Death

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A 17-month-old boy apparently killed his 9-day-old sister by beating her with a feeding bottle, a coroner said Saturday.

Coroner W. C. Telford quoted Mrs. Randall McCoy, mother of the children, as saying she left the girl on a bed in a room Friday. She said when she returned to the room she found the boy on the bed striking the infant with a bottle.

Shreveport Ad Club Is Set For Anniversary

The Advertising Club of Shreveport, celebrating its 25th anniversary, plays host Sept. 20-22 to the Advertising Federation of America's 10th District Convention.

Convention headquarters will be located in the Capt. Shreve and Washington Youree Hotels with registration to get underway from 1 to 9 p.m. Sept. 20.

Gov. Jimmie Davis is slated to address the group during the convention opening and other speakers will take the form of businessmen from various nationally known corporations and businesses.

A social highlight of the meet will be a big "Shrimp Bust" Cajun Party where the group will "Miss Shrimp Bust" in the person of a curvy 39" - 23" - 37" Lynn Anderson.

Members of the A. F. A. are urged to attend and non members can attend by calling and sending registration fees.

TREES CENTURIES OLD

TOKYO (AP)—Trees more than 10 centuries old still are growing near Hangchow in Red China's Chekiang Province, says the New China news agency. Among the group is a 60-foot-high camphor tree.

"LATEST EQUIPMENT AND 117 YEARS COMBINED EXPERIENCE AMONG OUR PERSONNEL TO INSPECT YOUR CAR."

Remember last winter? Your car wouldn't start, you were panicky and late for work . . . We know. We at the ALERT AUTO SERVICE made over 100 service calls in just two days to start stalled autos.

AUTOMOTIVE CLINIC . . . Expert Diagnosticians

ALERT AUTO SERVICE has set up an inspection clinic to inspect your car and furnish you with an itemized list of needed repairs at no cost to you. If your car stalls or fails to start, we will come to your rescue FREE of charge. To obtain this much needed service all you need do is become a member of our "FREE SERVICE CLUB". You may obtain a membership card by coming by our service department, or, mail your check or money order to "ALERT AUTO SERVICE, 600 No. 17th, Monroe, La." Annual cost — $5.00, renewable 12 Months from date of issue. Other stations in your neighborhood having membership cards available to you will be announced soon.

Note:

We do not intend to take business away from other Repair Shops, therefore if you desire to become a member, we will give you the same offer as our regular customers. We will furnish you the same FREE service and inspection reports for $5.00 per year. You can then take your car to the Repair Shop of your choice for needed repairs.

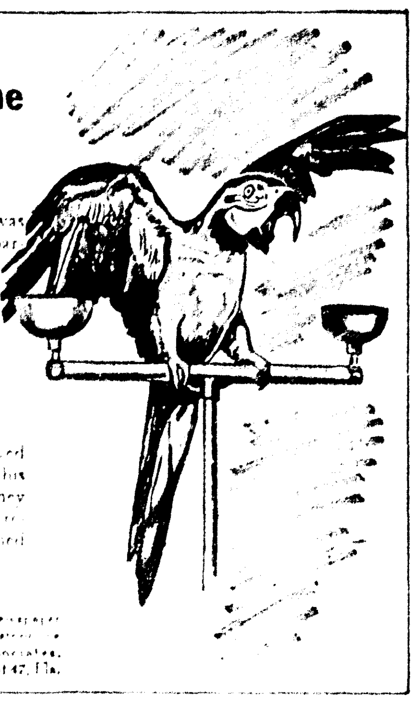
Want Ad Swaps Profane Parrot For Honey Bear



An asthmatic Yankee who was allergic to his gorgeous parrot ran this ad:

FOR BARTER OR SALE: My gorgeous parrot, Micawber, a truly depraved bird, whose plumage and command of profanity are miracles. Physically, I am allergic to Micawber. Those with sensitive maiden aunts should not apply. What Am I offered?

The ailing Yankee received 26 answers and swapped his blasphemous bird for a honey bear. The swapper, was a retired sea captain who yearned for a profane parrot.

EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE

Nixon Campaign Reverse Of '60

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, winding up his opening fall tour, summed up his comeback campaign for governor Saturday as 1960 in reverse.

The Republican candidate returned home from a four-day statewide swing professing to be pleased with the reaction to his appeal for votes and confident of the Nov. 6 outcome.

Two years ago, the then vice president found himself in the role of often defending the Eisenhower administration against John F. Kennedy's criticism in the presidential race and Kennedys key assertion that he wanted to get the country moving again.

Now, Nixon said, "the main issue that sets me apart" in his contest against Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown, is the fact that he necessarily defends the status quo and people aren't satisfied with the status quo.

"This is 1960 in reverse. It's standpat vs a challenger who says we have to do better."

Wherever he spoke in his border-to-border tour, Nixon pounded on this theme:

California soon will be No. 1 in population. Brown has failed to keep the state government in step with the growth. He's smug about state problems and not big enough for the job. California needs a dynamic leader to keep it moving.

In addition, Nixon accused the Brown administration of extravagant spending, high taxes, a disregard for business and industry and failure to develop any new anti-Communist program.

Talking informally to newsmen aboard his chartered plane, he said farmers are hard to judge politically but that he definitely sensed a farm revolt against the present administration.

Nixon said it was not directed at any specific action but amounted to general discontent with federal policies "and a feeling that the present state administration is giving second-class status" to farmers.

On that basis, he said he expects to do very well in the Central Valley, which is heavily Democratic and one of the few areas carried by President Kennedy in 1960.

Asked why he hasn't been subjected to heckling—as he was in past campaigns—Nixon said he expects it will come later.

He's acting as if our lives depended on it

And they do!

Thousands of miles from home, a GI's doing guard duty to keep you safe and cozy on your front porch. But the waiting and watching of this cold war is a tough tempo for active youth. And that's where the USO steps in. Because the USO is his reassurance that the folks back home care where he is—what he's doing. The USO brings GI's a spiritual lift . . . the homey touch they need so much.

The USO brings laughter and relaxation to GI's the world over. But more money is needed to reach all these Americans in uniform. Your money is needed. So no GI will ever have to wonder—even for a minute . . .

"Does anybody know I'm here?"

Nixon said it was not directed at any specific action but amounted to general discontent with federal policies "and a feeling that the present state administration is giving second-class status" to farmers.

On that basis, he said he expects to do very well in the General Valley, which is heavily Democratic and one of the few areas carried by President Kennedy in 1960.

Asked why he hasn't been subjected to heckling—as he was in past campaigns—Nixon said he expects it will come later.

He's acting as if our lives depended on it

And they do!

Thousands of miles from home, a GI's doing guard duty to keep you safe and cozy on your front porch. But the waiting and watching of this cold war is a tough tempo for active youth. And that's where the USO steps in. Because the USO is his reassurance that the folks back home care where he is—what he's doing. The USO brings GI's a spiritual lift . . . the homey touch they need so much.

The USO brings laughter and relaxation to GI's the world over. But more money is needed to reach all these Americans in uniform. Your money is needed. So no GI will ever have to wonder—even for a minute . . .

"Does anybody know I'm here?"

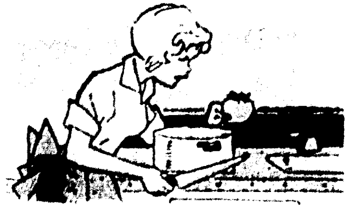
HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

The best way I know to sharpen kitchen knives is to buy a plain metal file at any hardware store.

These metal files are wonderful as they leave just enough rough edge on the blade of any kitchen knife to actually cut through the skin of a tomato, apple, etc., which a smooth blade won't do as well.



When my husband sharpens my knives he gets all the little fancy, smooth gadgets out and sharpens them as if he were honing a razor blade. I have found this is not the type of edge that belongs on kitchen knives.

I suggest that women buy the smallest file they can find at any dime, hardware or auto supply shop. They are inexpensive, but get the smallest size.

By buying a very small one (perhaps four inches long) it can be kept in the kitchen drawer along with the knives themselves. That's where it really belongs.

—Mrs. Robert Smart

TV TRAYS

DEAR HELOISE:

I can top 'em all when it comes to saving. This week's saver at our home: those rusty TV tables that have been painted twice and still look awful.

I just covered them with contact paper. The sticky back adhered beautifully to the marred paint and covered all the rust spots. Now we have new TV trays that will not rust.

Harold Simpson

GRATEFUL READER

DEAR HELOISE:

You taught me the convenience of using a child's broom for some chores, so I also bought a child's mop. I have found wonderful uses for it.

I am 70 and can't reach very high, nor do I bend easily. I use the little mop (dry) to reach over the windows and dust high places. I wash it often.

I bought another one to use on the kitchen floor. I also use it for waxing. No bending when it comes to washing it either.

—Mrs. Lillian Berg

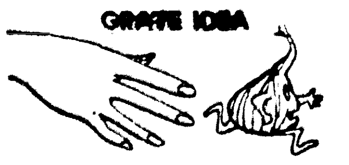
TAPE IT TIGHT

DEAR HELOISE:

If cabinet doors won't stay shut, place a small piece of adhesive tape on the top edge of the door to make a "bind". The tape will not show on the top edge of the door. This may be the place a grip is needed. If the door is very loose, two layers of tape may be necessary.

—Bessie Bailey

GRATE IDEA



DEAR HELOISE:

When I grate onions, I always leave the "head" on one end and use it as a handle. This way I save my fingernails.

When onion is grated down near to the end . . . just discard the rest. No waste really, because this part is usually cut off and thrown away.

—Mrs. Harmon Densky

HOOK AND I

DEAR HELOISE:

I have found that you can attach the kind of little hooks, ordinarily used on screen doors, to the back of each leg of a sectional sofa and thus hold the sections of the sofa together. Otherwise, these sectional sofas are dangerous when you happen to sit in the center of the divisions!

To move them (for cleaning or rearrangement) just unfasten. These hooks can be purchased at any dime store.

Anni

SEW SQUARE

DEAR HELOISE:

Buy some nylon net (the kind we use to make formals) for your next dishcloth and cut it into 12-inch squares. Sew two of the squares together by machine stitching around the edges.

If your sewing machine makes pretty designs . . . use it to give the dishcloth personality!

I sew red designs around a white net cloth. They're darling for gifts and real neat to wash the scrambled egg pans and mashed potato pots. All these cloths need is a quick rinse under your faucet. No scouring or stickiness at all.

Mrs. Macken

ELBOW ROOM

DEAR HELOISE:

The first signs of wear on my husband's shirts are on the elbow. When they show up, I make short sleeves out of them by cutting the sleeves off.

—Mrs. D. Worsencrost

BEAUTY DEPT.

DEAR HELOISE:

I buy my shampoo for my hair in large bottles because it's cheaper.

Then I pour it into small plastic squeeze bottles, the kind ordinarily used for catsup. This makes it easy to squeeze just enough shampoo instead of pouring a big amount accidentally. And there is no danger of breaking a plastic bottle when your eyes are full of soap.

Mrs. Edythe J. Lambert

RUGGED PLACE MATS

DEAR HELOISE:

Instead of individual place mats for the dining-room table, I crocheted—out of rug yarn—one BIG mat for our round dining-room table. Now I can seat more people and not worry about the hot dishes in the center having to be placed on a particular spot.

—Mrs. R. L. Evans

SWEET ADVICE

DEAR HELOISE:

I keep my box of brown sugar in the bread box. This way it never gets hard. The moisture from the bread is just enough to keep the sugar soft.

—Keller Francis

This feature is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper.

TILE-TALE WHITE

DEAR HELOISE:

I remove the mildew from my tile bathroom walls by filling a window-spray bottle two-thirds full of household bleach and filling the rest of the bottle with water.

With this mixture the walls may be sprayed evenly, left to dry for a while and then rinsed later. The bleach gets into the little cracks which get so dirty and they come out white again.

WOW! WE'RE FINALLY HERE! MARK TWAIN'S HOUSE! I CAN'T BELIEVE IT!
WHO IS MARK TWAIN? DOES HE WORK WITH DAD?
NO, SILLY! HE'S THE MAN WHO WROTE "HUCKLEBERRY FINN" AND "TOM SAWYER"! HE WAS ONE OF THE BEST STORYTELLERS EVER!
AND HE LIVED HERE EIGHTY YEARS AGO
GOLLY! HIS OWN CHAIR THAT HE SAT IN! THE SAME FLOOR HE WALKED ON! I FEEL LIKE I'M GOING TO FAINT!
LOOK! LOOK! HIS OWN BED WHERE HE ACTUALLY SLEPT! GOLLY, I CAN'T BELIEVE IT!
AND THIS IS WHERE HE WROTE! I BET HE STEPPED OUT ON THIS PORCH EIGHTY ZILLION TIMES!
DIK BROWNE
THERE'S STILL ONE THING I DON'T UNDERSTAND – WHAT CHANNEL IS HE ON?

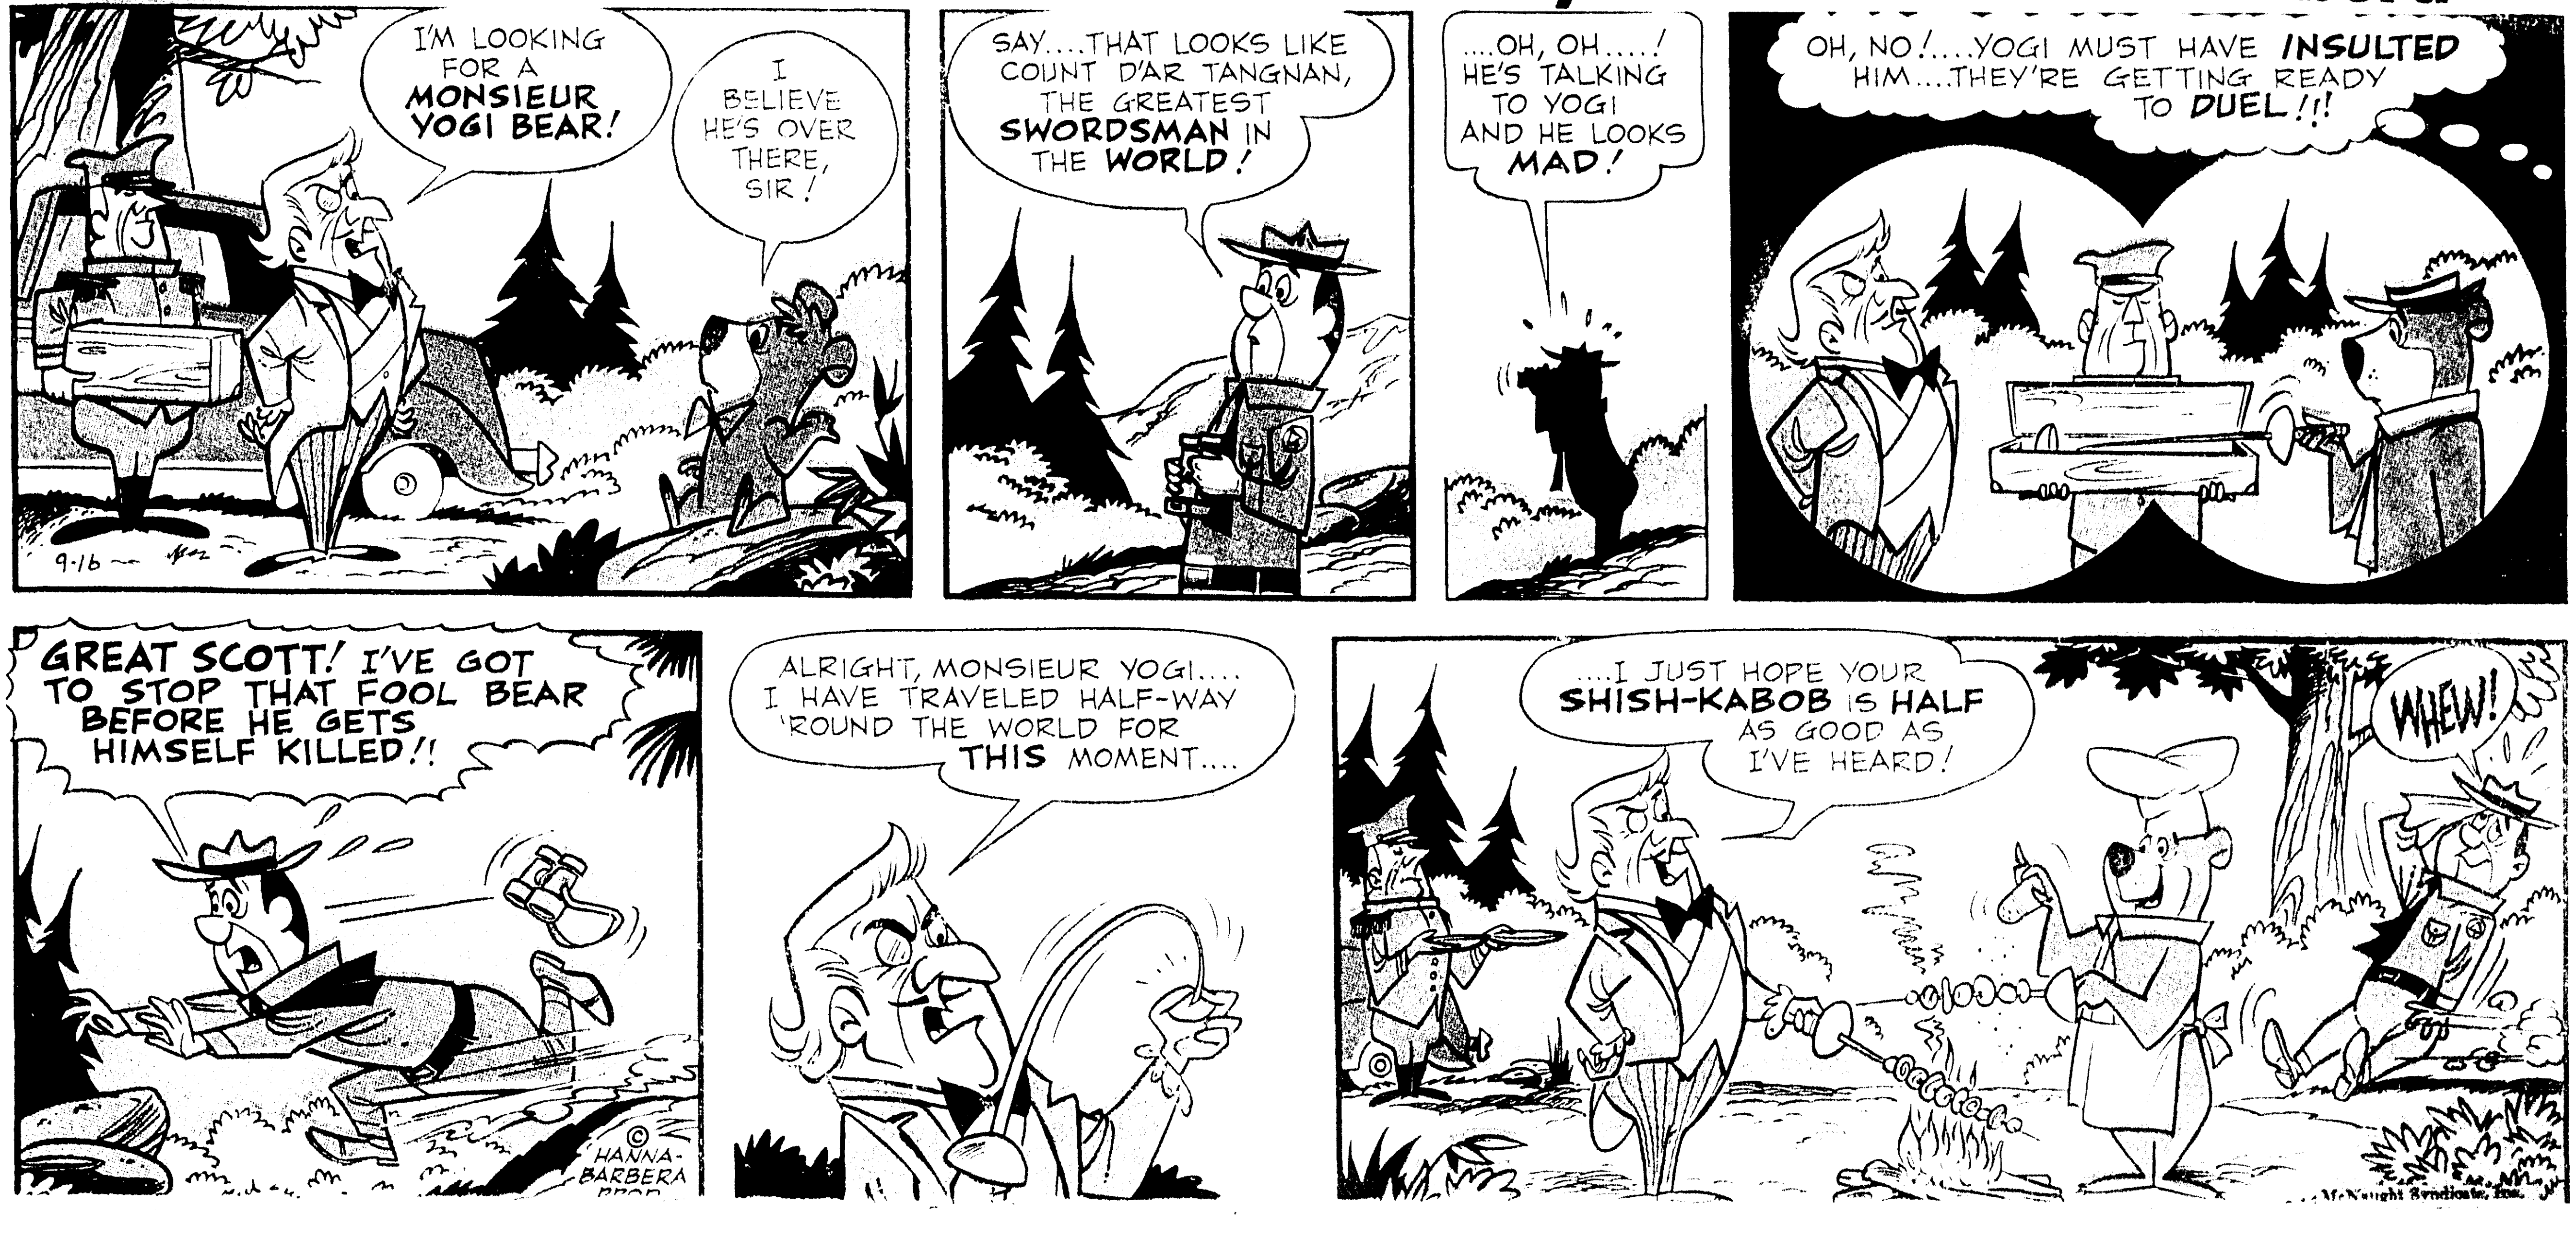
YOGI BEAR

By Bill Hanna & Joe Barbera



I'M LOOKING FOR A MONSIEUR YOGI BEAR!
I BELIEVE HE'S OVER THERE, SIR!
9-16
SAY....THAT LOOKS LIKE COUNT D'AR TANGNAN, THE GREATEST SWORDSMAN IN THE WORLD!
....OH, OH....! HE'S TALKING TO YOGI AND HE LOOKS MAD!
OH, NO!....YOGI MUST HAVE INSULTED HIM....THEY'RE GETTING READY TO DUEL!!!
GREAT SCOTT! I'VE GOT TO STOP THAT FOOL BEAR BEFORE HE GETS HIMSELF KILLED!!
ALRIGHT, MONSIEUR YOGI.... I HAVE TRAVELED HALF-WAY 'ROUND THE WORLD FOR THIS MOMENT....
....I JUST HOPE YOUR SHISH-KABOB IS HALF AS GOOD AS I'VE HEARD!
WHEW!
